The Petition of the United States of America, by Carl C. Donough, United States Attorney for the District of Oregon, and Hugh L. Biggs, Assistant United States Attorney, acting under instructions of the Attorney General and at the request of the Secretary of Agriculture, respectfully shows as follows:

[Title of District Court and Cause.]

AMENDED PETITION FOR CONDEMNATION
AS TO GORDON T. CAREY

To the Honorable, the Judges of the United States
District Court for the District of Oregon:

On the 14th day of June, 1935, there was filed in this court a Petition for Condemnation entitled: United States vs. 3474.34 Acres, more or less, of land in Harney County, Oregon, No. 12,492 At Law, including, with other lands, the land hereinafter described; a supplement thereto was filed on July 19, 1935, and on the 25th day of January, 1937, this court permitted the severance of said hereinafter-described tract of land from said proceeding, and permitted the filing of this amended petition for condemnation.

This amended petition of the United States, by Carl C. Donough, United States Attorney for the District of Oregon, respectfully shows that:

1. This petition is filed under the authority and provisions of Acts of Congress entitled: "An Act for the Relief of Unemployment Through the Performance of Useful Public Work, and for Other Purposes", approved March 31, 1933 (Chap. 17, 48 Stat. 22), as continued to March 31, 1937, [48] by Section 14 of the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act for 1935 (Pub. Res.—No. 11—74th Congress); the Fourth Deficiency Act Fiscal Year 1933" (Ch. 100, 48 Stat. 274) and pursuant to Executive Order No.

6724, dated May 28, 1934, authorizing the purchase or rental of land for emergency conservation work.

2. By the Act for the Relief of Unemployment through the Performance of Useful Public Work (48 Stat. 22) Congress declared a three-fold purpose, namely: (a) to relieve the acute condition of widespread distress and unemployment; (b) to provide for the restoration of the country's depleted natural resources; and (c) the advancement of an orderly program of useful public works. The President was thereby authorized to utilize existing departments, including the Department of Agriculture, to provide employment in the construction of public works. Congress thereby enumerated several types of work to be done, including (1) forestation of lands; (2) prevention of forest fires; (3) Prevention of floods; (4) prevention of soil erosion; (5) control of plant pests; (6) control of diseases; (7) construction of paths; (8) construction of trails; (9) construction of firelanes, and other work of the general character enumerated. The characteristics of the specified types of work, and of other work so authorized to be done, were that they were: (a) to relieve unemployment, (b) to restore depleted natural resources, and (c) to be useful public works. The work was authorized to be done, among other places, in national parks, in national forests, on Government reservations, and upon lands to be acquired by purchase, donation, condemnation, or otherwise. The term "Government Reservation as used in this Act included the Lake Malheur Reservation established by Executive Order No. 929, dated August 18, 1908, located in Harney County in the State of Oregon. [49]

3. Section 2 of this Act (48 Stat. 22) authorized the acquisition of lands, as follows:

“For the purposes of carrying out the provisions of this Act * * * the President, or the head of any department or agency authorized by him to construct any project or to carry on any such public works, shall be authorized to acquire real property by purchase, donation, condemnation, or otherwise, * * * .”

4. Under this Act (48 Stat. 22), and by authority of the President, the Secretary of Agriculture has duly adopted an emergency conservation works project for the improvement of the Lake Malheur Reservation. This project includes the construction of dikes; the building of water-control structures; the conservation of water; the control of flood-waters; the construction of truck trails; food and cover planting; fire protection; and the building of nesting islands to provide additional food and cover for waterfowl. One of the largest dikes being constructed on the Lake Malheur Reservation is the Cole Island Dike, which is essential in order to prevent the spreading out and evaporation of the inadequate supply of available water. This dike is being elevated and a truck trail will be built thereon for servicing the control structures and shortening patrol routes. It will be so elevated as to allow the truck trail thereon to be used at all times regardless of flood-water conditions within the Reservation. Approximately 75 miles of additional truck trails are to be constructed around the exterior boundaries of the Reservation for patrol and fire-prevention purposes. Four lookout towers are to be erected for fire protection and patrol purposes. More than 37 miles of fencing is to be erected and maintained. Open ditches and earth embankments are to be constructed for water-control purposes. Several thousand acres are to be planted with trees, and large areas within the Reservation are to be planted for the production of food and cover for nesting waterfowl. Two emergency conservation works camps have already been established to carry on this work, and approximately 400 men have been and will be employed in the improvement of the Lake Malheur Reservation. This [50] program of improvement is effective to relieve unemployment, restore depleted natural resources, and will result in the construction of useful public works.

5. The tract of land described in paragraph 7 hereof is requisite and necessary to be fully vested in the United States of America, free and clear of all outstanding claims of ownership, for the reason that a part of said emergency conservation work is necessary to be done thereon, or because the said land will be affected thereby. The public use for which said lands now are required is the accomplishment of the emergency conservation works project herein described, but the said lands are also to be used as a part of the Lake Malheur Reservation for the restoration and conservation of migratory birds in furtherance of the objects of the Migratory Bird Treaty (39 Stat. 1702), the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (40 Stat. 755), the Migratory Bird Conservation Act (46 Stat. 1222), and for such other public uses as may be authorized by Congress or by Executive order.

6. In the opinion of the Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture it has become necessary and advantageous to the United States Government to acquire all outstanding right, title, claim and interest in and to the land herein described in paragraph 7 by condemnation under judicial process. The Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture has duly made application to the Attorney General of the United States to commence proceedings for the condemnation of any outstanding right, title, claim, and interest in the land herein described in paragraph 7; the Attorney General of the United States has duly instructed the United States Attorney for the District of Oregon to institute proceedings for the condemnation thereof; and these proceedings are duly brought under instructions from the Department of Justice of the United States, and under the Act of Congress approved [51] August 1, 1888, entitled, "An Act to Authorize the Condemnation of Land for Sites of Public Buildings, and for Other Purposes" (35 Stat. 357) U.S.C.A. 357-358.

7. The property sought to be acquired and appropriated by the United States of America for the purposes aforesaid is described as follows:

"The James Thompson and Gordon T. Carey Tract (No. 31,a)—Lots 8 and 10 and W $\frac{1}{2}$ of Lot 5, Sec. 19, T. 25 S., R. 33 E.W.M., containing 46.67 acres, more or less, valued at \$326.69.”

Due notice has been given and published as against all claimants to this tract and the only outstanding claimant thereto is Gordon T. Carey, who is made defendant hereto.

8. The property sought to be acquired does not include any rights which the defendant may have or claim as appurtenant to said lands because riparian thereto, and it does not include any rights, title, interest or estate of the defendant to lands or waters inside the Neal Survey lines, claimed by the defendant to be meander lines of “Malheur Lake” as shown by and in accordance with the official plat of said Township 26 South, Range 32 E.W.M. (N.M.L.) as approved by the General Land Office and on file with the Surveyor General; and it also does not include any lands claimed to be relicted lands within the Malheur Lake Division, as described in the United States Supreme Court decree dated June 3, 1935, in re United States vs. Oregon recorded at Book 36, page 546, Harney County, Oregon, records.

9. James Thompson and wife executed an agreement to convey their undivided one-half interest in the lands described in paragraph 7 hereof to the United States at $7.00 per acre on October 23, 1934. This agreement was entered into by the Secretary of Agriculture on February 7, 1935, but there remained outstanding the undivided one-half interest of Gordon T. Carey from whom an agreement to sell has not been obtained. According to the Government’s abstract Gordon T. Carey may have some right, title, claim or interest in this tract of land and he is made a defendant [52] hereto. Simultaneously with the filing of the original petition herein there was filed a declaration of taking estimating $326.69 as the value of the lands described in paragraph 7 hereof. This estimated award was subsequently paid into the Registry of the United States District Court. Under the provisions of the Declaration of Taking Act (46 Stat. 1421) and subsequently, an order for possession was made and entered in the proceeding entitled United States of America vs. 3474.34 Acres, No. 12,492 At Law, fixing the 15th day of July, 1935, as the date for the surrender of possession, and this order found that title to the said tract of land had become vested in the United States and the right to just compensation therefor had become vested in those entitled thereto. Subsequently James Thompson and wife have applied for and accepted the sum of $163.34 in full satisfaction and payment for their undivided one-half interest in the lands described in paragraph 7 hereof.

10. Diligent and repeated efforts have been made by this petitioner to avoid the expense and delay of this litigation, both to it and to the defendants, by the purchase of the lands described in paragraph 7 hereof, but it has been impossible to arrive at a purchase-price basis satisfactory to Gordon T. Carey.

11. Wherefore, your petitioner prays that this Honorable Court will take jurisdiction of this cause and make and have entered all such orders, judgments and decrees as may be necessary to bring all of the known owners of the said lands and area before this Court and to make all unknown persons having any interest therein parties defendant hereto, and will appoint commissioners to appraise and fix the value of said land and the amount of compensation which the owners thereof are entitled to for its appropriation, and all such other and further orders, judgments and decrees as may be necessary to award it the possession of [53] the area hereinabove described, and that the absolute title in fee simple to the said area be and thereby vest in the United States of America and divest it out of all other persons.

AMENDED PETITION FOR CONDEMNATION
AS TO WILLIAM J. GEORGE, ET AL.

To the Honorable, the Judges of the United States
District Court for the District of Oregon:

On the 14th day of June, 1935, there was filed in this court a Petition for Condemnation entitled, United States vs. 3474.34 Acres, more or less, of land in Harney County, Oregon, No. 12,492 At Law, including, with other lands, the land hereinafter described; a supplement thereto was filed on July 19, 1935, and on the 25th day of January, 1937, this court permitted the severance of the said hereinafter-described tract of land from said proceeding, and permitted the filing of this amended petition for condemnation.

This amended petition of the United States, by Carl C. Donough, United States Attorney for the District of Oregon, respectfully shows that:

1. This petition is filed under the authority and provisions of Acts of Congress entitled: "An Act for the Relief of Unemployment Through the Performance of Useful Public Work, and for Other Purposes", approved March 31, 1933 (Chap. 17, 48 Stat. 22), as continued to March 31, 1937, by Section 14 of the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act for 1935 (Pub. Res.—No. 11—74th Congress); [57] the Fourth Deficiency Act, Fiscal Year 1933" (Chap. 100, 48 Stat. 274, 275) and pursuant to Executive Order No. 6724, dated May 28, 1934, authorizing the purchase or rental of land for emergency conservation work.

2. By the Act for the Relief of Unemployment Through the Performance of Useful Public Work (48 Stat. 22) Congress declared a threefold purpose, namely: (a) to relieve the acute condition of widespread distress and unemployment; (b) to provide for the restoration of the country's depleted natural resources; and (c) the advancement of an orderly program of useful public works. The President was thereby authorized to utilize existing departments, including the Department of Agriculture, to provide employment in the construction of public works. Congress thereby enumerated several types of work to be done, including (1) forestation of lands; (2) prevention of forest fires; (3) prevention of floods; (4) prevention of soil erosion; (5) control of plant pests; (6) control of diseases; (7) construction of paths; (8) construction of trails; (9) construction of fire lanes; and other work of the general character enumerated. The characteristics of the specified types of work, and of other work so authorized to be done, were that they were; (a) to relieve unemployment; (8b) to restore depleted natural resources, and (c) to be useful public works. The work was authorized to be done, among other places, in national parks, in national forests, on Government reservations, and upon lands to be acquired by purchase, donation, condemnation, or otherwise. The term "Government reservation" as used in this Act included Lake Malheur Reservation established by Executive Order No. 929, dated August 18, 1908, located in Harney County in the State of Oregon.

3. Section 3 of this Act (48 Stat. 22) authorized the acquisition of lands as follows: [58]

"For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Act * * * the President, or the head of any department or agency authorized by him to construct any project or to carry on any such public works, shall be authorized to acquire real property by purchase, donation, condemnation, or otherwise, * * *."

4. Under this Act (48 Stat. 22), and by authority of the President, the Secretary of Agriculture has duly adopted an emergency conservation works project for the improvement of the Lake Malheur Reservation. This project includes the construction of dikes; the building of water-control structures; the conservation of water; the control of flood-waters; the construction of truck trails; food and cover planting; fire protection; and the building of nesting islands to provide additional food and cover for waterfowl. One of the largest dikes being constructed on the Lake Malheur Reservation is the Cole Island Dike, which is essential in order to prevent the spreading out and evaporation of the inadequate supply of available water. This dike is being elevated and a truck trail will be built thereon for servicing the control structures and shortening patrol routes. It will be so elevated as to allow the truck trail thereon to be used at all times regardless of flood-water conditions within the Reservation. Approximately 75 miles of additional truck trails are to be constructed around the exterior boundaries of the Reservation for patrol and fire-prevention purposes. Four look-out towers are to be erected for fire protection and patrol purposes. More than 37 miles of fencing is to be erected and maintained. Open ditches and earth embankments are to be constructed for water-control purposes. Several thousand acres are to be planted with trees, and large areas within the Reservation are to be planted for the production of food and cover for nesting waterfowl. Two emergency conservation works camps already have been established to carry on this work, and approximately 400 men have been and will be employed in the improvement of the Lake Malheur Reservation. This program of improvement is effective to relieve unemployment, restore depleted natural resources, and will result [59] in the construction of useful public works.

5. The tract of land described in Paragraph 7 hereof is requisite and necessary to be fully vested in the United States of America, free and clear of all outstanding claims of ownership, for the reason that a part of said emergency conservation work is necessary to be done thereon, or because the said land will be affected thereby. The public use for which the said lands are now required is the accomplishment of the emergency conservation works project herein described, but the said lands are also to be used as a part of the Lake Malheur Reservation for the restoration and conservation of migratory birds in furtherance of the objects of the Migratory Bird Treaty (39 Stat. 1702), the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (40 Stat. 755), the Migratory Bird Conservation Act, (46 Stat. 1222), and for such other public uses as may be authorized by the Congress or by Executive Order.

6. In the opinion of the Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture it has become necessary and advantageous to the United States Government to acquire all outstanding right, title, claim and interest in and to the lands described in Paragraph 7 hereof by condemnation under judicial process. The Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture has duly made application to the Attorney General of the United States to commence proceedings for the condemnation of any outstanding right, title, claim and interest in the land described in paragraph 7 hereof, the Attorney General of the United States has duly instructed the United States Attorney for the District of Oregon to institute proceedings for the condemnation thereof; and these proceedings are duly brought under instructions from the Department of Justice of the United States, and under the Act of Congress approved August 1, 1888, entitled, "An Act to Authorize the Condemnation of Land for Sites of Public Buildings, and for other Purposes" (35 Stat. 357) U.S.C.A. 357-358. [60]

7. The property sought to be acquired and appropriated by the United States of America for the purposes aforesaid is described as follows:

"The Mary A. George Tract (No. 16)—Lots 1, 2 and 3, Sec. 1; Lots 1, 2, 6, 7, 8 and 9, Sec. 2, T. 26 S., R. 32 E.W.M. (North of Malheur Lake), containing 177.38 acres, more or less."

8. The property sought to be acquired does not include any rights which the defendants may have or claim as appurtenant to said lands because riparian thereto, and it does not include any rights, title, interest or estate of the defendants to lands or waters inside the Neal Survey lines, claimed by defendants to be meander lines of "Malheur Lake" as shown by and in accordance with the official plat of said Township 26 South, Range 32 E.W.M. (N.M.L.) as approved by the General Land Office and on file with the Surveyor General; and it also does not include any lands claimed to be relicited lands within the Malheur Lake Division, as described in the United States Supreme Court decree dated June 3, 1935 in re United States vs. Oregon recorded in Book 36, page 546, Harney County, Oregon, records.

9. The original petition for condemnation filed in re United States vs. 3474.34 Acres, No. L-12492, named as defendants all possible claimants to the Mary A. George Tract (No. 16) described in paragraph 7 hereof, and due notice has been given by summons and by publication as against all possible claimants to the said tract. There has been filed in the said original proceeding, by L. A. Liljeqvist, Esquire, their Solicitor, a motion in behalf of William J. George, Edna George, his wife; Anna George Carey and Harry A. Carey, her husband; Eliza O. George Shoemaker and E. O. Shoemaker, her husband; Stacy D. George and Betty M. George, his wife, with reference to an undivided interest in the said Mary A. George tract (No. 16). The said defendants so represented by L. A. Liljeqvist, Esquire, their solicitor, are made defendants in this separate supplemental and amended petition. The purpose of said motion was to require the United States [61] of America to specify what additional lands were intended to be acquired other than Lots 1, 2 and 3, Sec. 1; and Lots 1, 2, 6, 7, 8 and 9, Sec. 2, T. 26 S., R. 32 E.W.M. (NML) containing 177.38 acres. There has been deposited in the Registry of the United States District Court for the District of Oregon the sum of Two Thousand One Hundred and Twenty-eight Dollars and Fifty-six cents ($2,128.56), that being the estimated award for the said Mary A. George Tract (No. 16) as set forth in a declaration of taking filed therein. A portion of this estimated award so paid into the court has been withdrawn upon application of the heirs of Mary A. George and Adam F. B. George, both deceased, but there remains on deposit in the Registry of this Court a portion thereof to cover the right, title, claim and interest of the remainder of said heirs, which estimated award as to their undivided interest may be withdrawn by the defendants hereto upon application to and order by the United States District Court under the provisions of the Declaration of Taking Act (46 Stat. 1421) without prejudice to any claim that the said defendants may desire to make for more money than the said estimated award for said tract, and also without prejudice to any claim that they may desire to make as to ownership within the said Malheur Lake Division lying adjacent to the said Mary A. George Tract (No. 16).

10. Diligent and repeated efforts have been made by this petitioner to avoid the expense and delay of this litigation, both to it and to the defendants, by the purchase of the lands described in paragraph 7 hereof, but it has been impossible to arrive at a purchase-price basis satisfactory to the defendants hereto.

11. Wherefore your petitioner prays that this Honorable Court will take jurisdiction of this cause and make and have entered all such orders, judgments and decrees as may be necessary to bring all of the known owners of the said lands and area before this Court and to make all unknown persons having any interest [62] therein parties defendant hereto, and will appoint commissioners to appraise and fix the value of said land and the amount of compensation which the owners thereof are entitled to for its appropriation and all such other and further orders, judgments and decrees as may be necessary to award it the possession of the area hereinabove described, and that the absolute title in fee simple to the said area be and thereby vest in the United States of America and divest it out of all other persons.

District of Oregon

In the Matter of the Acquisition by the United States of America of 3474.34 Acres, more or less, of land in Harney County, Oregon.

PETITION OF STACY GEORGE AND BETTY GEORGE FOR PAYMENT OF MONEY ON DEPOSIT.

To the Honorable Judges of the United States District Court for the District of Oregon:

The undersigned petitioners, Stacy D. George and Betty George, his wife, defendants in the above-entitled special proceedings respectfully show as follows:

1. By the Petition for Condemnation, Declaration of Taking and payment of the estimated award into the registry of this Court the United States of America on June 14, 1935, took title to the Mary A. George Tract (No. 16), containing 177.38 acres, more or less, of patented land in Harney County, Oregon, consisting of

Lots 1, 2 and 3 Section 1;

Lots 1, 2, 6, 7, 8 and 9 Section 2, Township
26 S., R. 32 E.W.M. (N.M.L.)

together with all rights to water thereunto appertaining. The said condemnation proceeding was described as intended to acquire all right, title, claim and interest of the owners of said patented lands in, to, on and over all adjacent lands within the Malheur Division of the Lake Malheur Reservation which might belong to them, but it has been stipulated and arranged that the claims of ownership asserted by the owners of an undivided four-ninths interest in the said Mary A. George Tract of patented land, including the rights of these petitioners, if any, shall be determined in the receivership proceedings now pending in this Court entitled "United States vs. Otley and others" E-96 77. [66]

2. These petitioners now elect to accept one-ninth of the estimated award of $2,128.56, deposited in the registry of this Court as full and just compensation to them for the taking of their entire ownership in the said patented lands amounting to $236.50, less $13.20, deducted as their proportionate share of the taxes against said land, leaving $223.30 to be paid to them without prejudice to any right or claim which they might ultimately have for additional compensation in the event they are awarded any ownership within the Malheur Division of the Lake Malheur Reservation. As to their undivided one-ninth interest in said patented land they represent and warrant that they are the only persons entitled to be compensated therefor; that there are no mortgages, judgments or other liens against their interest therein and that there are no taxes due and exigible against said land which are not covered by the $13.20 which is to be retained by the Government to cover such taxes as may have been due at the time when the title vested in it in these proceedings.

Wherefore these petitioners pray that this Court will direct the Clerk of the United States District Court for the District of Oregon to make payment of the funds now on deposit in the registry of this Court in this cause in the following manner: $223.30 to be paid to Stacy D. George and Betty George and the check to be mailed to Stacy D. George at Klamath Falls, Oregon.

STACY D. GEORGE,
BETTY GEORGE.

II.

That said lands above described are that part of said lots above the Meander Line of Malheur Lake. That the elevation of the waters of said Malheur Lake are about four (4) feet higher in the high water season of the year than such waters are at the low water season of the year. That the high water season of Malheur Lake occurs in the spring of the year when the waters of said lake flow out over the Meander Line at the premises above described and irrigate and saturate the lands above described. That during the summer months the waters of said lake recede to a point below the said Meander Line and said lands above describe, by [72] reason of having been flooded and irrigated as aforesaid from said Malheur Lake, produce grass, hay and other agricultural crops.

III.

That the area below and within the said Meander Line has, for many years, produced a large amount of feed for ducks and other water fowl and each year thousands of ducks and other water fowl are attracted to the said Malheur Lake and remain there and feed upon the lake and surrounding lands. That many of such ducks and other water fowl come upon and fly over the lands heretofore described, and during the open or hunting season of each year, the lands of the defendant's, above described, are valuable as a hunting ground and as a duck-shooting ground.

IV.

That since the petitioner herein secured possession of the above described lands by order of this Court in this case, the petitioner has constructed a large dyke across the said Malheur Lake for the purpose of keeping the waters of said Malheur Lake from reaching or overflowing the said lands above described, and for the further purpose of preventing the waters of said lake from reaching or overflowing that part of Malheur Lake abutting or adjoining the said lands. Prior to the construction of said dyke by the petitioner, the lands above described were valuable as grass, hay and agricultural lands, as well as valuable as a hunting or duck-shooting ground.

V.

That said lands were, at the time the petitioner took possession of the same, and at the time of the construction of said dyke as aforesaid, of the fair, reasonable and market value of $30.00 per acre, or the sum of $1,422.10, and that the undivided one-half interest in said lands of this defendant was at said time of the value of $711.05.

Wherefore, defendant prays that it be adjudged that his interest in the said lands, at the time of taking by the petitioner, was of the value of $711.05, and that he have judgment against the petitioner therefore, together with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from June 14, 1935.

And Afterwards, to wit, on the 12th day of September, 1939, there was duly Filed in said Court, an Answer of William J. George et al. to Amended Petition, in words and figures as follows, to wit:

[75]

[Title of District Court and Cause.]

ANSWER TO PETITIONER'S AMENDED PETITION IN CONDEMNATION

Come now Stacey D. George, Betty George, William J. George, Edna George, Anna George Carey, Harry Carey, Eliza A. Shoemaker and E. P. Shoemaker, and for answer to the petitioner's amended petition in the above entitled cause, state as follows:

Denies each and every allegation and statement made in Paragraphs I. to X., inclusive, of said amended petition, except as the same may be admitted or alleged in the further and separate answer herein.

2.

Denies that petitioner seeks to secure the title or possession of the lands mentioned in said amended petition for any of the purposes set forth in said amended petition, or for any purpose except as stated and alleged in the further and separate answer herein.

FURTHER AND SEPARATE ANSWER

The defendants, Stacey D. George, Betty George, William J. George, Edna George, Anna George Carey, Harry Carey, Eliza A. Shoemaker and E.

P. Shoemaker, for a further and separate answer to said Amended Petition, allege: [76]

I.

That they are the owners of an undivided 4/9 interest in the lands described in the amended petition as "The Mary A. George Tract (No. 16) as Lots 1, 2 and 3 of Section 1, and Lots 1, 2, 6, 7, 8 and 9 of Section 2, T. 26, S. R. 32, E.W.M. (North of Malheur Lake) in Harney County, Oregon, containing 177.38 acres more or less", the same being that part of said Lots above the Meander Line as run by John H. Neal in the year 1895.

II.

That said above described lands border upon the Meander Line of Malheur Lake for a distance of approximately two miles. That said lands, in the form of a narrow ridge, extend into the waters of Malheur Lake for a distance of approximately $\frac{3}{4}$ of a mile.

III.

That the said Malheur Lake is a noted place for ducks and other water fowl; many thousand of ducks and water fowl gather upon and feed at said Malheur Lake each year and particularly during the open or hunting season for such water fowl.

IV.

That there is a natural and much-used fly-way for water fowl over the tract of land above described, and particularly, over that part of said tract in the ridge above mentioned which extends into the waters of said Malheur Lake.

V.

That for many years the United States Government, through its bureaus and departments, has been acquiring, securing and reserving lands in Harney County, Oregon, to be used as, and which are used as, a Bird Refuge; that no hunting is allowed on said Bird Refuge and the public is excluded therefrom; that said Bird Refuge now consists of about 150,000 acres of land in and about Malheur Lake, Harney Lake and Blitzen Valley. Said Bird Refuge includes substantially all the lands in that part of the State of Oregon near or served by, water; that the boundary line [77] of said Bird Refuge is more than 170 miles long and with very few exceptions is now fenced, and numerous trespass notices displayed thereon; that many thousands of ducks, geese and other water fowl annually use said 150,000-acres Bird Refuge.

VI.

That the land above described as the "Mary A. George Tract" is not within the said Bird Refuge, and has always been, up to the time the Government gained possession thereof by order of this Court, the most desirable and most noted hunting ground and duck-shooting ground in the State of Oregon; that due to the fact that such a large area is within said Bird Reserve, and due to the further fact that the said Bird Reserve can be approached from private lands at very few places, and due to the further fact that the lands above described are the only privately owned lands which extend into the waters of said bird reserve, said lands above described are extremely desirable and valuable as hunting ground.

VII.

That the only purpose of the petitioner in obtaining possession of said premises in this proceeding was to prevent the shooting or taking of ducks or other wild fowl on said lands, and to deprive the owners of said lands of the right and privilege of using the said lands for hunting and duck-shooting purposes.

VIII.

That said lands have some value as agricultural and grazing lands, but that the highest and best use of said lands is, and always has been, its location and use as a hunting ground, and for that purpose, the said lands are of the reasonable market value of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars per acre.

Wherefore, the defendants herein named pray that it be determined by this court that the reasonable market value of the premises described in the petition herein was, at the time the petitioner took possession thereof, and is now, the sum of \$100.00 per acre, or a total value of \$17,738.00; that defendants herein be decreed to have a $\frac{4}{9}$ interest in said lands and be [78] given a judgment against the petitioner for the sum of \$7,883.52, together with interest thereon at the rate of 6% per annum from June 14, 1935, until paid.

And Afterwards, to wit, on the 20th day of September, 1939, there was duly Filed in said Court, a Motion of Gordon T. Carey for order for the payment of money, in words and figures as follows, to wit: [80]

In the District Court of the United States

For the District of Oregon

No. L-12492

IN THE MATTER OF THE ACQUISITION
BY THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA OF

3474.34 ACRES, MORE OR LESS, OF LAND
IN HARNEY COUNTY, OREGON

MOTION OF GORDON T. CAREY FOR ORDER TO PAY MONEY ON DEPOSIT

To the Honorable Judges of the United States District Court for the District of Oregon:

Comes now Gordon T. Carey, by J. W. McCulloch and R. M. Duncan, his attorneys, and respectfully shows, as follows:

I.

That by petition for condemnation, declaration of taking, and payment of estimated award into the registry of this Court, the United States of America, on the 14th day of June, 1935, took title to the Gordon T. Carey tract of land (No. 31-A) described as Lots Eight (8) and Ten (10) and the west Half ($W\frac{1}{2}$) of Lot Five (5), Section Nineteen (19), Township Twenty-five (25) South, Range Thirty-three (33) E.W.M. in Harney County, Oregon, containing 46.67 acres, more or less, of land, estimated value at \$326.69.

II.

That by Paragraph VIII of the amended petition filed in said cause on the 27th day of January, 1937, the United States of America, the petitioner herein, filed an amended petition for condemnation in said cause in which it was stated in Paragraph VIII of said amended petition, as follows:

“The property sought to be acquired does not include any right which the defendant may have, or claim, as appurtenant to the said lands and those riparian thereto, and it does not include any right, title, interest or estate of the defendant to lands or waters inside the Neal survey lines, claimed by defendant to be meander lines of ‘Malheur Lake’, as shown by and in accordance with the official plats of said Township 26 South, Range 32 E.W.M., as approved by the General Land Office and on file with the [81] Surveyor General; and it does not include any lands claimed to be relict lands within the Malheur Lake Division, as described in the United State Supreme Court decree dated June 3, 1935, in re. United States v. Oregon, recorded in Book 36, page 546, Harney County, Oregon records.”

III.

That at the time of the taking by the United States, the said Gordon T. Carey was the owner of, and now is the owner of an undivided one-half interest in said tract. That the said defendant has filed an answer in said condemnation proceeding in which answer he denies that the amount deposited in the registry of the Court is a fair or just award for said lands so taken by the United States, and by such answer, said defendant has made demand for the amount such defendant claims is the reasonable value of said premises. That the said defendant desires to withdraw from the registry of the Court the amount so deposited by the Court, as herein stated, said amount to be applied on whatever amount is awarded said defendant in said condemnation proceeding.

That based upon the foregoing statement of facts, this Honorable Court is requested to make an order directing the Clerk of the United States District Court for the District of Oregon to make payment of the funds now deposited in the registry of this Court, to the said Gordon T. Carey, as follows:

Pay to the said Gordon T. Carey one-half the sum of $326.69, or $163.34.

And Afterwards, to wit, on the 20th day of September, 1939, there was duly Filed in said Court, a Motion of William J. George, et al. for an order for the payment of money, in words and figures as follows, to wit: [83]

[Title of District Court and Cause.]

MOTION OF WILLIAM J. GEORGE ET AL.,
FOR ORDER TO PAY MONEY ON DEPOSIT

To the Honorable Judge of the United States District Court for the District of Oregon:

Comes now William J. George and Edna George, his wife; Anna George Carey and Harry A. Carey, her husband; Eliza O. George Shoemaker and E. O. Shoemaker, her husband; Stacey D. George and Betty M. George, his wife, by J. W. McCulloch and

R. M. Duncan, their attorneys, and respectfully show as follows:

I.

By the petition for condemnation, Declaration of Taking, and payment of estimated award into the registry of this Court, the United States of America, on June 14, 1935, took title to the Mary A. George Tract (No. 16), containing 177.38 acres, more or less, of patented land in Harney County, Oregon, consisting of Lots One (1), Two (2) and Three (3) in Section One (1); Lots One (1), Two (2), Six (6), Seven (7), Eight (8) and Nine (9) in Section Two (2), Township Twenty-six (26), Range Thirty-two (32), E.W.M. (N.M.L.), together with all the rights of water thereunto appertaining.

II.

That on the 27th day of January, 1937, the United States of America, the petitioner in said condemnation proceeding, filed an amended petition for condemnation in said cause, in which it is stated in Paragraph IX of said amended petition, among other things, as follows:

“There has been filed in said original proceeding, by L. A. Liljeqvist, Esquire, their solicitor, a motion on behalf of William J. George, Edna George, his wife; Anna [84] George Carey and Harry A. Carey, her husband; Eliza O. George Shoemaker and E. O. Shoemaker, her husband; Stacey D. George and Betty, George, his wife, with reference to an undivided interest in the said Mary A. George tract (No. 16).

“The said defendants so represented by L. A. Liljeqvist, Esquire, their solicitor, are made defendants in this separate supplemental and amended petition. The purpose of said motion was to require the United States of America to specify what additional lands were intended to be acquired other than Lots 1, 2 and 3, Sec. 1, and Lots 1, 2, 6, 7, 8 and 9, Sec. 2, T. 26, S.R. 32, E.W.M. (N.M.L.), containing 177.38 acres. There has been deposited in the registry of the United States District Court for the District of Oregon, the sum of Two Thousand One Hundred and Twenty-eight Dollars and Fifty-six cents ($2,128.56), that being the estimated award for the said Mary A. George tract (No. 16), as set forth in a declaration of taking filed herein. A portion of this estimated award so paid into Court has been withdrawn upon application of the heirs of Mary A. George and Adam F. B. George, both deceased, but there remains on deposit in the Registry of this Court, a portion thereof to cover the right, title, claim and interest of the remainder of said heirs, which estimated award as to their undivided interest, may be withdrawn, by the defendants hereto, upon application to and order by the United States District Court under the provisions of the Declaration of Taking Act (46 Stat. 1421), without prejudice to any claim that the said defendants may desire to make for more money than the said estimated award for said tract, and also without prejudice to any claim that they may desire to make as to ownership within the said Malheur Lake Division lying adjacent to the said Mary A. George tract (No. 16)''

III.

That at the time of said taking by the United States the said William J. George and Edna George, his wife, were the owners of an undivided one-ninth interest in said tract of land; that at said time Anna George Carey and Harry A. Carey, her husband, were the owners of an undivided one-ninth interest in said tract; that Eliza O. George Shoemaker and E. O. Shoemaker, her husband, were at said time the owners of an undivided one-ninth interest in said tract, and that at said time Stacey D. George and Betty George, his wife, were the owners of an undivided one-ninth interest in said tract.

IV.

That the said parties have filed an answer in said condemnation proceeding, in which answer they deny that the amount deposited in the Registry of the Court is a fair or just award for [85] said lands so taken by the United States, and by such answer said parties have made a demand for the amount such parties claim is the reasonable value of said premises. That the parties herein desire to withdraw from the Registry of the Court, the amount so deposited by the Court as heretofore stated, said amount to be applied on whatever amount is awarded to said parties in said condemnation proceeding.

That based upon the foregoing statement of facts, this Honorable Court is requested to make an order directing the Clerk of the United States District Court for the District of Oregon, to make payment of the funds now deposited in the Registry of this Court in this cause in the following manner:

(1) Pay to William J. George and Edna George one-ninth of $2,128.56, or $236.50;

(2) Pay to the said Anna George Carey and Harry A. Carey, the sum of $236.50;

(3) Pay to the said Eliza O. George Shoemaker and E. O. Shoemaker the sum of $236.50; and,

(4) Pay to the said Stacey D. George and Betty George the sum of $236.50.

MOTION TO VACATE JUDGMENT ON DECLARATION OF TAKING AND FOR DISMISSAL OF PETITION.

Come now William J. George, Anna Carey and Eliza O. Shoemaker, the owners of an undivided three-ninth's interest in "The Mary A. George Tract (No. 16)", and comes now Gordon T. Carey, the owner of an undivided one-half interest in Tract (No. 31-A), (said tracts above mentioned being so designated and described in the Petition filed in said cause June 14, 1935) by J. W. McCulloch and Edwin D. Hicks, their Attorneys, and move the court for an order, judgment and decree as follows:

For an Order, Judgment and Decree annulling, vacating and setting aside the pretended order and judgment of this court in the above entitled cause, made and entered June 14, 1935, in which pretended order and judgment the court attempted to transfer to the United States, the title to a large tract of land in Harney County, Oregon, including the lands of these moving parties.

The said moving parties herein further move this court for an order and judgment dismissing said petition so filed June 14th, 1935.

The motions, as hereinabove stated, are made on the ground that the petition in said cause does not state sufficient [88] facts to constitute a cause of action, and that the said petition does not state sufficient facts to give the court jurisdiction to make the pretended order and judgment of taking, and that by reason thereof the court was and is without jurisdiction in said cause.

TRANSCRIPT OF PROCEEDINGS

The Court: No. 12492, United States vs. 3474.34 acres of land in Harney County.

Mr. Dillard: It is my understanding, your Honor, there are about two properties or tracts represented by Mr. McCulloch which have not been disposed of, and it is my recollection that along in the Pendleton term of 1940, I think—I don't know whether it was '41 or '40—they were set for trial and taken off on the representations of the defendants that they were not able to meet the expense of the trial. The proceeding has [99] never been fully closed. What counsel desire to do about the interests there I don't know. A deposit was made in court and a declaration of taking filed and title acquired by the Government as a result of that. That is my understanding about the status of this case.

Mr. Hicks: The case is a little bit complicated, your Honor, in respect to the suggestion that it be dismissed at this time unless some provision be made in respect to that decree. The case was filed on the 14th of June, 1935, over seven years ago, and at that time a declaration of taking was filed, and I believe the decree was entered as of the same date vesting title in fee simple to all of this land in the United States, and many of the parties did draw down that money that was deposited. But the decree covers land in respect to which the owners have received nothing at all, and the title to that land, as well as all of the land that we are concerned with here, is now under this decree vested in the United States. The result is that as the matter now stands and as it has stood for seven years these owners have had nothing except a decree against them vesting title in the Government and have drawn down no money. That is true as to a number of people or owners.

I might say this, your Honor: While I don't represent all of those people—I think there are three or four that Mr. McCulloch represents that I am helping with—the fact remains that that is the situation. If the case were dismissed now, of course, the owners might be confronted with the necessity of filing suit against the Government to obtain the vacation of that decree, or the matter might be complicated in some way through a dismissal of the case as such without making provision for vacation of the decree. Now what form it should take I don't know, but I just point out to your Honor that certainly if the case is dismissed some provision should be made to vacate the decree as to these parties in respect to whom the land has been taken by the Government without any compensation or without any suggestion of so doing.

Mr. Dillard: May I ask a question? It has been my impression that you and Mr. McCulloch had represented all of the remaining outstanding properties against us. [100]

Mr. Hicks: Mr. McCulloch will know about that. I know of I think four people, your Honor, who have not drawn down any of this money that was deposited in court. But as I conceive this condemnation proceeding the mere fact that a person draws down the money would not foreclose him of his rights to have his land litigated, and so forth, and that is what I am thinking of here. Now as to many of those people we do not represent them and we are not entitled to speak for them, but we do represent these four and possibly others. Mr. McCulloch would know. Does that answer your question?

Mr. Dillard: I want to know, if there are some you do not represent, who are they?

Mr. Hicks: Well, I think we represent only four of the owners who own land described in the complaint.

Mr. McCulloch: There are four tracts of land.

Mr. Hicks: Four different tracts of land. Of course, this is true, too, your Honor: It is our information that a number of people have given quitclaim deeds to the Government in respect to some of the land that is described there in the complaint, and of course as to it they would be covered. They would not be prejudiced or no harm would be done by this dismissal as to them. But that other situation is apparent there, and it would occur to me that, as regards all of these parties, they should have a chance to come in or what not and be heard because they have simply drawn down that money. Our people haven't. They would still be entitled to have the question adjudicated as to the value of the land.

Mr. Dillard: If your Honor please, if I am informed, the outstanding interests represented by Mr. McCulloch, the issues regarding those properties were set for trial and Mr. McCulloch represented his clients were unable to stand the expense of preparing for such a trial, and as a result it went off, I suppose pending what would become of the other case, and that is the way it has remained. Those owners who did not get their money did not get it, as I understand it, because they were not satisfied with the award made by the Government and still were not able, for one reason or another, to come into court. [101]

Mr. Hicks: An examination of the file will reveal that there is a motion pending there for dismissal of the case on certain grounds and likewise a motion for vacation of the decree, and I think that that motion is still pending and I don't believe it has ever been passed on, your Honor. Some suggestion was made that briefs should be filed at one time, but it was just sort of passed over, as I remember it, and I believe that the case is pending on that motion. I may be mistaken about it.

Mr. McCulloch: I will state my views about this case. I take this position—I can say what I think all right, but I cannot hear what the Court says to me, and if you have any remarks to make Mr. Hicks will hear them and translate them to me and I can probably answer the Court's question. This case now under consideration was filed in this court on the 14th day of June, 1935. It calls itself a suit for condemnation of lands. There are no parties defendant in the suit at all. The 3474 acres of land appear to be the defendants. A number of parties are described in the petition as owning these different tracts of land, and on the same day, June 14, 1935, there was filed in this court what is designated as a declaration of taking by the Secretary of Agriculture or some Assistant Secretary of Agriculture declaring that he is taking all of these lands under certain laws. At the same date the Court entered a decree and judgment in the case and recited the facts, and the last paragraph of that decree reads as follows: "It is Further Adjudged, Ordered and Decreed that the possession of the above described property shall be delivered to the United States of America on or before the 15th of July, 1935." Then it says "and that this cause is held open for such other and further order, judgment or decree as is necessary in the premises." That is the last paragraph of the decree. The decree prior to that had designated that upon the filing of declaration of taking the fee simple title of the property left the defendants—if you call them defendants—left the land owners and vested in the Government at two o'clock P.M. on June 14th, 1935. Now that order and decree still stands. The lands of our clients were taken away from them on that date, and it has been out of their possession ever since. That decree is still in force and effect. [102]

Now we have filed a motion asking for two specific orders from the Court. One is that we are attacking the sufficiency of the petition as stating any cause of action at all, and we are asking that it be dismissed. The second is that we are asking that the Court enter an order or judgment or decree voiding this pretended order which was made on June 14th. These motions were filed something like two years ago. They were argued before this Court on the 2nd day of January of 1941, and they have been pending since. We fully explained our position at that time, and I think we made it clear that there is no valid petition for the taking of lands and nothing upon which a decree can be based. And, that being so, we say that the petition should be dismissed and that an order of the Court should be made annulling that decree. The decree itself keeps it open for that very purpose or for some other purpose. It says it shall remain open for such other and further order or decree as the Court may see fit to make.

Now that briefly is our statement of this case. If there is any other angle to it that the Court would like to have me explain, I believe I understand all the different angles of the case. Counsel said something about the Otley case. There is no connection or relation between this case and the Otley case. The Otley case was a suit brought by the Government a considerable time later, and was for the purpose, as they at that time said, to quiet title to lands in the lake bed. The Circuit Court of Appeals said it was a suit to set aside certain patents that had theretofore been issued to lake beds. These lands do not have anything to do with the lake bed. They are taking patented lands above the meander line.

The Court: Has Washington said what they want to do with this case?

Mr. Dillard: No, your Honor, they have not. I did not mean to intimate any close relationship between it and the Otley case, but the only word I got on it was with regard to the Otley case, and that was the word that I conveyed to your Honor and to counsel last Monday.

The Court: Well, do you really want the case dismissed or what do you want done with it? [103]

Mr. Hicks: If the case could be dismissed, your Honor, so that the prayer of the motion would be granted and so these people would not be holding their land with the Government holding a decree vesting title in it at the same time, we would have no objection to the dismissal of the case. Our only concern is to see that they have not been divested of their title and their rights without having received any compensation for it whatsoever. Of course, the Government has held that land for seven years. Whether they would want to ask later for some compensation for holding that land I don't know. None such is contemplated now, but they probably would not want to be foreclosed of their rights to raise that question at the proper time. But we have no objection to dismissal as long as their rights are saved and the record is not clouded, or, rather, the title is not clouded.

Mr. Dillard: It seems to me, your Honor, that there is considerable confusion will result from an out and out dismissal of it. I think counsel can speak in the interests of their people probably better than anybody else, but it is my recollection—I was not participating in this at the outset, but my recollection is that with only one or two exceptions the land owners agreed to the price deposited in court and accepted it and gave deeds of confirmation, as Mr. Hicks mentioned. Now whether their parties did right at this minute I can't tell. Probably counsel can. At this minute I am under the impression that these defendants here did give deeds of confirmation. Maybe I am mistaken.

Mr. McCulloch: None of them; none of them.

Mr. Dillard: They did not. All right; then I am mistaken about that. But as to other parties there were deeds given. I recall in connection with the setting of the case at one time representation was made that the amount involved was not sufficient to warrant the expense on the part of the defendants, and one thing and another. I don't know that it would be possible, but possibly the thing could be best wound up by letting the defendants produce their testimony by deposition and clean it up that way as it was originally commenced, unless they want to take the position that they absolutely do not want to part with the lands in any proceeding. I [104] don't understand that they have been taking that position. As I recall it, their position was they were unable financially to properly defend the case and to present the evidence of values they wanted to present.

The Court: Of course, Mr. McCulloch says it has no relation to the other case. It does have a relation to the other case; it always has had a relation. I wouldn't have kept it on the docket this long if it hadn't had a relation to the other case. That is what it was kept here for. The assumption of the Court was that the decree in the Malheur Lake case would furnish a basis of settlement for all these cases. And now, since we have gotten that far, the Government just stops and doesn't do anything. I think that the most expeditious way to dispose of this case is to set it for trial, hold the motions in abeyance and set it for trial. If the Government doesn't show up, why, then I will give notice at that time that I will set aside the decree if they do not appear here. I think we can penalize them:

in that way without getting in any further trouble.

Mr. Hicks: Would the Court rule on that motion in advance of setting for trial? My only thought is if the Court ruled a certain way in respect to that motion it might avoid the necessity of bringing witnesses here and going to trial preparation, and so forth.

The Court: Well, you know what is going to happen. The Government is not going to be here. At least I know that. We will find out beforehand—Mr. Dillard's office, of course, will try to be ready for trial and we may get some action from the Interior Department. I would much rather not put the Government in a place where they have to have that decree set aside upon the basis that you have alleged in your brief unless we have to, but if it becomes necessary, why, I will take that up at that time and I would like to have a representative of the Interior Department here.

Mr. Hicks: My inquiry was this, your Honor: If the Court is going to set the case down for trial at a certain time should we be prepared with our witnesses to show values?

The Court: Mr. Dillard, do you think if it is set down for a tentative date for trial you will get any action from Washington? [105]

Mr. Dillard: The only action that I can see is that of course we would have to be ready for trial. Is that what your Honor has in mind?

The Court: I want to know what they want to do. I haven't been able to find out for many years now what the department expects to do with this case.

Mr. Dillard: I understand they want the land. That is why they filed on it. That is all. That is my only understanding about that. There is no change of policy in respect to that that I know of. I have never seen anything to indicate that.

The Court: I was told by Mr. Biggs, who filed this case, that apparently the Government would like to abandon these proceedings at the present time. That was informal, so I am not sure that that is true, but that was his idea in one of our conferences, that they might want to abandon this thing.

Mr. Dillard: Well, I don't recall that. As to these particular tracts? Is that what he meant, as to these particular tracts?

The Court: The whole thing. Since the Malheur case did not work out they would like to quit.

Mr. Dillard: Well, I don't recall that at all.

The Court: Well, I don't think that that is a good solution, apparently. I don't seem to get anywhere with that. So I am just going to dismiss the case and set aside the decree right now. If they want to start another one, why, all right. I now sustain the motion for the defendants in the case and set aside the former decree, set aside the land taken by the Government, and dismiss the case. You may enter an appropriate order.

Mr. Hicks: So I may be clear, I assume your Honor wants us to draw the order?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Hicks: We are just vacating the entire decree and everything in respect to it?

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Hicks: It will go right back where it was started from?

The Court: Yes. [106]

Mr. Dillard: Now may I inquire is that sustaining the motion to dismiss as to their particular clients and land owners?

The Court: No, I think it affects the whole decree.

Mr. Dillard: Just so I understand your Honor's intent—vacating the whole decree?

The Court: I am going to find out what is happening in this case. I will just dismiss it and then maybe something will happen. I haven't been able to get anything done for seven years. I don't know whether it is properly founded or not. I will probably be reversed in it, but I am willing to take that chance.

Mr. Dillard: Vacating the original order and decree based on the declaration of taking?

The Court: Yes, vacating the declaration of taking and the decree based on the declaration of taking.

(Thereupon proceedings relative to the above matter on said September 28, 1942, were concluded.) [107]

EDWIN D. HICKS.

[Endorsed]: Filed March 4, 1943. [114]

And afterwards, to wit, on the 6th day of April, 1943, there was duly Filed in said Court, an Affidavit of J. Mason Dillard, in words and figures as follows, to wit: [115]

[Title of District Court and Cause.]

AFFIDAVIT AS TO CAUSE OF POSTPONEMENT

State of Oregon,
County of Multnomah—ss.

I, J. Mason Dillard, being first duly sworn, depose and say:

That at all time material to this cause I have been an Assistant United States Attorney for the District of Oregon and have been one of the attorney representing the Government in this proceeding;

That the records of the United States District Court for the District of Oregon reveal that this cause was held in abeyance for a long period of time without trial, for the reason that the same was related to an equity suit pending in that court—that is, United States vs. Henry Otley, et al;

That on the 28th day of September, 1942, the Honorable District Court for the District of Oregon made an order dismissing this action and setting aside the judgment on the declaration of taking which had theretofore been made;

That examination of the record in this cause indicates that said cause was set for trial at the Pendleton Term of the United States District Court for the District of Oregon, commencing in April of 1941; that I am apprehensive that the records of the court do not completely reveal the circumstances and conditions under which the case was not then tried; that to the best of my recollection and belief the circumstances were as follows: [116]

That prior to the commencement of said term the Court notified the parties that the case would be set for trial; that the United States was at all times prepared for trial and made no objection to the Court regarding the proposed date thereof; that prior to the commencement of said court term, and in Portland, Oregon, counsel for the defendants advised that the defendants involved were not financially able to prepare their case and consequently could not engage in the trial of the same at the Pendleton term; that, to the best of my knowledge and belief, no formal representation was made by the defendants to the Court regarding these things and no formal motion to postpone the case was made on their behalf; that the case remained on the docket and was called at the commencement of the term of court, but by that time it was fully known and understood between the Court and the parties that the same could not be tried, and thereupon the Court requested of the United States Attorney a showing of some kind in writing why the case should be removed from the trial docket; that the defendants and their counsel were not in attendance upon the court, and therefore no request for such showing was made upon them; that thereupon I prepared the showing affidavit regarding the postponement of the trial, which was entered of record in this cause on or about the 5th of April, 1941;

That said showing was made at the request of the Court, and I am now apprehensive that it may be misinterpreted as a formal application for postponement of the cause made on behalf of the Government; that it is my information and belief that at the time said showing was made all of the parties hereto and the Court were fully advised that the reason for the postponement of the cause was the representations by the defendants of their inability to be prepared for trial; [117]

That I make this affidavit for the record on appeal in this cause for the purpose of clarifying the meaning of the records of the United States District Court in the respects herein mentioned.

J. MASON DILLARD

Assistant United States
Attorney

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 2nd day of February, 1943.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, APPELLANT

v.

GORDON T. CAREY ET AL., APPELLEES

APPEAL FROM THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE DISTRICT OF OREGON

BRIEF FOR THE UNITED STATES

OPINION BELOW

The district court did not write an opinion. The reasons given by the court for entering the order appealed from are found at R. 82-93.

JURISDICTION

This is an appeal from an order entered September 28, 1942, vacating a judgment on a declaration of taking, striking the declaration of taking from the files, and dismissing the petition for condemnation (R. 78-79). Notice of appeal was filed December 26, 1942 (R. 80). The jurisdiction of the district court was invoked under the Act of August 1, 1888, c. 728, 25

Stat. 357, 40 U. S. C. sec. 257 (R. 3). The jurisdiction of this Court is invoked under section 128 of the Judicial Code as amended, 28 U. S. C. sec. 225 (a).

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the petition states a cause of action.
2. Whether the district court had jurisdiction of the proceedings.
3. Whether the trial court exceeded its powers in vacating the judgment on the declaration of taking and dismissing the proceedings.
4. Whether the parties moving for dismissal were estopped to attack the validity of the condemnation proceedings.

STATUTES AND EXECUTIVE ORDER INVOLVED

The pertinent provisions of section 1 of the Act of August 1, 1888, 25 Stat. 357, c. 728, 40 U. S. C. sec. 257; sections 1 and 2 of the Unemployment Relief Act of March 31, 1933, 48 Stat. 22; section 14 of the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act for 1935, 49 Stat. 119, April 8, 1935; Executive Order No. 6724, May 28, 1934, are set out in the appendix, infra, p. 20-23.

STATEMENT

On June 14, 1935, the United States instituted proceedings to condemn 3,474.34 acres of land in Harney County, Oregon. The petition alleged that the proceedings were instituted under the authority of the Unemployment Relief Act of March 31, 1933, 48 Stat. 22; Executive Order No. 6724, May 28, 1934; and the Act of August 1, 1888, 25 Stat. 357, 40 U. S. C. sec.

257, 258, "for use in the construction of useful public works and improvements in connection with the Lake Malheur Migratory Waterfowl Refuge, and for such other uses as may be authorized by Congress or by Executive Order" (R. 3). With the petition the Government filed a declaration of taking pursuant to the Act of February 26, 1931, c. 307, 46 Stat. 1421, 40 U. S. C. sec. 258a, and deposited $32,227.26 in court as estimated compensation. On the same day an ex parte judgment was entered declaring that the United States was entitled to acquire the property for the purposes set out in the petition, confirming the passage of title by the declaration of taking, and ordering the delivery of possession on or before July 15, 1935 (R. 1-26). A supplemental petition was filed July 19, 1935, naming as defendants additional persons who had or might have had some interest in the property taken (R. 26-32).

The property described in the petition (R. 3-6) and the declaration of taking (R. 21) were certain fractional sections located along the Neal survey line around Lake Malheur, Mud Lake, and the Narrows,¹

And together therewith all right, title, claim, and interest of the owners of said tracts to lands lying within the Neal survey lines, purporting to surround Malheur and Mud Lakes, and the Narrows.

Twenty parcels were included in the total acreage described in the petition and the declaration of taking (R. 3-6). From time to time the owners of the various parcels petitioned to withdraw their shares of the deposit, and upon order of court payments were made (R. 102-109). Most of the withdrawals were made in the latter part of 1935 and first part of 1936.² Orders of default were entered on January 13 and February 28, 1936, as to numerous defendants having or claiming an interest in the land taken (R. 105). It does not appear in the record on appeal how many parties were defaulted, but numerous parties who might have had or claimed an interest in all of the parcels except Parcels 4e, 14a, b, 16, and 31a were included. Many of the owners withdrawing the deposits executed deeds confirming the passage of title to their property to the United States (R. 85, 90-91). This fact together with the default orders meant the disposal of most of the issues in the case except those arising out of the pleadings filed by the owners of certain interests in Parcels 16 and 31a.

On September 9, 1935, Gordon T. Carey, claimant of an undivided one-half interest in Tract 31a, and Georgia E. George, Raymond L. George, Clifford E. George, William J. George, and Edna George, his wife, Anna Carey and Harry A. Carey, her husband, Eliza O. Shoemaker and E. O. Shoemaker, her husband, Stacy D. George and Betty M. George, his wife, claimants of certain undivided interests in Tract 16, moved the court to require the United States to make more definite and certain that portion of the petition set out above with reference to the lands within the Neal survey lines by setting forth and particularizing what area within the Neal survey lines in front of Tracts 16 and 31a the Government was seeking to acquire by the condemnation proceeding (R. 32). This motion raised complex questions of riparian rights and the title to lands in the bed of Lake Malheur. To settle the question of title to the land in the lake bed, a suit to quiet title was instituted by the United States in the district court on December 17, 1936. See United States v. Otley, 127 F. 2d 988 (C. C. A. 9, 1942).

On January 25, 1937, upon oral stipulation of the parties in open court, the undivided one-half interest of Gordon T. Carey in Tract 31a, and the undivided four-ninths interest of William George and Edna George, his wife; Anna Carey and Harry Carey, her husband; Eliza O. Shoemaker and E. O. Shoemaker, her husband; and Stacy D. George and Betty E. George, his wife, in Tract 16 were severed and leave was given the United States to file an amended petition as against those interests, excluding therefrom any and all portions of the property lying within the Neal survey line (R. 34-37).³ Amended petitions were accordingly filed on January 27, 1937, setting out in detail the authority for and the purpose of the proceedings and alleging that the property described in the original petition as Tracts 16 and 31a, did not include any riparian rights which the defendants may have had or claimed as appurtenant to their tracts or any lands within the Neal survey lines (R. 38-54). The amended petitions alleged as authority for taking, the Unemployment Relief Act of March 31, 1933, 48 Stat. 22, as continued by section 14 of the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act for 1935, 49 Stat. 115, 119, April 8, 1935; the Fourth Deficiency Appropriation Act for the Fiscal Year 1933, 48 Stat. 274, 275; Executive Order 6724, May 28, 1934. The petitions then alleged that under the Act of March 31, 1933, 48 Stat. 22, and by authority of the President, the Secretary of Agriculture had duly adopted an emergency conservation works project for the improvement of the Lake Malheur Reservation; that the project included the construction of dikes, the building of water control structures, the conservation of water, the control of flood water, the construction of truck trails, food and cover planting, fire protection and the building of nesting islands to provide additional food and cover for waterfowl. It was also alleged that this program would be effective to relieve unemployment, restore depleted natural resources, and would result in the construction of useful public works, and that the lands taken would be used for the emergency conservation works theretofore described and also as a part of the Lake Malheur Reservation for the restoration and conservation of migratory birds.

On March 9, 1939, Stacy and Betty George filed a petition alleging that it was intended in the condemnation proceeding to acquire all right, title and interest in the lake bed, that it had been agreed that the claims asserted by the owners of the undivided four-ninths interest in Tract 16 would be determined in the Otley case and asking to withdraw their share of the deposit "without prejudice to any right which they might ultimately have for additional compensation in the event they are awarded ownership * * *" of lands in the lake bed. Payment of the deposit to these parties was ordered by the court. (R. 56-60.)

On August 22, 1939, Gordon T. Carey answered the amended petition denying all allegations except his ownership of the one-half interest in Parcel No. 31a and praying for judgment against the United States for the alleged value of his land. On September 12, 1939, Stacy D. George, William J. George, and the other owners of a four-ninths interest in Parcel No. 16 filed a similar answer to their amended petition. (R. 60-68.)

On September 20, 1939, Gordon T. Carey petitioned for an order to withdraw his share of the deposit made for Tract 31a. On the same day William J. George and Edna George, his wife; Anna George Carey and Harry A. Carey, her husband; Eliza O. Shoemaker and E. O. Shoemaker, her husband; Stacy D. George and Betty M. George, his wife, petitioned for an order to withdraw their shares of the deposit. (R. 68-75.) It does not appear that these petitions were ever acted upon by the court.

On June 29, 1940, the district court announced its decision in the Otley case, generally sustaining the riparian claims of patentees along the Neal line. On December 4, 1940, William J. George, Anna Carey, and Eliza O. Shoemaker, owners of an undivided threeninths interest in Parcel No. 16, and Gordon T. Carey, owner of an undivided one-half interest in Parcel No. 31a, moved to vacate the judgment on the declaration of taking and dismiss the petition filed on June 14, 1935, on the grounds that the petition did not state sufficient facts to constitute a cause of action, and that the court had no jurisdiction (R. 76-77). A hearing on the motion was had on January 2, 1941, and a brief was filed by the United States (R. 110), but no action was taken until after this Court decided the Government's appeal in the Otley case on April 21, 1942.

On September 28, 1942, at the next term of the district court, Mr. Dillard, the Assistant United States Attorney, appeared for the United States and Messrs. Hicks and McCulloch appeared as attorneys for Wm. J. George, Anna Carey, Eliza O. Shoemaker, and Gordon T. Carey in the condemnation proceeding (R. 82). The court's attention was directed to the motion of December 4, 1940, to dismiss the proceeding which was still pending (R. 86-88).

The court stated that he would rather not set aside the proceedings on the grounds urged by the owners, but apparently because of an informal conference with another government official he was in doubt as to what the government intended to do with the case. It was his impression, although he was not sure that it was true, that the Government would like to abandon the proceeding. Counsel representing the United States, who knew nothing of any such intention on the part of the Government, stated that the Government would be ready for trial if the case were set for hearing and that so far as he knew it still wanted the land it had set out to acquire. (R. 90-92.) The court then ruled that he would dismiss the entire proceeding, with the following comment (R. 93):

I am going to find out what is happening in this case. I will just dismiss it and then maybe something will happen. I haven't been able to get anything done for seven years. I don't know whether it is properly founded or not. I will probably be reversed in it, but I am willing to take that chance.

An order vacating the judgment on the declaration of taking, striking the declaration of taking from the files of the court, and dismissing the petition for condemnation was entered on September 28, 1942 (R. 78-79). Notice of appeal was filed on December 26, 1942 (R. 80).

SPECIFICATION OF ERRORS

The district court erred—

1. In vacating, setting aside and annulling the judgment on the declaration of taking.
2. In striking the declaration of taking from the files of the court.
3. In dismissing the petition for condemnation.

ARGUMENT

No reason was given by the court below for vacating the judgment on the declaration of taking, striking the declaration of taking from the files, and dismissing the petition. In fact, Judge Fee admitted he didn't "know whether it [the dismissal] was properly founded or not." He was just going to dismiss the case and maybe something would happen (R. 93).

The grounds assigned in the motion to dismiss are that the petition does not state sufficient facts to constitute a cause of action and that it does not state sufficient facts to give the court jurisdiction. Neither of these objections is well taken.

I

The district court had jurisdiction of the proceedings

As alleged in the petition and declaration of taking this proceeding was brought pursuant to the Act of August 1, 1888, c. 728, sec. 1, 25 Stat. 357, 40 U. S. C. sec. 257, which provides as follows:

In every case in which the Secretary of the Treasury or any other officer of the Government has been or shall be, authorized to procure real estate for the erection of a public building or for other public uses he shall be authorized to acquire the same for the United States by condemnation, under judicial process, whenever in his opinion it is necessary or advantageous to the Government to do so. And the United States district courts of the district wherein such real estate is located, shall have jurisdiction of proceedings for such condemnation, * * *.

Clearly this section confers upon the court jurisdiction of condemnation proceedings. United States v. Nudelman, 104 F. 2d 549, 552 (C. C. A. 7, 1939), certiorari denied 308 U. S. 589.

The petition alleges the authority of the Secretary of Agriculture to acquire the property and his determination that it was necessary and advantageous to the United States to acquire the lands described in the petition by condemnation (R. 2-3). Thus, the jurisdictional facts were sufficiently alleged. However, even if they had been defective, and it has not been shown that they were, the district court, nevertheless, acquired jurisdiction and could have permitted an amendment to cure any defects. United States v. Gettysburg Electric Ry. Co., 160 U. S. 668, 685-686 (1896); Goodman v. City of Ft. Collins, 164 Fed. 970 (C. C. A. 8, 1908). Cf. Forbes v. United States, 268 Fed. 273, 277 (C. C. A. 5, 1920).

II

The institution of the proceedings was authorized

The condemnation proceedings were authorized by the Unemployment Relief Act of March 31, 1933, 48 Stat. 22, as continued by section 14 of the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act for 1935, 49 Stat. 115, 119, April 8, 1935, and Executive Order No. 6724, May 28, 1934. Section 1 of the Unemployment Relief Act of March 31, 1933, 48 Stat. 22, provided in part as follows:

That for the purpose of relieving the acute condition of widespread distress and unemployment now existing in the United States, and in order to provide for the restoration of the country's depleted natural resources and the advancement of an orderly program of useful public works, the President is authorized, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe and by utilizing such existing departments or agencies as he may designate, to provide for employing citizens of the United States who are unemployed, in the construction, maintenance and carrying on of works of a public nature in connection with the forestation of lands belonging to the United States * * * the prevention of forest fires, floods and soil erosion, plant pest and disease control, the construction, maintenance or repair of paths, trails and fire-lanes in the national parks and national forests, and such other work on the public domain * * * and Government reservations⁴ incidental to or necessary in connection with any projects of the character enumerated, as the President may determine to be desirable: * * *

Section 2 of the Act authorized the President, or the head of any department or agency authorized by him, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the Act, "to acquire real property by purchase, donation, condemnation, or otherwise * * *."⁵

The President, on May 28, 1934, issued the following order (Executive Order No. 6724):

WHEREAS it is necessary to purchase or rent various lands in order to provide suitable refuges for, and to protect and conserve, migratory birds and other wild life constituting depleted natural resources of the United States; and

WHEREAS the work and improvements necessary to be performed and made upon such lands to make them suitable and proper refuges for migratory birds and other wild life will provide protection for such lands from forest fires, ⁴ As alleged in the amended petition, the Lake Malheur Reservation was established by Executive Order No. 929, August 18, 1908. See United States v. Otley, 127 F. 2d 988, 991 (C. C. A. 9, 1942).

WHEREAS the purchase of such lands will provide employment for citizens of the United States who are unemployed;

Now, THEREFORE, by virtue of and pursuant to the authority vested in me by the act of Congress entitled "An act for the relief of unemployment through the performance of useful public work, and for other purposes," approved March 31, 1933 (ch. 17, 48 Stat. 22), and the Fourth Deficiency Act, fiscal year 1933, approved June 16, 1933 (ch. 100, 48 Stat. 274, 275), the Secretary of Agriculture is hereby authorized to expend for the purchase⁶ or rental of such lands as are suitable for the aforesaid purpose (including the costs incident to purchase or rental) not more than $1,000,000 of the sum of $20,000,000 allocated from the appropriation for National Industrial Recovery and made available to the Secretary of Agriculture by Executive Order No. 6208, of July 21, 1933, for the purchase of forest lands for emergency conservation work.

The executive order was authorized by the Unemployment Relief Act of 1933. 37 Op. A. G. 445 (1934).⁷

⁶ If the purchase is authorized it follows that condemnation is also authorized. Act of August 1, 1888, 40 U. S. C. sec. 257, 25 Stat. 357; Albert Hanson Lumber Company v. United States, 261 U. S. 581, 585-586 (1923); Barnidge v. United States, 101 F. 2d 295, 297 (C. C. A. 8, 1939); United States v. Threlkeld, 72 F. 2d 464, 466 (C. C. A. 10, 1934); United States v. Graham & Irvine, 250 Fed. 499, 501-502 (W. D. Va., 1917).

⁷ The executive order under consideration by the Attorney General was No. 6684 which was rescinded by Executive Order No.

Consequently it is apparent that the proceedings were authorized and could not have been properly dismissed for lack of authority.

III

The taking was for a public use

The original petition and the declaration of taking state that the lands involved are being acquired for use in the construction of useful public works and improvements in connection with the Lake Malheur Migratory Waterfowl Refuge and for such other uses as may be authorized by Congress or by executive order (R. 3, 20). The amended petitions filed as to Tracts 16 and 31a contain more detailed allegations as to the purpose of the acquisition and allege as follows (R. 40-41, 49-50):

* * * the Secretary of Agriculture has duly adopted an emergency conservation works project for the improvement of the Lake Malheur Reservation. This project includes the construction of dikes; the building of water-control structures; the conservation of water; the control of flood-waters; the construction of truck trails; food and cover planting; fire protection; and the building of nesting islands to provide additional food and cover for waterfowl. * * * This program of improvement is effective to relieve unemployment, restore depleted natural resources, and will result in the construction of useful public works * * *

The tract of land described * * * is requisite and necessary to be fully vested in the United States of America, free and clear of all outstanding claims of ownership, for the reason that a part of said emergency conservation work is necessary to be done thereon, or because the said land will be affected thereby. The public use for which the said lands now are required is the accomplishment of the emergency conservation works project herein described, but the said lands are also to be used as a part of the Lake Malheur Reservation for the restoration and conservation of migratory birds in furtherance of the objects of the Migratory Bird Treaty (39 Stat. 1702), the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (40 Stat. 755), the Migratory Bird Conservation Act (46 Stat. 1222), and for such other public uses as may be authorized by Congress or by Executive Order.

If the Federal Government has power under the Constitution to embark upon a project for which land is sought, the use is a public one. United States v. Gettysburg Electric Ry. Co., 160 U. S. 668, 679 (1896); Barnidge v. United States, 101 F. 2d 295, 298 (C. C. A. 8, 1939). Hence, projects for the prevention of unemployment, conservation of natural resources, prevention of soil erosion, reforestation, and protection and preservation of migratory birds are for public purposes under the Constitution. Steward Machine Co. v. Davis, 301 U. S. 548, 586-587 (1937); Missouri v. Holland, 252 U. S. 416, 432, 435 (1920); United States v. Montana, 134 F. 2d 194, 196-197 (C. C. A. 9, 1943); *Bastian v. IV

The trial court exceeded his powers in vacating the judgment on the declaration of taking and dismissing the proceedings

When, pursuant to the provisions of the Act of February 26, 1931, 46 Stat. 1421, 40 U. S. C. sec. 258a, a declaration of taking was filed in this case and the estimated compensation deposited in court, title to the lands described vested in the United States and could be divested only by congressional authorization. United States v. Sunset Cemetery, 132 F. 2d 163, 164 (C. C. A. 7, 1942). Neither the court nor any agent of the Government had power thereafter to divest the United States of title. It is not meant, of course, that the proceedings could not be dismissed if the court, upon proper motion, found that there was, for example, no authority for the taking. In such case the declaration of taking would be a nullity and ineffective to vest title. City of Oakland v. United States, 124 F. 2d 959, 963 (C. C. A. 9, 1942), certiorari denied 316 U. S. 679. However, as has been shown, no such ground is presented in this case for vacating the judgment and dismissing the proceedings.

The only apparent reasons for the action taken by the court were his doubts as to what the Government intended to do with the case and the delay in concluding the proceedings. Clearly, the judge's doubts as to what the Government intended to do, based on an impression received from an informal conference with another Government official, an impression he "was not sure was true" is not justification for dismissing the proceeding and striking from the files the declaration of taking which had vested title in the United States to some 4,000 acres of land for which over $30,000.00 had already been paid by court order in the proceedings.⁸

The delay in finally concluding the proceedings was due to the necessity of awaiting the decree in the Otley case, which would settle the title disputes in this case (R. 90). Government counsel appeared when the case was called at the first term of court after the Otley decision and stated that "of course we [the Government] would have to be ready for trial" if the case were set for a hearing (R. 91). Consequently there was no lack of prosecution on the part of the Government to justify a dismissal even if the court had had power to do so.

The parties moving for dismissal were estopped to attack the validity of the proceedings

Gordon T. Carey, William J. George, Anna Carey, and Eliza Shoemaker, the owners who moved to dismiss the proceedings on the grounds that the petition did not state sufficient facts to constitute a cause of action and that the petition did not state sufficient facts to give the district court jurisdiction, were estopped to raise any objection to the proceedings. On September 20, 1939, these parties had moved to withdraw the money deposited in court as estimated compensation for their interests (R. 68-75). It was after this that they moved for dismissal (R. 76-77). Thus, although seeking the benefits, these parties attack the validity of the proceeding.

The right to object to the validity of a statute authorizing a condemnation proceeding may be lost by waiver or estoppel. United States v. Nudelman, 104 F. 2d 549, 552-553 (C. C. A. 7, 1939), certiorari denied 308 U. S. 589. In that case it was held that an owner who had consented to the entry of judgment and accepted payment for five other parcels owned by her and taken for the same project in contemporaneous proceedings was estopped to attack the Government's authority to condemn. One cannot, after accepting the benefits of a statute, attack its validity. St. Louis Co. v. Prendergast Co., 260 U. S. 469 (1923); State v. Melville, 149 Ore. 532, 548-549, 39 P. 2d 1119, 41 P. 2d 1071 (1935); Oregon v. Portland Gen. Elec. Co., 52 Ore. 502, 530, 95 Pac. 722 (1908). In fact, actual receipt of benefits under a statute are not necessary to constitute an estoppel. It is sufficient if they are sought. Great Falls Mfg. Co. v. Attorney General, 124 U. S. 581, 598-600 (1888). Consequently, the parties moving for dismissal are estopped by their motion to withdraw the deposit from raising any objection to the validity of the proceedings.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons it is respectfully submitted that the order appealed from should be reversed.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

vs.

GORDON T. CAREY, et al,
Appellees.

BRIEF OF APPELLEES

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On June 14th, 1935, the United States filed, in the District Court, a petition to condemn 3,474.34 acres of land in Harney County, Oregon, and also, at the same time, filed in said court a Declaration of Taking made March 27th, 1935, by M. L. Wilson, Acting Secretary of Agriculture of the United States. (R. 20-22.) On the same date, June 14th, 1935, the District Court made and entered a judgment on the Declaration of Taking. (R. 22-26.)

On December 4th, 1940, William J. George, et al, filed a motion in said court, asking that the judgment on Declaration of Taking be annulled and vacated, and that the petition of plaintiff be dismissed. (R. 76-77.)

On September 22nd, 1942, the District Court made an order vacating the judgment on Declaration of Taking, and dismissed the petition.

The lands involved are a part of the lake bed of Malheur Lake, and it may be helpful to here make a brief statement as to the history of such lands, as shown by the record of this case and by the decisions of the Federal Courts.

This Court has judicial notice of facts stated in the opinion of this court in United States vs. Otley, et al, 127 F. (2d) 988, and also of the facts related in the case of United States vs. Oregon, 295 U.S. 1. A summary of the history of Malheur Lake, as shown by the cases above mentioned, and by the records of this case, is as follows:

Prior to the year 1930, the title to the lands in the lake bed of Malheur Lake was in dispute. The State of Oregon claimed title to such lake bed because, as it claimed, Malheur Lake was a navigable lake when Oregon was admitted into the Union, and that the State, on admission, acquired title to the beds of all navigable lakes.

The United States claimed that the lake is not and never had been a navigable lake, and that the State of Oregon never at any time had title to the lake bed.

Certain individuals, including the appellees herein, claimed title to portions of the lake bed, by reason of being land owners abutting on the meander line of a non-navigable lake.

As shown by United States vs. Oregon, 295 U.S. 1, the United States in 1930, begun a proceeding in the Supreme Court of the United States to determine whether or not Malheur Lake was a navigable lake at the time Oregon was admitted into the Union. The Supreme Court, in 1935, decided that Malheur Lake is a non-navigable lake, and thereby disposed of Oregon's claim to title.

During the year 1934, and the early part of 1935 (while the ownership of the lake bed was in dispute), representatives of the Secretary of Agriculture interviewed all persons who owned lands bordering on the meander line of Malheur Lake, and attempted to acquire, by purchase, the patented lands of the landowner bordering on the meander line of the lake. We think the record shows that at this time, the only lands sought were the patented lands bordering on the meander line. (R. 3-5 ; 9-15.) The lake bed at this time was still being claimed by the State, the Government, and by certain abutting land-owners.

On June 14th, 1935, the United States filed in the District Court, the Petition to condemn, the Declaration of Taking, and the Judgment on Declaration of Taking, involved in this appeal. Each of these, after describing the lands sought by condemnation, contained the following clause :

“And together therewith all right, title, claim and interest of the owner of said tracts to lands lying within the Neal survey lines purporting to surround Malheur and Mud Lakes and the Narrows.”

In September, 1935, the appellees herein filed in said cause a motion asking that the United States set forth and particularize what area within the Neal survey line the petitioner sought to acquire by such condemnation proceedings. In January, 1937, the District Court, at the request of the petitioner, made an order directing a severance of the appellees herein from the original petition to condemn, and permitting the plaintiff to file an amended petition as to said appellees, and on said date, the amended petition was filed in said cause. (R. 46.)

Paragraph 8 of said amended petition is as follows :

“The property sought to be acquired does not include any rights which the defendants may have or claim as appurtenant to said lands because riparian thereto, and it does not include any rights, title, interest or estate of the defendants in the lands or waters inside the Neal survey lines, claimed by defendants to be meander line of ‘Malheur Lake,’ as shown by and in accordance with the official plat of said Township 26 South, Range 32 E. W.M. (N.M.L.), as approved by the General Land Office and on file with the Surveyor General; and it also does not include any lands claimed to be relicted lands within the Malheur Lake Division, as described by the United States Supreme Court decree dated June 5th, 1935, in re United States vs. Oregon, recorded in Book 36, p. 546, Harney Co. Or. records.”

No attempt was ever made by the Court or the Government to change or modify the Declaration of Taking, or the Judgment on Declaration of Taking, of June 14th, 1935, in each of which the statement still remains that the United States has taken the lands therein described (including appellees lands), “and together therewith all the right, title, claim and interest of the owners of said tracts (including the appellees herein), to lands lying within the Neal survey line, etc.”

No Declaration of Taking was filed as to lands owned by the parties included in the Amended Petition, and as to them, there is no Declaration of Taking unless the original is still in force.

On December 4th, 1940, the appellees herein filed a motion to vacate the Judgment on Declaration of Taking, and for a dismissal of the Petition.

On September 28th, 1942, the District Court made the Order now under consideration on this appeal.

ARGUMENT

The order and judgment of the court made September 22nd, 1942, should be sustained for the following reasons:

1. There is no authority given by Congress for instituting such a proceeding;
2. The complaint or petition does not state sufficient facts to constitute a cause of action;
3. The district court may of its own motion, dismiss, for lack of prosecution, after a cause has been pending for a period of more than seven years.

First—as to authority, or lack of authority, to bring the condemnation proceeding:

Paragraph 1 of the petition, says:

“This petition is filed under the authority and provisions of the Act for the Relief of unemployment Through the Performance of Useful Public Works approved March 31, 1933 (48 Stat. 22), and pursuant to Executive Order No. 6724, dated May 28, 1934, authorizing the purchase or rental of land for emergency conservation work.” (R. 2.)

The act of March 31, 1933, does not provide for the purchase or condemnation of private lands for a bird refuge. The said Act specifically prohibits the acquisition of private lands for such purposes. We quote from said Act as follows:

“The President is authorized to provide for the employment of citizens of the United States, not otherwise employed, in the construction and maintenance and carrying on of work of a public nature in connection with the forestation of lands belonging to the United States, or to the several states which are suitable for timber production, the prevention of forest fires, flood and soil erosion, plant pest and disease control, the construction maintenance or repair of paths, trails and fire-lanes in the national parks and national forests, and such other work on the public domain, national and state, and Government reservations incidental and necessary in connection with any project of the character enumerated, as the President may determine to be desirable.”

It should be here noted that the President is limited by the Act, to fire control projects and reforestation projects on public lands of the nation or state.

The Act then continues as follows :

“Provided: That the President may in his discretion extend the provisions of the Act to lands owned by counties or municipalities, and to lands of private ownership, but only for the purpose of doing thereon such kinds of cooperative work as are now provided for by the Acts of Congress in preventing and controlling forest fires and the attacks of forest tree pests and diseases, and such work as is necessary in the public interest to control floods.”

From the foregoing, it should be clear that the Act of March 31st, 1933, definitely limited the authority of the President, and prohibited the acquisition of private lands, except for the purposes set forth and designated in the Act.

Appellees contend that the Act of Congress of March 31, 1933 (48 Stat. 22), grants no power or authority to condemn private lands for a Migratory Waterfowl Refuge.

We assume it is conceded that the Government cannot take private property by condemnation proceedings, unless authorized to do so by some Act of Congress. The petition recites that this proceeding is brought by virtue of the authority given by Act of Congress of March 31, 1933. That Act, a part of which is set out in appendix to appellants' brief, specifically prohibits the acquisition of private lands for the purposes set forth in the petition.

The Act of March 31, 1933, as set out in appellants' brief limits the President's unemployment operations to lands of the United States or of the several states.

Appellant quotes from paragraph 2 of the Act for the purpose of showing authority from Congress to acquire by condemnation proceedings. Said section two gives authority to condemn the class of property designated in section one of the Act, "to carry on such public works."

We contend that Congress has not authorized the Secretary of Agriculture, or the plaintiff, to acquire by condemnation, privately owned lands for the purposes set forth in the petition herein.

If there is no authority given by Congress to acquire the lands, then the Declaration of Taking is of no force, and the District Court is without jurisdiction.

Our second objection is: The complaint or petition does not state sufficient facts to constitute a cause of action.

Section 258 of Title 40, U.S.C.A. is as follows:

“The practice, pleadings, forms and modes of proceeding in causes arising under the provisions of Section 257 of this title shall conform, as near as may be, to the practice, pleadings, forms and proceeding existing at the time in like causes, in the courts of record in the state within which such district court is held, any rule of the court to the contrary notwithstanding.”

The petition in its paragraph 2, states that it is proceeding under Sections 257-258, U.S.C.A.

The petition in this case does not conform to the practice, pleadings or proceeding as prescribed by the laws of Oregon, as hereinafter pointed out:

Section 37-401 Oregon Laws, requires that in condemnation cases, the action shall be brought against the owner, or the person in possession of the lands. The statute makes the action a personal action.

Section 37-402 Oregon Laws, provides as follows:

“Such action shall be commenced and proceeded with to final determination in the same manner as an action-at-law.”

Section 1-704 of the Oregon Statutes, requires that every complaint shall contain three parts, as follows :

(1) The title of the cause, specifying the name of the court, and the name of the parties to the action, plaintiff and defendant ;

(2) A plain and concise statement of the facts constituting the cause of action ;

(3) A demand for the relief claimed.

In its petition for condemnation, the Government proceeds against 3474.34 acres of privately owned lands. The title of the cause is stated as follows :

“IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, FOR THE DISTRICT OF OREGON
 No. 12492
 UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Petitioner,
 vs.
 3474.34 ACRES MORE OR LESS, OF LAND
 IN HARNEY COUNTY, OREGON; HAR-NEY COUNTY, et al,
Defendants.
 PETITION FOR CONDEMNATION” (R-2)

The Petition is not against the owner or the person in possession, and does not designate the parties defendant as required by the Oregon laws. The proceeding is against a tract of land, and not against the owners of the land. Neither in the title, nor in the body of the petition is any party designated as the owner of any land.

The Oregon law also requires that every complaint shall contain a plain and concise statement of the facts constituting the cause of action.

The only attempted statement of facts constituting a cause of action is found in paragraph two of the petition which is as follows:

“The Secretary of Agriculture has selected for acquisition by the United States, the lands hereinafter described for use in the construction of useful public works and improvement in connection with the Malheur Lake Migratory Waterfowl Refuge, and for such other uses as may be authorized by Congress, or by Executive Order. The said lands are necessary and are required for immediate use, in order that said construction work may be begun. In the opinion of the Secretary of Agriculture, it is necessary, advantageous and in the interest of the United States that said lands be acquired by judicial proceedings as authorized by Act of Congress approved August 1, 1888. (25 Stat. 357; 40 U.S.C.A. 257-258.)”

Then follows paragraph 3, the first five lines of which is as follows:

“The lands sought to be acquired in this proceeding are described as follows:

‘Malheur Lake Reservation Extension Tracts, 3474.34 acres, more or less, in Harney County, Oregon.’ ” (R. 3.)

Appellees contend that the foregoing statement does not state a cause of action against these appellees. Attention is called to the fact that the appellees, Edna George, Anna Carey, Harry Carey, E. O. Shoemaker, Eliza A. Shoemaker and Betty George, were never mentioned in the Petition or Declaration of Taking, or otherwise. Said appellees above mentioned were brought in by the Amended Petition filed January 27, 1937. (R. 48-52.) These appellees could not be deprived of their lands until there was a proceeding pending against them. Section 258a, T. 40, U.S. C.A., provides that such Declaration of Taking may be filed only after a proceeding is pending. It is our contention that no valid proceeding was pending against any of the appellees at the time the Declaration of Taking was filed, in June, 1935. The appellant admits that no proceeding was pending as to some of the appellees until January, 1937, more than a year and a half after their lands were condemned.

Oregon laws further provide that every complaint shall contain a demand for the relief claimed. The relief claimed in the petition in this case is stated in paragraph 8 of the petition (R. 18-19), where it is asked that the Court "appoint commissioners to appraise and fix the value of the lands and the amount of compensation, * * * and make just distribution of the estimated and final award among those entitled thereto as expeditiously as possible."

Under the Oregon practice, a land-owner in a condemnation case has the right of trial by a jury, and is entitled to present evidence in court as to the reasonable and fair value of his lands. "Such action shall be commenced and proceeded with to final determination in the same manner as an action-at-law." Section 37-402, Oregon Laws.

There is no way, under the petition herein, for trial and determination of the fair value of the lands of these appellees. They have been deprived of their lands, and have received no compensation therefor.

If the court should hold that a jury trial can be had in the present proceeding, then a serious question would arise as to the issue to be tried under the pleadings. The record shows that in June, 1935, a Declaration of Taking and a Judgment on Declaration of Taking was filed in which the 3474.34 acres of land mentioned in the petition, "and together therewith all rights, title, claim and interest of the owners of said tracts to land lying within the Neal survey lines, etc." was adjudged condemned, and the title vested in the United States. That Declaration of Taking and Judgment still stands of record, and appellees' lands within the Neal meander line is included therein. Of course, appellees at any trial would seek compensation for such lands. The plaintiff at such trial would contend that the amended petition filed January, 1937 (R. 48.), definitely stated in paragraph 8 thereof (R. 52-53) that the Declaration of Taking of June, 1935, did not include any lands within the Neal meander line, and that the landowner should not be compensated for the lake bed lands not included in the amended petition.

The amended petition could not change or amend the Declaration of Taking of June, 1935. If that Declaration of Taking included lands in the lake bed, only Congress could release or dispose of such lands after they became vested in the United States by the Declaration of Taking of June, 1935. Therefore, at any trial the question as to whether lake bed lands were included in the Declaration of Taking must be determined, and it should now be determined by this court, whether the Declaration of June, 1935, included lake bed lands.

The District Judge may have had this difficulty in mind as well as the right of trial by jury, and other questions involved herein, when he announced in open court, during a discussion as to whether the case should be set down for trial: "Well, you know what is going to happen. The Government is not going to be here. At least, I know that." (R. 91.)

Following this remark, the court on his own motion, as well as on motion of appellees, dismissed the whole badly involved proceeding.

In the statement of the court above quoted, the District Judge expressed the belief that the court and the attorneys then knew that the Government would not try the case at any time, and therefore thought the case should be dismissed, and then made his order to that effect.

The Court Was Authorized by Rule 41(b), Rules of Civil Procedure, to Enter the Order Here in Question

As we have endeavored to show, the District Court was fully conscious, at the time the Order was entered, that this abortive proceeding had been pending for more than seven (7) years. It is implicit in the remarks of the Court quoted above, that the long series of cumulative delays on the part of United States has made it most apparent that the Government would not respond to the Court's Order upon the setting of a trial date, if one should be made. The Court obviously took judicial notice of the long delays in this and other phases of the Malheur Lake litigation which has now been pending in the District Court for upwards of nine years, and which is still pending.

It is urged that the Government appeared at the first call date after rendition of the Otley decision and stated that it "would have to be ready for trial if the case should be scheduled for hearing." (App. Br. p. 17.) The remark carries its own construction that the Government would reluctantly and under compulsion appear for trial, if the Court should insist upon it. The spirit of Rule 41(b), supra, would appear not to place the onus upon the Court to see to it, as a matter of affirmative action, that litigation be pressed to expeditious conclusion. A concise expression of the Rule applicable here would appear to be that of the Tenth Circuit in Sweeney v. Anderson, 129 F. (2d) 756, at page 758, which is as follows :

“The elimination of delay in the trial of cases and the prompt dispatch of court business are prerequisites to the proper administration of justice. These goals cannot be attained without the exercise by the courts of diligent supervision over their own dockets. Courts should discourage delay and insist upon prompt disposition of litigation. Every court has the inherent power, in the exercise of a sound judicial discretion, to dismiss a cause for want of prosecution. The duty rests upon the plaintiff to use diligence and to expedite his case to a final determination. The decision of a trial court in dismissing a cause for lack of prosecution will not be disturbed on appeal unless it is made to appear that there has been a gross abuse of discretion.”

Cited in support of the above Rule is the case of Hicks v. Bekins Moving & Storage Company, Ninth Circuit, 115 F. (2d) 406, among others.

The foregoing case of Hicks vs. Bekins Moving & Storage Company, of this Court, would appear from our research to be the leading case in definition of the circumstances under which the District Court is authorized to dismiss a cause for lack of prosecution. We request that the Court read this decision, in the light of the facts proffered by this record.

On the Contention of Estoppel

It is urged that these appellees are estopped to object to the validity of the Statute, based upon their application, at one stage of the proceedings, for leave to withdraw certain moneys which had theretofore been deposited with the Clerk of the Court.

In response to this contention, we inquire, what Statute? We are not here confronted with an issue arising upon the validity of a Statute. It is true, too, as all parties admit, that the appellees have been deprived the use of their lands for seven years, and that the Government has enjoyed the use of such lands for that period without any compensation to the owners whatsoever. We find no basis in this circumstance for the contention that appellees have accepted benefits, nor are we able to apply the rule of Great Falls Manufacturing Company vs. Attorney-General, 124 U.S. 581, 598-600, cited at page 18 of appellant's brief, to the factual background presented by this record. To do so, we would be obliged to apply the quip of the Eastern Oregon wag who mused: "If we had some ham, we'd have ham and eggs, if we had the eggs."

Certainly the mere filing of an application for release of funds, an application which was denied, would not operate to set aside the Statutes of the United States, the Statutes of the State of Oregon, and the Rules of the Federal Courts.

It is respectfully submitted that the Judgment and Order of the District Court should be sustained, for the reasons stated herein.

Respectfully submitted,

POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

There are no facts alleged in the indictment to show that the defendant was required under the provisions of the Selective Service Act to report as the Glendale, Arizona local board ordered. Nor were there any facts alleged to show that the defendant properly came under classification and orders of the said board.

50 U.S.C.A. Section 303 (g).

Every fact necessary to constitute the crime charged must be directly and positively alleged and nothing can be charged by implication or indictment.

U.S. vs. Britton, 107 U.S. 655;

U.S. vs. Cruikshank, 92 U.S. 542.

Omission from the indictment of any fact or circumstance necessary to constitute an offense will be fatal.

Harris vs. U. S., 104 Fed. (2nd) 41.

Indictment is so indefinite and uncertain that the defendant cannot properly raise the Constitutionality of the Statute and is so indefinite and uncertain as not to provide a reasonable standard of guilt or innocence.

Indictment is in contravention of the 5th and 13th Amendments of the Constitution of the United States of America.

W. H. CHESTER,

Attorney for Plaintiff.

That on the 17th day of February, 1943, said motion came on to be heard and on the 17th day of

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Chester: Q. Mr. Riordan, are you well acquainted with the signature of Jarmon Conway?

A. I have seen him—I know his signature, yes, sir. I have seen him write it. [19]

Q. How often have you seen him?

A. I saw him write it once.

Q. Once? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Chester: I object, your Honor. I don't believe the man is qualified to recognize the signature after seeing it at one time.

Mr. Walsh: Well, it is admissible as a part of the records of the Board in any event, your Honor. He has testified that he is the custodian of it and it is a part of the records of the Local Board.

The Court: Yes.

Mr. Chester: He testified he knew the signature. I have no objection to its being in evidence, I have no objection to the exhibit to that effect.

The Court: Well, it may be received:

Thereafter Riorden testified as follows:

Mr. Walsh: Q. Mr. Riordan, with reference to Government's Exhibit No 4 in evidence, can you tell us in a general way what that exhibit is?

A. This is what is known as a D.S.S. form 47. It is a special form for conscientious objectors. In other words, when a man claims he is a conscientious objector he requests that we given him this form. Or he can go into any local board nearest to where he is and request that Board to give him that form 47, and they, in turn, will be glad to give it to him and then he fills out all of the information asked for on the form and returns it to the Local Board. The information here is in regard to his church that he belongs to and all the information showing why that man is a conscientious objector, why he claims to be a conscientious objector. The Board then reviews this form and the evidence contained therein, and if they feel satisfied with the information there that the man is a conscientious objector, why, then they grant his request and place him in a classification which is given a conscientious objector.

Q. And that particular form was filed by the defendant Conway with your Board in this case?

A. Yes, this was filed by him in his case, and it was properly signed and acknowledged.

Mr. Walsh: May this be marked, please?

(The document was marked as Government's Exhibit 5 for identification.)

Mr. Walsh: Q. I hand you Government's Exhibit No. 5 for identification, and ask you if that is a part of the records of your Board?

A. Yes; it is.

Q. And was the entire exhibit received all at one time, and as one document?

As I recall, it was, yes, sir; it all came in together.

[28]

Mr. Walsh: We offer it in evidence.

Mr. Chester: No objection.

(The document was received as Government's Exhibit 5 in evidence)

Which exhibit is as follows:

GOVERNMENT'S EXHIBIT 5 IN EVIDENCE

And

Affidavit by V. Lee Potter to the effect that Jarmon Thomas Conway is actively engaged in preaching the gospel and discharging the duties of a regular minister of Religion. That he had been a Jehovah's witness since the month of October, 1939, and Three pages of printed matter designated “An important letter to the Department of Justice, dated October 9, 1940).”

And thereafter said witness Riordon testified further:

Mr. Walsh: Q. Directing your attention to the last page of Government's Exhibit No. 2 in evidence, Mr. Riordan, can you tell me whose signature appears under the place marked "Minute of Action?"

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

A. That is the signature of J. S. Brizill, Chairman of Local Board No. 6 at Glendale, Ariona.

Q. And the entries immediately above it, do you know by whom that was made?

A. I made that.

Q. By whose authority?

A. By the authority of the Local Board at Glendale. [29]

Q. And the date that it bears, do you know who endorsed that on there? A. I did.

Q. By what authority?

A. By the authority of the Local Board.

Q. From the minutes, those minutes, Mr. Riordan, can you tell us what classification the defendant Conway received?

A. He was given classification of a conscientious objector, Class 4-E.

Q. And on what date?

A. On October 28th, 1941.

Q. Was that classification given at a regular meeting of Local Board No. 6?

A. Yes; it was.

Q. Were you present at the meeting?

A. I was.

Q. And do you know whether or not the entire file of the defendant Conway was then before the Board?

A. Yes; the entire file—everything that we had received from Mr. Conway or any other source pertaining to his case was in his cover sheet, and the cover sheet—the entire cover sheet was before the Board at the time.

Q. Did it include Government's Exhibit No. 2, which you have before you.

A. Yes; it did.

Q. And Government's Exhibit No. 3, which is his physical examination? A. It did.

Q. Did it include Government's Exhibit No. 4, which is the form of the conscientious objector?

A. Yes; it did.

Q. And did it include Government's Exhibit No. 5, which is the letter and attached document which have just been admitted into evidence?

A. Yes, sir; it did.

Q. Was any consideration given to the question of classifying the defendant Conway as in 4-D?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what discussion was had on that particular question? [30]

A. Well, 4-D is a classification given to a minister, and the defendant claimed that he was a minister of the Jehovah Witnesses. At that time we had a list in our office that was furnished us by our headquarters and to our headquarters from the National Headquarters, a list showing all the ministers of the Jehovah Witness Sect, and that list was furnished by the Jehovah Witnesses themselves to the National Headquarters, and upon checking that list we could not find Mr. Conway's name on it as being a minister, so, therefore, the Board denied him—that is, denied his plea as that of a minister, and put him in Class 4-E because he did not appear on their list as a minister.

Q. Class 4-E is the classification of a conscientious objector?

A. That is. They recognized that he was a conscientious objector and they put him in that class.

Q. After the defendant had been classified in 4-E did you see him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where did you see him?

A. He came into the office.

Q. Do you remember what date it was, approximately? A. No, I don't.

Q. After he had been classified 4-E did you send him a notice. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Of his classification? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was it subsequent to the time when you mailed him that notice that he came in?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that would be about when, to the best of your recollection?

A. Well, I'd have to check up to see what date we mailed that. It was some time after his classification as 4-E.

(A book record was furnished the witness)

The Witness: We mailed him his classification card on October 29th, 1941, and it was on or about the 7th day of November that he was in the office again.

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

Q. And did you have any conversation with him at that time?

A. Yes. He came in and stated that he wished to appeal, make an appeal from his classification.

Q. And directing your attention to the last part of the page on the questionnaire there, does his signature appear thereon. A. Yes, it does.

Q. And was it signed in your presence?

A. It was, yes.

Q. Will you read the part appearing immediately above his signature?

A. It is "Appeal to Board of Appeal. I hereby appeal from the classification by the Local Board in Class 4, Sub-division E. 11-7-41." The signature of the person appealing: "Jarmon T. Conway."

Mr. Walsh: May this be marked as an exhibit?

(The document was marked as Government's exhibit 6 for identification).

Mr. Walsh: Q. I hand you Government's Exhibit No. 6. for identification, and ask you if they are a portion of the records of your Local Board in this case? A. Yes; they are.

Mr. Walsh: I offer them in evidence.

Mr. Chester: No objection.

(The documents were received as Government's Exhibit 6 in evidence)

Being as follows:

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

GOVERNMENT'S EXHIBIT No. 6
IN EVIDENCE

“Phoenix, Arizona, Route 11, Box 1170, November
7, 1941.

Selective Service Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona.

Dear Sir:

I, Jarmon Thomas Conway, desire to appeal from my classification of 4E and wish to be properly classed as I suggested in my questionnaire, as that of an Ordained minister D4. I should like to call to your attention that Section XXX, paragraph 385 Vol. 3, particular paragraph 5 in which according to General Hershey, I should be classed as 4D.

As new evidence I present a copy of consolation magazine of July 9, 1941, of which I call your attention pages 22 and 25.

Asking your cooperation on this matter that I might enjoy my full rights.

Respectfully yours,

JARMON T. CONWAY.”

And attached to the letter was:

“Phoenix, Arizona, Route 11 Box 1170, November
19, 1841.

I, Thomas Jarmon Conway, as one of Jehovah's Witnesses, claim exemption from training and service and the classification of 4D as a duly ordained minister of religion under section five D, Selective Training and Service Act 1940 paragraph 360 selective service and [32] which reads as follows: (See paper inclosed)

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

I should have classification 4D according to the facts and statements that I have sent the local draft board Glendale, Arizona. As I go from door to door, street magazine distribution, and also have part in Model Bible studies I should have the classification 4-D. Further proof is cited from the Scriptures: "The spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek he hath sent me to bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of prisons to them that are bound; to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord and the day of vengeance of our God and to comfort all that mourn" (Isa. 61:1&2) also "This gospel of the Kingdom must be preached unto all nations as a witness and then shall the end come" Matt 24:14. I have kept nothing back from you that was profitable unto you, but have showed you and taught you publicly and from house to house (Acts 20:20) Signed by Jarmon T. Conway. Subscribed and sworn to before Adam Abet, Notary Public.

And to which letter was also attached:

Four pages of printed matter designated as Vol III Opinion No. 14, National Headquarters Selective Service System: Subject Ministerial status of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Signed by Lewis B. Hershey, Deputy Director, dated June 12, 1941."

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

And Witness Riordan thereafter testified as follows:

Mr. Walsh: Q. I believe you testified awhile ago, Mr. Riordan, that you had checked a list of the ministers of Jehovah's Witnesses in your office at Glendale? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you on behalf of the Board, make any further investigation as to whether or not the defendant Conway was on any list of ministers of the sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses?

A. Yes; I did.

Q. What did you do in that regard?

A. Well, I thought maybe that there might be a revised list or there might be a later list that his name would appear on, so I called our State Headquarters to ask them whether or not they had a list down there of—a revised list of Jehovah Witness ministers, and asked them to check their list to ascertain whether or not Jarmon Thomas Conway was on that list, listed as a minister.

Q. Did you receive any report from your State Headquarters in that regard?

A. I did, yes, sir.

Mr. Walsh: May this be marked? [33]

(The document was marked as Government's Exhibit 7 for identification)

Mr. Walsh: Q. I hand you Government's Exhibit 7 for identification and ask you if that is the report which you received?

A. Yes; that is the report that I received from our State Headquarters.

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

Q. And this is a part of the Local Board's file in relation to this defendant? A. Yes; it is.

Mr. Walsh: I offer it in evidence.

Mr. Chester: Well, your Honor, I object to this particular letter here as immaterial. The question qualifying a man, whether he is a minister or not does not depend whether his name is shown on the list. In accordance with your Exhibit No. 6, Opinion No. 14 of the Selective Service Board, there is nothing in that opinion that shows a man has to appear on that list.

Mr. Walsh: It certainly goes, your Honor, to the question as to whether or not the Board gave him a hearing and what the Board attempted to do in order to decide the thing fairly.

The Court: There would have to be some way of determining whether a man is a minister. Everyone selected under the Selective Service Act would say, "I am a minister, I don't have to go to war", and that would end it.

Mr. Chester: There is nothing in here that says a man is not a minister.

Mr. Walsh: Maybe the court should see the letter.

The Court: Well, it depends on somebody else other than the individual to determine whether he is a minister or not. I say, anybody selected under the Act would say, "I am a minister," and that would end it. It wouldn't make any sense. It may be received.

Mr. Chester: Exception:

(The document was received as Government's Exhibit 7 in evidence).

EVIDENCE

(Being a letter from A. M. Tuthill, State Director
Selector service, to J. S. Brazill, Chairman, Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona; and reads as follows:

“Answering your telephoned request of November 15, 1941, the name of Jarmon Thomas Conway does not appear in the official list of Jehovah's Witnesses known as “Bethel Family” and as “Pioneers” as furnished this office by National Headquarters,
Selective Service System” [34]

Thereafter Witness Riordan testified as follows:

Mr. Walsh: Q. Mr. Riordan, after the defendant
Conway had filed with the Board notice of appeal that you have identified, was his file thereafter forwarded to the Board of Appeals?

A. It was, yes, sir.

Q. Where is that board located?

A. That Board is located at 318 Professional Building. It was located at 318 Profession Building at that time.

Q. That is, the Board of Appeals of this State?

A. That is where we mailed the file. That is our State Headquarters.

Q. And what was mailed to the Board?

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

A. Everything in the man's cover sheet.

Q. Including all of the letters, documents and records which you have introduced here as exhibits?

A. Everything pertaining to this man's case. Every note and memorandum that was made was in that cover sheet and everything was forwarded to the Board of Appeals.

Q. And did you thereafter receive the file back from the Board of Appeals? A. Yes; we did.

Q. Directing your attention to the last page of Government's Exhibit No. 2 in evidence, I will ask you if there appears thereon any endorsement made by the State Board of Appeals?

A. Yes, there are just—

Q. (Interrupting) And would you read that, please?

A. It says: "Minutes of Action by Board of Appeal. The Board of Appeal classifies the registrant in class 4, sub-division E, by the following vote: Ayes 5, Noes none. January 23, 1942. Blaine B. Shimmel, Chairman."

Q. Did you thereafter notify the defendant Conway concerning the continuance of his classification under Class 4-E? A. Yes, we did.

Q. How did you so notify him?

A. By a card. There is a card that we have that states on it that you are continued in Class 4-E by the Board of Appeal—by vote of five to nothing, and that is mailed to his address notifying him.

Q. And did you notify the National Headquarters

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

that the defendant Conway had been continued in Class 4-E? [35]

A. Well, we didn't notify him that he had been continued in Class 4-E. We notified them that he was in Class 4-E.

Mr. Walsh: May this be marked, please?

(The document was marked as Government's Exhibit 8 for identification).

Mr. Walsh: Q. I hand you Government's Exhibit No. 8 for identification, and ask if that is part of the records of your Board in this case?

A. Yes; that is.

Q. And can you tell us how it was received by the Board?

A. Well, D.S.S. Form 48 was made up by our Board notifying—it is a conscientious objector's report. This report is made, as I say, by our Board, and we mail it to the—our State Headquarters, and they, in turn, mail it to the National Headquarters. Form 49 is from the National Headquarters of the Selective Service System at Washington, D. C. It is an assignment to work of National importance. They assigned the registrant to a civilian public service camp and they—in that—this assignment they give us the camp that the registrant is to be assigned to, the place that the camp is, that and the date and hour that the man is to report to that camp.

Q. And was this received by your office from the State Headquarters?

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

A. It was received by our office from the State Headquarters.

Mr. Walsh: I offer it in evidence.

Mr. Chester: No objection.

(The document was received as Government's Exhibit 8 in evidence)

And is as follows:

GOVERNMENT'S EXHIBIT No. 8 IN EVIDENCE

Assignment to Work of National Importance.

(Dated April 17, 1942, Registrant Jarmon Thomas Conway, assigned to work of national importance by order of Local Board will be delivered to: Camp Director of Civilian Public Service Camp No. 31, at Placerville, Eldorado County, California, on May 15, 1942.

Signed by Lewis B. Hershey, Director."

to which was attached carbon copy of Conscientious Objector report.

Showing Jarmon Thomas Conway, Classification IV-E,

Order No. 1938, Race White Age 22, occupation Nurseryman, Church affiliation Jehovah's Witnesses. In case of emergency notify: Frank M. Richardson, Relationship Brother-in-law- [36] Route 11, Box 1170 Phoenix, Arizona, Date November 1, 1941.

And thereafter Witness Riordan testified further:

Mr. Walsh: Q. Mr. Riordan, I hand you Government's Exhibit No. 9 for identification, and ask you if that is a part of the records of your Local Board?

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

A. Yes; it is.

Q. It is apparently a copy?

A. This is a copy of D.S.S. Form 50, which is an order to report for work of National importance.

Mr. Walsh: I offer it in evidence.

Mr. Chester: No objection.

(The document was received as Government's Exhibit 9 in evidence)

Which Exhibit was as follows:

GOVERNMENT'S EXHIBIT 9 IN EVIDENCE

Order to Report for Work of National Importance.

(Signed by J. F. Brazill, dated May 4, 1942, to Jarmon Thomas Conway, stating that he had been assigned to Civilian Public Service #31Camp located at Placerville, California. That you will therefore report to the LocalBoard named above at 9:30 a.m. on the 14th day of May, 1942)

Thereafter Witness Riordan testified as follows:

Mr. Walsh: Q. Do you know what was done with the original of Government's Exhibit 9 in evidence, Mr. Riordan?

A. The original of that order to report was mailed to the defendant, Mr. Conway.

Mr. Walsh: Gentlemen, I will read you Government's Exhibit No. 9 in evidence.

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

(Government's Exhibit 9 in evidence was read to the jury)

Mr. Walsh: Q. After the original of Government's Exhibit No. 9 had been mailed to the defendant Conway, did you see him.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when?

A. It was on the 14th day of May, 1941. [37]

Q. And where? A. I saw him at our office.

Q. And did you have any have any conversation with him at that time? A. I did.

Q. Who else was present besides the defendant and yourself?

A. Mrs. Stoddard, my clerk, was present, and I don't recall if anyone else was in the office or not.

Q. What was that conversation?

A. Mr. Conway said to me that he was not going to go to this camp. He said, "I refuse to go."

Q. And what else was said at that time?

A. I stated to him—I said "Then, do you want to go to the Army?" And he says "No, I won't go to the Army," and I said, "Well, what do you want to do?" He said, "I don't want to do anything." I told him "all right you just remain seated there." I had several other men that were going to camp. I think there were about five or six altogether, so I told Mr. Conway to remain seated, and I went across the street to the bus station and arranged for transportation for these other men on the Santa Fe Bus that was leaving that morning for Placer, and

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

I came back to the office, and Mr. Conway was still sitting there, and about that time the bus, the Santa Fe Bus, pulled up and these other men were all ready, ready to go, so I said, "Well, fellows," I said, "The bus is here." I said, "Let's go," and I turned to Mr. Conway and I said, "Now, Mr. Conway, this is your last chance." I said, "Do you still refuse to go to this civilian camp?" And he said, "Yes, I do," he said, "I am not going", I said, "all right, you just remain seated till I get back," so I took the other men there and gave the leader of the group the transportation, and I gave him the meal tickets providing meals for them while they were en route to camp, put them on the bus and when the bus pulled out, I went back to the office, and Mr. Conway was still there, so I asked Mr. Conway if he would come with me, and I—so he did, he came out and we got in my car, and I came in to the Phoenix here and came to the United States Attorney and reported the fact that he refused to go, to the United States Attorney, Mr. Flynn.

Q. What did you do with the defendant thereafter?

A. Then I took the defendant back to Glendale and told him that he could go wherever he wished to go, that we would turn him loose, but to keep us advised as to his address. We wanted to know where he was at all times, that any time he changed his mailing address he was to advise us. I told him he was a free man, he could do as he pleased. That is all.

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

Q. Mr. Riordan, do you, as Clerk of Local Board No. 6, have the custody of what is known as the classification record? [38] A. I do.

Q. And can you tell us generally what that record is?

A. That record is a record of each registrant in our Board placed there in numerical order according to the man's order number. Each man's name, age and race appears in that record, as I say in numerical order, starting with Order No. 1 on through down to the larger order number.

Q. And can you locate for us in the classification record the record of this particular defendant?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what page is it on?

A. It appears on page 62 of the classification record.

Q. And on what line?

A. It appears on the 15th line down from the top.

Q. Following the number 1938?

A. Following order No. 1938.

Q. Who made the entries, all of the entries following that No. 1938? A. I did.

Q. And are they correct and accurate entries of the transactions which they purport to record?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were they made at the time that the actions were taken? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you made a true and correct copy of that record as pertains to this defendant's case?

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

A. Yes; I have.

Q. And is this such a record (showing document to witness)?

A. Yes, it is.

Mr. Walsh: We offer it in evidence.

Mr. Chester: May I ask Mr. Riordan a question before it is admitted?

Q. Mr. Riordan, have you any erasures that appear on the original record there?

A. No, there is no erasure appearing, Mr. Chester.

Mr. Chester: No objection.

(The document was received as Government's Exhibit No. 10 in evidence)

And is as follows:

GOVERNMENT'S EXHIBIT No. 10
IN EVIDENCE

1. Order No. 1938.
2. Name of Registrant. Jarmon Thomas Conway.
3. Serial No. 1817.
4. Age 21.
5. Race White.
9. Date questionnaire mailed 5-20-41.
11. Date questionnaire returned 6-4-41.
13. Classification IV E.
14. Date notice to appear for physical examination mailed 10-16-41.
15. Date registrant appeared for Physical examination 10-25-41.

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.)

20. Date of appeal to Board of appeal 11-7-41.
21. Date of Forwarding registrants record to appeal Board 11-27-31.
22. Date Notice of Board of appeals decision mailed by local Board 2-3-42.

27. Remarks: Refused to go to camp 5-14-42.
29. Order No. 1938."

Thereafter Witness Riordan testified as follows:
 Mr. Walsh: Q. From Government's Exhibit 10, in evidence Mr. Riordan, can you explain to us what the various entries therein mean?

A. In the first column the order number, the man's order number appears, which is 1938. That is followed by the name of the registrant, Jarmon Thomas Conway, followed by serial number 1817; age 21; race, white; date questionnaire was mailed was 5-29-41; date questionnaire returned was 6-4-41; his classification, which is 4-E; date notice to appear for physical examination mailed was 10-16-41; the date the registrant appeared for physical examination was 10-25-41; date classification of Local Board mailed to registrant was 10-29-41; date of appeal to Board of Appeal was 11-7-41; date notice of Board of Appeal's decision mailed by Local [40] Board was 2-3-42; date notice of continuance of classification mailed 2-3-42; date order to report for induction was May 4-42; time fixed for registrant to report for transportation to induction station was 5-14-42 at nine-thirty, A.M.; and under "remarks" is "Refused to go to camp on May 14th, 1942" That is followed again by his Order number 1938.

Mr. Walsh: That is all.

Thereupon the witness, Riordan, testified further on

Redirect Examination:

Mr. Walsh: Q. Mr. Riordan, I show you a part of Government's exhibit No. 5 in evidence, about counsel's question and ask you whose signature appears on the bottom of it.

A. Jarmon T. Conway, Route 11, Box 1170, Phoenix, Arizona.

Q. And the name of J. F. Rutherford is engraved or or printed on there, is it not?

A. Yes, it says, "Watch tower Bible & Tract Society, J. F. Rutherford, President." That is printed on there.

Mr. Walsh: That is all.

Thereupon the witness,

JAMES STOKELY

was called and sworn on behalf of the Government and testified as follows:

Mr. Walsh:

A. I am acting as Clerk of the Board of Appeals, Selective Service.

(Testimony of James Stokely.)

Q. I hand you Government's Exhibit No. 11 for identification, and ask you if that is your signature? A. That is my signature.

Q. And I will ask you if that letter accompanied the file when it was returned to the Local Board at Glendale? A. Yes, it did.

Mr. Walsh: I offer it in evidence.

Mr. Chester: Your Honor, I object to this being offered in evidence due to the fact that it is immaterial and has nothing whatsoever to do, so far as I can see, with the man's classification as a minister.

The Court: Well, he was not classified as a minister. It may be received.

Mr. Chester: Exception.

(The document was received as Government's Exhibit 11 in Evidence) [41]

Being as follows:

GOVERNMENT'S EXHIBIT No. 11
IN EVIDENCE

(Being a letter from James Stokeley, Clerk Board of appeals, Selective Service System to Chairman Maricopan County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona, returning the records in connection with the appeal of Jarmon Thomas Conway, and affirming the classification of registrant in Class IV-E.)

(Testimony of James Stokely.)

Thereafter Witness Stokeley testified as follows:

Mr. Walsh: Q. That letter was written, Mr. Stokeley, in the capacity as Clerk of the Board?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And upon the authority of the Board?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And upon the authority of the Board?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Walsh: That is all.

Thereupon the witness,

BLAINE B. SHIMMEL

was sworn and testified on behalf of the Government, and testified as follows:

Mr. Walsh:

A. I am chairman of that Board.

Q. Were you such in the month of November, 1941? A. I was.

Q. And you have been continuously to this date?

A. I have.

Q. I hand you Government's Exhibit No. 2 in evidence and ask you if that is your signature that appears thereon? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And if this is your signature here, (indicating document)?

A. Both signatures designated as Chairman of the Board of Appeals are my signatures.

Q. Were you present at the meeting of the (Testimony of Blaine B. Shimmel.)

Board of Appeals when the case of the defendant Jarmon Thomas Conway was considered?

A. I was. [42]

Q. And the minutes of the actions taken by the Board as shown here; that is, classifying the registrant in Class 4-E by a vote of five to nothing, that was the action taken at that meeting?

A. That was.

That thereupon the defendant was sworn and testified as a witness in his own behalf as follows:

Testimony of

JARMON THOMAS CONWAY

Mr. Chester:

Q. Will you state your name for the Court, Mr. Conway? A. Jarmon Thomas Conway.

Q. This questionnaire which is in evidence before the Court is the one that you signed?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were later ordered to report for transportation and service in the—under the civilian direction, is that correct?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Now, did you at any time after you were classified in 4-E appear before the Board, the Glendale Board? A. Yes, I did.

Q. Well, did you have any conversation with them?

A. I was asking to put in an appeal. I was permitted to sign on the back of my questionnaire for an appeal.

(Testimony of Jarmon Thomas Conway.)

Q. And were you ever present when they confirmed that appeal?

Mr. Walsh: I object to that as entirely immaterial, your Honor. No requirement that he be present; no showing that he ever requested permission.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Chester: Well, that goes to the matter of intent, your Honor. It is a question of fact whether he did or not.

The Court: The objection is sustained.

Mr. Chester: Exception.

Q. And you put in your appeal? A. Yes.

[43]

Q. And was that acted upon, to your knowledge?

A. It was acted on. I got a card some time later from the—that it had been overruled and I still had the same classification.

Q. Did you attempt any further appeal?

A. Well, not at the same time, and then I went to the State Director of Headquarters and tried to put in an appeal there.

Q. State Director? Was it at the State Director of the Selective Service?

A. Well, yes, I suppose so.

Q. And did you request further appeal from the Appeal Board.

A. No, not—

Q. (Interrupting) Did you request a further appeal? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Jarmon Thomas Conway.)

Mr. Walsh: I object to that, your Honor. It is immaterial. He testified he did appeal and it was acted upon.

The Court: He can appeal to the President, can't he.

Mr. Walsh: Not on this type of case.

The Court: Well, I don't know.

Mr. Chester: Well, it is material to show that the man appealed as far as he could go, that he pursued all the remedies that were available to him.

The Court: Well, the question I want answered is whether he did enter an appeal from this order of the State Appeal Board. If he didn't, we are wasting time.

Mr. Chester: The Selective Service Rules provide that you should go to the State Director for further appeal, and the rules and laws covering the Selective Service System——

Mr. Walsh: (interrupting) Do you have those regulations?

Mr. Chester: We might call Mr. Shimmel, an expert witness.

(a document was handed to the Court by Mr. Walsh)

The Court: Is this the latest regulation?

Mr. Walsh: I am advised that it is, your Honor. [44]

Mr. Chester: I believe the section is 628.1, your Honor.

(The document was read by the Court)

(Testimony of Jarmon Thomas Conway.)

The Court: Well, the appeal can only be taken in the event one or more members of the Board dissent from the classification.

Mr. Walsh: The record here is that it was unanimous.

Mr. Chester: That is the Court's ruling?

The Court: The objection is sustained.

Mr. Chester: Exception.

Mr. Chester: Q. Are you a minister, Mr. Conway?

Mr. Walsh: I object to that, your Honor, it is immaterial, incompetent and irrelevant.

The Court: The objection is sustained.

Mr. Chester: What was the ruling, your Honor?

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Chester: Q. How long have you been a member of Jehovah's Witnesses, Mr. Conway?

A. Ever since 1939.

Q. Since December, 1939? A. Yes.

Mr. Chester: I'd like to have these marked in evidence as one exhibit.

(Thereupon the documents were marked as Defendant's Exhibit A for identification)

Which documents consisted of the following:

DEFENDANT'S EXHIBIT A FOR IDENTIFICATION

(Being 50 affidavits, signed by residents of Arizona, all duly subscribed and sworn to, to the effect that Jarmon Conway was a member of Jehovah's Witnesses and is regarded by af-

(Testimony of Jarmon Thomas Conway.)

fians and others of the same faith as a duly ordained minister in the same manner in which regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions are ordinarily regarded)

Thereupon the following proceedings were had:

Mr. Chester: Q. I hand you these affidavits, Mr. Conway, and ask you if you know what they are?

Mr. Walsh: I object to that, the affidavits speak for themselves, your Honor.

The Court: He may answer. [45]

Mr. Chester: Q. Do you know what they are?

A. Yes, affidavits signed by——

The Court: (Interrupting) That is all right, they are affidavits.

Mr. Chester: And did you have these executed by the persons that signed them, yourself?

A. Yes.

Mr. Walsh: Are you offering them?

Mr. Chester: I am offering them.

Mr. Walsh: We object to them, your Honor, on the ground that they are irrelevant and immaterial and have no bearing on any issues in this case.

The Court: The objection is sustained.

Mr. Chester: Exception.

Thereafter the following proceedings were had:

Mr. Chester: Your Honor, at this time I would like to ask for a ruling of the Court. We have some fifteen or twenty witnesses that would testify——

Mr. Walsh: (interrupting) Just one moment.

(Testimony of Jarmon Thomas Conway.)

Perhaps this should be offered in the absence of the jury.

The Court: Oh, all they will testify to is that he is a minister, and you will object to it and I will sustain the objection. What is the use of sending the jury out? All right, is that all?

Mr. Chester: That is all.

The Court: You may proceed with the arguments.

(Thereupon the opening argument was presented to the jury by counsel for plaintiff).

Mr. Chester: At this time I should like to move for a directed verdict, for the reason—in favor of the defendant, for the reason that the Board as has been admitted by this Board here, found him fit for general service, which automatically puts him into the class that should be inducted in non-combatant service in the armed forces. Instead of following the rules and regulations of the Selective Service Board as is set forth, they ordered him to a conscientious objector's camp.

The Court: The motion is denied. Go ahead with your argument. [46]

That thereafter on said 9th day of April, 1943, before the Court had instructed the jury, defendant made and filed the following requested instructions to the jury.

(“Title of Court and Cause)

DEFENDANT’S REQUESTED
INSTRUCTIONS.

1. The Selective Service Board cannot bind a registrant by an arbitrary classification against all of the substantial information before it as to his proper classification. Classifications by such agency must, under the powers given it by Congress be honestly made, and a classification made in the teeth of all substantial evidence before such agency is not honest but arbitrary.

2. An individual cannot be deprived of his rights of freedom of person even in war time, except through machinery which guarantees the fundamentals of “Due Process of Law” and a classification by a Selective Service Board not supported by any evidence is arbitrary and constitutes an abuse of discretion depriving defendant of due process of law and his right to freedom of religion guaranteed under the Constitution of the United States.

3. As to conscientious objectors, it is apparent that they may be required to serve in noncombatant work either by induction into the land or naval forces or by assignment to work under civilian direction. If a conscientious objector is found by the Board to be that of one whose claim that he is a conscientious objector has been sustained by the Board for “induction” into the land or naval forces for noncombatant service, he cannot be required by the Board to be assigned to serve under civilian direction, and violates no duty required of him under the Act if he fails to report for such service.

4. The provision that one who shall "knowingly" fail or neglect to perform duty required by Selective Service Act shall be subject to certain penalties implies wilful knowledge and a specific intent and defendants in selective service cases are permitted to give their reasons for failure to obey, as going to intent.

W. H. CHESTER,
Attorney for Defendant,
412 Phx. Natl. Bank Bldg.
Phoenix, Arizona."

(Which instructions were not given). [47]

Thereafter, after argument, the Court instructed the jury in part as follows:

You are instructed that even if a Local Draft Board acts in an arbitrary and capricious manner, or denies a registrant a full and fair hearing, nevertheless the registrant must comply with the Board's order. The registrant may not disobey the Board's orders and then defend his dereliction by collaterally attacking the Board's administrative acts. In other words, the registrant may not lawfully disobey the Local Draft Board's order to report for induction and then offer as a defense for his failure to comply with the Board's order, some arbitrary or capricious Act of the Board in determining his classification and issuing the order.

Any Exceptions? I have refused your requested instructions.

Mr. Chester: I take exceptions to the Court's refusal to give the defendant's requested instructions, and I also take exception to the instruction wherein the Court makes the statement on the decision of the Selective Service Board as being final except where an appeal is taken, and to the instruction that the defendant cannot offer as defense that the order of the Board is arbitrary and capricious, as that violates the due process of law and the provisions of the Constitution.

The defendant presents the foregoing as his proposed Bill of Exceptions in the above entitled matter, and prays that the same may be settled and allowed.

Dated this 9 day of June, 1943.

Attorney for Defendant.

The foregoing Bill of Exceptions is correct and may be settled and allowed by the Court.

The foregoing Bill of Exceptions is correct and is hereby settled, allowed and approved.

[Title of District Court and Cause.]

ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR

Comes now the defendant above named, by his attorney, W. H. Chester, and says that subsequent to the institution of the above entitled cause and during the trial thereof on the 9th day of April, 1943, the Court committed manifest error in the admission of evidence and in the rulings upon motions of the defendant, and for his assignments of error specifies the following:

I.

That on the 17th day of Feby., 1943, the defendant moved to quash the indictment upon the grounds and for the reasons that said information does not state facts sufficient to constitute a crime or offense and that the indictment failed to state that the action of the Glendale, Arizona local selective service board acted in accordance with the rules and regulations of the selective service system or that it acted in accordance with the Selective Service Act and the provisions thereunder. That the indictment failed to show that the defendant was properly classified or that the orders of the board were in accordance with the rules, regulations and laws pertaining to the Selective Service System. That the defendant herein had been heretofore tried before the District Court of the United States for the District of Arizona for the same offense charged in the indictment and that indictment under this cause constitutes double jeopardy. That the Honorable Court erred in denying said motion to quash, which order was entered on the 17th day of February, 1943. [50]

II.

The Court erred in overruling defendant's objection to Exhibit number 7 in evidence to which defendant excepted, said Government Exhibit Number 7 being a letter from A. M. Tuthill, State Director Selective Service of the State of Arizona to J. S. Brizill, Chairman Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona, as follows:

Answering your telephoned request of November 15, 1941, the name of Jarmon Thomas Conway does not appear in the official list of Jehovah's Witnesses known as "Bethel Family" and as "Pioneers" as furnished this office by National Headquarters, Selective Service System.

This letter, it is contended by the defendant is immaterial, and prejudicial to the defendant in that under Selective Service Opinion Number 14 (see Government's Exhibit Number 6) it is provided that in regards to members of Jehovah's Witnesses, "It is impossible to make a general determination with respect to these persons as to their relationship to Jehovah's Witnesses. Whether or not they stand in the same relationship as regular or duly ordained ministers in other religions must be determined in each individual case by the Local Board, based on whether or not they devote their lives in the furtherance of the beliefs of Jehovah's Witnesses, whether or not they perform functions which are normally performed by regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions, and finally, whether or not they are regarded by other Jehovah's Witnesses in the same manner in which regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions are ordinarily regarded? As may be seen from above opinion, each case must stand upon its own merits and a statement as to whether or not the defendant's name appeared on the roll of "Bethel Family" or "Pioneers" would not have a conclusive bearing on the question as to whether or not the defendant was a "minister". [51]

III.

That the Honorable Court erred in overruling defendant's objection to the receipt in evidence of Government's Exhibit No. 11 in evidence, which purports to be a letter from James Stokeley, Clerk of the Board of Appeals, Selective Service System to the Chairman of Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona, returning records in connection with the appeal of the defendant herein and affirming classification of registrant in Class IV-E for the reason that said letter was immaterial due to the fact that the defendant was denied a proper hearing as to his qualifications and as a minister and any purported decision based on a file of defendant's case where no hearing had ever been granted to him regarding his classification either before the Local Board or the Board of Appeals would be and is incompetent, and immaterial.

IV.

That the Honorable Court erred in sustaining the Government's objections to the introduction in evidence of Defendant's Exhibit A being some 47 affidavits of Jehovah's Witnesses affirming the fact that the affiants regarded the defendant as a minister for the reason that such affidavits would tend to prove that the order of the Maricopa County Local Board No. 6 to appear for work under civilian direction was an unlawful order in that it violated the rules of the Selective Service System by wrong classification of a registrant and by the issuance of orders pursuant to such unlawful classification. Admission of said affidavits in evidence would tend to disprove intent to violate any lawful order of the Maricopa County Local Board No. 6 issued to the defendant. It is the contention of the defendant that the Court is not bound to convict and punish one for disobedience of an unlawful order by whomsoever made. [52]

V.

The Honorable Court erred in denying the motion of the defendant for a directed verdict, said directed verdict having been requested by the defendant for the reason that the Maricopa County Local Board No. 6 of Glendale, Arizona had found the defendant fit for general service, which automatically put him into the class that should, under Selective Service Regulations, place him as an inductee in non-combatant service in the armed forces. The said Local Board, instead of following rules and regulations of the Selective Service Board, ordered the defendant to a conscientious objectors' camp. It has been held heretofore by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit that a conscientious objector, found fit for "general service" is required to obey only an order for induction for service into the land or naval forces and that a Local Board has no power to "assign" such registrant to work of national importance under civilian direction and order him to report to such authorities. The Circuit Court held that, "It is no violation of Section 11 of the Act to fail to obey an order which the Board had no power to make."

VI.

That the Honorable Court erred in refusing to give to the jury the defendant's requested instructions and further erred in the court's instruction to the jury to the effect that the defendant cannot offer as a defense that the order of the Board is arbitrary and capricious, this latter instruction patently violates the constitutional provisions guaranteeing due process of law and the right of freedom of the person and freedom of religion. Defendant duly excepted to the Court's failure to grant his requested instructions and to the Court's granting or giving instruction depriving defendant of defense where the Board acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner. The above assignments of error are hereby respectfully submitted this 9th day of June, 1943.

PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

The appellant, Jarmon Thomas Conway, entered a plea of not guilty upon his arraignment.

TRIAL

The cause herein came on regularly for trial in the District Court of Arizona before the Honorable Dave W. Ling presiding with a jury on the 9th day of April, 1943, at Phoenix, Arizona.

STATEMENT

The appellant, Jarmon Thomas Conway, is a member of Jehovah's witnesses, a Christian Society engaged in the teaching and preaching of the Bible and is opposed to war. The said appellant, Jarmon Thomas Conway, registered under the Selective Service Act of 1940, being Title 50, U. S. C. A.-Ch. 301-311, on June 3, 1941. He was thereafter classified as IV-E by the Local Selective Service Board at Glendale, Arizona on October 28, 1941 from which classification appellant appealed to the Board of Appeals which on January 23, 1942 classified the appellant in Class IV, subdivision E. (T.R.22). The Transcript of Record (T.R. page 22) that under the heading "Minutes of Other Action" that on November 25, 1941 the Board of Appeals found that Appellant should not be classed in IV (other than IV-E Class III, Class II or Class I-H. The appellant was thereafter ordered to report for work of national importance under civilian direction.

Thereafter, and pursuant to Selective Service Rules and Regulations (Sec. 628.1) requested the State Director to enter a further appeal (T.R.57), which was denied. The questionnaire of appellant (Government's Exhibit No. 2 in Evidence (T.R.21) show that appellant stated in said questionnaire as follows: "I am a minister of religion." "I do customarily serve as a minister." "I have been a minister of Jehovah's witnesses since October, 1938." Such statements clearly showing that the appellant claimed ministerial status.

Government's Exhibit No. 4 in evidence discloses that appellant was opposed to armed conflict and that he had preached the Gospel of the Kingdom of Jehovah God from door to door since October, 1938. (T.R.29) That he had given public expression since engaging in this work and had gone from door to door in Phoenix and vicinity preaching the word of Jehovah and distributing written Bible prophesy. (T.R.30) That he was a member of Jehovah's witnesses. (T.R.31).

Government's Exhibit No. 5 in evidence (T.R.34) discloses that appellant claimed that he should be properly classified in class IV-D (Regular Minister).

Government's Exhibit No. 6 (T.R.29-40) shows that appellant made further claim to classification IV-D and said exhibit sets forth sections of the Selective Service Act and Rules and Regulations of said Act providing for such classification. Government's Exhibit No. 6 further discloses that under "Opinion No. 14 of National Headquarters Selective Service System" the ministerial status of Jehovah's witnesses should be considered by Selective Service Boards in accordance with whatever status the other members of the society regarded the registrant. See Government Exhibit No. 6, Vol. III-Opinion No. 14-National Headquarters, Selective Service System.

Government's Exhibit No. 3 (T.R.-25) shows conclusively that the Glendale, Arizona Local Selective Service Board found appellant, Jarmon Thomas Conway, "Qualified for general military service IV-E" on October 25, 1941.

Subsequently and on May 21, 1942 the appellant was ordered to report to Induction Station on May 14, 1942. The appellant reported as per orders and refused to go to a conscientious objector's camp on May 14, 1942.

The appellant herein was subsequently indicted and tried for failure to obey orders of the Local Selective Service Board at Glendale, Arizona and was tried and found guilty in his first trial on November 17, 1942. This case was appealed to the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth District which case was docketed in said court on December 23, 1942 under No. 10332, and a reporter's transcript of said trial was filed in said case, said reporter's transcript being referred to later in this brief.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals on January 15, 1943 on motion of the District Attorney for the District of Arizona reversed the judgment of the District Court in cause 10332—Jarmon Thomas Conway vs. United States of America on authority of Robert Earl Hopper, appellant, vs. United States of America, appellee, No. 10,110, decided December 18, 1942 in U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth District.

The appellant, Jarmon Thomas Conway, was re-indicted and tried on the same charge in the instant case, found guilty, and this appeal follows conviction upon the charge as laid in the indictment.

SPECIFICATIONS OF ERROR

Appellant, Jarmon Thomas Conway, relies upon the Assignments of Error set forth under the appropriate specification to which they relate, which assignments are set forth in full under their separate specification. The separate specifications and questions involved are covered by the Assignments of Error as follows:

Specification Of Error No. I

The indictment is fatally defective because: (a) It does not state facts to constitute a crime or offense.

U. S. vs. Cruickshank, 92 U. S. 542;
U. S. vs. Britton, 107 U. S. 655;
Harris vs. U. S., 104 Fed (2nd) 41;
Kane vs. U. S., 120 Fed (2nd) 990;
Pettibone vs. U. S., 148 U. S. 197

(b) That the indictment failed to state that the action of the Glendale, Arizona Local Selective Service Board acted in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Selective Service System or that it acted in accordance with the Selective Service Act and the provisions thereunder. That the indictment failed to show that the appellant was properly classified or that the orders of the board were in accordance with the rules, regulations and laws pertaining to the Selective Service System.

U. S. vs. Cruickshank, 92 U. S. 542;
U. S. vs. Britton, 107 U. S. 655;
Harris vs. U. S., 104 Fed (2nd) 41;
Kane vs. U. S., 120 Fed (2nd) 990;
Pettibone vs. U. S., 148 U. S. 197.

(c) That the appellant had been tried before the District Court for this same offense and that indictment under this cause constitutes double jeopardy. This portion of the specification of error as it pertains to the indictment and claiming double jeopardy is waived.

Specification of Error No. II

The Court erred in overruling defendant's objection to Exhibit No. 7 in evidence to which defendant excepted, said Government Exhibit Number 7 being a letter from A. M. Tuthill, State Director of Selective Service of the State of Arizona to J. S. Brazill, Chairman Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona, as follows:

Answering your telephoned request of November 15, 1941, the name of Jarmon Thomas Conway does not appear in the official list of Jehovah's Witnesses known as "Bethel Family" and as "Pioneers" as furnished this office by National Headquarters, Selective Service System.

This letter, it is contended by the defendant is immaterial, and prejudicial to the defendant in that under Selective Service Opinion No. 14 (see Government's Exhibit Number 6) it is provided that in regards to members of Jehovah's Witnesses, "It is impossible to make a general determination with respect to these persons as to their relationship to Jehovah's Witnesses. Whether or not they stand in the same relationship as regular or duly ordained ministers in other religions must be determined in each individual case by the Local Board, based on whether or not they devote their lives in the furtherance of the beliefs of Jehovah's Witnesses, whether or not they perform functions which are normally performed by regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions, and finally, whether or not they are regarded by other Jehovah's Witnesses in the same manner in which regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions are ordinarily regarded. As may be seen from the above opinion, each case must stand upon its own merits and a statement as to whether or not the defendant's name appeared on the roll of "Bethel Family" or "Pioneers" would not have a conclusive bearing on the question as to whether or not the defendant was a "minister." (T.R.66-67).

Consequently admission of the Tuthill letter was prejudicial error and the statement therein contained when considered in light of "Opinion Number 14 of National Headquarters, Selective Service System" is immaterial.

The rules and regulations of the Selective Service System have been given the status of a law insofar as the courts are concerned and the National Headquarters's Opinion as to the ministerial status of Jehovah's Witnesses constitutes the rule of the Selective Service Boards. Hence a finding that appellant was not a minister because he was not on the "Pioneer" or "Bethel Family" list is clearly inadequate and an order based on such finding is invalid as the Local Selective Service Board failed to conform the law as set forth by rules and regulations binding them.

U. S. vs. Johnson, 126 Fed (2nd) 242.

Justice Jackson stated as follows: "I did not readily assume that, whatever may be the consequences of refusing to report for induction, court must convict and punish one for disobedience of an unlawful order by whomsoever made." See Page 922.

Specification of Error No. III

That the Honorable Court erred in overruling defendant's objection to the receipt in evidence of Government's Exhibit No 11 in evidence, which purports to be a letter from James Stokeley, Clerk of the Board of Appeals, Selective Service System to the Chairman of Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona, returning records in connection with the appeal of the defendant herein and affirming classification of registrant in Class IV-E for the reason that said letter was immaterial due to the fact that the defendant was denied a proper hearing as to his qualifications and as a minister and any purported decision based on a file of defendant's case where no hearing had ever been granted to him regarding his classification either before the Local Board or the Board of Appeals would be and is incompetent, and immaterial. (T.R.-67).

In connection with the above specification of error the following testimony was introduced on behalf of the Government during the trial of the cause. (See T.R. 53-54.)

(Testimony of James Stokeley).

Q. I hand you Government's Exhibit No. 11 for identification, and ask you if that is your signature.

A. That is my signature.

Q. And I will ask you if that letter accompanied the file when it was returned to the Local Board at Glendale.? A. Yes, it did.

Mr. Walsh: I offer it in evidence.

Mr. Chester: Your honor, I object to this being offered in evidence due to the fact that it is immaterial and has nothing whatsoever to do, so far as I can see, with the man's classification as a minister.

The Court: Well, he was not classified as a minister. It may be received.

Mr. Chester: Exception.

(The document was received as Government's Exhibit 11 in Evidence, being a letter from James Stokeley, Clerk Board of appeals, Selective Service System to Chairman Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona, returning the records in connection with the appeal of Jarmon Thomas Conway, and affirming the clasification of registrant in Class IV-E.)

Thereafter Witness Stokeley testified as follows:

Mr. Walsh: Q. That letter was written, Mr. Stokeley, in the capacity as Clerk of the Board?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And upon the authority of the Board?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Walsh: That is all.

This letter has no bearing on whether or not the appellant disobeyed an order of the draft board and in the absence of any proof of a hearing before the board, is self-serving as to the Government and prejudicial to appellant. There was never shown by the government that appellant was given a hearing and allowed to present evidence to support his contention that he was entitled to classification IV-D.

Specification of Error No. IV

That the Honorable Court erred in sustaining the Government's objections to the introduction in evidence of Defendant's Exhibit A being some 47 affidavits of Jehovah's Witnesses affirming the fact that the affiants regarded the defendant as a minister for the reason that such affidavits would tend to prove that the order of the Maricopa County Local Board No. 6 to appear for work under civilian direction was an unlawful order in that it violated the rules of the Selective Service System by wrong classification of a registrant and by the issuance of orders pursuant to such unlawful classification. Admission of said affidavits in evidence would tend to disprove intent to violate any lawful order of the Maricopa County Local Board No. 6 issued to the defendant. It is the contention of the defendant that the Court is not bound to convict and punish one for disobedience of an unlawful order by whomsoever made. (T.R.67-68).

(Testimony of Jarmon Thomas Conway). (T.R.60).

Thereupon the following proceedings were had:

Mr. Chester: Q. I hand you these affidavits, Mr. Conway, and ask you if you know what they are?

Mr. Walsh: I object to that, the affidavits speak for themselves, your Honor.

The Court: He may answer.

Mr. Chester: Q. Do you know what they are?

A. Yes, affidavits signed by—

The Court: (Interrupting) That is all right, they are affidavits.

Mr. Chester: And did you have these executed by the persons that signed them, yourself?

A. Yes.

Mr. Walsh: Are you offering them?

Mr. Chester: I am offering them.

Mr. Walsh: We object to them, your Honor, on the ground that they are irrelevant and immaterial and have no bearing on any issues in this case.

The Court: The objection is sustained.

Mr. Chester: Exception. (T.R.60).

It is further contention of appellant that admission of said affidavits would tend to prove that appellant was never allowed full and fair hearing before the local Selective Service Board No. 6, Glendale, Maricopa County, Arizona, or before the appeal board. No hearing was ever had where appellant was allowed to appear and produce evidence as to his correct classification. This is in violation of Article 5 of the Constitution of the United States and as construed and applied deprives appellant of liberty and property without due process of law.

Specification of Error No. V

The Honorable Court erred in denying the motion of the defendant for a directed verdict, said directed verdict having been requested by the defendant for the reason that the Maricopa County Local Board No. 6 of Glendale, Arizona had found the defendant fit for general service, which automatically put him into the class that should, under Selective Service Regulations, place him as an inductee in non-combatant service in the armed forces. The said Local Board, instead of following rules and regulations of the Selective Service Board, ordered the defendant to a conscientious objectors' camp. It has been held heretofore by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit that a conscientious objector, found fit for "general service" is required to obey only an order for induction for service into the land or naval forces and that a Local Board has no power to "assign" such registrant to work of national importance under civilian direction and order him to report to such authorities. The Circuit Court held that, "It is no violation of Section 311 of the Act to fail to obey an order which the Board had no power to make."

(Testimony of Jarmon Thomas Conway.) (T.R.61).

Mr. Chester: At this time I should like to move for a directed verdict, for the reason—in favor of the defendant, for the reason that the Board as has been admitted by this Board here, found him fit for general service, which automatically puts him into the class that should be inducted in non-combatant service in the armed forces. Instead of following the rules and regulations of the Selective Service Board as is set forth, they ordered him to a conscientious objectors' camp.

The Court: The motion is denied. Go ahead with your argument. (T.R.61).

Ref.:—Robert Earl Hopper vs. United States of America—United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth District—No. 10,110, Decided December 18th, 1942.

Specification of Error No. VI

That the Honorable Court erred in refusing to give to the jury the defendant's requested instructions and further erred in the court's instruction to the jury to the effect that the defendant cannot offer as a defense that the order of the Board is arbitrary and capricious, this latter instruction patently violates the constitutional provisions guaranteeing due process of law and the right of freedom of the person and freedom of religion. Defendant duly excepted to the Court's failure to grant his requested instructions and to the Court's granting or giving instruction depriving defendant of defense where the Board acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner. (T.R.69).

Requested instructions were as follows: (T.R.62-63).

1. The Selective Service Board cannot bind a registrant by an arbitrary classification against all of the substantial information before it as to his proper classification. Classifications by such agency must, under the powers given it by Congress be honestly made, and a classification made in the teeth of all substantial evidence before such agency is not honest but arbitrary.

2. An individual cannot be deprived of his rights of freedom of person even in war time, except through machinery which guarantees the fundamentals of "Due Process of Law" and a classification by a Selective Service Board not supported by any evidence is arbitrary and constitutes an abuse of discretion depriving defendant of due process of law and his right to freedom of religion guaranteed under the Constitution of the United States.

3. As to conscientious objectors, it is apparent that they may be required to serve in non-combatant work either by induction into the land or naval forces or by assignment to work under civilian direction. If a conscientious objector is found by the Board to be that of one whose claim that he is a conscientious objector has been sustained by the Board for "induction" into the land or naval forces for non-combatant service, he cannot be required by the Board to be assigned to serve under civilian direction, and violates no duty required of him under the Act if he fails to report for such service.

4. The provision that one who shall "knowingly" fail or neglect to perform duty required by Selective Service Act shall be subject to certain penalties implies wilful knowledge and a specific intent and defendants in selective service cases are permitted to give their reasons for failure to obey, as going to intent.

W. H. CHESTER,
Attorney for defendant,
412 Phoenix National Bank Bldg.
Phoenix, Arizona.

(Which instructions were not given).

Thereafter, after argument, the Court instructed the jury in part as follows:

You are instructed that even if a Local Draft Board acts in an arbitrary and capricious manner, or denies a registrant a full and fair hearing, nevertheless the registrant must comply with the Board's order. The registrant may not disobey the Board's orders and then defend his dereliction by collaterally attacking the Board's administrative acts. In other words, the registrant may not lawfully disobey the Local Draft Board's order, some arbitrary or capricious act of the Board in determining his classification and issuing the order.

Any Exceptions? I have refused your requested instructions.

Mr. Chester: I take exceptions to the Court's refusal to give the defendant's requested instructions, and I also take exception to the instructions wherein the Court makes the statement on the decision of the Selective Service Board as being final except where an appeal is taken, and to the instruction that defendant cannot offer as defense that the order of the Board is arbitrary and capricious, as that violates the due process of law and the provisions of the Constitution. (T.R.63-64).

ARGUMENT

Assignment of Error No. I

That on the 17th day of Feby., 1943, the defendant moved to quash the indictment upon the grounds and for the reasons that said information does not state facts sufficient to constitute a crime or offense and that the indictment failed to state that the action of the Glendale, Arizona local selective service board acted in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Selective Service System or that it acted in accordance with the Selective Service Act and the provisions thereunder. That the indictment failed to show that the defendant was properly classified or that the orders of the board were in accordance with the rules, regulations and laws pertaining to the Selective Service System. That the defendant herein had been heretofore tried before the District Court of the United States for the district of Arizona for the same offense charged in the indictment and that indictment under this cause constitutes double jeopardy. That the Honorable Court erred in denying said motion to quash, which order was entered on the 17th day of February, 1943. (T.R.65-66).

The indictment is fatally defective because: (a) The indictment failed to state that the action of the Glendale, Arizona Local Selective Service Board acted in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Selective Service System or that it acted in accordance with the Selective Service Act and the provisions thereunder. That the indictment failed to show that the appellant was properly classified or that the orders of the board were in accordance with the rules, regulations and laws pertaining to the Selective Service System.

Kane vs. U. S., 120 Fed (2nd) 990;

Pettibone vs. U. S., 148 U. S. 197.

(b) The appellant had been tried before the District Court for this same offense and that indictment under this cause constitutes double jeopardy. This portion of the assignment of error as it pertains to the indictment and claiming double jeopardy is waived.

Assignment of Error No. II

The Court erred in overruling defendant's objection to Exhibit number 7 in evidence to which defendant excepted, said Government Exhibit Number 7 being a letter from A. M. Tuthill, State Director Selective Service of the State of Arizona to J. S. Brazill, Chairman Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona, as follows:

Answering your telephoned request of November 15, 1941, the name of Jarmon Thomas Conway does not appear in the official list of Jehovah's Witnesses known as "Bethel Family" and as "Pioneers" as furnished this office by National Headquarters, Selective Service System.

This letter, it is contended by the defendant is immaterial, and prejudicial to the defendant in that under Selective Service Opinion Number 14 (see Government's Exhibit Number 6) it is provided that in regards to members of Jehovah's Witnesses, "It is impossible to make a general determination with respect to these persons as to their relationship to Jehovah's Witnesses. Whether or not they stand in the same relationship as regular or duly ordained ministers in other religions must be determined in each individual case by the Local Board, based on whether or not they devote their lives in the furtherance of the beliefs of Jehovah's Witnesses, whether or not they perform functions which are normally performed by regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions, and finally, whether or not they are regarded by other Jehovah's Witnesses in the same manner in which regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions are ordinarily regarded? As may be seen from above opinion, each case must stand upon its own merits and a statement as to whether or not the defendants name appeared on the roll of "Bethel Family" or "Pioneers" would not have a conclusive bearing on the question as to whether or not the defendant was a "minister". (T.R.66-67).

(Testimony of Thomas B. Riordan.) (T.R.41-43).

And Witness Riordan thereafter testified as follows:

Mr. Walsh: Q. I believe you testified a while ago, Mr. Riordan, that you had checked a list of the ministers of Jehovah's Witnesses in your office at Glendale? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you on behalf of the Board, make any further investigation as to whether or not the defendant Conway was on any list of ministers of the sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses?

A. Yes; I did.

Q. What did you do in that regard?

A. Well, I thought maybe that there might be a revised list or there might be a later list that his name would appear on, so I called our State Headquarters to ask them whether or not they had a list down there of—a revised list of Jehovah Witness ministers, and asked them to check their list to ascertain whether or not Jarmon Thomas Conway was on that list, listed as a minister.

Q. Did you receive any report from your State Headquarters in that regard?

A. I did, yes, sir.

Mr. Walsh: May this be marked?

(The document was marked as Government's Exhibit 7 for identification)

Mr. Walsh: Q. I hand you Government's Exhibit 7 for identification and ask you if that is the report which you received?

A. Yes; that is the report that I received from our State Headquarters.

Q. And this is part of the Local Board's file in relation to this defendant? A. Yes; it is.

Mr. Walsh: I offer it in evidence.

Mr. Chester: Well, your Honor, I object to this particular letter here as immaterial. The question qualifying a man, whether he is a minister or not does not depend whether his name is shown on the list. In accordance with your Exhibit No. 6, Opinion No. 14 of the Selective Service Board, there is nothing in that opinion that shows a man has to appear on that list.

Mr. Walsh: It certainly goes, your Honor, to the question as to whether or not the Board gave him a hearing and what the Board attempted to do in order to decide the thing fairly.

The Court: There would have to be some way of determining whether a man is a minister. Everyone selected under the Selective Service Act would say, "I am a minister, I don't have to go to war", and that would end it.

Mr. Chester: There is nothing in here that says a man is not a minister.

Mr. Walsh: Maybe the court should see the letter.

The Court: Well, it depends on somebody else other than the individual to determine whether he is a minister or not. I say, anybody selected under the Act would say, "I am a minister," and that would end it. It wouldn't make any sense. It may be received.

Mr. Chester: Exception:

(The document was received as Government's Exhibit 7 in evidence).

Being as follows:

GOVERNMENT'S EXHIBIT NUMBER 7
IN EVIDENCE

(Being a letter from A. M. Tuthill, State Director Selective Service, to J. S. Brazill, Chairman, Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona; and reads as follows:)

"Answering your telephoned request of November 15, 1941, the name of Jarmon Thomas Conway does not appear in the official list of Jehovah's Witnesses known as "Bethel Family" and as "Pioneers" as furnished this office by National Headquarters, Selective Service System." (T.R.41-43).

Selective Service Opinion No. 14 provides as follows:

VOL. III OPINION NO. 14 (AMENDED)
NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS
SELECTIVE SERVICE SYSTEM

SUBJECT: Ministerial Status of Jehovah's Witnesses

FACTS: Jehovah's Witnesses claim exemption from training and service and classification in Class IV-D as duly ordained ministers of religion under section 5 (d), Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, and section 622.44, Selective Service Regulations, Second Edition, which read as follows:

Section 5(d):

“Regular or duly ordained ministers of religion, and students who are preparing for the ministry in theological or divinity schools recognized as such for more than one year prior to the date of enactment of this Act, shall be exempt from training and service (but not from registration) under this Act.”

Section 622.44:

“Class IV-D: Minister of religion or divinity student. (a) In class IV-D shall be placed any registrant who is a regular or duly ordained minister of religion or who is a student preparing for the ministry in a theological or divinity school which has been recognized as such for more than 1 year prior to the date of enactment of the Selective Training and Service Act (September 16, 1940).

“(b) A ‘regular minister of religion’ is a man who customarily preaches and teaches the principles of religion of a recognized church, religious sect, or religious organization of which he is a member, without having been formally ordained as a minister of religion; and who is recognized by such church, sect, or organization as a minister.

“(c) A ‘duly ordained minister of religion’ is a man who has been ordained in accordance with the ceremonial ritual or discipline of a recognized church, religious sect, or religious organization, to teach and preach its doctrines and to administer its rites and ceremonies in public worship; and who customarily performs those duties.”

Question.—May Jehovah’s Witnesses be placed in Class IV-D as regular or duly ordained ministers of religion exempt from training and service?

Answer.

1. The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, Inc., is incorporated under the laws of the State of New York for charitable, religious, and scientific purposes. The unincorporated body of persons known as Jehovah’s Witnesses hold in common certain religious tenets and beliefs and recognize as their terrestrial governing organization the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, Inc. By their adherence to the organization of this religious corporation, the unincorporated body of Jehovah’s Witnesses are considered to constitute a recognized religious sect.

2. The unusual character of organization of Jehovah’s Witnesses renders comparisons with recognized churches and religious organizations difficult. Certain members of Jehovah’s Witnesses, by reason of the time which they devote, the dedication of their lives which they have made, the attitude of other Jehovah’s Witnesses toward them, and the record kept of them and their work, are in a position where they may be recognized as having a standing in relation to the organization and the other members of Jehovah's Witnesses similar to that occupied by regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions.

3. Members of the Bethel Family are those members of Jehovah's Witnesses who devote their full time and effort to the manufacture and production of books, pamphlets, and supplies for the religious benefit of Jehovah's Witnesses, the purpose of which is to present the beliefs of Jehovah's Witnesses and to convert others. For their religious services, the members of this group receive their subsistence and lodging and in addition a very modest monthly allowance. This group of individuals consists of the office and factory workers at 117 Adams Street, Brooklyn, New York, and workers in the executive offices at 124 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn, New York, and at the Farms. Pioneers of Jehovah's Witnesses are those members of Jehovah's Witnesses who devote all or substantially all of their time to the work of teaching the tenets of their religion and in converting of others to their belief. A certified official list of members of the Bethel Family and Pioneers is being transmitted to the State Directors of Selective Service by National Headquarters of the Selective Service System simultaneously with the release of this amended Opinion. The members of the Bethel Family and Pioneers whose names appear upon such certified official list come within the purview of section 5 (d) of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, and they may be classified in Class IV-D. The status of members of the Bethel Family and pioneers whose names do not appear upon such certified official list shall be determined under the provisions of paragraph 5 of this Opinion.

4. The original paragraph 4 has been consolidated with paragraph 3 of this amended Opinion.

5. The members of Jehovah's Witnesses, known by the various names of members of the Bethel Family, pioneers, regional servants, zone servants, company servants, sound servants, advertising servants, and back-call servants, devote their time and efforts in varying degrees to the dissemination of the tenets and beliefs of Jehovah's Witnesses. The deference paid to these individuals by other members of Jehovah's Witnesses also varies in a great degree. It is possible to make a general determination with respect to these persons as to their relationship to Jehovah's Witnesses. Whether or not they stand in the same relationship as regular or duly ordained ministers in other religions must be determined in each individual case by the local board, based upon whether or not they devote their lives in the furtherance of the beliefs of Jehovah's Witnesses, whether or not they perform functions which are normally performed by regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions, and, finally, whether or not they are regarded by other Jehovah's Witnesses in the same manner in which regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions are ordinarily regarded.

6. In the case of Jehovah's Witnesses, as in the case of all other registrants who claim exemption as regular or duly ordained ministers, the local board shall place in the registrant's file a record of all facts entering into its determination for the reason that it is legally necessary that the record show the basis of the local board's decision.

LEWIS B. HERSHEY Director.

This opinion is set forth as a rule by National Headquarters, Selective Service System, to guide local Selective Service Boards as regards Jehovah's Witnesses. Clearly the local board in this case did not follow the rule (law) of the Selective Service System and its orders therefore that appellant appear for work of national importance is invalid. It is the contention of the appellant that an invalid order need not be obeyed by whomsoever made.

Bowles vs. United States; (87 S. C. Law Ed. 919)
U. S. vs. Johnson, 126 Fed. (2nd) 242, (headnote 5.)

Assignment of Error No. III

That the Honorable Court erred in overruling defendant's objection to the receipt in evidence of Governments Exhibit No. 11 in evidence, which purports to be a letter from James Stokely, Clerk of the Board of Appeals, Selective Service System to the chairman of Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona, returning records in connection with the appeal of the defendant herein and affirming classification of registrant in Class IV-E for the reason that said letter was immaterial due to the fact that the defendant was denied a proper hearing as to his qualifications and as a minister and any purported decision based on a file of defendant's case where no hearing had ever been granted to him regarding his classification either before the Local Board or the Board of Appeals would be and is incompetent, and immaterial. (T.R.67).

The appellant was never allowed a hearing on his contention that he should be properly classified as a minister. It was approved by the Government that the Local Selective Board No. 6 of Glendale, Arizona considered only the written documents in its file and that Conway never was allowed a hearing before the Board or any appeal board, (see R.T.38), wherein the following questions and answers are set forth:

Mr. CHESTER: Well, I will ask you, did you have a hearing, Mr. Riordan, to determine whether or not Mr. Conway was a minister?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was the time of that hearing?

A. His questionnaire and his statements in his questionnaire concerning his occupation; questions concerning what he did regarding his being a minister, and the affidavit and all that he had filed, and also the list that we had of the ministers, and also the letter that we had from our headquarters asking them as to whether or not he appeared on any list that they had. (R.T.37-38).

Also see Reporter's Transcript under cause No. 10332, United States Circuit Court of Appeals for Ninth District, page 24, lines 6 to 9 inclusive:

Q. Now, was any testimony taken from the members of the Jehovah's Witness society as to whether or not they considered him a minister?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Also see R.T. cause No. 10332, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for Ninth District, page 42-43:

MR. CHESTER: You made your objections to your classification right along. Now, I will ask you this: Were you ever questioned before the Board or before the Appeal Board as to your reasons for stating that your classification be properly in Class 4-D?

A. I never was requested by the Appeal Board.

Q. Did you ever appear before the full Board in a meeting, and were you examined?

A. No. I didn't go before the Board.

Q. Did you ever appear before the Appeal Board?

A. No.

Q. Were you asked to submit any evidence as to your status as a minister?

A. No, I gave them all of the evidence in my questionnaire.

MR. CHESTER: That is all.

At no time did the local board or appeal board take any evidence as to how other members of Jehovah's Witnesses regarded Jarmon Thomas Conway in respect to his status as a minister of their faith.

Assignment of Error No. IV

That the Honorable Court erred in sustaining the Government's objection to the introduction in evidence of Defendant's Exhibit A being some 47 affidavits of Jehovah's Witnesses affirming the fact that affiants regarded the defendant as a minister for the reason that such affidavits would tend to prove that the order of the Maricopa County Local Board No. 6 to appear for work under civilian direction was an unlawful order in that it violated the rules of the Selective Service System by wrong classification of a registrant and by the issuance of orders pursuant to such unlawful classification. Admission of said affidavits in evidence would tend to disprove intent to violate any lawful order of the Maricopa County Local Board No. 6 issued to the defendant. It is the contention of the defendant that the Court is not bound to convict and punish one for disobedience of an unlawful order by whomsoever made. (T.R.67-68).

Defendant's Exhibit A for identification were: (T.R.59-60).

Being 50 affidavits, signed by residents of Arizona, all duly subscribed and sworn to, to the effect that Jarmon Conway was a member of Jehovah's Witnesses and is regarded by affiants and others of the same faith as a duly ordained minister in the same manner in which regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions are ordinarily regarded. (T.R.59-60).

Bowles vs. United States, 87 S. C. Law Ed 919;
U. S. vs. Johnson, 126 Fed. (2nd) 242.

Assignment of Error No. V

The Honorable Court erred in denying the motion of the defendant for a directed verdict, said directed verdict having been requested by the defendant for the reason that the Maricopa County Local Board No. 6 to Glendale, Arizona had found the defendant fit for general service, which automatically put him into the class that should, under Selective Service Regulations, place him as an inductee in non-combatant service in the armed forces. The said Local Board, instead of following rules and regulations of the Selective Service Board, ordered the defendant to a conscientious objectors' camp. It has been held heretofore by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit that a conscientious objector, found fit for "general service" is required to obey only an order for induction for service into the land or naval forces and that a Local Board has no power to "assign" such registrant to work of national importance under civilian direction and order him to report to such authorities. The Circuit Court held that, "It is no violation of Section 11 of the Act to fail to obey an order which the Board had no power to make." (T. R. 68-69).

In the case of Robert Earl Hopper vs. United States, the Court held:

To constitute a crime under section 311 of the Act, the accused man must "knowingly fail or neglect to perform some duty required of him under this Act." 50 U.S.C.A. Sec. 311. In order to impose a duty on a registrant under the Act, the local Selective Service Board, hereafter called Board, must classify him in one of three general classes; (a) as a combatant for "induction" into the land or naval forces of the United States (Act No. 4 (a), No. 3 (a), 50 U.S.C.A. 304, 303):

(b) as one whose claim that he is a conscientious objector has been "sustained" by the Board for "induction" into the land or naval forces for noncombatant service (Act, No. 5 (g), 50 U.S.C.A. 305), and (c) as to sub-class of conscientious objectors whom the Board has "found to be conscientiously opposed to participation in such (land or naval) noncombatant service," to be "assigned to work of national importance under civilian direction," (Act, No. 5 (g), footnote 2, supra).

As to conscientious objectors, it is apparent that they may be required to serve in noncombatant work either by induction into the land or naval forces or by assignment to work under civilian direction. Obviously, if a conscientious objector is "found" by the Board to be in class (b) above described he cannot be assigned to serve under civilian direction, and violates no duty required of him under the Act if he fail to report for such service. Likewise, if in class (c) above described he cannot be required by the Board to be inducted to serve in the land or naval forces and if so ordered would violate no duty imposed by the Act if he failed to present himself for such induction.

Here the defendant was found "fit for general military Service": (R.T. C-6420-Phoenix-page 27).

MR. CHESTER: Q. Mr. Riordan, as to the service this man was qualified for, the Local Board, according to your testimony in a prior case held here, found that he was qualified for general military service, is that correct? (R. T. C-6420-25, 27, 28)

A. That is right, yes, sir.

Government's Exhibit No. 3 in evidence, report of physical examination, Jarmon Thomas Conway: (T.R.25) (T.R.27) (T.R.28).

October 25, 1941.

This local Board finds the person named above is Qualified for general military service 4 E.

J. F. BRAZILL,

Date 10-28-41.

I certify that I have carefully examined and reviewed the record of the examination of the person named herein and that it is my judgment and belief that he is Qualified for general military service.

Place; Glendale, Arizona, Date October 25, 1941.

(Signed)

M. I. LEFF, M. D.,

Examining Physician.

And the said witness Riordan testified further as follows:

By Mr. Walsh:

Q. Directing your attention to the first page of Government's Exhibit No. 3 in evidence, I will ask you if you know whose signature that is on the first page there.

A. That is the signature of J. S. Brazill, our Chairman of Local Board No. 6 at Glendale.

Q. Would you read the language appearing immediately above his signature there?

A. "This Local Board finds that the person named above is qualified for general military service 4-E. Date 10-28-41. J. S. Brazill, member of Local Board."

Mr. Walsh: May this be marked, please?

(The document was marked as Government's Exhibit 4 for identification.) (T.R.28).

—the defendant was ordered to serve under civilian direction. Under the law he violates no duty required of him under the Act if he fail to report for such service.

Assignment of Error No. VI

That the Honorable Court erred in refusing to give to the jury the defendant's requested instructions and further erred in the court's instruction to the jury to the effect that the defendant cannot offer as a defense that the order of the Board is arbitrary and capricious, this latter instruction patently violates the constitutional provisions guaranteeing due process of law and the right of freedom of the person and freedom of religion. Defendant duly excepted to the Courts failure to grant his requested instructions and to the Court's granting or giving instruction depriving defendant of defense where the Board acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner. (T.R. 69).

Defendant's requested instructions were as follows: (T.R.62-63).

1. The Selective Service Board cannot bind a registrant by any arbitrary classification against all of the substantial information before it as to his proper classification. Classifications by such agency must, under the powers given it by Congress be honestly made, and a classification made in the teeth of all substantial evidence before such agency is not honest but arbitrary.

2. An individual cannot be deprived of his rights of freedom of person even in war time, except through machinery which guarantees the fundamentals of "Due Process of Law" and a classification by a Selective Service Board not supported by any evidence is arbitrary and constitutes an abuse of discretion depriving defendant of due process of law and his right to freedom of religion guaranteed under the Constitution of the United States.

3. As to conscientious objectors, it is apparent that they may be required to serve in non-combatant work either by induction into the land or naval forces or by assignment to work under civilian direction. If a conscientious objector is found by the Board to be that of one whose claim that he is a conscientious objector has been sustained by the Board for "induction" into the land or naval forces for noncombatant service, he cannot be required by the Board to be assigned to serve under civilian direction, and violates no duty required of him under the Act if he fails to report for such service.

4. The provision that one who shall "knowingly" fail or neglect to perform duty required by Selective Service Act shall be subject to certain penalties implies wilful knowledge and a specific intent and defendants in selective service cases are permitted to give their reasons for failure to obey as going to intent.

(Which instructions were not given). (T.R.62-63).

The Court instructed the jury in part as follows: (T.R.63-64).

You are instructed that even if a Local Draft Board acts in an arbitrary and capricious manner, or denies a registrant a full and fair hearing, nevertheless the registrant must comply with the Board's order. The registrant may not disobey the Board's order and then defend his dereliction by collaterally attacking the Board's administrative acts. In other words, the registrant may not lawfully disobey the Local Draft Board's order to report for induction and then offer as a defense for his failure to comply with the Board's order, some arbitrary or capricious Act of the Board in determining his classification and issuing the order.

Any Exceptions? I have refused your requested instructions.

Mr. Chester: I take exceptions to the Court's refusal to give the defendant's requested instructions, and I also take exception to the instruction wherein the Court makes the statement on the decision of the Selective Service Board as being final except where an appeal is taken, and to the instruction that the defendant cannot offer as defense that the order of the Board is arbitrary and capricious, as that violates the due process of law and the provisions of the Constitution. (T.R.63-64).

Defendant's requested instructions followed the law and were proper. The instruction above cited and as given by the court was contrary to law.

Angellus vs. Sullivan, 246 Fed 54;

U. S. vs. Kinkead, 250 Fed 692;
St. Joseph Stockyards vs. U. S., 298 U. S. 38.

It follows that the Court should have directed the verdict and left the defendant where it found him subject under the law to the further orders of his Local Board.

It is respectfully submitted that the Judgment of the District Court should be reversed.

JARMON THOMAS CONWAY,
Appellant,

vs.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Appellee.

BRIEF OF APPELLEE

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

An indictment was returned on the 28th day of January, 1943, charging the appellant with failure to perform a duty required of him under the Selective Training Act of 1940, 50 U. S. C. 311, in that he failed and neglected to report for work of national importance under civilian direction, having been duly assigned by his Local Board to work of national importance under civilian direction, and having been duly ordered and notified to report for said work of national importance under civilian direction (T. R. 2, 3, 4, 5).

A motion to quash the indictment was denied February 17, 1943 (T. R. 5, 6). The case was tried before a jury on April 9, 1943. At the end of the trial, appellant made a motion for a directed verdict, which was overruled. The appellant was found guilty as charged (T. R. 6).

Notice of appeal was filed April 19, 1943 (T. R. 10).

Said appellant, Jarmon Thomas Conway, registered under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, Title 50 U. S. C. A. 301-311, on October 16, 1940 (T. R. 19). He was thereafter classified as IV-E by his Local Selective Service Board at Glendale, Arizona, on October 28, 1941, for the reason that he was a conscientious objector, from which classification appellant appealed to the Board of Appeals, which, on January 23, 1942, classified the appellant in Class IV, Subdivision E, by the following vote Ayes 5 noes 0 (T. R. 22). Appellant was thereafter assigned to work of national importance (T. R. 46), and subsequent thereto, on May 4, 1942, he was ordered to report for work of national importance to his Local Board on May 14, 1942 (T. R. 47). Appellant failed so to do (R. T. 22, 52).

Appellant, in addition to his statements in his questionnaire supporting the basis for his claim as a minister, also included therein the following (Government's Exhibit 2 in Evidence, T. R. 20, 21) :

“I am working at present time. The job I am working at now is nursery man. My duties are plant shrubbery, grade lawns, etc. I have done this kind of work for 2 years. * * * My employer is Norman Nurseries, 2508 N. Central Avenue, Phoenix, Arizona, whose business is Nursery Business. Other business or work in which I am now engaged is preaching the gospel. I am licensed as truck and tractor driver. I am not an apprentice. * * * Nursery man planting shrubs, Etc. 1937 to 1941.”

Appellant also included in a special form for conscientious objectors, being Form 47, the following statements (T. R. 28, 30):

“Farm work, Employer, Arthur W. Conway, Father, * * * 1936. Farm Work Employer Chas. Pearson, Paducah, Texas, 1936 to 1937. Farm Work J. C. Rodgers, 20th and Campbell Ave. 1937 to 1938. Farm Work, Norman Nurseries, 2508 N. Central, Phoenix, 1938 to 1941.”

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the indictment is defective.
2. Whether the Court erred in admission of certain evidence.
3. Whether the Court erred in denying motion of appellant for a directed verdict.
4. Whether the Court erred in instructing the jury.

SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

In answering appellant's argument we will discuss the points raised in the order in which they are taken up in Appellant's Brief.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. 1 (App. B. 18, 19)

This assignment has to do with the sufficiency of the indictment. That an indictment must charge each and every essential element of an offense is a well established principle of law. The authorities cited by appellant (App. B. 19) merely reaffirm this principle.

The indictment in this case contains allegations of all the elements of the crime. It alleges that appellant registered under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, that he was classified by the Board as IV-E, that he was a person liable for training and service under the said Selective Service Act, and that he was duly notified by said Board to report at a specified time and place for work of national importance under civilian direction, and that the action of said Local Board was pursuant to the power conferred upon it by the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940. The indictment further states that the said Local Board was created in Maricopa County, Arizona, under and by virtue of the provisions of said Act. The offense charged is that he failed to perform a duty required of him, namely, to report to his Local Board for work of national importance under civilian direction, as required to do by the said notice and order of his said Board.

50 U. S. C. 311.

The offense is directly alleged in the indictment (T. R. 2, 3), and fully informs the appellant of the nature of the charge so as to enable him to prepare his defense. It was also sufficiently definite to support a plea of former acquittal or conviction against another charge for the same offense. See the following cases:

Moore v. U. S., 128 Fed. 2d 974.

Zuziak v. U. S., 119 Fed. 2d 140 (9 Cir.).

Graham v. U. S., 120 Fed. 2d 543.

Woolley v. U. S., 97 Fed 2d 258 (9 Cir.).

Harvey Ward Crutchfield v. U. S., No. 10,200, 9 Cir.

U. S. v. Henderson (C. C. A. D. C. 1941), 121 Fed. 2d 75.

Potter v. U. S., 155 U. S. 438.

Summers v. U. S. (C. C. A. 4, 1926), 11 Fed. 2d 583; certiorari denied 271 U. S. 681.

Hewitt v. U. S. (C. C. A. 8, 1940), 110 Fed 2d 1, 6.

Hagner v. U. S., 285 U. S. 427, 431.

Beard v. U. S. (App. D. C.), 82 Fed. 2d 837, 840.

From a perusal of the indictment and a reading of the cases cited in support of our position, we believe the indictment is good and that the Court did not err in denying appellant's said motion to quash.

ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR NOS. II AND III
(App. B. 19, 20, 27)

These assignments have to do with the appellant's objections to the admission in evidence of Government's Exhibits Nos. 7 and 11, and we will consider them together.

Government's Exhibit No. 7 is a letter from Mr. A. M. Tuthill, State Director of Selective Service for the State of Arizona, to J. S. Brazill, Chairman, Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona (T. R. 43).

Government's Exhibit No. 11 is a letter from James Stokeley, Clerk of the Board of Appeals, Selective Service System, to Chairman of Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona, returning records in connection with the appeal of the appellant and affirming his classification in Class IV-E (T. R. 54).

At the trial before the District Court the appellant objected to the admission of said exhibits as being immaterial, which objections were overruled by the Court (R. T. 16, 44). The exhibits were not introduced by the Government during the trial for the purpose of proving or disproving the status of the appellant as a minister, nor were they introduced upon the issue of whether or not the appellant should have been classified IV-E or IV-D, but were introduced only for the purpose of showing to the Court and the jury the parts of the record that were before both the Local Board and the Appeal Board at the time of their respective hearings regarding the classification of appellant, and to further show that the respective boards really considered his case upon the record contained in appellant's file.

We therefore contend that the exhibits were material to the issues before the Court and that the Court did not err in overruling appellant's objections.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. IV (App. B. 29)

This assignment of error claims that the Court erred in sustaining the Government's objection to the introduction in evidence of appellant's Exhibit A, being some 47 affidavits of Jehovah's Witnesses affirming the fact that the affiants regarded the appellant as a minister, for the reason that such affidavits would tend to prove that the order of the Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, directing the appellant to appear for work of national importance under civilian direction, was unlawful in that it violated the rules of the Selective Service System by wrong classification of a registrant and issuance of orders pursuant to such unlawful classification. We do not believe there is any merit to appellant's contention under his Assignment of Error No. IV for the reason that the appellant cannot disobey the Board's orders and then defend his dereliction in a criminal trial by collaterally attacking the Board's administrative acts, and we cite the following cases in support of the above premise:

U. S. v Grieme (C. C. A. 3), 128 Fed. 2d 811.

Rase v. U. S. (C. C. A. 6), 129 Fed. 2d 204.

U. S. v. Kauten (C. C. A. 2), 133 Fed. 2d 703.

U. S. v. Mroz (C. C. A. 7), 136 Fed. 2d 221, decided June 3, 1943 (Advance Sheet, August 16, 1943).

It is obvious upon a reading of the above-cited cases that the Court committed no error in sustaining the Government's objection to the introduction in evidence of appellant's Exhibit A.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. V (App. B. 30)

Appellant bases this assignment of error upon the grounds that the Court erred in denying motion of appellant for a directed verdict, said directed verdict having been requested by the appellant for the reason that appellant's Local Board had found him fit for general service (T. R. 25, 26, 27), which automatically put the appellant under the Selective Service regulations as an inductee in the non-combatant service in the armed forces.

We are unable to understand the premise upon which the appellant bases his Assignment of Error No. V. The indictment in this case specifically alleges that the appellant was classified IV-E by his Local Board (T. R. 2); the record shows that the appellant was classified IV-E by his Local Board (T. R. 22), which classification was also made by the Appeal Board (T. R. 22); and he was assigned to work of national importance under civilian direction (T. R. 46) for the reason that he was conscientiously opposed to both combatant and non-combatant military service. This was mandatory under and by virtue of Regulation 622.51 of the Selective Service Manual, which Regulation makes it mandatory that every registrant who has been classified IV-E be available for work of national importance.

From the pleadings, the record, and the transcript of evidence in this case, we argue most strenuously that the Court properly denied appellant's motion for a directed verdict.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. VI (App. B. 33)

The appellant claims in his Assignment of Error No. VI that the Court erred in refusing to give to the jury the defendant's requested instructions, and further erred in the Court's instructions to the jury to the effect that the defendant cannot offer as defense that the order of the Board is arbitrary and capricious, and in support thereof cites certain cases (App. B. 35), which we have read and find that they are of no assistance in determining the issues raised by appellant under his said assignment of error. However, the case of Ex parte Stewart, 47 Fed. Supp. 410, one of the cases cited by appellant, clearly holds that the method to be taken advantage of in cases of this nature is under and by virtue of a writ of habeas corpus because of the fact that no question of the action of the Board is allowed in a prosecution resulting from disobedience of any orders issued by the Board.

It is our contention that the Judge's instruction (R. T. 58, 59), claimed as error by appellant in this case, correctly states the law, and in support of the instruction we cite the following cases:

Ex parte Stewart, supra.

U. S. v. Johnson (C. C. A. 8), 126 Fed 2d 242-246.

U. S. v. Grieme, supra.

Rase v. U. S., supra.

U. S. v. Kauten, supra.

We also contend that from the cases cited above the appellant's requested instructions did not correctly state the law, and that the Court did not commit error in refusing to give his instructions to the jury.

SUMMARY

The indictment was sufficiently definite to inform appellant of the nature of the charge and to support a plea of former jeopardy.

The Court did not err in the reception or rejection of evidence.

The Court properly denied appellant's motion for a directed verdict.

Appellant had a fair and impartial trial, and the verdict and judgment should be affirmed.

JARMON THOMAS CONWAY,

vs.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Appellee.

REPLY BRIEF OF APPELLANT

Reply to brief of appellee herein will follow appellee's statements as to questions presented which is as follows:

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the indictment is defective.
2. Whether the Court erred in the admission of certain evidence.

3. Whether the Court erred in permitting testimony of a certain Government witness.

4. Whether the Court erred in instructing the jury.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. 1

This assignment has to do with the sufficiency of the indictment. Appellee claims that every essential element of the offense has been set forth in the indictment. It has been heretofore called to the attention of the Court that the aforesaid indictment does not at any place state that Maricopa County local board No. 6 of the Selective Service System located in Glendale, Arizona, had jurisdiction over the defendant herein. Nor is it shown under the said indictment that the said Selective Service Board followed the laws, rules and regulations and orders of the Selective Service and Training Act of 1940 and Amendments thereto. It is the contention of the defendant that the jurisdiction of the Board and its adherence to the law under which it acted is a necessary part of the indictment to show that an offense was committed.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. II AND III

This assignment has to do with the appellant's objections to the admission in evidence of Government's Exhibits No. 7 and 11.

As to Government Exhibit No. 7, which is a letter from Mr. A. M. Tuthill, State Director of Selective Service for the State of Arizona to J. S. Brazill, Chairman, Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona (T. R. 43). The appellant herein reiterates that the said letter was immaterial and its admission was prejudicial to the defendant in that the letter merely states the name of Jarmon Thomas Conway does not appear in the official list of Jehovah's Witnesses, known as Bethel Family or as Pioneers, as furnished the local Board by National Headquarters of Selective Service System. It is a contention of the appellant that the method of determining whether or not a member of Jehovah's Witnesses is an ordained minister should properly be in accordance with the Volume 3, Opinion 14 of National Headquarters Selective Service System which states that each case must be determined upon its own merits with due regard to the way in which other members of Jehovah's Witnesses regard the status of the particular member in connection with his ministerial status and that "Whether or not they stand in the same relationship as regular or duly ordained ministers in other religions must be determined in each individual case by the local board, based upon whether or not they devote their lives in the furtherance of the beliefs of Jehovah's Witnesses, whether or not they perform functions which are normally performed by regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions, and finally, whether or not they are regarded by other Jehovah's Witnesses in the same manner in which regular or duly ordained ministers of other religions are ordinarily regarded."

Volume 3, Opinion 14, Section 6, Selective Service System of National Headquarters provides as follows:

"In the case of Jehovah's Witnesses as in the case of all other registrants who claim exemption as regular or duly ordained ministers, the local board shall place in the registrant's file a record of all facts entering into its determination for the reason that it is legally necessary that the record show the basis of the local board's decision."

We call the Court's attention to the fact that the language of Volume 3, Opinion 14, Section 6 of Selective Service System of National Headquarters signed by Louis B. Hershey, Deputy Director, makes it mandatory that "the local board shall place in the registrant's file a record of all facts entering into its determination for the reason that it is legally necessary that the record show the basis of the local board's decision."

Here the local Board's decision is based not upon what the National Headquarters of Selective Service System order such findings to be based upon but upon a mere negative finding by A. M. Tuthill, State Director of Selective Service for the State of Arizona, that he does not find Jarmon Thomas Conway's name on a certain list. It is the contention of the appellant that this is in violation of the rules and regulations of the Selective Service System and that the order of the local Selective Service Board is unlawful and void. Consequently, Government Exhibit No. 7 was immaterial and prejudicial to the defendant.

Government Exhibit No. 11 was a letter from James Stokeley, Clerk Board of appeals, Selective Service System to Chairman of Maricopa County Local Board No. 6, Glendale, Arizona, without appearance of Jarmon Thomas Conway, and it is the contention of the appellant that it was immaterial in determining any fact in connection with the case.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. IV

It is the contention of the appellant herein that no hearing was ever had that would comply with the laws, rules and regulations of the Selective Service System to determine whether or not appellant was or was not a duly ordained minister. Volume 3, Opinion No. 14 Section 6 of National Headquarters Selective Service System provides as is set forth in full above that "the local board shall place in the registrant's file a record of all facts entering into its determination for the reason that it is legally necessary that the record show the basis of the local board's decision." The local Selective Service Board failed to heed or to follow Volume 3, Opinion 14, Section 6, of the Selective Service System rules and regulations of National Headquarters of Selective Service System in this instance, and it is the contention of the appellant that orders made for defendant to appear for assignment of work of national importance was unlawful, invalid and void.

The forty-seven (47) affidavits tendered by appellatarian contend to prove the lack of fair hearing by the Board in consideration of proper evidence tendered and offered by appellant and would also prove that the local Selective Service Board No. 6, Maricopa County, Arizona, made their order without sufficient evidence upon which to base said order.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. V

This asignment is based upon the contention of the appellant that the Court erred upon denying motion of appeal for directed verdict.

Appellant contends that the local Board found him fit for general service which automatically put appellant under Selective Service Act as an inductee in the combatant forces in the service of the United States, and that he was not therefore subject to the Board ordering him to work in work of national importance.

Robert Earl Hopper vs. United States of America
No. 10,110, Dec. 18, 1942, Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth District.

Appellant further calls the court's attention to Section 623.51 of Selective Service System Rules and Regulations which provide that:

“After physical examination, the report of the examining physician shall be considered, and the registrant shall be classified in accordance with various subsections of the aforesaid section 623.51 under which under (e) (2) “if registrant has been found to be a conscientious objector to both combatant and noncombatant military service, he shall be classified in Class IV-E.”

It is therefore apparent that the classification in 4-E should be a separate finding of the board subsequent to the physical examination of the registrant. The records clearly show that this was not the procedure in this instance.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. VI

The Appellant herein claims that the Court erred in refusing to give to the jury the defendant's requested instructions. The appellee contends that the appellant's requested instructions did not correctly state the law, and that the Court did not commit error in refusing to give his instructions to the jury. We respectfully call the Court's attention that each of the said instructions was prepared by following the language of the court in the cases set forth below.

Instruction No. 1 follows the case of Angelus v. Sullivan, 276, Fed. 54.

Instruction No. 2 follows the case of Ex Parte Stewart, 47 Fed. Supp. 410

Page 412

Instruction No. 3 follows the case of Robert Earl Hopper vs. U. S., U. S. C. C. A. for Ninth Circuit No. 10,110.

Instruction No. 4 is a general rule of law that has been developed under the selective service cases.

The Court's instruction as given to the jury is in direct contravention to the rule of law as laid down in the case of St. Joseph Stockyards vs. United States, 298 U. S. 38 wherein the Court said,

“But to say that their findings of fact may be made conclusive where constitutional rights of liberty and property are involved, although the evidence clearly establishes that the findings are wrong and constitutional rights have been invaded, is to place those rights at the mercy of administrative officials and seriously to impair the security inherent in our judicial safeguards. That the prospect with our multiplication of administrative agencies, is not one to be lightly regarded. It is said that we can retain judicial authority to examine the weight of evidence when the question concerns the right of personal liberty.”

It is the contention of the appellant that it is no violation of Section 311 of the Selective Service and Training Act of 1940 to fail to obey an order which, under the laws, rules and regulations of the Selective Service Act of 1940 the local selective service board had no power to make.

ORDER SUSTAINING PLEA TO JURIS-DICTION AND QUASHING OF OR-

The verified Petition of John O. England, the Trustee, for an Order to Show Cause directed to Respondent, David Nyhan, and the verified objection of said David Nyhan to the summary jurisdiction of the Court and praying for an order quashing service of the Order to Show Cause coming on regularly for hearing this 9th day of December, 1942, and the trustee appearing by his attorneys, and the respondent appearing by his attorney, and the Trustee having offered oral and documentary evidence upon the plea to the jurisdiction of the court and thereupon having rested and thereby submitted to the court the said plea to jurisdiction for its decision, the court thereupon being fully advised, duly made its minute order sustaining said plea of said respondent to the jurisdiction of the above entitled Court;

It Is Hereby Ordered that pursuant to the minute order heretofore made by the above entitled court, the plea of respondent, David Nyhan, objecting to the summary jurisdiction of the above entitled Court be, and the same is hereby sustained and service of the Order to Show Cause issued by the above entitled Court directed to said respondent be, and the same is hereby quashed.

Dated the 11th day of December, 1942.

BURTON J. WYMAN,

Referee in Bankruptcy'

“That said order is erroneous for the following reasons:

“That said order is contrary to the facts and law in that the uncontroverted evidence shows that prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, which said petition was filed on November 17, 1941, said bankrupt attempted to assign and transfer said taxi license or permit to his brother David Nyhan, alias, said respondent; that under the provisions of the ordinances of the City and County of San Francisco, said license is transferable only with the consent of the Police Commission of said City and County, and that upon the 10th day of November, 1941, an application was made by respondent David Nyhan, alias, and said bankrupt pursuant to said municipal ordinance of the said City and County of San Francisco, to the Chief of Police and the Police Commission of said City and County for an order permitting said transfer and assignment of said permit, and the certificate for said permit was filed with said Chief of Police of said City and County with said application;

“That thereafter and subsequent to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy said Chief of Police and Police Commission denied and refused to permit the transfer of said taxi permit and license and that the same was redelivered by said Chief of Police to said bankrupt and his receipt obtained therefor;

“That thereafter an appeal was taken by said David Nyhan, alias, said respondent and said bankrupt, to the Board of Permit Appeals of the City and County of San Francisco, which said board thereafter sustained said ruling denying the transfer of said permit;

“That the Referee’s order on the foregoing facts denying jurisdiction for the summary order requested by the trustee to sell free and clear of any claim of David Nyhan, alias, said respondent, is contrary to the law in that said taxi permit or license at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy was in the possession of the bankrupt and was an asset of the estate and there- [4] fore subject to the summary jurisdiction of the Referee;

“That the order of the Referee sustaining the objections to the summary jurisdiction of the Referee, cannot be sustained in law on the evidence adduced.

“Wherefore, your petitioner prays for a review of the said order by the Judge of this Honorable Court, and that said order be vacated and set aside, and that the Referee be directed to enter an order denying the plea of the respondent to the jurisdiction of the Referee, and to decide the controversy on its merits and in accordance with the facts and law.

The verified petition referred to in said petition for review reads as follows:

“Comes now John O. England, and respectfully represents:

“That on or about the 17th day of November, 1941, an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of California, Southern Division, against Respondent James Nyhan, also known as James P. Nyhan, also known as James [5] Paul Nyhan, also known as Dick Nyhan, and that thereafter such proceedings were had that on or about the 11th day of June, 1942, said James Nyhan, also known as James P. Nyhan, also known as James Paul Nyhan, also known as Dick Nyhan, was duly adjudged to be a bankrupt in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy, and that thereafter and or about the 20th day of August, 1942, your petitioner was duly appointed as Trustee of said bankrupt's estate, and thereupon duly qualified as, and has since been and now is the duly appointed and acting Trustee of the estate of the above-named bankrupt.

“That your petitioner is informed, believes, and therefore represents that on and before said 11th day of November, 1941, at the time said petition in bankruptcy was filed in said district as aforesaid, the above-named bankrupt was the owner of and entitled to the possession of that certain taxi license, issued by the Police Commission of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, under and by virtue of the Ordinances of said City and County of San Francisco, authorizing and permitting said bankrupt to operate eight taxi cabs for hire on the streets of said City and County and State, naming James Nyhan, doing business as 'California Cab Co.' as licensee.

“That your petitioner is informed, believes, and therefore represents, that Respondent David Nyhan, claims an interest in said above-described taxi license but that as a matter of fact, has no such interest in law or equity.

“That said Respondent David Nyhan and Respondent bankrupt have joint possession and control of said above-described taxi license, and that Respondent David Nyhan now holds possession of said taxi license as agent and or [6] trustee for said Respondent bankrupt.

“That by reason of the premises your petitioner is informed, verily believes, and therefore represents, that the said personal property was, at all times herein mentioned and still is, a part of the assets of the estate of said bankrupt and subject to administration herein as part of said estate.

“That your petitioner represents that unless this Honorable Court enter its temporary restraining order herein forbidding any transfer or encumbrance of that certain personal property above-described by the said Respondent, until this matter is finally determined by this Court, that said personal property will be forever lost to this bankrupt estate.

“Wherefore, your petitioner prays for an Order authorizing and directing him as Trustee, to administer upon and to sell, in the manner prescribed by law, said above-described taxi license, as part of the assets of the estate of the bankrupt above-named free and clear of any property liens, claim, right, title, or interest of said Respondents; and that pending the hearing of this petition and until this matter is finally determined by this Court the Respondents, and each of them, be restrained from transferring or encumbering said personal property and for such other and further order and or relief as may be meet and proper in the premises.

The order to show cause, also referred to in said petition, avers:

“Ordered, pending the hearing of this Order to show cause and until further ordered of this Court, the Respondents and each of them, are hereby restrained from in any way selling, transferring, on encumbering the personal property described in said annexed petition; and it is further “Ordered, that service of this Order be made by delivering to said Respondents, and each of them, a duly [8] certified copy of this Order, together with a true copy of said annexed Trustee’s Petition, at least 2 days prior to the aforesaid hearing hereof.

On December 5, 1942, there was filed on behalf of the respondent, David Nyhan, the following verified plea to the Court's jurisdiction:

“Now comes, David Nyhan, of the City and County of San Francisco, State and District aforesaid, Respondent to an order to show cause issued by the above entitled Court on the 11th day of November, 1942 and returnable on the 2nd day of December, 1942 and continued until December 9, 1942, and appearing specially and not otherwise for the purpose of objecting to the summary jurisdiction of the above entitled court and moving said court for an order quashing the service of said order to show cause, and for grounds of his plea objecting to the jurisdiction of the above entitled court alleges:

“1. That it affirmatively appears from the petition of the Trustee, John O. England, upon which said order to show cause was issued by the above entitled court, that the above entitled court was and is without jurisdiction to hear and determine the matters therein stated or to make [9] any order against the respondent therein named except by consent of this respondent, and that this respondent has never consented to submit himself to the jurisdiction of the above entitled court, but, on the contrary, this respondent has declined and does decline to submit himself to the jurisdiction of the above entitled court to hear and determine any of the matters set forth in said Trustee's petition or be subjected to any orders of the above entitled court pertaining to any of the matters set forth in said Trustee's petition.

"2. That it affirmatively appears from the face of said Trustee's petition and the order to show cause issued by the above entitled court, that the facts stated in said Trustee's petition do not confer upon the above entitled court summary jurisdiction over said respondent without his consent.

"3. That it affirmatively appears from said trustee's petition, upon which said order to show cause was issued, and from said order to show cause, that the issues which the Trustee seeks to submit to the above entitled court as grounds for the granting of the prayer of said petition can only be determined in a plenary action and not in a summary proceeding instituted by said Trustee herein, and it affirmatively appears from said petition that no summary jurisdiction can be exercised by the above entitled court as it relates to this respondent, without the consent of this respondent.

"That this respondent is entitled to have said issue determined in a plenary action and to have a trial by jury of the issues raised in said petition pursuant to his demand.

"For a further, separate and distinct objection [10] to the summary jurisdiction of the above entitled court, this respondent alleges as follows, to-wit:

“That before the petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed in the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of California, Southern Division, the Respondent, David Nyhan, was and now is the owner and entitled to possession of that certain taxi license, issued by the Police Commission of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California and mentioned in the Trustee’s petition.

“Any interest of the Bankrupt, James Nyhan, by reason of the issuance thereof in said Bankrupt’s name in said taxi license is held in trust by said Bankrupt for respondent, David Nyhan.

“Respondent further alleges that the said Bankrupt, James Nyhan, has no ownership in said taxi license nor the possession thereof, and that said taxi license at no time was and not now is a part of the assets of said bankrupt’s estate.

“Respondent alleges that any order granting the prayer of the Trustee herein would be in excess of the jurisdiction of the above entitled Court.

“Wherefore, Respondent prays that service of the order to show cause issued by the above entitled Court may be ordered quashed on account of lack of jurisdiction of the above entitled Court to have issued said order to show cause.

(See original of said “plea”, handed up herewith as a part of this certificate and report.)

When the aforesaid petition for order authorizing sale of the said personal property finally came on for hearing, on December 9, 1942, I was attended upon by Ernest J. Torregano, Esq., representing Messrs. Torregano & Stark, the attorneys for the bankrupt; Martin J. Dinkelspiel, Esq., representing Messrs. Dinkelspiel & Dinkelspiel, which said law firm, with B. H. Muldary, Esq., (who also was present), are the attorneys for the trustee, Phillip S. Matthews, Esq., the attorney for certain creditors, and Bernard Nugent, Esq., the attorney for the respondent, David Nyhan.

During the course of the aforesaid hearing, the following proceedings were had:

“The Referee: You may proceed with the Order to Show Cause in the Nyhan matter.

“Mr. Dinkelspiel: I might state, if the Court please, that in accordance with Your Honor’s order, an answer was filed. I don’t know whether or not Your Honor has read it, but it is a plea to the jurisdiction.

“The Referee: Yes, I have read it.

“Mr. Muldary: If the Court please, at this time I would like to introduce in evidence a section I have here of the San Francisco Municipal Code, codified in 1939, introducing in evidence Section 1079 of the Police Code, which is the portion of the Police Code which has to do with the granting of applications for taxicab licenses and particularly I call the Court’s attention at this time to that sentence in Section 1079 which provides: [12]

“‘All such permits or licenses granted hereunder shall be transferable only upon the consent of the Police Commission after written application shall have first been made to said Commission and upon payment of the fee required of the new applicants.’

I should like permission to introduce the Police Code in evidence and have the court reporter copy this section and then withdraw the volume.

“‘Police Code. Section 1079. Continuous Operation—Revocations Provided For. All persons, firms, or corporations within the purview of Sections 1075 to 1081 inclusive, of this Article shall regularly and daily operate his or its licensed motor vehicle for hire business during each day of the license year to the extent reasonably necessary to meet the public demand for such motor vehicle for hire service. Upon abandonment of such business for a period of ten (10) consecutive days by an owner or operator, the Police Commission shall, after five (5) days' written notice to the said owner or operator, direct the Police Department of the City and County of San Francisco to revoke said owner's or operator's licenses or permits, and said licenses or permits shall forthwith be revoked. All such permits or licenses granted hereunder shall be transferable only upon the consent of the Police Commission after written application shall have first been made to said Commission and upon payment of the fee required of the new applicants. Any and all such certificates [13] of public necessity and convenience, permits and licenses and all rights herein granted may be rescinded and ordered revoked by the Police Commission for cause.'

I would like to call James Nyhan.

“JAMES NYHAN

Called for the Trustee, sworn.

“The Referee: This is strictly on the question of the plea to the jurisdiction?

“Mr. Dinkelspiel: Yes, Your Honor.

“Mr. Muldary: Q. What is your name?

“The Witness: A. James Nyhan.

“Q. Where do you reside?

“A. 1080 Eddy.

“Q. You are the bankrupt in this proceeding, are you not? A. I am.

“Q. Now, Mr. Nyhan, you were granted by the Chief of Police of the City and County of San Francisco a Police Department permit No. 386, which has been introduced in evidence on a hearing in the Federal Court and is Petitioner's Exhibit No. 15 in that proceeding. Were you not granted such a permit? I will show you the permit to which I refer.

"A. Yes, I was granted it.

"Q. Referring to Permit No. 386 in the name of James P. Nyhan, California Cab Numbers 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87 88; address 527 Woolsey Street; dated August 2nd, 1937.

"Mr. Muldary: I offer that in evidence as the Trustee's exhibit.

"The Referee: Very well; Trustee's Exhibit No. 1.

"Mr. Muldary: Q. After you were granted this permit [14] in 1937, Mr. Nyhan, did you proceed to exercise your rights under the permit by operating a number of taxicabs?

"A. Until they were repossessed, yes.

"Q. And, thereafter, did you make application to the Police Commission for permission to transfer this license or permit to your brother David Nyhan? A. Yes.

"Q. And when did you make that application? I suggest to you it was made November 10, 1941.

"A. Well, I attempted to transfer them to my brother about a week after he arrived here from the East, which I believe, was in 1939 or 1940. The Sergeant of Police in charge of the Bureau of Permits, Sergeant Trainor, would not allow me to make the application, although I had a perfect right under the law to do so. I finally had to go to the Chief of Police himself and explain to him that I had attempted to transfer those permits a good number of times, not once, but five or six times, because my brother insisted on it. I explained to the Chief of Police, Charley Dullea; I said, "Sergeant Trainor won't even let me put in the application"; so, Dullea says, "He cannot do that; you have a right to do it." I said, "I know that; that is why I am here to see you." So, he instructed Sergeant Trainor to let me put in the application, which the Chief ruled on.

"Q. Prior to putting in such application, did you endorse the permit on the reverse side?

"A. Yes, immediately.

"Q. What did you write on the reverse side of the permit?

"A. Well, as I explained in this court before, the procedure of the Police Department—

"Q. The question, Mr. Nyhan, is what you wrote on the back [15] of the permit?

"A. I am trying to explain to you and I will get to that.

"Q. I don't care for the explanation.

"A. I would like to explain it, Your Honor.

"Mr. Nugent: We object to that on the ground that the best evidence is the permit.

"The Referee: I think that is true.

"Mr. Muldary: If the Court please, the bankrupt has testified under 21 (a) that he endorsed the permit on the back, 'James Nyhan' and subsequently tore off the signature, so the permit is not the best evidence, that evidence having been destroyed.

"The Referee: He may testify.

"The Witness: Can I explain?

"The Referee: You may explain after.

"A. Well, that is what I want to do.

"Mr. Muldary: What I want you to do is answer the question.

"The Referee: Q. What did you endorse on it?

"The Witness: A. I endorsed it with my name, which is the procedure of the Police Department. When you transfer a permit, you go before the Bureau of Permits and endorse the back of it; they take it, put it through the regular channels and at the next hearing, it is transferred from whoever it is to the new party.

Mr. Muldary: Q. Now, in connection with this endorsement and attempted transfer of the permit to your brother, Mr. Nyhan, was an application made to the Chief of Police for permission to transfer this permit to your brother, David Nyhan?

"A. Was an application made? [16]

"Q. Was an application made?

"A. Yes, it was made, after Sergeant Trainor would not allow me to.

"Q. I will show you a document dated November 10, 1941, entitled, "Application for Permit to Engage in Business of Operating Vehicles for Hire', which is an exhibit in the Federal Court in the bankruptcy proceeding entitled, 'Petitioner's Exhibit No. 5, February 20, 1942' and ask you if that is the application to which you refer?

"A. I imagine so. Yes, I think so.

"Q. I call your attention to the fact that it is signed, 'David Gerald Nyhan'. Is that your brother's name? A. Yes.

"Q. Is that his signature? Do you recognize it? A. Well, I don't know.

"Q. Did you see him sign it?

"A. Well, he was there. I imagine that is his.

"Mr. Torregano: The question counsel asked is, 'Did you see him sign it?'

"A. No, I didn't see him sign it. Him and I was there together. That is a long time to remember. No one else was in the room, so sure, it must be him.

"Mr. Muldary: Q. Does that appear to be his signature?

"A. It looks like his signature.

"Q. Your answer is, that is the permit to which you refer in your testimony?

"A. I believe it is.

"Q. I call your attention to the documents attached thereto, all of which are part of the same exhibit in the Federal Court, one of which is a petition for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity to operate Eight

Taxicabs; another is a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity: [17]

“ ‘David G. Nyhan, To purchase of James P. Nyhan, California Cab Co., Nos. 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87 and 88. (8 permits).’

Another of which is a receipt:

“ ‘Received from Bureau of Permits, permit for the operation of eight (8) taxicab permits, which was filed for the purpose of transfer, said transfer being denied November 17, 1941. Signed: James Nyhan.’

“ ‘Another of which is Notice of Decision from the Board of Permit Appeals of the City and County of San Francisco signed by C. J. Auger, President and Thos. W. McCarthy, Secretary, which says:

“ ‘The appeal of Jas. Nyhan from the order of Chas. W. Dullea, denying Appellant the right to transfer TAXICAB PERMIT TO DAVID NYHAN ON NOVEMBER 17, 1941, came on regularly for hearing before the Board of Permit Appeals December 2nd, 1941, and after such hearing the said order was CONCURRED.

Dated at San Francisco, California, December 2nd, 1941.’

“ ‘I offer that in evidence.

“ ‘The Referee: Trustee’s Exhibit No. 2.

“ ‘Mr. Muldary: Q. Now, was that application for permission to transfer these permits to your brother denied by the Police Department?’

“The Witness: A. Yes.

“Q. And when was it denied?

“A. Well, a week later, two weeks later; something like that. [18]

“Q. I call your attention to the fact that the Notice of Decision attached to the permit states that the order was made November 17, 1941. Does that refresh your memory? Do you recall whether that is it?

“A. Well, even to the Chief, generally, you make an application and it is on the calendar the next week. The Chief denied it, saying he would not transfer it to the Yellow Cab or wouldn't transfer it to David Nyhan, and then it was appealed and went to the other place up to the City Hall April first, and they took a little time too, and denied it.

“Q. This document from the Board of Permit Appeals, City and County of San Francisco, states that the application was denied on November 17, 1941. Is that your recollection?

“A. Well, I don't know. I know if that is what it says, it must be right.

“Q. And the appeal was denied December 2nd, 1941?

“A. If that what the record says, it must be right.

“Q. The petition in bankruptcy was filed on December 2nd, 1941, too?

“A. I don't know.

“Q. Now, after the denial of the transfer of the permits, Mr. Nyhan, these documents were returned to you, were they not?

“A. Well, they were returned to me. Sergeant Trainor, as I said before, that is the first time, Your Honor, if I may say it, anybody ever had to sign a receipt for a permit, the return of a permit. It is not the usual procedure and I don’t know who instructed Sergeant Trainor to do it.

“Mr. Muldary: If Your Honor please, I don’t want to encumber the record with objections, but I ask that he be [19] instructed to answer the question.

“The Referee: Answer the question.

“Mr. Nugent: Mr. Muldary, may I see that, please?

“Mr. Muldary: Yes.

“Q. These documents, including your permit, were returned to you by the Police Department, were they not?

“The Witness: A. They were returned to my brother. He was in possession of the permit since the time he arrived from the East. Sergeant Trainor would not turn it over to anybody but the one the permits were in, James Nyhan. I was there, my brother was there. We both received it.

“Q. You gave the Bureau of Permits a receipt, which you signed, for the return of permits for the operation of eight taxicabs?

“A. Yes.

“Q. That is your signature, is it not?

“A. Yes. Which, Your Honor, is highly irregular. They never do it; I don’t know why they did it in this case.

“Mr. Dinkelspiel: We move that that go out as the opinion of the witness.

“Mr. Nugent: If Your Honor please, I deem it the right of the witness to make an explanation.

“The Referee: It is part of his explanation and may stand.

“Mr. Dinkelspiel: The trustee rests.

“Mr. Muldary: The trustee rests.

“(Trustee rests.)

“The Referee: The objection to the jurisdiction may be sustained.

“Mr. Dinkelspiel: Will Your Honor give us an opportunity to submit authorities? [20]

“The Referee: No, sir. You have rested and it is sustained.

“Mr. Nugent: Thank you, Your Honor.”

DISCUSSION BY AND OPINION OF REFEREE

Although the petition for review contains a number of allegations far different from, and more comprehensive than, those set forth in the trustee's petition, which, with the order to show cause and the plea to the court's jurisdiction, was before the court on December 9, 1942, the date of the complained-of order, it is solely with the averments contained in the trustee's last mentioned petition and the attempted proof of said averments, particularly as regards possession of the license, that the court was called upon to deal when said order was made.

Boiled down to its essence, the vital proof which the trustee was bound to make in order to establish jurisdiction in the bankruptcy court, over the adverse claimant's, David Nyhan's objection, was that, at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, the license in controversy was in the actual or constructive possession of the bankrupt. As was said in Taubel-Scott-Kitzmiller Co., Inc. v. Fox, 264 U. S. 426, 432, 433 44 S. Ct. 396, 398, 399, 68 L. Ed. 770, 774, "Constructive possession is sufficient. It exists where the property was in the physical possession of the debtor at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, but was not delivered by him to the trustee, where the property was delivered to the trustee, but was thereafter wrongfully withdrawn from his custody; where the property is in hands of the bankrupt's agent or bailee; where the property is held by some other person, who makes no claim to it; and where the property is held by one who makes a claim, [24] but the claim is colorable* only."

What are the trustee's allegations as regards pos-

*See In re Western Rope & Mfg. Co., (C.C.A. 8) 298 F. 926, [affirmed on certiorari, Harrison v. Chamberlin, 271 U.S. 191, 46 S. Ct. 467, 70 L. Ed. 897.], in which, at page 927, the Circuit Court said, as it will might be in the instant matter, "We think the Mueller Case and quite a few other cases before the various Courts of Appeals have established the doctrine that where the claim alleged to be adverse is not really so, but only colorably such, that the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction to determine the character of the claim in that respect and, if it is colorable only, to adjudicate the merits of the matter in a summary manner. The application of this rule involves a definition of what is meant by colorable. In our judgment, the meaning of that word as used in this connection is that a claim alleged to be adverse is only colorably so when, admitting the facts to be as alleged by the claimant, there is, as matter of law, no adversity in the claim.

"Measured by the above standard, we cannot say that this claim is merely colorable. . . . However improbable or even fraudulent this claim may be, yet that matter has no bearing upon determination of jurisdiction, but is pertinent only on the merits in the court properly having jurisdiction of the controversy. For the purposes of determining whether this claim is merely colorable, we think we must take it that the above circumstances would be shown and might be found to be true. In that view of the matter, we cannot say as matter of law, that there is no merit to the claim."

session? They are found on page 2 of his petition, commencing with line 19 and ending on line 23, (pages 6 and 7 of this certificate and report). They read:

“That said Respondent David Nyhan and Respondent bankrupt herein have joint possession and control of said above-described taxi license, and that Respondent David Nyhan now holds possession of said taxi license as agent and or trustee for said Respondent bankrupt.”

What, in effect, is the proof offered in support of said allegations? That, according to James Nyhan, the bankrupt, the sole witness called on behalf of the trustee in justification of the jurisdiction of this court, said witness had attempted to transfer the permits to his brother, David Nyhan, about a week after said brother had arrived here from the East, which, the witness believed, was in 1939 or 1940; that the witness had attempted to [25] transfer said permit five or six times because his brother has insisted on it. (Page 4 of Reporter's Transcript, page 15 of this certificate and report.)

The following question also was asked and the following answer also was given by said witness on direction examination:

“Q. These documents, including your permit, were returned to you by the Police Department, were they not?”

“The Witness: A. They were returned to my brother. He was in possession of the permit since the time he arrived from the East. Sergeant Trainor would not turn it over to anyone but the one the permits were in, James Nyhan. I was there, my brother was there. We both received it.”

(Reporter’s Transcript, page 9, page 20 of this certificate and report.)

Unquestionably, in the absence of any objection, or assertion of an adverse claim on the part of David Nyhan, the court legally would have been entitled to hold that the bankrupt’s joint possession was sufficient, under the law, to enable the court to pass upon, in a summary proceeding, David Nyhan’s interest, if any, in the permit, or license, in controversy. The court, however, could not overlook the statements made, under oath, by David Nyhan in his verified plea to the court’s jurisdiction, i.e., “That before the petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed in the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of California, Southern Division, the Respondent, David Nyhan, was and now is the [26] owner and entitled to possession of that certain taxi license, issued by the Police Commission of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California and mentioned in the Trustee’s Petition.

“Any interest of the Bankrupt, James Nyhan, by reason of the issuance thereof in said Bankrupt’s name in said taxi license is held in trust by said Bankrupt for Respondent, David Nyhan.

“Respondent further alleges that the said Bankrupt, James Nyhan, has no ownership in said taxi license nor the possession thereof, and that said taxi license at no time was and not now is a part of the assets of said bankrupt's estate."

If it be assumed that ordinarily the joint possession of the bankrupt, even with an adverse claimant, would justify the court in proceeding summarily, that rule could not be applied herein, in the first instance, and in my opinion, cannot be applied by the District Court, sitting as an appellate tribunal, for the reason that David Nyhan, having set up his adverse claim to the effect that said bankrupt is said David Nyhan's agent, trustee or bailee, the court is bound by the rule that where one holds possession under the conditions claimed by David Nyhan, that the possession of the bankrupt is the possession of David Nyhan, and hence the court is without jurisdiction in a summary proceeding to deal with the adverse claimant's purported interest in the license in question.

See Sproul v. Levin, (C.C.A. 8) 88 F. (2d) 866.

But, so may run the argument of counsel seeking a review of the complained-of order, the District Court, in view of its order adjudicating James Nyhan a bankrupt, which is based on a finding to the effect that the said license was transferred from [27] said bankrupt to said David Nyhan in fraud of creditors, is bound to apply the rule of res adjudicata, so far as the title to said license is concerned. Regardless of said finding, however, the last mentioned rule seemingly cannot be made applicable to the proceeding now under consideration for the all-important reason that this proceeding, so far as David Nyhan is concerned, does not deal with the rights and privileges of the bankrupt, but does deal with the rights and privileges of said brother, David Nyhan, who was not a party to the proceeding wherein James Nyhan was adjudged a bankrupt. "It is well settled," said the court in Lyon v. Perin Manufacturing Co., 125 U. S. 698, 700 8 S Ct. 1024, 1025, 31 L. Ed. 839, 840, 841, "that, in order to render a matter res adjudicata, there must be a concurrence of the four conditions, viz.: (1) Identity in the thing sue for; (2) Identity of cause of action; (3) Identity of persons and parties to the action; and (4) Identity of the quality in the persons for or against whom the claim is made." The last mentioned rule is followed strictly in this circuit. Schodde v. United States, (C.C.A. 9) 69 F. (2d) 866, 869, 870.

It further may be argued in contending that the petition for review should be granted, that inasmuch as the court, before entering the order adjudicating James Nyhan a bankrupt found a transfer of the license in question had been made to David Nyhan in fraud of creditors of said bankrupt, David Nyhan the adverse claimant cannot be heard to complain in a proceeding which, summarily without his consent, would deprive him of the right to have his claim determined in a plenary proceeding. This, however, in my opinion, is not the law. According to my interpretation, “. . . a claim may be adverse and substantial, even though in fact fraudulent and voidable.” Such is held In re Bastanchury Corporation, Ltd., (C.C.A. 9) 62 F. (2d) 537, 542. [28]

See, also, Mueller v. Nugent, 184 U. S. 1, 15, 22 S Ct. 269, 275, 46 L. Ed. 405, 412, and In re Yorkville Coal Co., (C.C.A. 2) 211 F. 619 622, in which, in the latter case, it is said, “Whether the facts are true or fraudulent or false or fictitious, it cannot be determined without the claimant’s consent. It is the claimant’s right to have the truth of the testimony and the merits of the claim determined, if he so prefers, in a plenary suit.”

On behalf of the trustee, as shown by the notations at the bottom of the written order sustaining the plea to the jurisdiction, (page 2 of said order), complaint is made that because the trustee “did not submit the matter to the court for its decision but rested on his affirmative and opening case; . . . the court on the record could not have been fully advised as to the law and facts,” and hence “could not ‘duly’ make and enter its minute order sustaining the plea of the respondent” (David Nyhan).

It is quite evident that what seemingly is overlooked in this contention is the vital factor that the court must decline jurisdiction as soon as the substantiality of the adverse claimant’s claim is made to appear, and in this proceeding that substantiality appeared as soon as David Nyhan's verified plea to the jurisdiction was placed before the court, and the trustee had ceased to present further testimony to show the jurisdiction in this court, so far as was, and is, concerned the summary determination of the rights of David Nyhan.

See Benjamin v. Central Trust Co., (C.C.A. 7) 216 F. 887, 888, 889, wherein it is said, “. . . substantiality appears as soon as the claimant, in response to the rule to show cause, presents his verified answer, which is unmet by the trustee, or which, if met by replication, is supported by sworn testimony of facts which, if true, would show title and possession antedating the petition in bankruptcy.” [29]

In connection with the complaint made on behalf of the trustee that the matter was not submitted for decision, it is to be noted that the denied request only was that counsel for said trustee be given an opportunity to submit authorities.

(Reporter's Transcript, page 9, page 20 of this certificate and report.)

No suggestion whatever was given that further evidence would be offered on the trustee's behalf. Unfortunately for the trustee, on the state of the record, had a request been made to present further testimony, under the rule existent in the Ninth Circuit, I legally would have been compelled to deny the request, because, at the time of the request to supply authorities even, I orally had made, and in writing had entered in my minute book, the order sustaining the plea to the jurisdiction. Under the circumstances, the entry of such order was final, so far as my power as referee was, and is, concerned, i.e., I could not have changed the entered order had I felt inclined to do so.

See In re Lyders, (D.C., N.D., Calif.) 16 F. Supp. 213, 214, 215, [undisturbed on appeal in Lyders v. Petersen (C.C.A. 9) 88 F. (2d) 9], and In re Faerstein, (C.C.A. 9) 58 F. (2d) 942, the court in the latter case, at page 943, having declared, "When an order is entered, the referee's power over the order is ended. The remedy is exclusive and he may not review or change the order. In re Russell (D.C.) 105 F. 501; In re Wister & Co. (D.C.) 232 F. 898; also, In re Greek Mfg. Co. (D.C.) 164 F. 211; In re Marks (D.C.) 171 F. 281; In re Avoca Silk Co. (D.C.) 241 F. 607; Matter of J. W. Renshaw's Sons, Bankrupt (D.C.) 3 F. (2d) 75; Matter of Wm. L. David (C.C.A.) 33 F. (2d) 748; David v. Hubbard, 280 U. S. 514, 50 S. Ct. 19, 74 L. Ed. 585." [30]

Assuming, without expressing an opinion, either pro or contra as to such procedure, that even as against David Nyhan, claiming adversely to the bankrupt's estate, the court in the first instant might have looked, and the District Court, as an appellate tribunal, may look, to the record as to the bankrupt's title to said license, the question relative to the title thereto is not necessary to be considered in connection with the complained-of order, for the pertinent reason that where the court's jurisdiction to proceed summarily is involved, “. . . the test of this jurisdiction is not title in but possession by the bankrupt at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy,” as was said in Thompson v. Magnolia Co., 309 U. S. 478, 481, 60 S. Ct. 628, 630, 84 L. Ed. 876, 880. Reverting to the proceeding of December 9, 1942, what had been proved on behalf of the trustee at the time the complained-of minute order was entered was either one of two things: (1) Positively, that at the time the petition to adjudged James Nyhan a bankrupt was filed, David Nyhan, and not the bankrupt, was in possession of the license, or (2) Negatively, that the license was not in the possession of the bankrupt at the time of the filing of the original petition in bankruptcy.

Such being the case, when the order which is sought to be reviewed was entered, from the mouth of the trustee's own witness had come the words that definitely and unqualifiedly showed that the court, upon the record presented, on December 9, 1942, was without jurisdiction to proceed against David Nyhan, regardless of its power over the bankrupt and his estate.

If, as the trustee claims, this license be a part of the bankrupt's estate, whose title thereto is good, even as against the claim of David Nyhan, the questioned order does nothing, except to say that the trustee must proceed against David Nyhan in a forum [31] in which the decisions of the higher federal courts have declared to be proper and, in this instance, the bankruptcy court, in my opinion, is not such a forum, as was, and is, evidenced by the order now sought to be reviewed.

TRUSTEE'S PETITION FOR ORDER AUTHORIZING SALE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY AND TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER THEREON.

Comes now John O. England, and respectfully represents:

That on or about the 17th day of November, 1941, an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of California, Southern Division, against Respondent James Nyhan, also known as James P. Nyhan, also known as James Paul Nyhan, also known as Dick Nyhan, and that thereafter such proceedings were had that on or about the 11th day of June, 1942, said James Nyhan, also known as James P. Nyhan, also known as James Paul Nyhan, also known as Dick Nyhan, was duly adjudged to be a bankrupt in accordance with the provision of the Acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy, and that thereafter and on or about the 20th day of August, 1942, your petitioner was [33] duly appointed as Trustee of said bankrupt's estate, and thereupon duly qualified as, and has since been and now is the duly appointed and acting Trustee of the estate of the above-named bankrupt.

That your petitioner is informed, believes, and therefore represents that on and before said 11th day of November, 1941, at the time said petition in bankruptcy was filed in said district as aforesaid, the above-named bankrupt was the owner of and entitled to the possession of that certain taxi license, issued by the Police Commission of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, under and by virtue of the Ordinances of said City and County of San Francisco, authorizing and permitting said bankrupt to operate eight taxi cabs for hire on the streets of said City and County and State, naming James Nyhan, doing business as "California Cab Co." as licensee.

That your petitioner is informed, believes, and therefore represents, that Respondent David Nyhan, claims an interest in said above-described taxi license but that as a matter of fact, has no such interest in law or equity.

That said Respondent David Nyhan and Respondent bankrupt herein have joint possession and control of said above-described taxi license, and that Respondent David Nyhan now holds possession of said taxi license as agent and or trustee for said Respondent bankrupt.

That by reason of the premises your petitioner is informed, verily believes, and therefore represents, that the said personal property was, at all times herein mentioned and still is, a part of the assets of the estate of said bankrupt and subject to administration herein as part of said estate.

That your petitioner represents that unless this Honorable Court enter its temporary restraining order herein forbidding any [34] transfer or encumbrance of that certain personal property above-described by the said Respondent, until this matter is finally determined by this Court, that said personal property will be forever lost to this bankrupt estate.

Wherefore, your petitioner prays for an Order authorizing and directing him as Trustee, to administer upon and to sell, in the manner prescribed by law, said above-described taxi license, as part of the assets of the estate of the bankrupt above-named free and clear of any property liens, claim, right, title, or interest of said Respondents; and that pending the hearing of this petition and until this matter is finally determined by this Court the Respondents, and each of them, be restrained from transferring or encumbering said personal property and for such other and further Order and or relief as may be meet and proper in the premises.

VERIFIED PLEA OF RESPONDENT DAVID
NYHAN OBJECTING TO THE SUMMARY
JURISDICTION OF THE ABOVE ENTI-TLED COURT AND FOR AN ORDER
QUASHING SERVICE OF ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE DIRECTED TO SAID RE-SPONDENT AS ISSUED BY THE ABOVE ENTITLED COURT

To the Honorable, the Judges of the United States District Court for the Northern District of California, and to Honorable Burton J. Wyman, Referee in Bankruptcy for said Court at San Francisco, California:

Now comes, David Nyhan, of the City and County of San Francisco, State and District aforesaid, Respondent to an order to show cause issued by the above entitled Court on the 11th day of November, 1942 and returnable on the 2nd day of December, 1942 and continued until December 9, 1942, and appearing specially and not otherwise for the purpose of objecting to the summary jurisdiction of the above entitled court and moving said court for an order quashing the service of said order to show cause, and for grounds of his plea objecting to the jurisdiction of the above entitled court alleges: [39]

1. That it affirmatively appears from the petition of the Trustee, John O. England, upon which said order to show cause was issued by the above entitled court, that the above entitled court was and is without jurisdiction to hear and determine the matters therein stated or to make any order against the respondent therein named except by consent of this respondent, and that this respondent has never consented to submit himself to the jurisdiction of the above entitled court, but, on the contrary, this respondent has declined and does decline to submit himself to the jurisdiction of the above entitled court to hear and determine any of the matters set forth in said Trustee's petition or be subjected to any orders of the above entitled court pertaining to any of the matters set forth in said Trustee's petition.

2. That it affirmatively appears from the face of said Trustee's petition and the order to show cause issued by the above entitled court, that the facts stated in said Trustee's petition do not confer upon the above entitled court summary jurisdiction over said respondent without his consent.

3. That it affirmatively appears from said trustee's petition, upon which said order to show cause was issued, and from said order to show cause, that the issues which the Trustee seeks to submit to the above entitled court as grounds for the granting of the prayer of said petition can only be determined in a plenary action and not in a summary proceeding instituted by said Trustee herein, and it affirmatively appears from said petition that no summary jurisdiction can be exercised by the above entitled court as it relates to this respondent, without the consent of this respondent.

That this respondent is entitled to have said issue determined in a plenary action and to have a trial by jury of the [40] issues raised in said petition pursuant to his demand.

For a further, separate and distinct objection to the summary jurisdiction of the above entitled court, this respondent alleges as follows, to-wit:

That before the petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed in the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of California, Southern Division, the Respondent, David Nyhan, was and now is the owner and entitled to possession of that certain taxi license, issued by the Police Commission of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California and mentioned in the Trustee's Petition.

Any interest of the Bankrupt, James Nyhan, by reason of the issuance thereof in said Bankrupt's name in said taxi license is held in trust by said Bankrupt for respondent, David Nyhan.

Respondent further alleges that the said Bankrupt, James Nyhan, has no ownership in said taxi license nor the possession thereof, and that said taxi license at no time was and not now is a part of the assets of said bankrupt's estate.

Respondent alleges that any order granting the prayer of the Trustee herein would be in excess of the jurisdiction of the above entitled Court.

Wherefore, Respondent prays that service of the Order to show cause issued by the above entitled Court may be ordered quashed on account of lack of jurisdiction of the above entitled Court to have issued said order to show cause.

PETITION FOR REVIEW OF REFEREE'S
ORDER SUSTAINING PLEA TO JURIS-DICTION AND QUASHING ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

To the Honorable Burton J. Wyman, Referee in Bankruptcy:

The petition of John O. England respectfully shows:

1. That your petitioner is the duly elected, qualified and acting Trustee of the above named bankrupt;

2. That heretofore and on the 10th day of November, 1942, your petitioner filed herein a verified petition for an order authorizing your petitioner to sell a certain taxi license or permit standing in the name of the above named bankrupt permitting the holder of said taxi license or permit to operate eight taxicabs in the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, free and clear of any claim of David Nyhan, [45] alias, and an order to show cause issued thereon and served on said David Nyhan, which order to show cause and petition was returnable before the above entitled court on the 2nd day of December, 1942, and was duly and regularly continued from said date for hearing to the 9th day of December, 1942, and that said respondent David Nyhan served and filed his answer objecting to the summary jurisdiction of the above entitled court and requesting an order quashing service of the order to show cause;

That thereupon a minute order was entered on the 9th day of December, 1942, sustaining the plea of the jurisdiction and quashing the order to show cause, and that thereafter, on the 11th day of December, 1942, an order was entered sustaining the plea to the jurisdiction and quashing the order to show cause, in words and figures as follows:

“In the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of California, Southern Division

No. 34467 R

In the Matter of James Nyhan, also known as James P. Nyhan, also known as James Paul

ORDER SUSTAINING PLEA TO JURIS-DICTION AND QUASHING OF OR-DER TO SHOW CAUSE

The verified Petition of John O. England, the Trustee, for an Order to Show Cause directed to Respondent, David Nyhan, and the verified objection of said David Nyhan to the summary jurisdiction of the Court and praying for an order quashing service of the Order to Show Cause coming on regularly for hearing this 9th day of December, 1942, and the Trustee appearing by his attorneys, and the respondent appearing by his attorney, and the Trustee having offered oral and documentary evidence upon the plea to the jurisdiction of the court and thereupon having rested and thereby submitted to the court the said plea to jurisdiction for its decision, the court thereupon being fully advised, duly made its minute order sustaining said [46] plea of said respondent to the jurisdiction of the above entitled Court;

It Is Hereby Ordered that pursuant to the minute order heretofore made by the above entitled court, the plea of respondent, David Nyhan, objecting to the summary jurisdiction of the above entitled Court be, and the same is hereby sustained and service of the Order to Show Cause issued by the above entitled Court directed to said respondent be, and the same is hereby quashed.

Dated: the 11th day of December, 1942.

BURTON J. WYMAN

Referee in Bankruptcy”

That said order is erroneous for the following reasons:

That said order is contrary to the facts and law in that the uncontroverted evidence shows that prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, which said petition was filed on November 17, 1941, said bankrupt attempted to assign and transfer said taxi license or permit to his brother David Nyhan, alias, said respondent; that under the provisions of the ordinances of the City and County of San Francisco, said license is transferable only with the consent of the Police Commission of said City and County, and that upon the 10th day of November, 1941, an application was made by respondent David Nyhan, alias, and said bankrupt pursuant to said municipal ordinance of the said City and County of San Francisco, to the Chief of Police and the Police Commission of said City and County for an order permitting said transfer and assignment of said permit, and the certificate for said permit was filed with said Chief of Police of said City and County with said application;

That thereafter and subsequent to the filing of the [47] petition in bankruptcy said Chief of Police and Police Commission denied and refused to permit the transfer of said taxi permit and license and that the same was redelivered by said Chief of Police to said bankrupt and his receipt obtained therefor;

That thereafter an appeal was taken by said David Nyhan, alias, said respondent and said bankrupt to the Board of Permit Appeals of the City and County of San Francisco, which said board thereafter sustained said ruling denying the transfer of said permit;

That the Referee's order on the foregoing facts denying jurisdiction for the summary order requested by the trustee to sell free and clear of any claim of David Nyhan, alias, said respondent, is contrary to the law in that said taxi permit or license at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy was in the possession of the bankrupt and was an asset of the estate and therefore subject to the summary jurisdiction of the Referee;

That the order of the Referee sustaining the objections to the summary jurisdiction of the Referee, cannot be sustained in law on the evidence adduced.

Wherefore, your petitioner prays for a review of the said order by the Judge of this Honorable Court, and that said order be vacated and set aside, and that the Referee be directed to enter an order denying the plea of the respondent to the jurisdiction of the Referee, and to decide the controversy on its merits and in accordance with the facts and law.

CONCISE STATEMENT OF POINTS TO BE RELIED UPON BY APPELLANTS ON APPEAL UNDER RULE 19 (6)

Comes now John O. England, Trustee in Bankruptcy of James Nyhan, alias, appellant herein, and specifies the following as a concise statement of points on which he intends to rely on his appeal herein.

That the order of the District Court appealed from affirming the Referee's order sustaining respondent David Nyhan's plea to the summary jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court and quashing the order to show cause, was and is erroneous, contrary to law, and not sustainable under the facts presented, in that:

(a) The District Court held that where a municipal ordinance provided that no taxi permit could be transferred or assigned by the owner and holder thereof without an application to the Chief of Police, and the granting of a permit for such transfer by the Chief of Police, and where the Chief of Police had denied, prior to bankruptcy, an attempted transfer and assignment of such license from the bankrupt to the respondent David Nyhan, that such alleged transferee had a sufficient claim to the license or permit to defeat the summary jurisdiction of the District Court and to refuse an order of sale of said license or permit to the trustee in bankruptcy free and clear of the lien or claim of said transferee.

(b) The District Court held that the attempted transfer and assignment of the taxi license or permit by the bankrupt to David Nyhan, notwithstanding the provisions of the ordinance of the City and County of San Francisco requiring the consent of the Chief of Police to such transfer, which consent was denied, created an equitable claim or lien in the transferee sufficient to defeat the summary jurisdiction of the District Court.

(c) The District Court refused to take summary jurisdiction to make an order of sale free of the claim of David Nyhan, respondent and appellee herein, where the application to transfer the license had been denied by the Chief of Police, and at the date of the bankruptcy the license still stood in the name of the bankrupt.

(d) The District Court held that the paper evidencing the license or permit was in the possession of the transferee at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, and disregarded the fact that the license or permit is an inchoate right and that the paper on which the license was printed was valueless to the transferee, David Nyhan, respondent and appellee herein, and gave him no rights therein without the consent to transfer of the Chief of Police.

(e) The Referee and the District Court erred in failing to find and decide that the court had summary jurisdiction of the property in question, to-wit, the taxicab license or permit, and of David Nyhan's claim thereto for the reason that all rights and privileges incident to said license or permit remained in the bankrupt at the date of adjudication and that the attempted transfer thereof or of the certificate evidencing the same to David Nyhan prior to bankruptcy was of no effect as the required consent of the Police Commission of the City and County of San Francisco to such transfer had not been obtained or was denied at the time of said adjudication.

IN THE

United States Circuit Court of Appeals

For the Ninth Circuit

JOHN O. ENGLAND, Trustee of the Estate of John Nyhan, Bankrupt,

Appellant,

vs.

DAVID NYHAN,

Appellee.

BRIEF FOR APPELLANT.

I. JURISDICTION.

This is an appeal by the appellant, John O. England, trustee of the estate of James Nyhan, a bankrupt, from an order of the United States District Court for the Northern District of California, Southern Division, affirming upon review an order of the Honorable Burton J. Wyman, Referee in Bankruptcy (Tr. ff. 49-50) which order sustained the plea of the appellee, David Nyhan, to the summary jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court (Tr. ff. 38-41) on appellant trustee's petition (Tr. ff. 32-35) for an order permitting the sale free and clear of any claim of the appellee of a license or permit to operate eight taxicabs on the streets of the City and County of San Francisco.

The District Court had summary jurisdiction of the case under section 2a, subsection 15, of the Bankruptcy Act, as will be discussed hereafter.

The appeal is taken under section 24 of the Bankruptcy Act.

II. STATEMENT OF THE CASE.

A. The appeal.

Appellant's petition alleged that appellee had no interest in the taxicab license or permit above referred to, and held that license as agent and trustee for the bankrupt. (Tr. ff. 33.)

Concisely, the issue is this. At the date the petition for this order was filed, the appellee held the bare certificate evidencing this permit or license. Prior to the date the petition was filed the Police Department of the City and County of San Francisco had not given its necessary consent to the transfer of this license to appellee and on that day, indeed, denied it, so that it remained of record in the name of the bankrupt. On that date the certificate was in the possession of the Police Department.

The Referee determined that appellee had such "possession" of this permit or license as to deprive the bankruptcy court of summary jurisdiction to order its sale and sustained the appellee's plea to the jurisdiction of the court on this sole ground. (Tr. ff. 42 and 30.)

The sole issue, therefore, is whether the appellee had such possession as to deprive the court of the asserted summary jurisdiction. Appellant proposes to show that under the facts the learned Referee erred in deciding in the affirmative.

B. The evidence.

James Nyhan, the bankrupt, was the owner of a permit standing in his name, issued by the San Francisco Police Department, authorizing him to operate eight taxicabs. (Tr. f. 20.) Section 1079 of the San Francisco Police Code provides as to the transferability of such permits:

“All such permits or licenses granted hereunder shall be transferable only on consent of the Police Commission after written application shall have first been made to said commission and upon payment of the fee received of the new applicants.” (Tr. f. 12.)*

*Section 1079 of the San Francisco Police Code (Tr. f. 12) reads as follows:

“Continuous Operation—Revocation Provided For. All persons, firms, or corporations within the purview of Sections 1075 to 1081 inclusive, of this Article shall regularly and daily operate his or its licensed motor vehicle for hire business during each day of the license year to the extent reasonably necessary to meet the public demand for such motor vehicle for hire service. Upon abandonment of such business for a period of ten (10) consecutive days by an owner or operator, the Police Commission shall, after five (5) days' written notice to the said owner or operator, direct the Police Department of the City and County of San Francisco to revoke said owner's or operator's licenses or permits, and said licenses or permits shall forthwith be revoked. All such permits or licenses granted hereunder shall be transferable only upon the consent of the Police Commission after written application shall have first been made to said Commission and upon payment of the fee required of the new applicants. Any and all such certificates of public necessity and convenience, permits and licenses and all rights herein granted may be rescinded and ordered revoked by the Police Commission for cause.”

November 10, 1941, the bankrupt sought to transfer his permit to appellee, his brother. In this behalf he and his brother went to the Police Department where the bankrupt endorsed his name on the back of the permit and filed it with the Police Department while his brother signed and filed his application for the issuance of the license on the transfer to him when the necessary approval of the Police Commission should be given. (Tr. ff. 13-17.)

On November 17, 1941, the involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed. (Tr. f. 32.) On the same date the Police Commission refused permission to transfer the permit. (Tr. f. 17.) On December 2, 1941, the Board of Permit Appeals of the City and County of San Francisco concurred in that decision. (Tr. f. 17.)

On December 2, 1941, James Nyhan and David Nyhan together went to the Police Department to get the document evidencing the permit. The Department indicated that it would surrender the document only to James Nyhan as he was the one in whose name it stood. James Nyhan signed a receipt, gave it to the police officer at the Bureau of Permits, and the permit was thereupon delivered and received. James Nyhan testified: "I was there, my brother was there, we both received it." (Tr. ff. 17-19.)

After adjudication the trustee, John O. England, obtained an order to show cause (Tr. f. 36) directed to David Nyhan to show cause why the trustee's petition (Tr. ff. 32-36) for an order authorizing the sale of the permits free from any claim of David Nyhan should not be granted. David Nyhan filed his answer containing a plea to the summary jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court and requesting an order quashing service of the order to show cause. (Tr. ff. 38-42.) Upon the hearing the Referee sustained the plea to the jurisdiction and quashed the service of the order to show cause (Tr. ff. 42-43.) Upon review the United States District Judge (Tr. ff. 44 et seq.) affirmed the order of the Referee. (Tr. f. 49.) From these orders and decisions this appeal was taken.

III. SPECIFICATIONS OF ERROR.

The Referee's order and the Order of the District Court affirming the same were and are and each of them is erroneous, contrary to law and not sustained by the facts in that the Bankruptcy Court had summary jurisdiction of the property in question, to-wit, the taxicab license and permit and all rights and privileges incident to said license and permit for the reason that the undisputed evidence shows that said license and permit was at the time the involuntary petition herein was filed, to-wit, November 17, 1941, owned by and in the possession of the bankrupt and that the attempted transfer thereof by the bankrupt to appellee was void and of no effect lacking the consent of the Police Commission of the City and County of San Francisco as required by ordinances of said city and county; and furthermore, for the second and separate reason that the claim to said property made by appellee was and is no adverse claim but merely colorable.

IV. ARGUMENT.

A. THE NATURE AND LIMITS OF SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

By virtue of subsection 15 of Section 2a of the Bankruptcy Act, the Bankruptcy Court has power to "make such orders, issue such process and enter such judgments in addition to those specifically provided for, as may be necessary for the enforcement of the provisions of this act."

This broad authority, broad enough indeed to cover this case, is restricted only by the provisions of Section 23, which requires plenary as opposed to summary action against "adverse claimants".

We agree with the learned Referee that under Taubel-Scott-Kitzmilller Co. v. Fox, 264 U. S. 426, 432, 433, 44 Sup. Ct. 396, 398, 399, 68 L. Ed. 770, 775, summary jurisdiction requires possession, actual or constructive, of the property involved to be in the bankrupt at the time the petition is filed. In defining the necessary possession the court said:

"The possession, which was thus essential to jurisdiction, need not be actual. Constructive possession is sufficient. It exists where the property was in the physical possession of the debtor at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, but was not delivered by him to the trustee, where the property was delivered to the trustee, but was thereafter wrongfully withdrawn from his custody; where the property is in the hands of the bankrupt's agent or bailee; where the property is held by some other person, who makes no claim to it; and where the property is held by one who makes a claim, but the claim is colorable only".

The Taubel-Scott-Kitzmiller case, supra, deals with physical tangible personal property where a definite distinction can be made between actual and constructive possession. In the present case, a license or permit to operate taxicabs for hire in the City and County of San Francisco is the subject matter of litigation. Such license is distinguishable from ordinary personal property in that it is an incorporeal right which is incapable of being physically possessed, so that the inquiry must be directed to the question whether it was constructively possessed by the bankrupt at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy.

The first question to be discussed is, therefore, whether at the time of the filing of the petition the bankrupt had possession of the taxicab license.

Irrespective of possession, the bankruptcy court had summary jurisdiction because appellee's claim is not a substantial adverse claim but merely a colorable claim.

When jurisdiction is the sole issue, on appeal the allegations of the petition or complaint are determinative of the facts. See Flanders v. Coleman, 250 U. S. 223, 227; 39 Sup. Ct. 472; 63 L. Ed. 948; 43 A. B. R. 563; and Matter of 671 Prospect Avenue Holding Corp. (C. C. A. 2nd) 118 Fed. (2d) 453, 45 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 253, 255, where it was said:

“It is conceded that the question of jurisdiction must be determined upon the allegations of the petition, which for present purposes are deemed to be true.”

B. DID THE BANKRUPT HAVE POSSESSION OF THE TAXICAB LICENSE AT THE TIME OF THE FILING OF THE PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY?

- (a) THE TERM 'POSSESSION' AS APPLIED TO AN INCORPOREAL RIGHT IS A FIGURATIVE EXPRESSION, SINCE INCORPOREAL RIGHTS ARE INCAPABLE OF MANUAL POSSESSION. HOWEVER, THE TERM 'POSSESSION' HAS BEEN CONSTANTLY APPLIED BY THE COURTS IN CONNECTION WITH THE DETERMINATION OF SUMMARY JURISDICTION OVER INCORPOREAL RIGHTS.

In the case of In the Matter of Worrall, 79 Fed. (2d) 88; 29 A. B. R. (N. S.) 604, 607, in connection with summary proceedings concerning a seat on the New York Stock Exchange, the court said:

“We have several times adverted to the fact that ‘Possession’ is a term hardly descriptive of control over a chose in action; yet, though borrowed from the field of tangible property, it has been constantly applied to intangibles. In re Hudson River Nav. Corporation (C. C. A., 2d. Cir.), 20 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 528, 57 F. (2d) 175; In re Borok (C. C. A., 2d. Cir.), 18 Am. B. R. (N. S. 270, 50 F. (2d) 75; and In re Roman (C. C. A., 2d. Cir.), 11 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 354, 23 F. (2d) 556. See, also, In re Kelley (D. C., N. Y.), 2 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 721, 297 F. 676, and In re I. Greenbaum & Sons (D. C., N. Y.), 24 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 301, 6 F. Supp. 245. The decisions are numerous that, if the bankrupt remained the legal owner of the chose in action up to the time of the filing of the petition, though it had become subjected to equitable liens or interests or attachments, his control was such that a trustee in bankruptcy who succeeded him was to be regarded as in ‘possession’ of the chose in action and as in a position summarily to determine his rights as against other claimants. Board of Trade of City of Chicago v. Johnson, 264 U. S. 1, 2 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 528, 44 S. Ct. 232, 68 L. Ed. 533; In re Zimmerman (C. C. A., 2d. Cir.), 23 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 570, 66 F. (2d) 397; Street v. Pacific Indemnity Co. (C. C. A., 9th Cir.), 22 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 170, 61 F. (2d) 106, 108; In re Borok (C. C. A., 2d. Cir.), 18 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 270, 50 F. (2d) 75; Seattle Curb Exchange v. Knight (C. C. A., 9th Cir.), 17 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 469, 46 F. (2d) 34; In re Hoey (C. C. A., 2d. Cir.), 1 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 107, 290 F. 116; Orinoco Iron Co. v. Metzler (C. C. A., 6th Cir.), 36 Am. B. R. 247, 230 F. 40; In re: Ranford (C. C. A., 6th Cir.), 28 Am. B. R. 78, 194 F. 658; O'Dell v. Boyden (C. C. A., 6th Cir.), 17 Am. B. R. 751, 150 F. 731''.

Among the decisions cited in the Worrall case, are two decisions of this Circuit. In the first of those cases, Street v. Pacific Indemnity Co., 61 Fed. (2d) 106; 22 A. B. R. (N. S.) 170, the question before the court was whether book accounts which the bankrupt had assigned to a third party, were in the constructive possession of the bankruptcy court and subject to its summary jurisdiction. It was held that the assignment of book accounts was not fully completed because the debtors were not notified of the assignment and this left the assignor in the constructive possession of the book accounts at the time of the filing of the petition.

The other case referring to possession of incorporeal rights decided by this circuit, is the case of Seattle Curb Exchange v. Knight, 46 Fed. (2d) 34;

17 A. B. R. (N. S.) 469. There, the question was whether the right to the proceeds of a sale of a seat on the Seattle Curb Exchange as between the trustee in bankruptcy and the Seattle Curb Exchange, could be litigated in summary proceedings in the Bankruptcy Court.

The bankrupt had been a member of the Seattle Curb Exchange. Shortly prior to the filing of the voluntary petition in bankruptcy, and for a valuable consideration, he had sold his membership to a certain Phippeny, endorsing his name upon the certificate of membership in said exchange, as well as making a written assignment of his membership to Phippeny. The question was whether in spite of such attempted transfer of the seat, the same came into the custody of the bankruptcy court at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy because the stock exchange had not consented to the transfer prior to bankruptcy. The court held that the seat was in the possession of the bankrupt, and hence had come into the custody of the bankruptcy court at the time of the filing of the petition. In deciding the question, the court cited, with approval, from O'Dell v. Boyden (C. C. A., 6th) 150 Fed. 731, 737, 17 A. B. R. 751, as follows:

“The ‘seat’ or ‘membership’ continued to be the ‘seat’ of Henrotin, and was a pecuniary asset which passed to his trustee. It was as much in his custody and possession as such a species of property is capable of. To deny the trustee’s possession would be to deny the capability of possession of a chose in action or other incorporeal right or equity. The possession may be constructive, and not manual; but it is only so because such property is not capable of a more tangible custody. Only through a court of equity can the pecuniary value of such an asset be realized to creditors or assignees. Only by decree in personam compelling the bankrupt member can such a transfer of membership be effectuated as will put the buyer in the place of Henrotin as a member. Over him for that purpose the bankrupt court has exclusive control, and in this sense, also, may it be said that the 'seat' or 'membership' was in custodia legis when the trustee sought the aid of the court to adjudicate the claim and liens asserted by O'Dell."

Reference is also made to the case of Board of Trade v. Johnson, 264 U. S. 1, 68 L. Ed. 533, 2 A. B. R. (N. S.) 528, which was also a stock exchange case, where the court held that the membership in a stock exchange as an incorporeal right passes to the trustee of the bankrupt, and then recognizes that such right is incapable of manual possession. The court said at page 12:

"The petitioners argue that a seat on the exchange, even if it be property, is incapable of manual possession, that it is really only a chose in action, and that the bankrupt or his trustee is no more in actual possession of it for the purposes of summary jurisdiction than the trustee would be in manual possession of a debt, to enforce the payment of which the trustee must certainly bring a plenary action against the resisting debtor. Membership on the Board of Trade is different from a mere chose in action, like a simple claim or debt asserted against another, and only to be enjoyed after its satisfaction or enforcement. It is a continuously enjoyed 'incorporeal right'. Hyde v. Woods, supra. The Board of Trade is the member's trustee, while it maintains and holds all its facilities for his use and enjoyment. As long as he has these, he may properly be said to be in possession of them. That creditor members may assert a mere restraint of alienation to enforce their claims does not oust the member's possession or personal enjoyment. By operation of the bankruptcy law the membership passes, subject to rules of the exchange, to the trustee for his disposition of it. The trustee does not become a member, but he does come into control of the bankrupt's right to dispose of the membership, and with the aid of the bankruptcy court can require the bankrupt to do everything on his part necessary under the rules of the board to exercise this right. The membership is property in a way attached to the person of the bankrupt and disposable only by his will. It follows him, therefore, into the bankruptcy court, which is given full equitable jurisdiction over his conduct in respect of his estate, and therefore comes into the custody of that court to be administered by it as a part of his estate."

In the case of In the Matter of Irvin Wechsler, 27 Fed. Supp. 301, 39 A. B. R. (N. S.) 214, the court was concerned with a liquor license which the bankrupt alleged to have assigned prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy. The court affirming the summary jurisdiction said:

"In the case of a license with the characteristics of property, there is summary jurisdiction to determine title if the debtor was in possession of the usual rights or privileges covered by the license when the bankruptcy proceeding was commenced, see Chicago Board of Trade v. Johnson, 264 U. S. 1, 2 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 528, or if an alleged adverse claimant has a title or lien that is only colorable.”

See also:

Fisher v. Cushman (C. C. A. 1st), 103 Fed. 860.

From the foregoing authorities, it is clear that possession by the bankrupt of incorporeal property such as a license or permit, has been recognized as the foundation of summary jurisdiction.

We, therefore, will discuss what the courts have held to be possession in the case of such incorporeal rights.

(b) WAS THE BANKRUPT IN ‘POSSESSION’ OF THE INCORPOREAL RIGHT AT THE TIME OF THE FILING OF THE PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY?

Under Section 1079 of the San Francisco Police Code, the consent of the Police Commission is a prerequisite to the transfer of a taxicab license, and the attempted transfer by the bankrupt to the appellee, his brother, was denied on the day of the filing of the petition.

It appears from the above facts that at the time of the filing of the petition no valid transfer of the taxicab license had taken place since the consent of the Police Commission, which is necessary to validate the transfer of a license, had not been obtained.

It follows that whatever dealings had taken place between the bankrupt and the appellee as to the taxicab business, no valid transfer of the license and of the business was made, because under the California law all agreements concerning the transfer of such a license are invalid if made without the approval of the licensing authority and such invalidity affects also transactions concerning the business for the operation of which a license is required.

In Teachout v. Bogy, 175 Cal. 481, 485, it was held:

“A permit of this character is issued in the exercise of the police power as a means of regulating the business of selling intoxicating liquors. Such permit is personal to the licensee, and it authorizes him alone to carry on the business. There was no law authorizing a transfer of the permit. Hence, a transfer of the paper issued as evidence of the permit did not carry to the transferees the right to conduct the business, nor exempt them from the prohibition forbidding any person to engage in the business without a permit. In so doing they would be guilty of a violation of the law to the same extent as if they had no permit. (Black on Intoxicating Liquors, Sec. 130; 23 Cyc. 154; 17 Am. & Eng. Ency. of Law, 232.) The contract was therefore an agreement whereby the defendants were to carry on the saloon business in violation of express law.”

See also 16 Cal. Jur. 190 where it is said:

“Thus a transfer of the paper issued as evidence of the permit to engage in a certain business in a city does not give the transferee the right to conduct the business nor exempt him from the prohibition of the city charter forbidding any person to engage in the business without a permit. Moreover, a contract for the sale of a business and of the license issued to the vendor, and for the subsequent carrying on of the business by the vendee without any other license, is an agreement whereby the vendee is to carry on the business in violation of express law. And the vendor's promise to pay a single consideration for the transfer of such a business and license is void. * * *"

Thus, all agreements to the effect that the license was to be transferred to the appellee, are void and invalid under the local law, and the ownership of the incorporeal right remained in the bankrupt.

In the case of incorporeal rights the courts do not distinguish between possession and legal ownership as in the case of personal property. So long as the legal ownership has not been validly transferred the bankrupt is still in possession of the incorporeal right.

This was squarely held in the case of In the Matter of Worrall, supra, at page 608, where the court expressed the rule as follows:

"The decisions are numerous that if the bankrupt remained the legal owner of the chose in action up to the time of the filing of the petition, though it had become subjected to equitable liens or interests or attachments, his control was such that a trustee in bankruptcy who succeeded him was to be regarded as 'in possession of the chose in action summarily to determine his rights as against other claimants'." (Italics ours.)

In the case of Matter of Marsters (C. C. A., 7th) 101 Fed. (2d) 365, 39 A. B. R. (N. S.) 103, the court answered the question of what is constructive possession in the case of an intangible, as follows:

“The term ‘constructive’, as applied to the possession of an intangible, is not used to distinguish such possession from some other kind of possession of an intangible. In the case of a tangible there can be a possession in fact as well as in legal theory; but in the case of an intangible, possession is a legal concept and is manifested only through recognition of legal consequences. It may be said that ownership of intangibles is the subject of possession, or that ownership draws to itself a constructive possession, but such statements merely afford a rational basis for the practical rule that the legal consequences of possession of a tangible res are attached to the ownership of an intangible res. One of the legal consequences of a bankrupt’s possession of a tangible asset is that his trustee succeeds to the possession, and the bankruptcy court thereby acquiring possession, has summary jurisdiction to adjudicate adverse claims respecting the asset.” (Italics ours.)

In the case of Hart v. Seacoast Credit Corporation (Crt. Chan. N. J.) 115 N. J. Eq. 28, 169 A. 648, which case is similar to the instant case in that the sale of a bus franchise was, under the local law, subject to approval by the Board of Public Utility Commission, the court said:

“That prior to approval by the commissioners the purchaser has no title, legal or equitable, in the franchise, even though he had paid the purchase price and the seller has executed and delivered documents of title. The purchaser has only the right to apply for approval. If and when approval is granted title then vests without further action of the parties.”

See, also, the recent case of Matter of Lissak, 110 Fed. (2d) 370, 42 A. B. R. (N. S.) 237, at page 239, where the court, citing In re Worrall, supra, said:

“The bankrupt still remained the legal owner of the chose in action represented by the policy of insurance and, though it had been subjected to equitable liens, he was still to be deemed in such ‘possession’ of it, that the bankruptcy court might in a summary way determine the respective rights of the bankrupt and adverse claimants.”

Hence, notwithstanding the existence of equities in others, the constructive possession continues to be in the bankrupt so long as the bankrupt remains the legal owner of the right in question.

In the instant case the bankrupt, at the time of the filing of the bankruptcy petition, was indisputably the legal owner of the incorporeal right, and therefore he had constructive possession.

(c) THE POSSESSION OF THE CERTIFICATE FOR THE PERMIT IS IMMATERIAL.

The transfer of the license could not be validly made without the consent of the Police Commission of the City and County of San Francisco. Hence a transfer of the paper issued as evidence of the permit did not carry the right to conduct the business.

See:

Teachout v. Bogy, supra, at page 485.

In a case where no consent of a third party or of an administrative body is needed for the transfer of a right or chose in action, the endorsement of a paper, evidencing such right, is considered as symbolic delivery of the right and as the act which makes the transfer of the right effective. However, in the case of a license which can be transferred only upon the consent of an administrative body, such endorsement of the paper evidencing the license and its delivery can be regarded only as an attempt to transfer the right which is void until consent of the licensing authority has been obtained.

This rule follows from the fact that consent is a necessary requirement of the transfer of the license and of the business. It has been aptly expressed in the case of Hart v. Seacoast Credit Corporation, supra, where the court held that "prior to approval by the Commissioners the purchaser has no title, legal or equitable, in the franchise even though he has paid the purchase price and the seller has executed and delivered documents of title."

To the same effect is the case of Seattle Curb Exchange v. Knight, supra, where this court held that the fact that the bankrupt had endorsed his name upon the certificate of ownership in the curb exchange and also had made a written assignment thereof, did not defeat the summary jurisdiction of the court because the necessary consent to the transfer of the seat had not been obtained prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy.

We also desire to refer to the case of O'Dell v. Boyden, supra, which was cited with approval by this court in the Seattle Curb Exchange case, supra, and by the United States Supreme Court in the Board of Trade v. Johnson case, supra.

In the O'Dell case the transfer of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange was subject to the consent of the Committee on Admissions of the Exchange, which had not been obtained prior to bankruptcy. The court said, at page 736:

“But the transfer is not made except by the acceptance of a candidate for membership who is elected in the place and stead of the retiring member. When a ‘transfer’ of membership is made, according to the terms, which clog such transfers, the transferee becomes a member and the transferor ceases to be one. It follows therefore that the mere execution of a paper preparatory to transfer or assigning a membership works no change in membership whatever.” (Italics ours.)

Since the actual possession of the paper evidencing the incorporeal right and the question of endorsement do not affect the constructive possession of the right itself, we believe that there is no need to discuss at length the question of who was the possessor of the paper at the time of the filing of the petition. In fact, at that time the Police Department was in actual possession of the paper evidencing the permit, and was therefore a bailee for the bankrupt until the transfer should be approved. The intention of the Police Department was to return the paper only to the person in whose name the permit was then standing, i. e., the owner of the permit. The bankrupt was always the owner of the permit, as the application for the transfer of the permit was rejected. The Department, therefore, held the paper as a bailee of the bankrupt at the date of the filing of the petition. However, we do not believe that there is particular need to stress this element of the case since the determination of the question who had possession of the paper does not add anything to the determination of the constructive possession of the incorporeal right, which is the factor upon which the summary jurisdiction of the court depends.

C. DOES APPELLEE MAKE A SUBSTANTIAL ADVERSE CLAIM, OR IS HIS CLAIM MERELY COLORABLE?

Independent of the question of constructive possession, which we have discussed above, the bankruptcy court had summary jurisdiction because appellee's claim is only colorable.

The case of Taubel-Scott-Kitzmiller Co. v. Fox, supra, expressly distinguishes between the question of actual and constructive possession, and the further alternative that "the property is held by one who makes a claim but the claim is colorable only."

Following the construction of the statute by the Supreme Court it has been said, in the case of Matter of Midland United Co., 22 Fed. Supp. 751, 36 A. B. R. (N. S.) 914, 921:

“It is only where the debtor in bankruptcy does not have possession of the property that the question as to whether the claim is colorable arises.”

See, also, the recent case of Bank of California v. McBride (C. C. A. 9th), 132 Fed. (2d) 769, 52 Am. B. R. (N. S.) 141, 146, where this court said:

“The court had summary jurisdiction in the premises if, when the bankruptcy petition was filed, the property was actually or constructively in the possession of the bankrupt; or if at that time possession was held by a person who made no adverse claims to the property, or whose adverse claims was determined on inquiry to be merely colorable.”

The Referee has quoted (Tr. f. 24) the case of Matter of Western Rope and Mfg. Co., C. C. A. 8, 298 Fed. 926, affirmed on certiorari, Harrison v. Chamberlin, 278 U. S. 198; 46 Sup. Ct. 467, 70 L. Ed. 897, where the Circuit Court of Appeals laid down the test for appellant whether the claim is adverse or merely colorable, by stating, at page 927:

“The application of this rule involves a definition of what is meant by colorable. In our judgment the meaning of that word as used in this connection is that a claim alleged to be adverse is only colorably so when, admitting the facts to be as alleged by the claimant, there is as a matter of law, no adverseness in the claim.”

The Supreme Court, in affirming the decision, defined a colorable claim as follows (70 L. Ed. 900):

“Without entering upon a discussion of various cases in the circuit courts of appeals in which divergent views have been expressed as to the test to be applied in determining whether an adverse claim is substantial or merely colorable, we are of opinion that it is to be deemed of a substantial character when the claimant’s contention ‘discloses a contested matter of right, involving some fair doubt and reasonable room for controversy’, Board of Education v. Leary, supra, in matters either of fact or law; and is not to be held merely colorable unless the preliminary inquiry shows that it is so unsubstantial and obviously insufficient, either in fact or law, as to be plainly without color of merit, and a mere pretense.”

See, also, May v. Henderson, 268 U. S. 119; 45 Sup. Ct. Rep. 456; 69 L. Ed. 875; Matter of Weing, 104 Fed. (2d) 112, 40 A. B. R. (N. S.) 248; Matter of Meiselman, 105 Fed. (2d) 995; 40 A. B. R. (N. S.) 792.

Under the above definition of a colorable claim by the United States Supreme Court it is apparent that appellee’s claim is merely colorable, because in the absence of the necessary consent by the Police Commission he could not validly acquire any rights to the license which under the San Francisco Police Code is transferable only upon such consent.

We again refer to the California case of Teachout v. Bogy, supra, where the California law has been determined to the effect that in the case of a business which is subject to a license, the invalid transfer of a license affects the validity of all agreements between the parties, which are connected with the transfer of the license, particularly the transfer of the business itself. Thus, appellee, by his agreements with the bankrupt, whatever their nature, could not acquire any valid rights which would interfere with the passing of the license to the trustee in bankruptcy, so that his claim to the taxicab permit is merely colorable and therefore subject to summary jurisdiction irrespective of the question of possession.

CONCLUSION.

We therefore conclude that on either of the theories presented in this brief, the bankruptcy court has summary jurisdiction.

To summarize, the two theories are:

1. That the license, being an incorporeal right, at the time of the filing of the bankruptcy petition was legally owned by and therefore in the possession of the bankrupt.

2. That the claim which appellee makes to the license is merely colorable because the consent of the Police Commission of the City and County of San Francisco, which was a prerequisite to the transfer of the license, was not granted, so that he cannot assert a valid adverse claim to the license.

We therefore submit that the District Court erred in affirming the order of the Referee denying the summary jurisdiction and quashing the service of the order to show cause, and respectfully submit that this court reverse the judgment of the United States District Court.

Appellant,

vs.

DAVID NYHAN,

Appellee.

BRIEF FOR APPELLEE.

APPELLEE HAD SUCH POSSESSION OF THE TAXICAB PERMITS AS TO ENTITLE HIM TO A PLENARY SUIT.

In response to an order to show cause issued by the Referee in Bankruptcy on the 10th day of November, 1942, the Appellee, David Nyhan, on December 5, 1942, filed his verified plea to the Court's jurisdiction. (Tr. ff. 8 et seq.) The matter came on regularly for hearing on December 9, 1942, and after evidence produced by the Trustee and the Trustee having rested, the Referee sustained the Appellee's objection to the jurisdiction. (Tr. f. 19.)

In his petition for an order to show cause the Trustee alleged:

“That said Respondent David Nyhan and Respondent bankrupt herein have joint possession and control of the above described taxi license, that Respondent David Nyhan now holds possession of said taxi license as agent and as trustee for said Respondent bankrupt.” (Tr. f. 5.)

Assuming the foregoing allegation to be true, then unquestionably, in the absence of any objection, or assertion of an adverse claim on the part of Appellee herein, David Nyhan, the Court legally would have been entitled to hold that the Bankrupt’s joint possession was sufficient, under the law, to enable the Court to pass upon, in a summary proceeding, David Nyhan’s interest, if any, in the permit in controversy. However, the Bankruptcy Court could not ignore the statements made, under oath, by David Nyhan in his verified plea to the Court’s jurisdiction, i.e.:

“That before the petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed in the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of California, Southern Division, the Respondent, David Nyhan, was and now is the owner and entitled to possession of that certain taxi license, issued by the Police Commission of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and mentioned in the Trustee’s Petition. Any interest of the Bankrupt, James Nyhan, by reason of the issuance thereof in said Bankrupt’s name in said taxi license is held in trust by said Bankrupt for Respondent, David Nyhan.

“Respondent further alleges that the said Bankrupt, James Nyhan, has no ownership in said taxi license nor the possession thereof, and that said taxi license at no time was and not now is a part of the assets of said bankrupt's estate.”

(Tr. f. 10.)

What was the evidence developed at the hearing?

The only witness called by the Trustee was the Bankrupt; not under Section 21a of the Bankruptcy Act but as his own witness and as a consequence the trustee was bound by the testimony of said witness:

“Q. These documents, including your permit were returned to you by the Police Department, were they not?

The Witness. A. They were returned to my brother. He was in possession of the permit since the time he arrived from the East. Sergeant Trainor would not turn it over to anybody but the one the permits were in, James Nyhan. I was there, my brother was there, we both received it.” (Tr. f. 19.)

It will be noted that by brother the witness meant, the Appellee, David Nyhan, and that David Nyhan “returned from the East in 1939 or 1940”. (Tr. f. 14.) The petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed on December 2, 1941. (Tr. f. 18.)

It should be borne in mind at the outset that the burden of proof in the proceeding was on the Trustee to establish grounds for summary jurisdiction.

See

City of Long Beach v. Metcalf (C.C.A.), 103 F.
(2d) 483.

Ordinarily the joint possession of the bankrupt, even with an adverse claimant, would justify the Court in proceeding summarily, but that rule is inapplicable herein for the reason that David Nyhan having set up his adverse claim to the effect that said bankrupt is David Nyhan's agent, trustee or bailee, the Bankruptcy Court was bound by the rule that where one holds possession under the conditions claimed by David Nyhan, that the possession of the bankrupt is the possession of David Nyhan, and hence the Court is without jurisdiction in a summary proceeding to deal with the adverse claimant's purported interest in the license in question but must be adjudicated in a plenary action.

In the case of Sproul v. Levin (C.C.A.), 88 F. (2d) 866, in connection with summary proceedings, the Court said:

“Hardly is there a question of law better settled than that a court of bankruptcy has no jurisdiction to hear and adjudicate in a summary proceeding a controversy as to title and ownership of property held adversely to the bankrupt estate and against the consent of the adverse claimant, and where such property came into the claimant's possession prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, exceptions above set out excepted; but in such case, resort must be had by the trustee to a plenary action.”

The only evidence the trustee produced was to the effect that the permits were in the name of the bankrupt, James Nyhan, at the time the bankruptcy proceedings were started. Appellee made that same allegation in his objections to the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court as may be above noted, but the said permits were held by the bankrupt as trustee for Appellee.

Here there is a clear cut controversy as to title to the permit held adversely to the bankrupt estate and such controversy must be heard in a plenary suit.

The Referee had preliminary jurisdiction to inquire into the nature of the defendant's possession and into any adverse claim so far as to see whether it is more than colorable. He made such inquiry and found he had no jurisdiction. This was in his discretion to do and such discretion cannot be disturbed on appeal unless there was a clear cut abuse thereof but which is not present in the instant case.

“The fact that they assert an interest or title adverse to the bankrupt does not require a plenary proceeding, although of course the court in its discretion might direct the trustee to resort to such.”

Chandler v. Perry (C.C.A.), 74 F. (2d) 371.

Also in

Autin v. Piske (C.C.A.), 24 F. (2d) 626, 627:

“Of course, a claim may be adverse and substantial even though in fact fraudulent and voidable; but the referee is not bound by the mere statement of the claim, and may make a preliminary inquiry as to the facts to determine whether it is colorable. However, when the evidence develops that there is reasonable room for controversy, he must desist and remit the trustee to a plenary suit in a court of competent jurisdiction.”

Also in

In re Bastarchury Corporation (C.C.A.), 62 F. (2d) at page 541.

“However, the court is not ousted of its jurisdiction by the mere assertion of an adverse claim; but having the power in the first instance to determine whether it has jurisdiction to proceed, the court may enter into a preliminary inquiry to determine whether the claim is real and substantial or merely colorable. And if found to be merely colorable the court may then proceed to adjudicate the merits summarily; but if found to be real and substantial it must decline to determine the merits and dismiss the summary proceedings” Mueller v. Nugent, 184 U.S. 15; Taubel v. Fox, 264 U.S. 433.

The Referee in the instant case found that the adverse claim of Appellee, David Nyhan, was real and substantial and even though such adverse claim be voidable, its voidability must be determined in a plenary proceeding. The Bankruptcy Court was adjudicated by the Referee not to be the proper tribunal to decide the issue upon the merits.

Appellant in his brief contends that because the permits were in the name of the bankrupt he therefore was the owner of them and entitled to the possession thereof and that such possession of the bankrupt was the possession of the Bankruptcy Court and that the Bankruptcy Court could summarily adjudicate upon them. But, the Appellee in his sworn objections to the jurisdiction alleged that he and not the bankrupt was the owner and entitled to possession of the permit and that any interest of the bankrupt, James Nyhan, by reason of the issuance thereof in said bankrupt's name in the permit is held in trust by the bankrupt for Appellee, David Nyhan.

Let us assume that the bankrupt could not transfer the permit without the approval of the police commission. Let us also assume that any agreement between the bankrupt and the Appellee was therefore void. Under the doctrine of the case of Autin v. Piske, supra, such voidability must be determined in a plenary suit.

On behalf of the trustee, the complaint is made that because the trustee "did not submit the matter to the Court for its decision but rested on his affirmative and opening case the Court on the record could not have been fully advised as to the law and facts." (Tr. f. 22.)

It is quite evident that what seemingly is overlooked in this contention is the vital factor that the Court must decline jurisdiction as soon as the substantiality of the adverse claimant's claim is made to appear, and in this proceeding that substantiality appeared as soon as Appellee, David Nyhan's verified plea to the jurisdiction was placed before the Court, and the Trustee had ceased to present further testimony to show the jurisdiction in the Bankruptcy Court, so far as was and is concerned the summary determination of the rights of Appellee, David Nyhan.

See:

Benjamin v. Central Trust Co. (C.C.A. 7), 216
F. 887, 888, 889

wherein it is said:

“The District Court may pursue the summary method to the point of ascertaining that the alleged adverse claim is substantial and not merely colorable. But substantiality appears as soon as the claimant, in response to the rule to show cause, presents his verified answer which is unmet by the trustee, or which, if met by replication, is supported by sworn testimony of facts which if true would show title and possession antedating the petition in bankruptcy. A conclusion that the alleged adverse claim is a cover for the claimant’s possession as agent or bailee of the bankrupt cannot be permitted to be reached by the District Court’s rejection of the sworn answer and testimony, and thereupon finding that the alleged adverse claim is fraudulent. That end can only be attained if it is the just conclusion of a due trial of a plenary suit.”

It will be noted that the trustee did not call the Appellee to explain his verified plea to the jurisdiction. (This he could have done under Section 21a of the Bankruptcy Act. So that under the decision of the above case Appellee’s substantial claim that he was the owner and entitled to possession of the permit was not met by the trustee and the Bankruptcy Court could not proceed further but held that a plenary suit was necessary.

CONCLUSION.

1. The Bankruptcy Court did not abuse its discretion when it held that it did not have summary jurisdiction.

2. The possession of the permit by the Appellee was sufficiently alleged in Appellee's objection to the jurisdiction which was left unmet by the trustee.

3. The substantiality of the Appellee's adverse claim was found by the Referee to merit its being heard in a plenary suit.

It is therefore submitted that the District Court did not err in affirming the order of the Referee denying the summary jurisdiction and quashing the service of the order to show cause and we respectfully submit that this Honorable Court affirm the judgment of the United States District Court.

At Law No. 7317S

MAE H. SAMPSON, individually and as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, Deceased, Plaintiff,

vs.

GALEN H. WELCH, formerly Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth Collection District of California,

Defendant.

COMPLAINT

REFUND OF FEDERAL ESTATE TAXES

Comes now Mae H. Sampson, individually and as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, the plaintiff above named, and for a cause of action against the defendant, Galen H. Welch, formerly Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth Collection District of California, alleges:

I.

That the said W. O. Sampson was the husband of the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson; that the plaintiff is a resident of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, and that the jurisdiction of this Court is dependent upon a Federal question in that the cause of action arises under the laws of the United States of America pertaining to the Internal Revenue, to-wit: the Revenue Act of 1926.

II.

That at the time of the collection from the plaintiff as Executrix under the Will of the said W. O. Sampson, deceased, and the disbursements to the defendant of the Federal estate taxes hereinafter referred to, the defendant, Galen H. Welch was the Collector of Internal Revenue in and for the Sixth Collection District of California, and maintained his office as such Collector in the City of Los Angeles, State of California. [2] That the said Galen H. Welch retired from his office as such Collector of Internal Revenue on or about the 30th day of June, 1933, and was not in office as such Collector at the time of the commencement of this action.

III.

That this action is brought against the defendant as an officer of the United States of America acting under and by virtue of the Revenue Act of 1926, and on account of acts done by the defendant under color of said office and of the Revenue Laws of the United States as will hereinafter more fully and at large appear.

IV.

That on the 23rd day of May, 1929, and for a long time prior thereto, the said W. O. Sampson, sometimes called William O. Sampson, and the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, were husband and wife respectively. That the said W. O. Sampson and Mae H. Sampson had been residents of the State of California from about the year 1909. That on the said 23rd day of May, 1929, the plaintiff, Mae T. Sampson and the said W. O. Sampson, made, executed and delivered each to the other a written agreement, a copy of which is set forth in "Exhibit A" hereto annexed and made a part hereof by reference.

V.

That the said W. O. Sampson departed this life on the 28th day of December, 1930, at the City of Los Angeles, State of California, having first made and published his Last Will and Testament in writing, which was duly admitted to probate by the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles on the 23rd day of January, 1931; that a copy of the said Will is hereto annexed, marked "Exhibit B" and made a part hereof by reference. That the said Superior Court granted and issued to Mae H. Sampson, under the name of [3] Mae Sampson, letters testamentary upon the said Will. That the said Mae H. Sampson has been at all times since the issuance of said letters testamentary and now is the duly acting and qualified Executrix under the Will of the said W. O. Sampson, deceased, and has not been discharged or removed from her office as such Executrix.

VI.

That the said agreement dated May 23, 1929, hereinbefore referred to has at all times since said date remained in full force and effect.

VII.

That on or about the 2nd day of August, 1932, the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles, made and entered its order of distribution under the Will of said decedent by which all of the property of the said decedent was distributed to Mae H. Sampson under the terms of the said Last Will and Testament.

VIII.

That on or about the 21st day of December, 1931, the plaintiff, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, filed with the defendant, as Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth Collection District of California, a Federal return for Federal estate taxes upon the estate of the said W. O. Sampson, deceased, pursuant to the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1926. That the return so filed by the plaintiff disclosed a net taxable estate of $237,136.21. That thereafter the Bureau of Internal Revenue audited the said tax return and made certain adjustments therein, claiming that the net estate subject to Federal estate taxes was $294,606.15, upon which the Bureau of Internal Revenue asserted a net estate tax of $2,316.16. That between December 16, 1931, and December 28, 1932, the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, paid to the defendant, Galen H. Welch, as Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth Collection District of California, the [4] following amounts upon account of said estate tax; said payments having been made upon the dates set opposite each amount:

Date of Payment	Amount Paid
December 16, 1931.....	$ 1,197.00
December 23, 1932.....	223.81
December 28, 1932.....	254.21

Total amount paid between said dates..$ 1,675.11

That of the amounts so paid the sum of $1,429.90 was erroneously and illegally collected by the defendant for the reason that the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, as an individual, had a vested interest in one-half of the community property owned by the decedent and the said Mae H. Sampson; which said one-half interest was not subject to the Federal estate tax upon the death of the said W. O. Sampson. That the said vested one-half interest in the said property was acquired by the said Mae H. Sampson under and by virtue of the terms of the said agreement dated May 23, 1929, a copy of which is set forth in "Exhibit A" hereto annexed. That said agreement was not made in contemplation of death, and the Bureau of Internal Revenue declined and refused to recognize the validity of said agreement and the effect thereof and included in the gross estate of the decedent, W. O. Sampson, the one-half interest belonging to the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, and computed the estate tax upon the interest of both W. O. Sampson and Mae H. Sampson in the property. That had the Bureau of Internal Revenue given effect to the said agreement the correct Federal estate tax liability of the estate of W. O. Sampson, deceased, would have been $245.21 instead of $2,316.16 as determined by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue; that the correct computation of the Federal estate tax liability of the estate of W. O. Sampson is set forth in detail in "Exhibit A", a copy of which is hereto annexed.

IX.

That on or about the 24th day of November, 1933, and [5] within three years from the date of the payment by the plaintiff, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, to the defendant of the said sum of $1,429.90, the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue at Los Angeles, California, a written claim for refund of the Federal estate tax so erroneously assessed and collected by the defendant from the plaintiff, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased. That the basis of the claim for refund was the same as that set forth in this complaint, to-wit: that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue erroneously included in the gross taxable estate of W. O. Sampson, deceased, the interest in the property acquired by the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson under the terms and provisions of the said agreement dated May 23, 1929; a true and correct copy of said claim for refund is hereto annexed, marked "Exhibit A", and made a part of this complaint.

X.

That thereafter, to-wit, on or about the 13th day of July, 1934, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, by his duly authorized Deputy, in writing, notified the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, that the said claim for refund so filed by her as aforesaid, was rejected in its entirety.

XI.

That the defendant erroneously and unlawfully collected, and is now erroneously and unlawfully withholding, the above mentioned sum of $1,429.90 so paid by the plaintiff as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, to the defendant and the said defendant is indebted to the plaintiff in the said sum of $1,429.90, with interest on the sum of $951.88 at the rate of 6% per annum from the 16th day of December, 1931, until paid, together with interest on the sum [6] of $223.81 from the 23rd day of December, 1932, at the rate of 6% per annum until paid, together with interest on the sum of $254.21 from the 28th day of December, 1932, at the rate of 6% per annum until paid.

XII.

That no action upon the claim herein referred to, other than herein set forth, has been taken before Congress or before any of the departments of the Government of the United States, or in any court. That no assignment or transfer of said claim has ever been made, and plaintiff is the sole owner thereof. That plaintiff is justly entitled to the amount herein claimed from the defendant and there is no just credit or offset against said claim which is known to the plaintiff.

Wherefore, the plaintiff prays judgment against the defendant in the sum of $1,429.90, with interest on the sum of $951.88 at the rate of 6% per annum from the 16th day of December, 1931, until paid, together with interest on the sum of $223.81 from the 23rd day of December, 1932, at the rate of 6% per annum until paid, together with interest on the sum of $254.21 from the 28th day of December, 1932, at the rate of 6% per annum until paid, together with her costs of suit.

EXHIBIT A.

Statement of Facts Annexed to Claim of Estate of W. O. Sampson for Refund of Federal State Tax.

W. O. Sampson and Mae H. Sampson were husband and wife, and were for many years prior to the date of the death of the said W. O. Sampson residents of the State of California. At the time they took up their residence in that state they had no separate property. On May 23, 1929, the said W. O. Sampson and Mae Sampson entered into an agreement of which the following is a true and correct copy: [10]

This Agreement, made this 23rd day of May, 1929, between William O. Sampson, first party, and Mae Sampson, second party, both residing at Los Angeles, California,

Witnesseth: Whereas, the parties hereto intermarried on or about October 3, 1899, and since that time have been and now are husband and wife and living together as such; and

Whereas, said parties, since the date of their marriage have acquired certain property which, by virtue of the laws of the State of California and/or written agreement between the parties hereto, is the community property of the parties hereto; and the parties hereto are desirous that the rights and interests of the respective parties hereto in and to all their community property be expressly defined and established in accordance with the terms and provisions hereof;

Now, Therefore, in consideration of the love and affection which each of the parties hereto bears unto the other and of other good and valuable consideration, moving from each of the parties unto the other, it is hereby agreed as follows:—

1. That all property now owned by the first party shall be and the same is hereby declared to be community property of the parties hereto.

2. That the respective interests of the parties hereto in their community property during continuance of the marriage relation are and shall be present, existing and equal interests under the management and control of the husband, first party hereto, as is provided in Sections 172 and 172 (a) of the Civil Code of the State of California.

3. That this agreement is intended and shall be construed as defining the respective interests and rights of the parties hereto in and to all community property, and the rents, issues and profits thereof, heretofore or hereafter acquired by the parties hereto during the continuance of said marriage relation.

First party does hereby assign, transfer and convey unto second party such right, title and interest in and to said community property as may be necessary to carry into full force and effect the terms of this instrument.

In Witness Whereof, the parties hereto have hereunto set their hands the day and year first above written.

WILLIAM O. SAMPSON
MAE SAMPSON. [11]

State of California
County of Los Angeles—ss.

On this 23rd day of May, 1929, before me, Laura J. Henderson, a Notary Public in and for said County, personally appeared William O. Sampson and Mae Sampson, known to me to be the persons whose named are subscribed to the within instrument and acknowledged that they executed the same.

Witness my hand and official seal.

[Seal]

LAURA J. HENDERSON

Notary Public in and for the County of Los Angeles,
State of California.

My commission expires Mar. 4, 1930. [12]

Section 158 of the Civil Code of the State of California, at the time of the execution of the said agreement, provided as follows:

“Husband and wife may make contracts. Either husband or wife may enter into any engagement or transaction with the other, or with any other person, respecting property which either might if unmarried; subject, in transactions between themselves, to the general rules which control the actions of persons occupying the confidential relations with each other, as defined by the title on trusts.”

Section 161a of the Civil Code of the State of California, effective as of July 29, 1927, provides as follows:

“Interests in community property. The respective interests of the husband and wife in community property during continuance of the marriage relation are present, existing and equal interests under the management and control of the husband as is provided in sections 172 and 172a of the Civil Code. This section shall be construed as defining the respective interests and rights of husband and wife in community property.”

It is the contention of the claimant that by virtue of the said agreement and of the foregoing sections of the law of California that at the date of the death of W. O. Sampson, to-wit: December 28, 1930, all of the property owned by the decedent and the said Mae H. Sampson, his wife, was community property in which she had a vested interest to the extent of one-half thereon, and that the share or interest so vested in her was not subject to Federal estate tax upon the death of the said W. O. Sampson.

In computing the Federal estate tax upon the estate of the said decedent, the share of the said Mae H. Sampson was included therein and the Federal estate tax was computed thereon. The tax so assessed thereon has been partially collected. That of the amount so collected $1,429.90 was erroneously and illegally collected. The said sum of $1,429.90 is made up as follows: [13]

ANSWER

Comes now the defendant in above entitled action, and in answer to plaintiff's complaint, admits, denies and alleges:

I.

Admits the allegations contained in paragraphs I, II, III, and X of plaintiff's complaint.

II.

In answer to paragraph IV of plaintiff's complaint, defendant has not information or belief sufficient to enable him to answer and on that ground denies each and every allegation therein contained.

III.

In answer to paragraph V of plaintiff's complaint defendant denies each and every allegation therein contained, except the allegation that W. O. Sampson departed this life on the 28th day of December, 1930.

IV.

In answer to paragraphs VI and VII of plaintiff's complaint defendant has not information of belief sufficient to enable him to answer, and on that ground denies each and every allegation in said paragraphs contained.

V.

In answer to paragraph VIII of plaintiff's complaint, defend- [17] ant admits that on or about the 21st day of December, 1931, the plaintiff, as executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, filed with the defendant a Federal estate tax return upon the estate of said decedent; that the returns so filed by plaintiff disclosed a net taxable estate of $237,136.21; that thereafter the Bureau of Internal Revenue audited said tax return, made certain adjustments therein, claiming that the net estate subject to Federal estate taxes was $294,606.15 upon which the Bureau of Internal Revenue asserted a net estate tax of $2,316.16; that between December 16, 1931, and December 28, 1932, the plaintiff, as such Executrix, paid to the defendant the amounts alleged in said paragraph of plaintiff's complaint, upon account of said estate tax; that the Bureau of Internal Revenue declined and refused to recognize the validity and effect of the agreement of May 23, 1929, between plaintiff and said decedent and included in the gross estate of said decedent the one-half interest which plaintiff claims and alleges was vested in her at the date of her husband's death, and computed the estate tax upon all of the property and not upon a one-half interest therein.

Defendant denies each and every other allegation in paragraph VIII of plaintiff's complaint contained.

VI.

In answer to paragraph IX of plaintiff's complaint defendant admits that on or about the 24th day of November, 1933, the plaintiff filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue at Los Angeles a written claim for refund of said Federal estate tax; that the basis of the claim for refund was that the Commissioner erroneously included in the gross taxable estate of said decedent the interest in the property alleged to have been acquired by the plaintiff under the terms and provisions of said alleged agreement of May 23, 1929.

Defendant denies each and every other allegation in said paragraph IX contained. [18]

VII.

In answer to paragraph XII of plaintiff's complaint defendant has not information or belief sufficient to enable him to answer and on that ground denies each and every allegation therein contained, except that defendant specifically denies that plaintiff is justly or otherwise entitled to the amount in her complaint claimed from the defendant, and denies that there is no just credit or offset against said claim.

Wherefore, having fully answered, defendant prays that he be hence dismissed with his costs in this behalf expended.

PLAINTIFF'S EXHIBIT No. 1

[Title of District Court and Cause.]

STIPULATION AS TO FACTS

The parties hereto by their undersigned counsel of record hereby stipulate and agree that the following facts in the above case shall be taken and deemed by the Court as proved upon the filing of this stipulation, subject to the right of either party to introduce other and further evidence not inconsistent with the terms of this stipulation.

I.

W. O. Sampson was the husband of the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson. The said W. O. Sampson and the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, were married on or about the 3rd day of October, 1899. The plaintiff is a resident of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, and the jurisdiction of this Court is dependent upon a Federal question in that the cause of action arises under the laws of the United States of America pertaining to the Internal Revenue, to-wit: the Revenue Act of 1926.

II.

At the time of the collection from the plaintiff as Executrix under the Will of the said W. O. Sampson, deceased, and the payments to the defendant of the Federal estate taxes hereinafter referred to, the defendant, Galen H. Welch, was the [22] Collector of Internal Revenue in and for the Sixth Collection District of California, and maintained his office as such Collector in the City of Los Angeles, State of California. The said Galen H. Welch retired from his office as such Collector of Internal Revenue on or about the 30th day of June, 1933, and was not in office as such Collector at the time of the commencement of this action.

III.

This action is brought against the defendant as an officer of the United States of America acting under and by virtue of the Revenue Act of 1926, and on account of acts done by the defendant under color of said office and of the Revenue Laws of the United States as will hereinafter more fully and at large appear.

IV.

On the 23rd day of May, 1929, and for a long time prior thereto, the said W. O. Sampson, sometimes called William O. Sampson, and the plaintiff, Mae H. Thompson, were husband and wife respectively. The said W. O. Sampson and Mae H. Sampson had been residents of the State of California from about the year 1909.

V.

The said W. O. Sampson died on the 28th day of December, 1930.

VI.

On or about the 21st day of December, 1931, the plaintiff, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, filed with the defendant, as Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth Collection District of California, a return for Federal estate taxes upon the estate of the said W. O. Sampson, deceased. The return so filed disclosed a net taxable estate of $237,136.21. Thereafter the Bureau of Internal Revenue audited the said tax [23] return and made certain adjustments therein, claiming that the net estate subject to Federal estate taxes was $294,606.15, upon which the Bureau of Internal Revenue asserted a net estate tax of $2,316.16. Between December 16, 1931, and December 28, 1932, the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, paid to the defendant, Galen H. Welch, as Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth Collection District of California, the following amounts upon account of said estate tax; said payments having been made upon the dates set opposite each amount:

Date of Payment	Amount Paid
December 16, 1931.....	$ 1,197.09
December 23, 1932.....	223.81
December 28, 1932.....	254.21
	<hr/>
Total amount paid between said dates.....	$ 1,675.11

VII.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue declined and refused to recognize the validity and effect of an alleged agreement claimed by the plaintiff to have been made, executed and delivered between the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, and the said William O. Sampson, dated the 23rd day of May, 1929, a copy of which alleged agreement is set forth as part of "Exhibit A" attached to the complaint herein, and included in the gross estate of the decedent, William O. Sampson, the one-half interest in the property claimed to have been acquired by the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, under and by virtue of the said alleged agreement.

VIII.

On or about the 24th day of November, 1933, the plaintiff filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue at Los Angeles, California, a written claim for refund of the Federal estate tax so assessed and collected by the defendant from the plaintiff, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased. The basis of the claim for refund was that the Commissioner of [24] Internal Revenue erroneously included in the gross taxable estate of W. O. Sampson, deceased, the interest in the property claimed to have been acquired by the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, under the terms and provisions of the said alleged agreement dated May 23, 1929.

IX.

Thereafter, to-wit, on or about the 13th day of July, 1934, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, by his duly authorized Deputy, in writing, notified the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, that the said claim for refund so filed by her as aforesaid was rejected in its entirety.

X.

That no part of the sums so paid by the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, as Executrix of the estate of W. O. Sampson, deceased, to the defendant as hereinbefore set forth, has been paid, refunded or credited, and there is no offset against the claim of the plaintiff herein for a refund of the same.

XI.

No action upon the claim for refund hereinbefore referred to, other than as herein set forth, has been taken before Congress or before any of the Departments of the Government of the United States, and that no action has been brought upon said claim for refund except the present action.

XII.

The total gross estate upon which the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue computed the estate tax upon the estate of W. O. Sampson was $493,109.15, which said value was fixed as of December 28, 1930, the date of the death of said W. O. Sampson. This amount is made up as follows:

Real Estate, all of which is situate in the State of California	$ 32,842.46
Real estate, all of which is situate in the State of California, held in joint tenancy by the		[25]
decedent and the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson..	35,532.88

Household furniture and automobile.....	1,980.00
Total Gross Estate.....	$493,109.15

The said sum of $493,109.15 includes the one-half interest in the property claimed by the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson under and by virtue of the terms of the said alleged agreement dated May 23, 1929, hereinbefore referred to. Of the property above mentioned all of the real estate, including that held in joint tenancy, was acquired after 1917 and prior to the 29th day of July, 1927. The unsecured promissory notes were acquired by W. O. Sampson in 1928. The accrued salary above mentioned was earned in 1930. All of the above mentioned stocks and bonds were acquired subsequent to 1917, and the household furniture and automobile were acquired subsequent to 1917.

SECOND SUPPLEMENTAL STIPULATION
AS TO FACTS

The parties hereto, by their respective counsel undersigned, hereby stipulate and agree that the following additional facts in the above entitled action shall be taken and deemed by the court as proved upon the filing of this stipulation.

I.

Each of the two parcels of real estate referred to in Exhibit A attached to the Supplemental Stipulation as to Facts filed herein and dated June 6, 1938 (reported as Items I and 2 of Schedule A in Plaintiff's Estate Tax Return), was at the time of its purchase and acquisition deeded to plaintiff's husband, W. O. Sampson, and, continuously thereafter, stood of record in his sole name until after his death.

All of the certificates representing the shares of stock referred to in said Exhibit A were, at the times of their acquisitions, issued to, and in the sole name of, plaintiff's said husband and, continuously thereafter, stood in his sole name until after his death.

The bonds referred to in said Exhibit A were payable to bearer and at the time of their acquisition were delivered to and purchased by plaintiff's said husband with funds earned by him prior to July 29, 1927.

Each of the promissory notes referred to in said Exhibit A [38] was drawn to the sole order of plaintiff's said husband and none was indorsed by him during his lifetime.

The life insurance items referred to in said Exhibit A represent the proportions of the proceeds of each of the seven listed policies attributable to premiums earned and paid by plaintiff's said husband prior to July 29, 1927. The premiums referred to in Exhibit E attached to said Supplemental Stipulation as to Facts were paid by plaintiff's said husband out of compensation for services rendered by him after July 29, 1927 and prior to his death.

II.

All of the certificates representing shares of stock referred to in Exhibit B attached to said Supplemental Stipulation as to Facts were at the time of their acquisition issued to, and in the sole name of, plaintiff's said husband and, continuously thereafter, stood in his sole name until after his death.

The bonds referred to in said Exhibit B were payable to bearer and at the time of their acquisition were delivered to and purchased by plaintiff's said husband with funds earned by him after July 29, 1927, and before May 23, 1929.

III.

All of the certificates representing shares of stock referred to in Exhibit C attached to said Supplemental Stipulation as to Facts were at the time of their acquisition issued to, and in the sole name of, plaintiff's said husband and, continuously thereafter, stood in his sole name until after his death.

The bonds referred to in said Exhibit C were payable to bearer and at the time of their acquisition were delivered to and purchased by plaintiff's said husband with funds earned by him after May 23, 1929.

The bonus item listed at the foot of said Exhibit C was compensation paid for services rendered his employer by plaintiff's said husband. [39]

IV.

It is expressly stipulated that this stipulation does not give effect to the agreement between W. O. Sampson and the plaintiff Mae H. Sampson, dated May 23, 1929, introduced and received in evidence as plaintiff's Exhibit 7 herein, and that the plaintiff does not waive the said agreement or its effect upon any of the property hereinbefore mentioned.

DEFENDANT'S OBJECTIONS TO FORM OF FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS (LOCAL RULE 8)

Comes Now the defendant and objects to the form of the findings and conclusions drafted and proposed by plaintiff's counsel and served upon defendant on the 5th day of August, 1942. These objections are made upon the grounds that (a) such proposed findings and conclusions are incomplete, (b) they carefully evade the issues raised and deecided by the Court, (c) they are misleading, and (d) they fail to comply with the requirements of Rule 52(a) of the Rules of Civil Procedure, in the [51] particulars pointed out below.

Among the four main issues raised at the trial and decided by the Court in this case were the following three:

First: Whether the "interest" in the husband's property given to the donee, wife, in 1929, was, under the laws of California, an "interest therein of the surviving spouse", within the meaning of Section 302(b) of the Revenue Act of 1926.

Second: Whether the husband, donor, in and by the 1929 gift or at any time before death, completely relinquished and transferred to the donee all his rights and powers of disposition, possession, enjoyment, dominion, management and control over the subject of the gift; whether he then or at any time before death transferred and completely relinquished to his wife all of his economic benefits arising from the transferred "interest"; and whether then or at any time before death the 1929 gift to his wife was completed; all within the meaning of Section 302(c) of the same Act.

Third: Whether the enjoyment by the donee of the interest transferred to her in 1929 was, at the time of the donor's death, subject to any change through the exercise by decedent of a retained power to alter, amend or revoke, within the meaning of Section 302(d) of the same Act.

Plaintiff's counsel proposes no express findings of fact or conclusions of law whatever in response to the above three issues which were argued at length by counsel, considered by the trial court, and [52] treated at length in its scholarly opinion (23 F. Supp. 271-291).

Instead, the Court is requested by counsel to make two findings (XVIII and XIX) and one conclusion (VI) to the effect that the gift was not made in contemplation of death, a fact that was not questioned but was conceded by defendant at the trial. (23 F. Supp. 276, column 1.)

Further, instead of proposing findings upon the issues actually tried, the Court is asked to find (Finding XXIX, p. 15) that the Bureau declined to recognize the validity and effect of the agreement of May 23, 1929. This, also, was not an issue. The validity and effect of the agreement was likewise conceded by the Government at the trial. (23 F. Supp. 276, column 1.)

This apparent endeavor by plaintiff to violate Rule 52(a) and at the same time to conceal, by findings and conclusions, the real issues here decided, is not due to a lack of skill in draftsmanship.

Omissions under First Issue:

The decision upon the First issue above will not be clear or complete in form, and will not comply with Rule 52(a), unless the trial Court makes findings or conclusions, either affirmative or negative, upon the following litigated questions:

1. Whether the "community interest" in property given in 1929 to the surviving donee was an interest created by statute, an interest protected against invasion during marriage, and an interest intended to aid in the protection of widows, grass widows and their children against want?

2. Whether the California Legislature, immediately before enacting chapter 103 of the laws of 1850 relating to marital property, considered and compared the merits and demerits of the common and civil law types of widows' estates; whether it finally and on April 13, 1850, chose a modified civil law or community type instead of the common law or dower type; and whether by statute, and at the same time, it expressly rejected dower? [53]

3. Whether historically, functionally and in the method of its creation, the community property interest of the decedent's widow resembles in any particulars the marital property interests of surviving wives in the other states of the Union, and, if so, findings as to each such likeness; whether such interest is an incident of marriage; whether the property to which such interest of the wife attached resembles in any particulars that to which attaches the interest of surviving wives in the other states of the Union, and, if so, findings as to each such likeness; whether such interest ripened into an estate absolute upon her husband's death; whether by last will and testament decedent could have put the widow to an election between taking such interest or taking under his will; whether such interest became a part of decedent's probate estate; whether immediately upon her husband's death such interest became a fixed estate in specific property or attached only to the residue; and whether such interest was ascertainable and distributable only by a court of probate administering the decedent's estate?

4. Whether the words "in lieu of", as used in Section 302(b) of the Revenue Act of 1926, mean "instead of"?

5. Whether the value of the property here involved, to the extent of the marital interest therein given to the widow in 1929, was at the time of decedent's death exactly one-half of the whole value of the property?

Omissions under Second Issue:

The decision upon the Second issue above will not be clear or complete in form, and will not comply with Rule 52(a), unless the trial Court makes findings or conclusions, either affirmative or negative, upon the following litigated questions:

1. Whether the agreement of 1929 was entered into by the parties for the purpose of reducing Federal income taxes?

2. Whether, in and by such 1929 agreement or at any time before [54] his death, the decedent transferred and completely relinquished to the donee all his rights and powers of disposition, possession, enjoyment, dominion, management and control of the property or interest therein transferred to the donee; and, if not, whether such rights and powers of the donor ceased, and then vested in the donee for the first time, upon and by virtue of the donor's death?

3. Whether, in and by the 1929 agreement or at any time before the donor's death, all of the economic benefits arising from ownership of the subject matter of the gift were transferred and completely relinquished to the donee; and, if not, whether all such economic benefits of the donor ceased, and then vested in the donee for the first time, upon and by virtue of the donor's death?

4. Whether, in and by such 1929 agreement or at any time before the donor's death, there was transferred from him to the donee the legal burdens and obligations incident to the ownership of the transferred property and interest; and, if not, whether such legal burdens and obligations of the donor ceased, and were then imposed upon the donee for the first time, upon and by virtue of the donor's death?

5. Whether the property or the interest therein transferred to the wife in 1929 would have become a part of her probate estate had she predeceased the donor intestate?

6. Whether the property or the interest therein transferred to the wife in 1929 would have reverted to decedent had the donee predeceased him intestate; and, if so, whether such possibility of reverter ceased or was relinquished upon and by virtue of the donor's death?

7. Whether the property or the interest therein transferred to the wife was subject to execution for her debts or obligations at any time before the donor's death; if not, whether it became subject to the donee's debts and obligations for the first time upon and by virtue of the donor's death; whether the property or interest therein [55] transferred to the wife was subject, both before and after the donor's death, to execution for his personal debts and obligations contracted either before or after the transfer; and whether such property or transferred interest was subject after the donor's death to administration expenses and a family allowance?

8. Whether, after the 1929 gift, the donor was still vested until his death with the exclusive legal right and power to discharge his personal debts and obligations out of the transferred property and out of the donee's interest therein, without the consent or knowledge of the donee.

9. Whether, in and by the 1929 agreement, the value, at the time of his death, of the decedent's interests, rights and powers in, to and over the subject matter of the gift was reduced to any extent or degree; and, if so, the amount of such reduction.

10. Whether, to the extent of the Federal income tax savings, the donor was richer after the 1929 gift than before?

11. Whether, in managing and controlling the property and the donee's interest therein after the transfer, decedent occupied the relationship of a common law or statutory agent, trustee or co-partner of or for the donee; whether, in managing and controlling the property and the transferred interest therein after the gift, decedent owed the donee, as principal, beneficiary, co-partner or otherwise, any of the legal duties or obligations, and whether there were imposed upon him any of the legal liabilities, of a common law or statutory agent, trustee or co-partner; and whether, in managing and controlling the property and the transferred interest therein after the transfer, the decedent enjoyed the legal freedom from personal liability to third persons which is enjoyed by common law and statutory agents, trustees and partners?

12. Whether the 1929 gift was intended to take effect "in possession or enjoyment" at or after the donor's death, within the [56] meaning of Section 302(c) of the Revenue Act of 1926?

Omissions under Third Issue:

The decision upon the Third issue above will not be clear or complete in form, and will not comply with Rule 52(a), unless the trial Court makes findings or conclusions, either affirmative or negative, upon the following litigated questions:

1. Whether, at the time of his death, decedent had the following powers over and in respect of the property to which the transferred interest attached, and whether such powers were legally exercisable by him alone and without the donee's consent, to wit:

(a) The power to use, possess and enjoy the property?

(b) The power to incur and contract debts on the credit of the property either below or in excess of the total value thereof?

(c) The power to sell, mortgage and pledge, to lease for any period of time, and to otherwise deal with and contract respecting, the personal property?

(d) The power by will to confer upon his executor the power to sell and transfer specific property, both real and personal, in discharge of his personal debts?

(e) The power to lose, break or demolish the personal property and any improvements upon the real property?

(f) The power to waste, squander, speculate with and completely dissipate the personal property and the income from both the real and the personal property in riotous living?

(g) The power to lease or rent the real property [57] for successive periods of one year, or from month to month, without limitation, and to deliver possession and enjoyment of the land to the lessee?

2. Whether, at the time of his death, the decedent had the following additional powers over and in respect of the property to which the transferred interest attached, and whether such powers were legally exercisable by him with the consent of the donee, to wit:

(a) The power to make gifts of the property, real or personal.

(b) The power to sell and mortgage the real property and to lease the same for periods longer than one year?

3. If at the time of his death the decedent possessed any of the foregoing powers over and in respect of the property, whether his exercise thereof before death could have lessened, destroyed, increased or otherwise changed the donee's enjoyment of the interest transferred to her?

4. If at the time of his death the decedent possessed any of the foregoing powers over or in respect of the property, whether his exercise thereof before death could have altered, amended or revoked the 1929 transfer, or could have altered, amended or revoked the donee's enjoyment of her transferred interest?

5. If at the time of his death the decedent possessed any of the foregoing powers, whether the enjoyment of the transferred interest was then subject to any change through the exercise of a power to alter, amend or revoke, within the meaning of Section 302(d) of the Revenue Act of 1926?

AMENDED ANSWER TO ORIGINAL COMPLAINT

Comes Now, the defendant in the above-entitled action, leave of Court first had and obtained, and files this her amended answer to plaintiff's original complaint.

Defendant admits, denies and alleges:

I.

Admits the allegations contained in Paragraphs I, II, III, IV, V, VI and X of plaintiff's original complaint.

II.

In answer to Paragraph VII thereof, defendant admits that the [61] order of distribution referred to was made and entered on or about the date named; admits that said order of distribution was made under the will of the decedent; and admits that by such other property of the decedent was distributed to his widow under the terms of his will.

In that connection defendant alleges that the widow accepted such distribution under the terms of said will; that all the property so distributed to her was, at the time of decedent's death, California community property of the type acquired after July 29, 1927 (hereinafter, for convenience, referred to as "new type community"); that the widow would have succeeded to the same property which was distributed to her had decedent not left a will; but that plaintiff, as decedent's widow, elected to take under said will.

Further answering the same Paragraph VII, defendant denies that either "all" of the property of the decedent or "all" of the property of the community was distributed to the surviving widow under the terms of the will or otherwise. In that connection defendant alleges that decedent owned no California separate property at the time of his death; that all of the property that became subject to administration in his probate estate was new type community property, and was all traceable solely to his personal earnings; that all thereof then stood, and continuously from the time of its acquisition had stood, of record in his sole name; that all became a part of his probate estate; and that there was distributed to the surviving widow under said order of distribution, only the residue thereof which remained after the discharge by the executrix of decedent's debts and obligations and the expenses of administering his estate.

III.

In answer to Paragraph VIII, defendant Admits that on or about the date alleged the plaintiff filed a Federal estate tax return on behalf of decedent's estate, reporting therein a net taxable estate of $237,136.21; that upon audit of Bureau of Internal Revenue determined the net taxable estate to be $294,606.15 [62] and the tax thereon, $2,316.16; that on account of said tax there was paid by the executrix the amounts alleged in said paragraph upon the dates set forth therein; and that in and by the agreement of May 23, 1929, decedent's wife acquired a California wife's community interest in the properties upon which the instrument operated;

Alleges that decedent's object and purpose in executing said agreement was to minimize Federal taxes; and that, to the extent of his subsequent income tax savings, decedent was richer after the agreement than before;

Admits that said agreement was not made by decedent in contemplation of death, except insofar as his California separate property was thereby transformed into a type of marital property having as its fundamental purpose the partial protection of widows and grass widows against economic want;

Admits that said agreement was valid and effective and that it operated upon the decedent's separate property, upon the spouses' joint tenancy property, and upon the California community property of the type acquired prior to July 29, 1927 (hereinafter, for convenience, referred to as "old type community"); and admits that the Bureau included in the gross estate of the decedent the value of the one-half interest which plaintiff claims and alleges was vested in her at the time of her husband's death, and computed the estate tax upon the value of all, rather than upon the value of but one-half, of the properties; and Denies each and every other allegation in Paragraph VIII contained.

IV.

In answer to Paragraph IX thereof, defendant admits that on or about the date named the plaintiff filed with the Collector a written claim for the refund of $1,429.90; and admits that Exhibit "A" attached to plaintiff's original complaint is a true and correct copy of such claim; and [63]

Defendant denies each and every other allegation in said Paragraph IX contained.

V.

Denies the allegations contained in Paragraph XI of plaintiff's original complaint.

VI.

In answer to Paragraph XII thereof, defendant denies that plaintiff is justly or otherwise entitled to the amount claimed by her, or to any other amount, and denies that there is no just credit or offset against said claim.

Further answering plaintiff's original complaint, defendant alleges:

VII.

(a) That in and by the agreement of May 23, 1929, decedent then made a transfer to his wife,

by way of gift, of an interest in his separate properties and in the old type community properties; that said transfer was not, and did not constitute, a bona fide sale for an adequate consideration, or a full consideration, or any consideration, in money or money's worth; and that said transfer was intended to take effect both in possession and in enjoyment at or after the donor's death, within the meaning of Section 302(c) of the Revenue Act of 1926, as hereinafter alleged;

(b) That in and by said instrument of transfer the donor expressly retained the full and exclusive right and power to manage and control all of the properties to which such transferred interest attached, including both the corpus and the income therefrom;

(c) That in and by such instrument the donor retained the full and exclusive dominion over, and the full and exclusive right and power to use, to possess, and to enjoy all of the properties to which such transferred interest attached, including both the corpus and the income therefrom, and to dispose of all thereof for an adequate or [64] inadequate consideration;

(d) That in and by such instrument the donor retained all of the economic benefits, and all of the incidents of ownership, of the properties to which the transferred interest attached, both corpus and income, including, in addition to the foregoing, the following full and exclusive rights and powers, to wit:

(1) To contract and incur personal debts and personal obligations on the credit of such corpus and income,

(2) To discharge his personal debts and personal obligations out of such corpus and income,

(3) To subject such corpus and income to the discharge, both before and after his death, of his personal debts, personal obligations and the expenses of administering his estate, including a widow's allowance,

(4) To mortgage, pledge, lease, invest, re-invest, and to speculate and otherwise deal with and contract respecting, both the corpus and income of said personal properties and the income from the real properties, and

(5) To lease or rent the real properties for successive periods of one year, and from month to month, without limitation, and to deliver possession and use thereof to the lessee;

(e) That in and by such instrument the donor personally retained all of the ordinary burdens and obligations of ownership of the properties to which the transferred interest attached;

(f) That all of the foregoing rights and powers, so retained by the donor, were exercisable without the donee's knowledge or consent and without accountability to her, were exercisable by him in his unlimited discretion and without liability to her for acts of misfeasance or nonfeasance, and were exercisable by him in the form and mode of a full owner of the properties to which such transferred interest attached; that in the exercise of such retained rights and [65] powers, the donor did not occupy toward the donee the relationship of a common law or statutory agent, trustee or co-partner; that in exercising such retained rights and powers, the donor owed the donee none of the duties or obligations, and there were imposed upon him in favor of the donee none of the liabilities, of a common law or statutory agent, trustee or co-partner; and that in exercising such retained rights and powers, the donor did not enjoy the freedom from liability to third persons which is enjoyed by common law and statutory agents, trustees and co-partners;

(g) That none of the foregoing rights, powers and economic benefits, so retained by the donor, were relinquished in whole or in part prior to his death; that all thereof ceased, and vested in the donee for the first time, upon and solely by virtue of his death and the distribution of his estate; that no part or portion of the burdens or obligations so retained by the donor was relinquished or transferred by him prior to his death; and that all thereof ceased, and were imposed upon the donee for the first time, upon and solely by virtue of the donor's death;

(h) That the donee's interest was so transferred to her

(1) That none thereof, and none of the properties to which it attached, or the income therefrom, could have become a part of her probate estate had she predeceased the donor intestate, and

(2) That none thereof, or of the income therefrom, could ever have become subject to execution for her debts or obligations either before or after her prior death, or during the harmonious marriage of the spouses; and

(i) That in and by such instrument of transfer the indefeasible passing of the gift was dependent upon contingencies which were terminable by the donor's death; that in and by such instrument of transfer the donor also retained the right to a possible return of the gift upon the prior death of the donee intestate; that such retained [66] right ceased upon and because of the donor's death; and that his death brought the gift into enjoyment by the donee.

VIII.

In the alternative, the defendant alleges:

(a) That in and by said agreement the enjoyment of the interest thereby transferred was subject at the date of the donor's death to changes through the exercise by him, both alone and in conjunction with the donee, of numerous powers to alter, amend and revoke, within the meaning of Section 302(d) of the Revenue Act of 1926, as hereinbefore and hereinafter alleged.

(b) That all of the donor's powers alleged and set forth in the foregoing Paragraph VII of this amended answer were exercisable by him alone and without the donee's knowledge or consent, and without liability or accountability to her, continuously from the time of the gift until the moment of his death.

(c) That in and by the instrument of transfer the donor also retained continuously until the moment of his death the full, exclusive and exercisable power to lose, break and demolish the tangible personal properties and any improvements upon the real properties to which the donee's interest attached, without liability or accountability to her therefor.

(d) That in and by such instrument the donor also retained continuously until the moment of his death the full, exclusive and exercisable power to waste, squander, speculate with and completely dissipate the personal properties to which the transferred interest attached, as well as the income therefrom, together with the income from the real properties to which such interest attached, without liability or accountability to the donee therefor.

(e) That in and by such instrument the donor also retained continuously until the moment of his death the full, exclusive and exercisable power by will to confer upon his executor the full power to sell and transfer any one or more of the specific real and personal [67] properties to which the donee's interest attached, for the purpose of discharging his personal debts and obligations.

(f) That in and by such instrument the donor also retained continuously until the moment of his death the powers, exercisable with the consent of the donee.

(1) to make gifts of the properties, both real and personal, to which the transferred interest attached, and

(2) to sell and mortgage the real properties to which such interest attached, and to lease the same for periods longer than one year.

(g) That the exercise by the donor of any of the foregoing powers would have lessened, augmented or otherwise changed and altered the donee's enjoyment of the interest transferred to her.

(h) That the exercise by the donor of any one or more of the following powers would have completely divested the donee of her transferred interest in one or more or all of the properties to which it attached, to wit:

(1) The power to sell the tangible personal properties, and to dissipate the same and the income therefrom, either intentionally or unintentionally, by use, destruction, pledge and mortgage, and by payment of his personal debts and obligations therewith and with the proceeds of any sale, mortgage or pledge thereof;

(2) The power to sell both the tangible and intangible personal properties, and to dissipate the same and the income therefrom, either intentionally or unintentionally, by unsuccessful investment, speculation, pledge and mortgage, and by the payment of his personal debts and obligations therewith and with the proceeds of any sale, mortgage or pledge thereof; and

(3) The power to contract and incur personal debts and obligations amounting to a sum in excess of the value of all the properties to which the donee's interest attached, both real [68] and personal, with resulting execution sales, bankruptcy or death insolvent.

(i) That in and by such instrument of transfer the indefeasible passing of the gift was dependent upon contingencies which were terminable by, and which terminated upon, the donor's death.

IX.

In the alternative, the defendant alleges:

Defendant realleges and incorporates herein by reference each and all of the allegations contained in Paragraphs VII and VIII hereof, the same as though set forth herein in full.

That all the property, the value of which was included by the Commissioner in decedent's gross estate for estate tax purposes, was community property of the California type, and was traceable solely to decedent's personal earnings and his separate property; and that the widow's community interest therein was an interest therein of a surviving spouse, existing at the time of the decedent's death, within the meaning of Section 302(b) of the Revenue Act of 1926.

That during marriage plaintiff's said interest was an interest protected to some extent against invasion, was an interest conferred by statute upon California wives, and was so conferred for the sole and fundamental purpose of protecting widows and grass widows to some extent against want; that this civil law or community system of marital property was created by statute; that this civil law type of widows' and grass widows' estate was consciously and deliberately chosen in 1850 by the first session of the California Legislature in lieu of the common law or dower type of widows' estate; and that concurrently with such choice, the Legislature expressly rejected dower by statute.

That both during and after the death of decedent, most of the characteristics of plaintiff's said interest were identical with those of statutory and common law dower; that such interest was strictly an incident of marriage; that it attached to the same type of property to which dower attaches in other states of the Union; that, like dower, it [69] ripened into an estate absolute upon the death of decedent, subject only to the payment of his debts and expenses of administration; that by last will and testament decedent could, and did, put his widow to an election between taking such interest or of taking under his will; that upon his death and after the administration of his estate such interest, for the first time, became a fixed estate in specific property; that such interest was ascertainable and distributable only by a court of probate; that during marriage such interest was not transferable by her to third persons but was relinquishable, nor could she contract debts on the credit thereof or incur liabilities collectible therefrom; and that the value of such interest during marriage was far less than one-half the value of the properties to which it attached.

That the only powers exercisable by plaintiff, during her harmonious marriage to decedent, were strictly protective and consisted exclusively of the following, to wit:

(1) The negative power to prevent decedent's transfer, mortgage or lease for periods longer than one year of the real estate to which her interest attached, by refusing to consent in writing thereto;

(2) The affirmative power, exercisable for only one year after the filing for record of such a transfer, mortgage or lease of real estate executed by decedent without her written consent, to avoid the same and cause the return thereof to decedent's possession;

(3) The negative power to prevent a gift by decedent of the personal property to which her interest attached, by refusing to consent in writing thereto; and

(4) The affirmative power to set aside gifts of both real and personal properties to which such interest attached, made by the decedent without her written consent, and transfers thereof made in fraud of such interest, and cause the return thereof to decedent's possession. [70]

That the words "in lieu of", as used in Section 302(b) of the Revenue Act of 1926, mean and were intended by Congress to mean "instead of".

X.

In the alternative, the defendant alleges:

That all of the property, the value of which was included by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in decedent's gross estate for estate tax purposes, was new type California community property, and was all traceable either to decedent's personal earnings or to his separate property; and that the value so included was the value of the property to the extent of the interest therein of the decedent at the time of his death, within the meaning of Section 302(a) of the Revenue Act of 1926, and was likewise the full value of the property.

Defendant realleges and incorporates herein by reference each and all of the allegations concerning the rights and powers of the decedent in, to and over, and concerning those of the wife in respect of, such property during his lifetime, contained in Paragraphs VII, VIII and IX hereof, the same as though set forth herein in full.

That the wife's interest in such property at the time of decedent's death was not divestible by the Legislature but was divestible by decedent; that such interest of the wife was a property interest wholly unknown to the common law; and that the dominion and full control of, all of the economic benefits flowing from, and all of the incidents of ownership of, the property to which her interest attached, were vested exclusively in the decedent at the time of his death.

That the value of the wife's interest in such property at the time of decedent's death was but nominal, and is incapable of measurement by proof or formula; and that the Commissioner did not err in determining that such interest was valueless.

Wherefore, having fully answered, defendant prays that she be [71] hence dismissed with her costs in this behalf expended.

[Title of District Court and Cause.]

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The above entitled cause came on regularly for trial on the 14th day of December, 1936, before the Court sitting without a jury, trial by jury having been waived by written stipulation of the parties; plaintiff appearing by Frank Mergenthaler, Esquire, and the defendant appearing by Peirson M. Hall, United States Attorney for the Southern District of California, and Edward H. Mitchell, Assistant United States Attorney for said District, and evidence both oral and documentary, including written stipulations of facts, having been received and the Court having fully considered the same hereby makes the following special findings of fact:

I.

The plaintiff is a resident of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, and the jurisdiction of this Court is dependent upon a Federal question in that the cause of action arises under the laws of the United States of America pertaining to the Internal Revenue, to-wit: the Revenue Act of 1926.

II.

At the time of the collection from the plaintiff as [73] Executrix under the Will of the said W. O. Sampson, deceased, and the payments to the defendant of the Federal estate taxes hereinafter referred to, the defendant, Galen H. Welch, was the Collector of Internal Revenue in and for the Sixth Collection District of California, and maintained his office as such Collector in the City of Los Angeles, State of California. The said Galen H. Welch retired from his office as such Collector of Internal Revenue on or about the 30th day of June, 1933, and was not in office as such Collector at the time of the commencement of this action.

III.

This action is brought against the defendant as an officer of the United States of America acting under and by virtue of the Revenue Act of 1926, and on account of acts done by the defendant under color of said office and of the Revenue Laws of the United States.

IV.

Plaintiff and William O. Sampson were married in 1899 and established their residence in California in the year 1909. They lived together as husband and wife and resided in the State of California until Mr. Sampson's death on December 28, 1930. Mr. Sampson died on said last named date.

V.

On or about the 21st day of December, 1931, the plaintiff, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, filed with the defendant, as Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth Collection District of California, a return for Federal estate taxes upon the estate of the said W. O. Sampson, deceased. The return so filed disclosed a net taxable estate of $237,136.21. Thereafter the Bureau of Internal Revenue audited the said tax return and made certain adjustments therein, claiming that the net estate subject to Federal estate taxes was $294,606.15, upon which the Bureau of Internal Revenue asserted a net estate tax of $2,316.16. [74] Between December 16, 1931, and December 28, 1932, the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, paid to the defendant, Galen H. Welch, as Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth Collection District of California, the following amounts upon account of said estate tax, said payments having been made upon the dates set opposite each amount:

Date of Payment	Amount Paid
December 16, 1931.....	$ 1,197.09
December 23, 1932.....	223.81
December 28, 1932.....	254.21
	<hr/>
Total amount paid between said dates.....	$ 1,675.11

VI.

Prior to her husband's death, and on the 23rd day of May, 1929, a written agreement was made, executed and delivered between plaintiff and said William O. Sampson. The following is a true and correct copy of said agreement between the plaintiff and the said decedent, William O. Sampson:

This Agreement, made this 23rd day of May, 1929, between William O. Sampson, first party, and Mae Sampson, second party, both residing at Los Angeles, California,

Witnesseth: Whereas, the parties hereto inter-married on or about October 3, 1899, and since that time have been and now are husband and wife and living together as such; and

Whereas, said parties, since the date of their marriage have acquired certain property which, by virtue of the laws of the State of California and/or written agreement between the parties hereto, is the community property of the parties hereto; and the parties hereto are desirous that the rights and interests of the re- [75] spective parties hereto in and to all their community property be expressly defined and established in accordance with the terms and provisions hereof;

Now Therefore, in consideration of the love and affection which each of the parties hereto bears unto the other and of other good and valuable consideration, moving from each of the parties unto the other, it is hereby agreed as follows:—

1. That all property now owned by the first party shall be and the same is hereby declared to be community property of the parties hereto.

2. That the respective interests of the parties hereto in their community property during the continuance of the marriage relation are and shall be present, existing and equal interests under the management and control of the husband, first party hereto, as is provided in Sections 172 and 172 (a) of the Civil Code of the State of California.

3. That this agreement is intended and shall be construed as defining the respective interests and rights of the parties hereto in and to all community property, and the rents, issues and profits thereof, heretofore or hereafter acquired by the parties hereto during the continuance of said marriage relation.

First party does hereby assign, transfer and convey unto second party such right, title and interest in and to said community property as may be necessary to carry into full force and effect the terms of this instrument.

In Witness Whereof the parties hereto have hereunto set their hands the day and year first above written.

WILLIAM O. SAMPSON

VII.

On or about the 24th day of November, 1933, the plaintiff filed with the Collector of Internal Revenue at Los Angeles, California, a written claim for refund of the Federal estate tax so assessed and collected by the defendant from the plaintiff as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased. The basis of the claim for refund was that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue erroneously included in the gross taxable estate of W. O. Sampson, deceased, the interest in the property claimed to have been acquired by the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, under the terms and provisions of the said agreement dated May 23, 1929.

VIII.

Thereafter, to-wit, on or about the 13th day of July, 1934, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, by his duly authorized deputy, in writing notified the plaintiff Mae H. Sampson, as Executrix under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased, that the said claim for refund so filed by her as aforesaid was rejected in its entirety.

IX.

That no part of the sums so paid by the plaintiff Mae H. Sampson, as Executrix of the estate of W.

O. Sampson, deceased, to the defendant as hereinbefore set forth has been paid, refunded or credited, and that there is no offset against the claim of the plaintiff herein for a refund of the same.

X.

No action upon the claim for refund hereinbefore referred to, other than as herein set forth, has been taken before Congress or before any of the Departments of the Government of the United States, and that no action has been brought upon said claim for refund except the present action.

XI.

The total gross estate upon which the United States [77] Bureau of Internal Revenue computed the estate tax upon the estate of W. O. Sampson was $493,109.15, which said value was fixed as of December 28, 1930, the date of the death of said W. O. Sampson. This amount is made up as follows:

Real Estate, all of which is situate in the State of California	$ 32,842.46
Real estate, all of which is situate in the State of California, held in joint tenancy by the decedent and the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson	35,532.88
Corporate Common and Preferred stocks evidenced by certificates.....	312,273.88
Corporate bonds payable to bearer with interest accrued to December 28, 1930.....	8,974.90
Unsecured negotiable promissory notes with accrued interest thereon and checks payable to W. O. Sampson.....	25,959.91
Life Insurance payable to the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson	$109,331.88
Less amount exempt under Section

302(g) of the Revenue Act of 1926	40,000.00
		69,331.88
Salary (bonus) accrued at the date of decedent's death		6,213.24
Household furniture and automobile.....		1,980.00
		$493,109.15
Total Gross Estate.....		$493,109.15

The said sum of $493,109.15 includes the one-half interest in the property claimed by the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson under and by virtue of the terms of the said alleged agreement dated May 23, 1929, hereinbefore referred to. The Bureau allowed deductions in the sum of $198,503, leaving a net taxable estate amounting to $294,606.15, upon which latter sum a total tax, after deducting a credit for California inheritance tax paid, in the sum of $2,316.16, was computed and assessed.

XII.

Of the property included in the gross estate by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in computing such Federal estate tax, the following property acquired by decedent prior to July 29, 1927, was community or separate property at the time of its [78] acquisition; the community property having been acquired with funds earned by him before said date:

All of the foregoing was community property except Items B-1 and B-21, which two latter items of Bullock's stock were the separate property of decedent acquired by gift, at the time of acquisition. [79]

The two parcels of real estate listed above were, at the time of their purchase, deeded to plaintiff's husband, W. O. Sampson, and continuously thereafter stood of record in his sole name until after his death. The bonds referred to above were payable to bearer and, at the time of their purchase, were delivered to plaintiff's said husband. Each of the two promissory notes referred to above was drawn to the sole order of plaintiff's said husband, and neither was endorsed by him during his lifetime. The life insurance items referred to above represent the proportions of the proceeds of each of the seven listed policies attributable to premiums earned and paid by plaintiff's said husband prior to July 29, 1927. These policies were all payable to plaintiff as beneficiary.

The certificates representing the two items of Bullock's stock (Items B-1 and B-21) were, at the time of their said acquisition, issued to, and in the sole name of, plaintiff's said husband and, continuously thereafter until a date subsequent to his death, stood in his sole name.

The last item above (D-2-2), consisting of cash in the sum of $46.57, was earned by decedent prior to July 29, 1927.

By said agreement of May 23, 1929, the parties transferred all of the said community property of the parties and said husband's said separate property (described and referred to in this finding XII) into community property of the spouses of the type acquired by California married persons after July 29, 1927; and Mr. Sampson transferred to plaintiff such an interest in all such community and separate property as would have accrued to plaintiff under the community property laws of California, including the provisions of Section 161a of the California Civil Code, had such property been purchased with funds earned in California by the community after July 29, 1927. [80]

The 1930 bonus item, just listed, was compensation paid for services rendered his employer in 1930 by plaintiff's said husband. The above property listed in this Finding XIV was, at the time of its acquisition, community property of the spouses of the type acquired by California married persons with funds earned after July 29, 1927.

XXII.

Said Last Will and Testament has been admitted to probate by the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles.

XXIII.

XXIV.

Said Josephine Welch Overton is now the duly appointed, qualified and acting Executrix of the Estate of said Galen H. Welch, deceased.

XXV.

Notice to creditors of the said Galen H. Welch was first published on August 29, 1941.

XXVI.

The plaintiff herein filed with the Clerk of said Superior Court her claim against said estate of Galen H. Welch, deceased, in the sum of $1,429.90 for Federal Estate Taxes, which the plaintiff herein claims were erroneously and illegally levied, assessed and collected upon the estate of the said W. O. Sampson, deceased, by the said Galen H. Welch, acting in his capacity as a Collector of Internal Revenue; the said claim being the [86] identical claim which is the subject matter of this action; said claim was so filed on February 4, 1942.

XXVII.

Under date of March 29, 1942, the said Josephine Welch Overton, as Executrix of the Estate of said Galen H. Welch, deceased, rejected the said claim in writing.

Sampson, the one-half interest belonging to the plaintiff, Mae H. Sampson, and computed the estate tax upon the interest of both W. O. Sampson and Mae H. Sampson in the property.

XXX.

The plaintiff is now and has been since the 23rd day of January, 1931, the duly appointed, qualified and acting Executrix of the Estate of W. O. Sampson, deceased, the said W. O. Supplement to Findings of Fact in Sampson v. Josephine Welch Overton—No. 7317—Law.

XXXI.

The allegations of Paragraphs I, II, III, IV, V, VI and VII of the complaint are true.

The allegations of Paragraph VIII of the complaint are true as modified by the recomputations on file.

The allegations of Paragraphs IX, X, XI and XII are true.

The allegations of the supplemental complaint are true. [88]

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

From the foregoing Findings of Fact, the Court makes the following conclusions of law:

I.

The effect of the said agreement dated May 23, 1929, was to vest in the said Mae H. Sampson a present, existing, and equal interest in the property of said W. O. Sampson as if the said property had been acquired from community earnings of the said W. O. Sampson earned subsequent to July 29, 1927.

II.

The interest in the property of the decedent and his wife, plaintiff herein, so acquired under the said agreement of May 23, 1929, was such as to require the exclusion from the gross estate of the decedent subject to Federal Estate tax of one-half of all the property owned by the decedent and his wife at the date of the decedent's death.

III.

The decedent's gross estate subject to Federal Estate tax was accordingly $266,554.57.

Miscellaneous deductions as per plaintiff's
Exhibit No. 4.....	$ 76,503.00

Life Insurance exemption	40,000.00
Specific exemption	100,000.00
Total deductions.....	$238,503.00

V.

The plaintiff is entitled to interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum from the dates of payment of said Estate tax as follows: On the sum of $1,197.09 from December 16, 1931; on the sum of $223.81 from December 23, 1932; on the sum [89] of $198.11 from December 28, 1932.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL
(RULE 59a)

Comes now the defendant in the above-entitled action and moves that an order be entered herein granting her a new trial upon the following two issues only, to wit:

1st. Whether the 1929 gift by decedent to plaintiff of a California wife's new type community interest in his separate and old type community properties was intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death, within the meaning of Section 302(c) of the Revenue Act of 1926; and

2d. Whether the enjoyment by the donee of such transferred interest was subject, at the time of the donor's death, to changes through the exercise by him, either [94] alone or in conjunction with the donee, of powers to alter, amend or revoke, within the meaning of Section 302(d) of the Revenue Act of 1926.

GROUND OF MOTION

This motion is made upon the following grounds:
Grounds Based on Section 302(c) of the Act.

A. That in and by the 1929 instrument of transfer the indefeasible passing of the gift was dependent upon contingencies which were terminable by the donor's death, for the following reasons, to wit:—

1. In and by such instrument of transfer the donor retained, for the remainder of his life, the right to a possible return of the properties, to which the transferred interest attached, upon the prior death of the donee intestate.

2. In and by such instrument no exercisable rights or powers, except protective, no economic benefits, and no incidents or attributes of ownership, were then transferred to the donee in respect of the properties to which her interest attached; none thereof vested to any extent in the donee until the donor's death; none thereof fully vested in the donee until the determination in probate of the distributable residue of such properties and until the distribution thereof; and then such rights, powers, economic benefits and incidents of ownership vested in the donee in respect of such residue only.

3. In and by such instrument the donee's interest was so transferred to her that none of such interest and none of the properties to which it attached, or the income therefrom, could have become a part of her probate estate had she predeceased the donor intestate; and none of such interest, properties or income could ever have become subject [95] to execution for her debts or obligations either before or after her prior death, or during the harmonious marriage of the spouses.

In and by such instrument of transfer the donor retained, for the remainder of his life, the following rights and powers over and in respect of the properties to which the transferred interest attached, which rights and powers were full and exclusive, were exercisable by him in his unlimited discretion, in the form and mode of an owner, and without liability or accountability to the donee:

4. To dispose of such personal properties for an adequate or inadequate consideration:

5. To contract and incur, without limitation as to amounts, personal debts and personal obligations upon the credit of such properties, both real and personal, and both corpus and income; to discharge his personal debts and obligations out of such personal properties, both corpus and income; by will, to effectively cause the discharge of such debts and obligations out of any such specific real or personal properties after his death; and by death, testate or intestate, to subject said properties to the discharge of such debts and obligations, to the expenses of administering his estate, and to a family allowance.

B. That in and by the 1929 instrument of transfer the donor retained, for the remainder of his life, the right to the exclusive possession and enjoyment of the properties to which the donee's interest attached, in that he therein and thereby retained, for the remainder of his life, the incidents and attributes of ownership and the following rights and powers in, to, over and in respect of such properties, which rights and powers were full and exclusive, were exercisable by him in his unlimited discretion, in the form and mode of an owner, and without liability or accountability to the donee. These retained rights and [96] powers were in addition to those set forth in Ground A above:

1. To manage and control all of such properties, both real and personal, together with all income therefrom:

2. To use, possess and enjoy such properties, together with the income and all other economic benefits arising therefrom.

3. To lease or rent such personal properties without limitation as to time, and to lease and rent such real properties for successive periods of one year and from month to month, without limitation, and to deliver possession and use thereof to the lessee or tenant.

C. That none of the foregoing rights, powers and economic benefits was relinquished in whole or in part by decedent prior to this death.

D. That the donor's death and the administration and distribution of his probate estate brought the gift into enjoyment by the donee for the first time, and then only in respect of the residue thereof.

Grounds based on section 302(d) of the act.

E. That in and by such instrument the donor retained continuously until the moment of his death the following freely exercisable powers to change the donee's enjoyment of the interest transferred to her, and to partially or completely divest her of her said interest in respect of all or a portion of the properties to which it attached.

Powers exercisable by Donee alone

1. The powers described in the foregoing Paragraphs A-4, 5 and 6, and B-1, 2 and 3;

2. The power to lose, break and demolish the tangible [97] personal properties and any improvements upon the real properties to which the donee's interest attached;

3. The power to waste, squander and speculate with and (short of a pure gift) to completely dissipate such personal properties, both tangible and intangible, as well as the income from both the real and personal properties.

The foregoing powers, numbered "1" through "3", above, were so exercisable by the donor alone, without the knowledge or consent of the donee, and without accountability or liability to her therefor;

Powers exercisable in Conjunction with Donee

4. With the consent of the donee, the power to make gifts of such properties, both real and personal; and

5. With the consent of the donee, the power to sell and mortgage such real properties, and to lease the same for periods longer than one year.

The exercise by the donor, in his lifetime, of any one or more of the foregoing powers referred to in Grounds E-1 through 5, above, would have lessened, augmented or otherwise altered and changed the donee's enjoyment of the interest transferred to her.

Powers to Divest Exercisable alone

The exercise by the donor, in his lifetime, of any one or more of the following retained powers would have completely divested the donee of her transferred interest in one or more or all of the properties to which it attached, to wit:

6. The power to sell the tangible personal properties and to dissipate the same and the income therefrom, either intentionally or unintentionally, by use, destruction, pledge and mortgage, and by payment of his personal debts and obligations therewith and with the proceeds of any [98] sale, mortgage or pledge thereof;

7. The power to sell both the tangible and intangible personal properties, and to dissipate the same and the income therefrom, either intentionally or unintentionally, by unsuccessful investment, speculation, pledge and mortgage and by the payment of his personal debts and obligations therewith and with the proceeds of any sale, mortgage or pledge thereof; and

8. The power to contract and incur personal debts and obligations amounting to a sum in excess of the value of all the properties to which the donee's interest attached, both real and personal, with resulting execution sales, bankruptcy or death insolvent.

This motion is made pursuant to Rule 59(a) of the Rules of Civil Procedure, and upon the pleadings, all stipulations of fact, the reporter's transcript, all exhibits, all briefs, all court orders, and the findings and conclusions, on file in this case, and upon the points and authorities hereto attached and made a part hereof.

ORDER DENYING MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

The court has studied with both interest and profit the ably and carefully prepared brief of counsel for defendant. It is, however, the considered opinion of the court that this case is governed by the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit in the case of United States v. Goodyear, 99 F.2d 523. Any modification or limitation upon the rule of that case properly should be made only by that court or by the Supreme Court of the United States. Likewise, if the case at bar is to be distinguished, in principle, from the Goodyear case, that distinction should properly be pointed out only by that court or by the Supreme Court of the United States. It would seem an impertinence, after the decision of the Ninth Circuit in the Goodyear case, for this court to re-express any of its views previously indicated in Sampson v. Welch, 23 F.Supp. 271, or to attempt to distinguish, in principle, [100] the case at bar from the Goodyear case.

The motion for new trial, having been fully presented in the briefs and in oral argument, is denied.

It is so ordered.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 2—(Continued)

An Itemized Inventory by Schedules of the Gross Estate of the Decedent, with Legal Deductions, to Be Filed in Duplicate

Decedent's name William Orlando Sampson

Date of death December 28, 1930.

Residence at time of death #213 No. Norton Ave., Los Angeles, California.

General Instructions—Read with Care

1. The return is required for the estate of every resident decedent who died after the effective date of the Revenue Act of 1926 and the value of whose gross estate at the date of death exceeded $100,000; for the estate of every resident decedent who died prior to such date and subsequent to September 8, 1916, whose gross estate exceeded $50,000; and for the estate of every nonresident decedent any part of whose gross estate was at the date of death situated (within the meaning of the statute) in the United States. The term "United States" means only the States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, and the District of Columbia.

2. The return is due one year after the date of death. The Return for a Resident Decedent should be filed with the collector of the district in which such decedent was domiciled at the time of death. The Return for a Nonresident Decedent should be filed with the United States Collector of Internal Revenue of the district in which the gross estate was situated, or, if situated within more than one district, or if the gross estate consisted wholly of stock in a domestic corporation, then with the Collector of Internal Revenue for the Second New York District, New York, N. Y., or with such other collector as the Commissioner may designate.

3. Remittance in payment of the tax should be made payable to "Collector of Internal Revenue at," naming city in which is located the office of the collector with whom the return is filed.

4. Before the return is prepared, Regulations 70, 1929 Edition, and any amendments thereto, should be carefully studied. The instructions given with respect to the individual schedules apply to the estates of decedents dying after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1926, except such instructions as clearly refer to decedents who died prior to that date. If the decedent died prior to 10.25 a.m., Washington, D. C., time, February 26, 1926, this form is to be used but reference should be made to Article 110 of the regulations for a statement of the applicable rules.

5. All papers used in preparing the return should be carefully preserved for reference or inspection, as each estate tax return is verified by an Internal Revenue officer before the tax is determined by the Bureau.

6. If the decedent was a resident and left a will, two copies thereof, one of them certified, must be filed with the return. In the case of the estate of a Nonresident, there should be filed with the return—

(a) A certified copy of the will, if decedent died testate, or of each will, if decedent left more than one to govern in different jurisdictions.

(b) A certified copy of inventory of the complete gross estate, whether situated within or without the United States, if any deductions are claimed. In such case separate schedules should be made for property within and without the United States.

(c) A certified copy of schedule of debts and expenses allowed, if deduction on account thereof is claimed. If certified copy of inventory of all property outside the United States is filed with the return, such property need not be entered under the respective schedules of the return. See Article 52, Regulations 70, 1929 Edition.

7. This form consists of cover sheets, general information sheet, and sixteen schedules. Care should be taken to see that the return is complete and that all schedules are included in the proper order.

In the estate of a resident the various items comprising the gross estate must be set forth upon the schedules provided.

8. The questions asked under each schedule should be specifically answered, and if the decedent owned no property of any class specified under the schedule, the word "None" should be written across the schedule. If deduction under Section 303(a)(2) or Section 303(b)(2) is claimed, Schedule G-1 should be completed before the schedules which precede it are prepared.

9. If there is not sufficient space for all entries under any schedule, use additional sheets of the same size, numbering them consecutively, and insert them in the proper order in the return.

10. The return should be prepared in accordance with articles 12 and 65 of Regulations 70, 1929 Edition. Instructions will be found under each schedule. If instructions are carefully observed, it will greatly assist the estate and the Bureau in the final determination of the tax liability.

11. Penalties.—For penalties for failure to file return when due, keep records, and supply information, or for the preparation or presentation or the aiding or assisting in the preparation or presentation of a false or fraudulent return, affidavit, claim, or document, see Sections 320, 1103, 1114 of the Revenue Act of 1926. Reference is also made to Section 616 of the Revenue Act of 1928.

bonds, due 1948, January, April, July, and October, at 96, New York Exchange.

Valuation.—The value as of the date of death should be returned. This value can in general be found by the application of the rules stated below. If as to any security, it is contended that the application of these rules would not give such value, the evidence upon which the contention is based should be filed with the return.

Listed stocks and bonds should be returned at the mean between the highest and lowest quoted selling price upon the date of death, or if there were no sales on day of death, then at the mean between the highest and lowest sales on the nearest date thereto, if within a reasonable period. If death occurred on a Sunday or other holiday, quotations of the nearest previous day should be used; if listed on several exchanges, quotations of the principal exchange should be employed.

If actual sales are not available and the stock is quoted on a bid and asked basis, the bid as of date of death should be taken.

Unlisted securities which are dealt in actively by brokers or have an active market should be returned at the sale price as of the date of death or the nearest date thereto, if within a reasonable period either before or after death. Only sales in the normal course of business should be employed. Where no such sale occurred the nearest bid should be used, if within a reasonable period either before or after death.

Inactive stock and stock in close corporations should be valued upon the basis of the company's net worth, earning and dividend paying capacity, general market conditions, and special conditions affecting the particular company, its future prospects, and all other factors having a bearing upon the value of the stock. The financial and other data upon which the estate bases its valuation should be submitted with the return.

Securities returned as of no value, nominal value, or obsolete, should be listed last, and the address of the company and the State and date of incorporation should be stated. Correspondence or statements used as the basis for return at no value should be retained for inspection.

Interest on bonds should be apportioned to the date of death and returned in the interest column. Dividends upon stock declared prior to death, and payable after date of death, must be returned separately in the interest column unless reflected in the price at which the stock is returned.

In estates of nonresidents there should be listed in this schedule all stocks and bonds physically in the United States at date of death (as to meaning of the term "United States" see paragraph numbered "1" on the first page of this form), and the actual depository on that date should be shown. In such estates there should also be listed in this schedule the stocks of all corporations and associations created or organized in the United States. The foregoing requirements of this paragraph should be complied with, even though an inventory of the entire gross estate wherever situated is filed with the return.

Paragraph 3 of article 13, and article 12, Regulations No. 70, 1929 Edition, should be carefully reviewed before preparing this schedule.

Did the decedent, at the time of death, own any stocks or bonds? (Answer "Yes" or "No.") Yes.

If a resident decedent owned any stocks or bonds at the date of his death, they should be entered on pages 5 and 6. If the decedent was a nonresident, there should be entered on pages 5 and 6 such stocks and bonds subject to tax as above indicated.

SCHEDULE D-1

Jointly Owned Property

Instructions

All property of whatever kind or character, whether real estate, personal property, bank accounts, etc., in which the decedent held at the time of his death an interest either as a joint tenant or as a tenant by the entirety, must be returned under this schedule.

The full value of the property must be included in the fourth column, unless it can be shown that a part of the property originally belonged to the other tenant or tenants and was never received or acquired by the other tenant or tenants from the decedent for less than a fair consideration in money or money's worth. (See section 302 (e) of act approved Feb. 26, 1926, and articles 22 and 23, Regulations No. 70, 1929 Edition.)

Where it is shown that the property or any part thereof, or any part of the consideration with which the property was purchased, was acquired by the other tenant or tenants from the decedent for less than an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, there should be omitted from this schedule only so much of the value of the property as is proportionate to the consideration furnished by such other tenant or tenants.

Where the property was acquired by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance by the decedent and spouse as tenants by the entirety, then only one-half of the value of the property should be listed on this schedule. Where the property was acquired by the decedent and another person or persons by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance as joint tenants, and their interests are not otherwise specified or fixed by law, then there should be entered on this schedule only such fractional part of the value of the property as is obtained by dividing the full value of the property by the number of joint tenants.

If the executor contends that less than the value of the entire property is includable in the gross estate for purposes of the tax, the burden is upon him to show his right to include such lesser value, and in such case he should make proof of the extent, origin, and nature of the decedent's interest and the interest of decedent's cotenant or cotenants.

If the property consists of real estate, the assessed value thereof for the year of death should be shown in the second column, headed "Description of property." In the third column should be entered the fair market value of the whole property, even though only a fractional part thereof is returnable in column 4. In the fourth column should be entered the amount to be included in the gross estate pursuant to the instructions given above. In the fifth column should be entered the rents, interest, and other income accrued to the date of decedent's death in the same proportion as the amount entered in column 4 bears to the amount entered in column 3.

Property in which the decedent held an interest as a tenant in common should not be listed here, but the value of his interest therein should be returned under Schedule A, if real estate, or if personal property, under the appropriate schedule. SCHEDULE E

Transfers
Instructions

All gifts or transfers, by trusts or otherwise, made or created and completed by the decedent, subsequent to September 8, 1916, in contemplation of, or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after death, other than as bona fide sales for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, are subject to the tax and must be returned under this schedule and the value of the property entered in the fourth column.

Transfers made by the decedent in his lifetime, other than transfers intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after death, excepting bona fide sales for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, must be returned for tax or disclosed in the return as follows:

1. Transfers Made in Contemplation of Death.—
The executor must return for tax the value as of the date of decedent's death of all property transferred by the decedent at any time in contemplation of death.
2. Transfers Not Admitted to Have Been Made in Contemplation of Death.—(a) The executor is required to disclose in the return all transfers made at any time by the decedent of an amount or value of $5,000 or more. Any such transfer made within two years of decedent's death, but before the effective date of the Revenue Act of 1926, and constituting a material part of decedent's property and in the nature of a final disposition or distribution thereof, is deemed to have been made in contemplation of death within the meaning of the statute. Where the executor contends that the transfer was not made in contemplation of death, he must file with the return sworn statements in duplicate of all the material facts including, among other things, the decedent's motive in making the transfers, his mental and physical condition at that time, and one copy of the death certificate. (b) The executor is required to return for tax all transfers made by the decedent within two years prior to his death but after the effective date of the Revenue Act of 1926, to the extent that the value thereof to any one person is in excess of $5,000 even though the transfer is not admitted to have been made in contemplation of death. The entire value of the transfer should be disclosed in the return.

All property transferred, whether before or after September 8, 1916, by the decedent during his lifetime, except bona fide sales for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, received by the decedent, constitutes a part of the gross estate if the decedent reserved the income or enjoyment for his lifetime, or if, at the time of the decedent's death the enjoyment thereof was subject to any change through the exercise of a power to alter, amend, or revoke, either by the decedent alone or in conjunction with any person, or if, in any way, the transfer was incomplete. Where property was so transferred and the decedent, in contemplation of death, relinquished the power to alter, amend, or revoke the transfer, the transfer is subject to tax, and the value of the property must be included in columns 3 and 4 of this schedule.

Where the transfer was effected by an instrument in writing, two copies of such instrument should be filed with the return, one copy of which must be certified or verified, unless the decedent was a nonresident, in which case but one copy, certified or verified, need be filed.

The name of transferee, date and form of transfer, description of property, and fair market value at time of death should be set forth in this schedule. For further instructions see articles 15 to 21, inclusive, Regulations No. 70, 1929 Edition.

- (1) Did the decedent, at any time during his life, make any transfer in contemplation of or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death, other than by bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth? (Answer "Yes" or "No.") No.
- (2) Did the decedent, within two years immediately preceding his death, make any transfer of a material part of his property without an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth? (Answer "Yes" or "No.") No.

(3) Did the decedent, within two years immediately preceding his death, make any transfer of an amount or value equal to or exceeding $5,000 without an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth? (Answer "Yes" or "No.") No.

(4) Did the decedent, at any time, make a transfer of a material part of his property without an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, but not believed to have been in contemplation of death or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death? (Answer "Yes" or "No.") No.

(5) If the answer to question (4) is "Yes," state date, amount or value, and motive which actuated the decedent in making the transfer or transfers:

the transfer), to change through the exercise of a power to alter, amend, or revoke the transfer of any property previously made by him? (Answer "Yes" or "No.") No.

(7) Did the decedent, at any time during his life, relinquish in contemplation of his death the power to alter, amend, or revoke any transfer previously made by him? (Answer "Yes" or "No.") No.

(8) If the answer to either questions (6) or (7), or both of them, is "Yes," the value of the property transferred must be entered in column 4 for inclusion in the gross estate.

Powers of Appointment

Instructions

Property passing under a general power of appointment exercised in the decedent's will must be returned. If the decedent exercised a general power by deed, the value of the property must be included in the gross estate if the deed was made in contemplation of death or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after death, except where executed for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth received by the decedent. If the power is exercised for a consideration in money or money's worth, but is not a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, there should be included in the gross estate only the excess of the fair market value, at the time of decedent's death, of the property passing under the power over the value of the consideration received by the decedent.

Duplicate copies of the will or deed conferring the power upon the decedent, and of the instrument by which the power was exercised, must be filed with the return, and one copy of such will or deed and one copy of the instrument must be duly certified or verified, unless the decedent was a nonresident, in which case but one copy of each document certified or verified, need be filed. The copies should be filed even though it is contended that the power was a limited one and the property passing thereunder is not returned as taxable.

Property passing under the exercise of a power of appointment should not be listed under any other schedule.

For further instructions see article 24, Regulation No. 70, 1929 Edition.

(1) Did the decedent, at any time, by will or otherwise, transfer property by the exercise of a general power of appointment? (Answer "Yes" or "No.") No.

SCHEDULE G-1

Property Identified As Previously Taxed
Instructions

This schedule, as indicated in Instruction 8, page 2, is set up merely to facilitate the computation of the deduction claimed under Schedule G-2, inasmuch as such deduction may not exceed the value of the property included in this estate with respect to which the deduction is claimed. Such property should be returned in this schedule and under no other schedule.

The items in this schedule are to be listed on page 15, one item number serving for the item in Schedule G-1 and the corresponding item in Schedule G-2. The fair market value at the date of death of the present decedent should be entered in column 1 and the accruals in column 2.

For instructions concerning the description and valuation of the various classes of property in this schedule, reference should be made to the applicable instructions given with respect to the preceding schedules.

DEDUCTIONS—SCHEDULE G-2

Deduction For Property Identified As Previously Taxed Instructions

The statute imposes various restrictions and limitations upon this deduction. Therefore, the explanatory articles 41, 42, and 43 of Regulations 70,

1929 Edition, should be carefully read. If decedent was a nonresident, article 53 of the Regulations is applicable.

Deduction with respect to property forming part of the gross estate situated in the United States of any person who died within five years prior to the death of the present decedent, which property was received by him, from such prior decedent, by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance, may be claimed in Schedule G-2, if there is included under Schedule G-1, the value of such property or the value of property which can be identified as having been acquired in exchange for such property.

The items in Schedule G-2 should be arranged in the order in which they appear in the Federal estate-tax return for the prior estate. The description should include a reference to the schedule and item number in such return. To make it clear that the schedule and item number relate to the prior return, they should be included in parentheses. If only a portion of an item in the prior estate is reflected in the present estate, that fact should be indicated and only a proportionate part of the value of the item in the prior estate, as determined by the Commission (indicated in the closing letter), should be entered in column 3.

In general, the amount to be entered in column 4 is the amount in column 1 or the amount in column 3, whichever is the lower.

If the present decedent exchanged property which had been received by him from the prior decedent, and additional valuable consideration was given by him in such exchange, there may be deducted in this schedule such proportion only of the value, at the date of his death, of the property so acquired by the present decedent in such exchange as the value of the property received by him from such donor or prior decedent, and parted with by him in the exchange, bore to the entire consideration given. For example: An item of property received from a donor or a prior decedent, which had a value of $10,000, was exchanged for property valued at $15,000, and an additional $5,000 consideration was given by the present decedent. The full value at date of the present decedent's death of the property acquired in exchange should be listed under Schedule G-1 and two-thirds of such value deducted under Schedule G-2. The $10,000 and $15,000 values referred to in this example relate to the values as of the date of the exchange.

If the proceeds of several items in the prior estate were deposited in a bank account from which money was thereafter drawn to purchase property listed in Schedule G-1, the items should be grouped as a single item in this schedule, the several items in the prior estate being indicated by letters as "Item 1-a," "Item 1-b," etc. In this connection particular attention is directed to the fact that the burden of proof rests upon the taxpayer claiming the deduction. For example: The decedent deposited $10,- 000, received as a legacy from the prior estate, in a bank account in which he already had $5,000. He next deposited in the account $1,000 received as salary. Thereupon he gave a check for $10,000 in payment for bonds of which the value is included in the gross estate. The check must represent $4,000 of previously taxed property. Therefore, as shown in the previous example, four-tenths of the value of the bonds is to be considered in determining the amount to be deducted. In either of the examples given, the transaction involved should be fully explained in an affidavit filed with the return.

The following entries will illustrate the manner of preparing the combined schedules:

Funeral and Administration Expenses
Instructions

Funeral expenses and administration expenses should be itemized, giving names and addresses of persons to whom payable, and exact nature of the particular expense. Preserve all vouchers and receipts for inspection by an internal-revenue agent.

No deduction may be taken upon the basis of a vague or uncertain estimate.

Executors' or administrators' commission should be entered in the amount actually paid, or which it is reasonably expected will be paid, not to exceed the amount allowable by the laws of the jurisdiction wherein the estate is administered, and not in excess of the amount usually allowed in cases similar to that of this estate. Where the commission has not been awarded by the court, deduction on final audit is discretionary with the Commissioner, subject to future adjustment.

Attorneys' fee should be deducted in the amount paid, or to be paid. If the fee has not been paid at the time of the final audit, deduction is discretionary with the Commissioner, subject to future adjustment.

Instructions

Itemize fully below all valid debts of the decedent owed by him at the time of death.

If deduction is claimed for a debt, the amount of which is disputed or the subject of litigation, only such amount may be deducted as the estate concedes to be a valid claim. If the claim is contested, that fact should be stated.

A pledge, or a subscription evidenced by a promissory note or otherwise, even though enforceable against the estate, is deductible only to the extent such pledge or subscription was made for an adequate and full consideration in cash or its equivalent received therefor by the decedent.

Enter in this schedule notes unsecured by mortgage and give full details, including name of payee, face and unpaid balance, date and term of note, interest rate and date to which interest was paid prior to death.

Care must be taken to state the exact nature of the claim as well as the name of the creditor. If the claim is for services rendered over a period of time, state the period covered by the claim. Example: Edison Electric Illuminating Company for electric service during December, 1928, $25.

Q. Mrs. Sampson, I show you a document which purports to be an agreement dated May 23, 1929, between William O. Sampson, party of the first part and Mae Sampson, party of the second part, and I ask you whether or not you have ever seen that document before.

A. (Examining document): I have.

Q. Whose signatures are appended to it?

A. Mr. William O. Sampson, my husband, and Mae Sampson.

Q. Is William O. Sampson your former husband? A. He is.

Q. And this other signature "Mae Sampson" is your signature? A. It is.

Q. Was a copy of that delivered to you by Mr. Sampson? A. It was.

Mr. Mergenthaler: If the Court please, I desire to offer this agreement in evidence.

Mr. Mitchell: That is objected to on the ground that it is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

The Court: That is another question of importance in [6] the case, and I will reserve the ruling on it. It may be marked.

PLAINTIFF'S EXHIBIT No. 7

This Agreement, made this 23rd day of May, 1929, between William O. Sampson, first party, and

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

Mae Sampson, second party, both residing at Los Angeles, California,

Witnesseth: Whereas, the parties hereto intermarried on or about October 3, 1899, and since that time have been and now are husband and wife and living together as such; and

Whereas, said parties, since the date of their marriage have acquired certain property which, by virtue of the laws of the State of California and/or written agreement between the parties hereto, is the community property of the parties hereto; and the parties hereto are desirous that the rights and interests of the respective parties hereto in and to all their community property be expressly defined and established in accordance with the terms and provisions hereof;

Now, Therefore, in consideration of the love and affection which each of the parties hereto bears unto the other and of other good and valuable consideration, moving from each of the parties unto the other, it is hereby agreed as follows:

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

[Endorsed]: Filed Dec. 14, 1936.

By Mr. Mergenthaler:

Q. Mrs. Sampson, did you have any conversation with Mr. Sampson at the time you entered into this agreement which has been offered as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 7, relative to the purpose of the agreement?

Mr. Mergenthaler:

Q. Will you answer yes or no? [7]

A. Yes.

Q. Where was that conversation had?

A. In our home.

Q. Where was that?

A. At 213 North Norton.

Q. In the city of Los Angeles?

A. In Los Angeles.

Q. And who was present at the time and place?

A. Just Mr. Sampson and myself.

Q. And when did the conversation take place?

A. You mean the date?

Q. The approximate date.

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

A. Well, I can't give you the exact date.

Q. Did you talk it over beforehand? [8]

A. Yes.

Q. Did he tell you why? A. Yes.

Q. And that was before you actually signed it?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the conversation then about, the purpose of the agreement?

A. Well, it was to have separate income tax returns, and my having a portion of the interest in it.

Q. Was that—did he say anything about the thing enabling you to return half the income?

A. Yes.

Q. What was that conversation?

A. (Pause): Well, I can't tell you, except that we would make two income tax reports.

Q. Now, Mrs. Sampson, what was the condition of Mr. Sampson's health at the time that he made this agreement of May 29, 19.. May 23, 1929?

A. It was perfect as far as any—

Q. (Interrupting): You saw him every day at that time? A. Every day.

Q. What was his occupation?

A. Secretary and treasurer of Bullock's.

Q. And did he attend business at Bullock's every day except Sunday?

A. Yes, every day. [9]

Q. And what time did he leave the house in the morning?

A. About a quarter of eight.

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

Q. What time did he return?

A. At seven-thirty.

Q. He worked six days a week?

A. Yes.

Q. When he came home at night did he have any occupation that kept him busy?

A. Just working on books for two or three nights a week.

Q. How late would he work on the books?

A. Oh, ten or eleven o'clock.

Q. Did he take any exercise at that time?

A. Yes; about once a week.

Q. What form of exercise?

A. Horseback riding.

Q. Did he ever complain of any illness at or about the time the agreement was made?

A. Not any.

Q. Or for any considerable length of time did he make any complaint?

A. Not any.

Q. How about afterwards?

A. Not any.

Q. Coming down to—bringing your attention to November 1930, did Mr. Sampson—what happened in November 1930?

A. Well, he was taken ill. You mean that? [10]

Q. Yes.

A. He was taken ill I should say the 15th of November, or near that, the 15th or 16th of November.

Q. And was he confined to his home?

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

A. He was confined to his home.

Q. How long was he confined to his home?

A. Just about six weeks, lacking two or three days.

Q. Then what happened after he left the house?

A. He was taken to the Hollywood Hospital.

Q. And how long after that did he die?

A. He died three days afterward.

Q. I think you testified he died of Lobar pneumonia?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Mr. Sampson ever say that this agreement was made in contemplation of death or to take effect at death?

A. No; he did not.

Q. The property that Mr. Sampson then owned was stocks and bonds and real estate?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there any income from that property?

A. From the stocks and bonds?

Q. Stocks and bonds.

A. Yes.

Q. Any other property?

A. Rents.

Q. Were there rents? [11]

A. Yes.

Q. What became of the rents which were received from these properties after May 23, 1929?

A. Well, they were placed—invested, reinvested to pay for stocks and put in the bank, a joint account.

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

Q. They were deposited in the bank?

A. In the bank in a joint account.

Q. What bank were they deposited in?

A. The Citizen's Security.

Q. Who had—who were entitled to draw against the joint bank account?

A. We were both entitled to draw against it.

Q. Was all the income which was received from these properties deposited in that joint bank account down to the time of Mr. Sampson's death?

A. Yes.

Q. And you continued at all times to have a right to draw on that?

A. Yes sir.

Q. There was a joint bank balance at the time of Mr. Sampson's death?

A. Yes sir.

Q. In the Citizen's Bank?

A. Yes sir.

Q. When Mr. Sampson made this agreement in 1929, was he making any plans as to the future? [12]

A. Nothing.

Q. He was—was there no change?

A. Nothing at all.

Q. Things had gone on just the same as they had been for years before?

A. Absolutely.

Q. Now, Mrs. Sampson, a portion of the property which Mr. Sampson owned on May 2, 1929—

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

May 23, 1929, was a large block of stock in Bullock's? A. Yes sir.

Q. Can you give us the history of that stock?

A. Well, in 1922, in May or June, he was given about two thousand and some shares—I can't remember just the figures, two hundred and ninety-three, I think, by Mr. Lutz, Arthur Lutz, and in '25, I think, he bought some one hundred and seventeen shares and also about twenty-eight hundred shares at that time. Later when they reorganized, those shares were exchanged for the twelve thousand five hundred shares of Bullock's. That was all you wanted?

Q. There was eleven thousand one hundred and fifty shares of that stock standing in his name at the date of his death? A. Yes.

Q. All the real estate was acquired from earnings that Mr. Sampson had made?

A. Yes sir.

Q. When you arrived here—when did you come to California, [13] you and Mr. Sampson?

A. We came the first part of 1910, in January.

Q. What property did you have then?

A. We didn't have anything.

Q. And all the property which was acquired by Mr. Sampson, other than a gift from Mr. Lutz, was acquired how?

A. By his own earnings.

Q. In the State of California?

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

A. In the State of California.

Q. What was Mr. Sampson's salary at Bullock's subsequent to May 23, 1927—withdraw that.

What was Mr. Sampson's salary at Bullock's subsequent to July 29, 1927?

A. You mean after that, oh, about six hundred dollars a month, six hundred and twenty-five when he passed away.

Q. Did he receive a bonus? A. He did.

Q. What was the amount of that bonus?

A. The amount of the bonus was the amount of his salary.

Q. That bonus was given him each year?

A. Each year. [14]

Q. In other words, at the end of the year they doubled his salary?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, for the years 1929 and for 1930 did you and Mr. Sampson—withdraw the question.

How did you file your income tax returns for the years 1929 and 1930?

A. By two separate tax returns.

Q. One was filed by Mr. Sampson?

A. Yes.

Q. And the other was filed by you?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you divide the income from all of the property owned by you and Mr. Sampson equally on those returns?

A. Yes. [15]

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

By Mr. Mergenthaler:

Q. Mrs. Sampson, did Mr.—do you know whether or not Mr. Sampson took out any insurance on his life subsequently to May 23, 1929?

A. Yes sir; he did.

Q. Did he take—when was the last insurance he took out?

A. In 1930.

Q. In what month?

A. In November.

Q. The early part of November?

A. Yes.

Q. And how much insurance was taken out at that time?

A. He took out $10,000 at one time and $20,000.

Q. And what insurance company was that insurance taken in?

A. The New England.

Q. The New England Mutual Life Insurance Company? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how the premiums on the insurance were paid? Was it paid out of Mr. Sampson's salary? A. It was.

Q. Do you have any means of knowing how much of Mr. Sampson's earnings, made after July 29, 1927, remained in his estate?

A. How much of his earnings remained in the estate?

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

Q. Yes, either in the form of cash or in the form of investments made from those earnings. [18]

The Court: What percentage was saved?

Mr. Mergenthaler: Yes, your Honor.

The Witness: Well, everything except what it took to live.

By Mr. Mergenthaler:

Q. Do you know what the approximate living expenses were per month?

A. What the living expenses were per month?

Q. Yes, after July 29, 1927.

A. They were—just our ordinary living, you mean?

Q. Yes.

A. Not counting any of the investments, but just the living?

Q. Yes, not what you saved.

A. Well, I should say probably—I can't tell you exactly, I think they varied from $400 per month or $350 per month, sometimes.

Q. Would you say $400 a month would be the amount of the living expenses?

A. The savings, you mean?

Q. The living expenses.

A. Yes, I think that would be just about $400.

Q. Mrs. Sampson, were the investments bought out of checks drawn on the joint bank account?

A. Yes.

Q. And that practice continued all through?

A. Yes sir. [19]

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

Q. At the time the joint bank account was opened?

A. Yes.

Cross-Examination

By Mr. Mitchell:

Q. Did you have any account outside—rather did Mr. Sampson have any account outside of the joint bank account on which he drew?

A. Not anything.

Q. How long was the account a joint account at the time of Mr. Sampson's death?

A. Well, it has always been a joint account.

Q. You have always carried a joint account?

A. Always carried a joint account.

Q. A joint account as far back as 1920?

A. Yes sir; further back than that, always.

Q. Did you have a separate account?

A. I did not.

Q. At the time this contract was—by the way, where did you sign this contract, plaintiff's exhibit No. 7?

A. I signed it down in Mr. Sampson's office at Bullock's.

Q. That was on or about the 23rd of May, 1929?

A. Yes.

Q. Who else was present at that time?

A. No one except myself and Miss Henderson, the Notary.

Q. Was that before you had this conversation at home [20] with Mr. Sampson to which you testified, or after?

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

A. After.

Q. It was after? A. Yes.

Q. And you didn't pay Mr. Sampson any consideration for the contract did you?

A. No.

Q. Or the transfer, or whatever it was?

A. No.

Q. I mean any money or property?

A. No.

Q. Anything of value? A. No.

Q. When did he deliver a copy to you?

A. Right after it was signed.

Q. Right after it was signed? A. Yes.

Q. And what was done with the original?

A. He had the original we kept.

Q. You kept an original?

A. Yes. I couldn't—

Q. (Interrupting) You didn't sign two copies did you? Or did you just have one, the original signed?

A. I don't know. I can't remember. I know I signed papers. I can't tell you that.

Q. Do you recall why the original was not recorded in [21] the County Recorder's Office?

A. I don't know.

Q. At the time of the transfer, when the contract was signed, or at any time thereafter, did Mr. Sampson deliver to you any of the certificates of Bullock's stock or any other certificates evidencing other stock owned by him at that time?

A. No.

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

Q. Did he deliver to you any of the bonds he owned at the time?

A. (Shaking head negatively.)

Q. Did he deed to you any of the real estate that he owned at that time? A. No.

Mr. Mergenthaler: If the Court please, I object to that on the ground that it is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial and has no bearing on any of the issues in this case.

The Court: Well, can't we agree, whatever effect it may have for argument, that there was no transfer or delivery of any property?

Mr. Mitchell: If Mr. Mergenthaler will so stipulate.

The Court: Except what may be assumed to have been transferred by the document itself.

Mr. Mergenthaler: I can't stipulate, your Honor, because certain of this property was actually given to her in the [22] sense that——

The Court: (Interrupting) I mean transfer.

Mr. Mergenthaler: There was no endorsement of certificates and there was no deed. I can stipulate to that. [23]

The Court: At the time of the signing and delivering of Exhibit 7 there was no exchange of any other papers relative to the property, is that true?

The Witness: Yes.

The Court: And later, and pursuant to, there was no division of the property that you two held together, was there?

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

The Witness: Just the joint tenancy in everything.

The Court: There was no exchange in any papers in regard to the titles?

The Witness: No. [24]

Mr. Mitchell: All right.

Q. I will ask Mrs. Sampson, then, what was done in performance of the contract by Mr. Sampson prior to his death.

A. (Pause) You mean this contract?

Q. This contract, Exhibit 7, yes.

A. Well, nothing, except what was done in May, that I know of. Anything—

Q. (Interrupting) What was done when?

A. What was done in May except the conversations, and what was done in May to execute it. [25]

Q. Now, as far as real estate was concerned, Mrs. Sampson, that stood in Mr. Sampson's name, did it not?

Mr. Mergenthaler: I object to that because it is contrary to the stipulation. The stipulation says that certain real estate was there and if it is limited to that real estate and does not include the joint tenancy real estate I think the question is proper.

Mr. Mitchell: Including, of course, the joint tenancy real estate.

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Mitchell:

Q. And was this contract, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 7, the only documents that were executed at or about the time of the execution of Exhibit 7 to transfer any interest to you in that real estate?

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

A. The only document.

Q. That was the only document? [28]

A. Yes.

Q. Now, with respect to the real estate held in joint tenancy, were there any further documents executed by Mr. Sampson or by yourself in respect to the transfer to you of the interest in the joint tenancy real estate other than Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 7? A. No.

Q. Now, in respect to the corporate common and preferred stock, evidenced by certificates, were any documents or instruments executed by Mr. Sampson other than Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 7 in order to transfer any interest to you in that stock?

A. No.

Q. Now, in respect to the bonds payable to bearer, with interest accrued to December, was there any document other than Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 7 executed by Mr. Sampson? A. No sir.

Q. In order to transfer an interest in those bonds to you? A. No sir.

Q. Were the bonds, these bearer bonds—I believe they were—ever delivered to you?

A. No sir.

Q. Physically delivered to you?

A. No sir. [29]

Q. Now, promissory notes with interest. Were those notes, do you know, ever endorsed to you and delivered to you by Mr. Sampson?

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

A. No; I don't remember.

Q. You don't recall any delivery or execution of any instrument other than Exhibit 7 in order to transfer an interest to you of those notes?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Mr. Sampson deposit all of his salary in this joint account?

A. Practically all of it.

Q. Do you know how long Mr. Sampson had planned to execute a contract similar to this contract, Plaintiff's Exhibit 7, in May 1929? [30]

A. I do not.

Q. Did you ever hear him express an intention of making such a contract prior to a day or two before it was executed? A. Oh yes.

Q. How long prior?

A. Well, I can't tell you just—it was before 1929, I know he had.

Q. You have no idea, then how long. How many times did he discuss it with you before it was executed?

A. Well, it was—I don't know. I couldn't tell you that. It was simply brought up from time to time, more than once or twice. He just spoke about making it, and just as I said it was on account of the income, my having my part in the business.

[31]

Q. What did you say about that?

A. I thought it was all right. I thought it was perfectly legitimate.

Q. Your conversations were about your participating in the business, you say?

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

A. Well, having my part of the earnings after 33 years of married life. We had always had conversations, and that is absolutely the only way I can answer it.

Q. I see. You were entitled to have some evidence of it?

A. Well, I don't know. He wanted it understood we were in joint tenancy, he and I were joint together with everything that was earned.

Q. Well now, was this in speaking of the joint bank account? A. Everything.

Q. All his earnings? A. Everything.

Q. Anything besides his future earnings—you are speaking of future earnings, or past earnings?

A. Everything, future and past and present.

Q. How about property? A. Everything.

Q. Real estate? A. Yes.

Q. But the plan to execute this agreement, so far as you [32] know, was first mentioned two or three days——

A. (Interrupting) No, more than two or three.

Q. (Continuing) Before it was executed?

A. No.

Q. How long before it was executed?

A. I don't know. I couldn't tell whether it was a few weeks or two or three months, or just exactly. We had spoken, that is all, just referred to it, that it was the proper thing to do. [33]

Mr. Mergenthaler: If the Court please, I would like to introduce another document which I overlooked. It is a certified copy of the order fixing the California inheritance tax, and shows payment of the tax.

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

If your Honor please, I would like to offer in evidence a certified copy of the order fixing the inheritance tax in the estate of William O. Sampson in the Superior Court of Los Angeles, and a certified copy of the receipt for inheritance tax for the purpose of showing they were entitled to their 80% credit on the tax.

Mr. Mitchell: We object to that on the ground that the figures have been stipulated to, I believe, haven't they, Mr. Mergenthaler, that is the amount the Plaintiff would be entitled to in the event of a judgment?

Mr. Mergenthaler: No, we have omitted that because—that is another point, your Honor. We cannot make a computation of the tax until the Court has determined the principles involved in the case so that the amount can be figured, and if it is agreeable to Mr. Mitchell and the Court we would like to stipulate that we will make the computation ourselves, later on, and if we cannot agree on the computations we will come in and take additional evidence. That is the method which is pursued under rule fifty before the board of tax appeals, which has a great deal of experience in these cases. They found that was the only practical way to handle the tax [39] matters

The Court: That is satisfactory to the Court.

Mr. Mitchell: Perfectly satisfactory to the Defendant.

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked "Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 8.")

Redirect Examination

By Mr. Mergenthaler:

Q. Mrs. Weyman, you testified that the income of all the property covered by this agreement was placed in a joint bank account?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Will you—was there a safe deposit box?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Where was that safe deposit box?

A. At the Citizen's on Hill street.

Q. Were the stocks and bonds and the deeds and the title papers kept in that box?

A. Yes sir.

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

Q. Did you have access to that box alone without Mr. Sampson? In other words, could you get in to the box without Mr. Sampson being present?

A. No.

Q. Did you both have to be present?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was the box in the joint names of you and Mr. Sampson?

A. Yes sir. [41]

Q. There was no different understanding than the agreement?

A. Yes; absolutely.

Q. Was there a different understanding?

A. Then what the agreement was?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't know what you mean. No Mr. Mergenthaler this was the only understanding we had.

Q. That is the only understanding you had with reference to all of the property?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, Mrs. Sampson, in the copy of the tax return, which is offered here as No. 2, there is set out in schedule C a number of policies of insurance that aggregate—the aggregate of which is $109,331.88, and was all of that insurance payable to you? Were you the beneficiary under those policies?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Did you collect that insurance?

A. I did.

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

Q. Of that insurance, I understand $30,000 of it was [42] taken out in the New England Life Insurance Company in the early part of November, 1930?

A. Yes.

Q. To whom was that policy of policies payable?

A. Payable to me.

Recross Examination

By Mr. Mitchell:

Q. Mrs. Weyman, when was it that this safe deposit box was taken out in your joint names?

A. When we first came to California in 1910.

Q. So at the time this contract in 1929 there was no change in that respect at all?

A. It has always been in joint tenancy as I remember. I couldn't swear to that.

Q. For many years prior to 1929—

A. (Interrupting) We have had a joint—

Q. (Continuing)—you have had a joint bank account, checking account, and a joint safe deposit?

A. I wouldn't say in 1910. I—

Q. (Interrupting) Well, it was many years prior to 1929, probably, was it not?

A. Because we never had any safe deposit boxes until we came to California. I can't remember just when that was turned over to me.

Q. Was it as early as 1920?

A. I think so. [43]

(Testimony of Mrs. Mae Sampson.)

Q. What is that?

A. I think so. I am not sure.

Q. Well, could it have been as late as 1925, or was it before that?

A. I really couldn't tell you.

Q. Well, was it as long as three years before 1929?

A. (Pause) When we commenced to acquire the stock is when we took the box out.

Q. That was sometime around 1922 to 1925?

A. Probably that was it.

Mr. Mitchell: That is all.

Mr. Mergenthaler: That is all.

(Witness excused)——

Mr. Mergenthaler: The Plaintiff rests.

Mr. Mitchell: The Defendant rests.

The Court: Well now, I suppose—I don't know just what you mean by resting in view of the stipulation we have. There may be some other testimony.

Mr. Mergenthaler: We rest, your Honor, until we get the additional evidence in. That is correct, and I have no doubt—I have considerable experience with the Bureau of Internal Revenue and I think there is no question that when the principles are established we will be able to arrive at a computation which will be acceptable to both parties. It is only in case we do get in to a wrangle about that that we will have to offer further evidence. [44]

The Court: Then, on the face of the record it is submitted?

Mr. Mitchell: Yes.

Mr. Mergenthaler: It is submitted subject to that.

Mr. Mitchell: Subject to the matter of the computation.

The Court: It is submitted except as to the computation, the amount of the judgment, if any.

Mr. Mitchell: The amount of judgment, if any.

The Court: All right.

Mr. Mitchell: I desire for the purpose of the record at this time to make a motion of judgment for the defendant on the ground that the evidence is insufficient to warrant a judgment in favor of the Plaintiff, and perhaps I will renew the motion at the time it is finally submitted. [45]

(Thereupon, at 3:40 o'clock P. M. the hearing in the above-entitled matter was concluded)——

JOSEPHINE WELCH OVERTON, as Executrix of the Estate of Galen H. Welch, Deceased, formerly Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth Collection District of California, Appellant,

vs.

MAE H. SAMPSON, individually and as Executrix
under the Will of W. O. Sampson, deceased,
Appellee.

STATEMENT OF POINTS ON WHICH APPELLANT INTENDS TO RELY

The issues involved on this appeal are:

(1st) Whether, in and by the May, 1929, instrument of transfer or otherwise, the donor-husband retained, until his death, control, possession, management, enjoyment, powers of disposal or other incidents of ownership of, or other economic benefits arising from the properties to which the transferred interest of the donee-wife attached, within the meaning of Sec. 302(c) of the Revenue Act of 1926?

(2d) Whether the indefeasible passing of decedent's May, 1929, gift to his wife was dependent upon contingencies terminable by the donor-husband's death, within the meaning of Sec. 302(c) of the Revenue Act of 1926?

(3d) Whether, in and by the instrument of transfer or otherwise, the donor-husband retained until his death, exercisable powers to augment, lessen or destroy the donee-wife's enjoyment of the interest transferred to her, of the properties to which it attached, or retained until death the power to divest her of such interest, within the meaning of Sec. 302(d) of the Act?

The validity of the instrument of transfer and its effectiveness to pass an actual property interest to the donee-wife, are not questioned by appellant.

Appellant's Contentions.

Appellant contends that the value of the subject matter of the gift is includible in decedent's gross estate under the provisions of both Sections 302(c) and 302(d) of the Revenue Act of 1926, and that the correct answer to the three questions contained in above statement of the issues involved is "Yes".

Points relied upon by Appellant.

In support of above contentions appellant will urge the following points, to wit:

(1st) There is no evidence to support the trial court's implied finding to the effect that decedent's gift to his wife was not made by him to minimize Federal taxes.

(2d) There is no evidence to support the trial court's implied finding that none of the properties involved in the gift was traceable to the donor's personal earnings or to his separate property.

(3d) There is no evidence to support the trial court's implied finding that in and by the instrument of transfer the donor did not retain the management and control of the subject matter of the gift.

(4th) There is no evidence to support the trial court's implied finding that possession and enjoyment of such properties were transferred to the donee at the time of the May, 1929, gift, or to the effect that the title to such properties did not remain continuously in the donor's sole name until his death; or that the bearer bonds were delivered to the donee before the donor's death.

(5th) There is no evidence or law to support the trial court's implied finding and conclusion to the effect that there did not exist, after the gift and until the decedent's death, the possibility that the subject matter of the gift and the transferred interest to which it attached would not have reverted to the donor (a) upon the prior death of the donee, intestate, or (b) through the exercise of the donor's reserved rights and powers for his own benefit.

The trial court further erred:—

(6th) In refusing to interpret the instrument of transfer in accordance with the laws of the State of California.

(7th) In impliedly finding and concluding that upon the donor's death in December, 1930, substantial economic benefits and incidents of ownership in respect of the subject matter of the gift did not, for the first time, shift from him to the surviving donee.

(8th) In impliedly finding and concluding that in and by the instrument of transfer or otherwise the donor, in respect of the subject matter of the gift and the income therefrom, if any, did not retain until the moment of his death the following exclusive, exercisable and enforceable rights, powers, economic benefits, and incidents of ownership, to wit:

(a) To possess, manage, and control such properties;

(b) Short of a gift, to dispose of and to contract respecting such personal properties and to hold the same in his sole name, all for his own benefit;

(c) To contract and incur personal debts, liabilities and obligations on the credit of all such properties, real and personal, and on the credit of the income therefrom, in unlimited amounts and in excess of the value thereof;

(d) To discharge his personal debts, liabilities and obligations with such personal properties and with the income from all of such properties, both before and after death;

(e) To lease such real properties for successive periods of one year and from month to month, to deliver possession to lessees and tenants, and to hold such real properties of record in his sole name;

(f) To wager and speculate with such personal properties, and with the income therefrom and also from such land;

(g) By testamentary direction, to compel his executor to sell specific properties, to which the donee's interest attached, to discharge (1) his personal debts, (2) the expenses of administering his estate, and (3) a family allowance; and

(h) To change the donee's enjoyment of the interest transferred to her and the enjoyment by her of the properties to which such interest attached.

(9th) In impliedly finding and concluding that in and by the instrument of transfer or otherwise, and before the donor's death, the donee-wife acquired, in addition to certain protective rights and remedies, the right and power to possess, deal with, dispose of, contract respecting, discharge her personal debts with, and contract and incur personal debts, tort and statutory liabilities and obligations on the credit of, her interest and the properties to which such transferred interest attached.

(10th) In impliedly finding and concluding that, prior to the donor's death, the donee's interest in the subject matter of the gift ripened into full dominion.

(11th) In impliedly finding and concluding that the ultimate disposition of such properties to the donee was not held in suspense until the donor's death; and that the gift was complete, in substance, prior to the donor's death.

(12th) In impliedly finding and concluding that the decedent did not retain until his death the power to augment, lessen and completely destroy the donee's enjoyment of her interest and of the properties to which such interest attached.

(13th) In implied finding and concluding that the decedent did not retain until his death the power to divest the donee of her interest in such personal properties by direct disposal for a consideration, and in all of such properties, real and personal, by contracting and incurring personal debts, torts and statutory liabilities and obligations in excess of the value thereof, with resulting execution sales, bankruptcy or death insolvent.

(14th) In overruling defendant's objections to the form of the Finding and Conclusions proposed by plaintiff.

(15th) In denying defendant's motion for leave to file her amended answer to plaintiffs, original complaint.

(16th) In denying defendant's motion for a new trial.

IN THE
United States Circuit Court of Appeals
FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

JOSEPHINE WELCH OVERTON, as Executrix of the Estate of Galen H. Welch, deceased, formerly Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth Collection District of California, Appellant,

vs.

MAE H. SAMPSON, individually and as Executrix under the will of W. O. Sampson, deceased,

Appellee.

Upon Appeal from the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of California, Central Division.

BRIEF FOR THE APPELLANT.

Opinion Below.

The only opinion of the District Court, which is reported in 23 F. Supp. 271, was withdrawn by order entered January 9, 1941 [R. 49-50], reported in 40 F. Supp. 1014.

Jurisdiction.

This appeal [R. 112] involves federal estate taxes. The taxes in dispute were paid as follows: $1,197.09 on December 16, 1931; $223.81 on December 23, 1932 and $254.21 on December 28, 1932. [R. 83.] Claim for refund was filed on November 24, 1933 [R. 85], pursuant to Section 910 of the Internal Revenue Code. The claim for refund was rejected by notice dated July 13, 1934. [R. 85.]

Within the time provided in Section 3772 of the Internal Revenue Code and on August 30, 1935, the taxpayer brought an action in the District Court for the Southern District of California, Central Division, for recovery of taxes paid. [R. 2-19.] Jurisdiction was conferred on the District Court by Section 24, Fifth, of the Judicial Code. Judgment was entered in the principal sum of $1,466.11, plus interest, on October 7, 1942. [R. 102-104.]¹ Motion for a new trial was denied November 17, 1942. [R. 111-112.] Within three months and on February 16, 1943, a notice of appeal was filed [R. 112], pursuant to the provisions of Section 128(a) of the Judicial Code, as amended by the Act of February 13, 1935.

Question Presented.

On May 23, 1929, the decedent, William O. Sampson, and his wife, who were residents of California, entered into a written agreement by which decedent transferred to his wife an interest in various real and personal property, including (1) property then separately owned by the decedent and (2) community property acquired prior to the amendment to the California community property laws which became effective ~~June~~ ^{July} 29, 1927. The interest so transferred was the type of interest conferred by the amendment to the California law upon married women in community property acquired subsequent to July 29, 1927. The question is whether the full value or only one-half of the value of the two classes of property referred to is includible in decedent's gross estate under Section 302(c) and (d) of the Revenue Act of 1926.

¹Judgment was entered for the principal amount of $1,466.11, but the computation involved certain items which are not included in this appeal. According to a tentative computation made by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the principal amount of the judgment, if the Collector is sustained on this appeal, should be reduced to $680.06. The difference represents the principal amount at stake.

Statutes and Regulations Involved.

The pertinent statutes and regulations are set forth in the Appendix, infra.

Statement.

So far as necessary to this appeal, the findings of fact made by the District Court may be summarized as follows:

1. The decedent, William O. Sampson, died on December 28, 1930. At all pertinent times he and his wife were residents of the State of California. [R. 82.] On May 23, 1929, decedent, designated as the first party, and his wife, designated as the second party, entered into a written agreement [R. 83-85] providing [R. 84]:

1. That all property now owned by the first party shall be and the same is hereby declared to be community property of the parties hereto.

2. That the respective interests of the parties hereto in their community property during the continuance of the marriage relation are and shall be present, existing and equal interests under the management and control of the husband, first party hereto, as is provided in Sections 172 and 172(a) of the Civil Code of the State of California.

3. That this agreement is intended and shall be construed as defining the respective interests and rights of the parties hereto in and to all community property, and the rents, issues and profits thereof, heretofore or hereafter acquired by the parties hereto during the continuance of said marriage relation.

First party does hereby assign, transfer and convey unto second party such right, title and interest in and to said community property as may be necessary to carry into full force and effect the terms of this instrument.

2. In computing the federal estate tax, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue included within decedent's gross estate the entire value of certain real and personal property which had been acquired by him prior to July 29, 1927. At the time of its acquisition, a part of the foregoing was (1) the separately-owned property of the decedent, received by gift, and the balance was (2) community property of the type then existent in California, acquired with funds earned by the decedent. [R. 87-90.] By force of the agreement of May 23, 1929, the two classes of property referred to were converted into community property of the spouses of the type acquired by California married persons after July 29, 1927. [R. 90-91.]

3. Appellee, as executrix under the will of the decedent, paid the taxes here in controversy. [R. 82-83.] Appellee then filed a claim for refund contending that only one-half of the value of the property in question was properly includible in decedent's gross estate, in that it consisted at the time of decedent's death wholly of community property in which she, as decedent's widow, had a vested interest in the remaining one-half. [R. 9-19, 85.] The claim for refund was rejected in its entirety [R. 85], and the instant suit for refund was then brought against the Collector of Internal Revenue for the Sixth Collection District of California in office at the time payments of the tax were made. [R. 2-19, 81-83.] Upon the Collector's death during the pendency of the suit, his executrix, the appellant (also referred to herein as the Collector), was substituted in his place. [R. 50-51, 97-98.]

Following trial without a jury, the court below filed a written opinion holding that the full value of the property in question should be included within decedent's gross estate under Section 302 (c) and (d) of the Revenue Act of 1926. (23 F. Supp. 271.) On January 9, 1941, the opinion was withdrawn, due to the supervening decision of this Court in United States v. Goodyear, 99 F. (2d) 523, which the court below regarded as [R. 49]— controlling, as a matter of legal precedent, over the issues in the case at bar, even though the opinion heretofore rendered in this cause * * * expresses the view of this court as to a proper determination of said issues.

The court thereafter entered the findings of fact which have been summarized and, so far as now material, concluded as a matter of law that [R. 99-100]—

1. The effect of the agreement of May 23, 1929, was to vest in decedent's wife "a present, existing, and equal interest in the property" of the decedent, as if the property had been acquired from the community earnings of the decedent earned subsequent to July 29, 1927.

2. The interest in the property of the decedent and his wife so acquired under the agreement of May 23, 1929, was such as to require the exclusion from the decedent's gross estate of one-half of the value of all of the property owned by the decedent and his wife at the date of the former's death.

Statement of Points to Be Urged.

The Collector's statement of points, all of which are urged as grounds for reversal, is set out in full at pages 223-228 of the record. The critical error of the court below lies in its holding, under the compulsion of the decision of this Court in United States v. Goodyear, supra, that only one-half of the value of the property in question should be included in decedent's gross estate.

Summary of Argument.

A. This appeal concerns only the separately-owned property of the decedent and the pre-1927 California community property, which were included within the transfer agreement of May 23, 1929. By force of that agreement, these two classes of property were converted into post-1927 community property. The question is whether, upon the husband's death, the full value or only one-half the value of this property should be included within his gross estate for federal estate tax purposes. The case turns, not upon Section 302 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1926, but upon Section 302 (c) and (d), which expressly deal with inter vivos transfers and presuppose the transfer of an interest in property by the decedent prior to his death. A decision favorable to the Collector will require the overruling of United States v. Goodyear, 99 F. (2d) 523 (C. C. A. 9th). The importance of the question and the decisions of the Supreme Court of California and of the Supreme Court of the United States subsequent to that decision should lead this Court to overrule the Goodyear case if it is now satisfied that the Government's position is correct.

B. The rights reserved to the decedent under the 1929 transfer were the same as the rights which are vested in California husbands in post-1927 community property. The decedent thus reserved the management and control of the transferred property. He was able to divest his wife of her interest in any particular item or in all of the community property, real or personal. Upon his death, the community property remained subject to his liabilities and only the residue became available to his wife. In these crucial respects, the 1927 amendment to the California community property law made no change in the prior law.

C. Against this background, it seems clear that the 1927 amendment does not touch the application of Section 302 (c) and (d). In principle and under the decisions, the full value of the transferred property must be included in decedent's gross estate. Decedent's death was the indispensable condition which passed to the surviving wife valuable assurances that the interest transferred inter vivos would be reduced to her "possession" and "enjoyment."

ARGUMENT.

The Full Value of the Property in Question Should Be Included in Decedent's Gross Estate Under Section 302 (c) and (d) of the Revenue Act of 1926.

A. THE COLLECTOR'S POSITION ON THIS APPEAL.

This appeal involves only the decedent's separately-owned property and the pre-1927 community property, included within the transfer of May 23, 1929. The case turns upon Section 302 (c) and (d) of the Revenue Act of 1926. [Appendix, infra.] The pertinent regulations are Treasury Regulations 70 (1929 ed.), Articles 15, 17 and 19. [Appendix, infra.]² If the case falls within either of these subsections of the statute, the full value of the property in question, rather than only one-half of the value as held by the court below, must be included within decedent's gross estate for purposes of the federal estate tax.

We recognize that a decision in favor of the Collector on this appeal will require the overruling of the decision of this Court in United States v. Goodyear, 99 F. (2d) 523, which was reached by a divided bench in October, 1938. Our normal reluctance in asking this Court to depart from an earlier decision is considerably lessened in the present instance by several important circumstances. This case involves (1) an appraisal of the substantial ²We also print in the Appendix, infra, Section 81.17 of Treasury Regulations 105, promulgated under the Internal Revenue Code, since this section deals with the application of Helvering v. Hallock, 309 U. S. 106, and that decision, which deals with Section 302 (c), did not turn on any amendment made to Section 302 (c) subsequent to its enactment in 1926. It is proper to look to regulations promulgated under subsequent statutes for their significance in declaring the proper interpretation of an earlier statute. Estate of Sanford v. Commissioner, 308 U. S. 39, 49.

benefits and powers vested in the husband with respect to California community property and (2) the application of a federal revenue statute to the aggregate of advantages so established by state law. At the time of the Goodyear decision, the Supreme Court of California had not passed upon the 1927 amendment to the California community property law. Since that time the highest court of the state has examined the significance of that amendment. In addition, since the Goodyear decision there has been an extremely important decision of the Supreme Court of the United States under Section 302 (c)—Helvering v. Hallock, 309 U. S. 106—and there has been a series of other decisions re-emphasizing and applying to new facts the principle that the federal revenue laws are concerned not so much with the refinements of title as with the possession of control and enjoyment. This Court did not have the benefit of these decisions when it decided the Goodyear case in 1938. Nevertheless the case was decided by a divided court. The decisions affecting the issue which have been rendered since 1938 lend further support to the position of the Judge who dissented in that case and clearly justify an inquiry as to whether the premises on which the majority based its conclusion were sound.³

³If this Court should now overrule the Goodyear decision, it would, we submit, simply be following the path already marked by its decisions in Wardell v. Blum, 276 Fed. 226, certiorari denied, 258 U. S. 617, and Talcott v. United States, 23 F. (2d) 897, certiorari denied, 277 U. S. 604. In the first of these cases (neither of which involved a transfer) it was held that upon the death of a husband only one-half of the value of California community property should be included within his gross estate. Following the decision of the Supreme Court of California in Stewart v. Stewart, 199 Cal. 318, and the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in United States v. Robbins, 269 U. S. 315, this Court later held in the Talcott case, supra, that the full value of the community property should be included in the husband's gross estate. This was also the decision in Title Insurance & Trust Co. v. Goodcell, 60 F. (2d) 803 (C. C. A. 9th), certiorari denied, 288 U. S. 613.

A further circumstance also justifies re-examination of the Goodyear case. The federal estate tax, like the income tax, is related to ability to pay, and should, so far as possible, operate uniformly throughout the country and impose a like burden on the estates of married persons wherever domiciled. That married persons domiciled in the community property states possess tax advantages over those domiciled in the common law states cannot be denied.⁴ Such an inequality and lack of uniformity should be restricted to instances where the reasons for it are compelling. The federal estate tax law does not itself establish one set of rules for determining the gross estate of a decedent spouse in the common law states and another set of rules for determining the gross estate of a decedent spouse in the community property states, and a difference in the tax burden is justified only if there are in fact substantial differences between the rights and privileges of the spouses in the two groups of states. It should not exist where there are merely differences in the labels given to similar rights and privileges. See Morgan v. Commissioner, 309 U. S. 78. Moreover, since the different subdivisions of Section 302, defining the gross estate, establish different criteria for the inclusion of property in the decedent's gross estate, judicial decisions establishing that under one subdivision only one-half of the community property is to be included in the gross estate do not justify any assumption that the same tax advantage accrues under a different subdivision. Tax advantages enjoyed by the spouses in the community property states should be restricted in so far as they may be, consistently with settled judicial principles. If, therefore, this Court should feel that the Goodyear case was wrongly decided and that, as a matter of first impression, the decision would go for the Government, we submit that these considerations should remove any inhibition against a flat reversal of that holding.

The Goodyear decision has now been in the books for about five years. In Helvering v. Hallock, supra, the Supreme Court expressed no reluctance in overruling its earlier decision in Helvering v. St. Louis Trust Co., 296 U. S. 39, although that case also had stood for more than four years. The Supreme Court said that this was not so long a period that (309 U. S. at p. 119) "by the accretion of time and the response of affairs, substantial interests have established themselves." In the instant case, it is noteworthy that the decedent could have placed no reliance upon the Goodyear decision, for the transfer was made in 1929 and his death occurred in 1930.

In the discussion which follows we examine under Point B, infra, the benefits and powers reserved to the husband under California community property law and under Point C, infra, the application of the estate tax to this aggregate of interests. At the outset, however, a further statement of our position and of the scope of Section 302 (c) and (d) seems desirable. It should be understood that we do not contend that the agreement of May 23, 1929, was ineffective to transfer to the wife an interest in the property. We assume that the wife took what she purported to take, namely, a "present, existing and equal" interest under the management and control of the husband, as provided in Sections 172 and 172 (a) of the Civil Code of California; that is, the type of interest that married women in California take in community property acquired after ~~June~~ ^{July} 29, 1927. Nor do we contend that the full value of community property acquired with the husband's earnings after July 29, 1927, is includible in his gross estate. If the value of the wife's one-half share in such property were to be taxed to the estate of the decedent, it would probably come within Section 302(a) of the statute, which is confined to property in which the decedent has an "interest" at the time of his death and has nothing to say of inter vivos transfers.⁵ See Gump v. Commissioner, 124 F. (2d) 540 (C. C. A. 9th), certiorari denied, 316 U. S. 697. We rely, instead, upon Section 302 (c) and (d), which expressly deals with inter vivos transfers by the decedent.

Subsections (c) and (d) of Section 302 in identical language deal with "any interest" in property "of which the decedent has at any time made a transfer, by trust or otherwise." When the transfer of such property falls within the provisions of either of these subsections, its full value is included in the decedent's gross estate. From the quoted language it will be seen that both subsections take as their starting point the fact that the decedent has made an inter vivos transfer of a property interest (of whatever kind) and, necessarily, no longer has the transferred interest at the date of his death. That legal title to the property or any other specific interest has been conveyed away inter vivos thus invites, rather than fore-closes, further scrutiny. See Helvering v. Hallock, 309 U. S. at pp. 110-111, as to Section 302 (c), and Porter v. Commissioner, 288 U. S. 436, 443, as to Section 302 (d). In this crucial respect Section 302 (c) and (d) must be sharply distinguished from Section 302 (a).

Under subsection (c) the full value of the transferred property is taxable to the decedent where the interest transferred is "intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death." Under subsection (d) the full value of the transferred property is taxable to the decedent where the enjoyment of the transferred interest is "subject at the date of his death to any change through the exercise of a power, either by the decedent alone or in conjunction with any person, to alter, amend, or revoke." The purpose of these provisions is to prevent the avoidance of the estate tax by means of a transfer by the person to whose estate the property would otherwise be taxable, unless the transfer in fact as well as form terminates the decedent's connection with the property. Where the transfer is complete in form but the decedent retains strings through which control can be asserted or benefits diverted to himself, the full value of the property remains includible within his gross estate.⁶

From the very nature of these provisions, it is unimportant that the aggregate of the benefits and powers vested in the decedent would not, apart from the element of the transfer, be sufficient to bring down the tax. To take a simple illustration, under Section 302 (c), if A ⁶These subsections thus apply with particular force to transfers such as that involved here, the underlying purpose of which is not to effect a change in property interests but simply to save taxes. That this was the underlying purpose of the transfer of May 23, 1929, seems clear from the uncontradicted testimony. [R. 197, 202.]

transfers a life estate to B with remainder in fee to B unless A survives him, and in that event a reversion to A, the value of the reversion must be included in A's estate upon A's death prior to B's. On the other hand, if A transfers a life estate to B with remainder in fee to B unless C survives B, and in that event remainder in fee to C, the value of C's contingent remainder in fee is not includible within C's gross estate upon his death prior to B's.⁷ In these two situations, it will be seen that after the transfers the contingent interests of A and C, respectively, are identical. The difference in tax consequences flows from the fact that it was A who was the original owner of the property and that it was A who made the transfer.⁸ Accordingly, no confusion should result from the fact that on this appeal we assume that community property acquired after July 29, 1927, with respect to which no transfer is involved, is includible in the decedent's estate only to the extent of one-half of its value.

From the foregoing it should also be clear that our position involves no attack upon United States v. Malcolm, ⁷Compare the Court's decision in Helvering v. Hallock, supra, with the examples cited by Mr. Justice Roberts in his dissenting opinion in that case.

⁸Also see White v. Poor, 296 U. S. 98, involving Section 302 (d), which emphasizes to an extreme degree the importance of a transfer and the reservation to the decedent of powers with respect to the transferred interest. In that case the decedent established a trust naming herself one of three trustees, and provided that the trustees might at any time terminate the trust. She later resigned as trustee but was reappointed with the approval, as required by the trust instrument, of the other trustees and the beneficiaries. Referring to her reappointment, the Court said (p. 102) :

"She then acquired any power for the future to participate in a termination of the trust solely by virtue of the action of the other trustees and the beneficiaries and not in any sense by virtue of any power reserved to herself as settlor in the original declaration of trust." [Italics supplied.]

On this basis, the case was held to fall outside Section 302 (d) and decision went for the taxpayer. (A second, independent ground of decision is not material here.)

282 U. S. 792, or upon Poe v. Seaborn, 282 U. S. 101, and the companion cases. For these cases, which held that community property income could be divided equally between husband and wife for tax purposes, did not involve transfers to the wife by the husband. The theory of these cases was that the wife's share of the community property was never owned by the husband but that ownership vested immediately in her at the time of acquisition. The opinion in the Seaborn case carefully distinguished Corliss v. Bowers, 281 U. S. 376, and Lucas v. Earl, 281 U. S. 111, in both of which a husband's transfer of corpus or income was held ineffective to relieve him from the tax on the whole income. It was necessary for the Court to deal with these decisions because of the similarities between the husband's position in these cases and the husband's position under the law of the community property states; absent such similarities, there would have been no need to refer to them. The Court distinguished the Corliss case on the ground (282 U. S. at p. 117):

But here the husband never has ownership. That is in the community at the moment of acquisition.

Likewise, the Court distinguished the Earl case with the comment (282 U. S. at p. 117):

The very assignment in that case was bottomed on the fact that the earnings would be the husband's property, else there would have been nothing on which it could operate. That case presents quite a different situation from this, because here, by law, the earnings are never the property of the husband, but that of the community.

The community property decisions of the Supreme Court thus tend to emphasize rather than minimize the importance of a transfer. They do not conflict in any sense with our position in the instant case, and on the contrary, underscore the emphasis which we place on the transfer involved here.⁹

B. THE BENEFITS AND POWERS RESERVED TO THE DECEDENT UNDER THE TRANSFER OF MAY 23, 1929.

The agreement of May 23, 1929, purported to reserve to the husband the benefits and powers over his separately-owned property and the community property acquired prior to ~~June~~ ^{July} 29, 1927, which were given him by statute in the community property acquired subsequent to ~~June~~ ^{July} 29, 1927. We, therefore, look to the community property law of California as it existed during the period from May 23, 1929, to December 28, 1930 (the date of decedent's death), in order to determine the benefits and powers reserved to the husband under this transfer. Consistent with the facts of the present case, we assume that the community property in each instance is traceable to the husband's earnings.¹⁰

⁹At the same time, we believe that Poe v. Seaborn, supra, and companion cases (upon which United States v. Malcolm, supra, in turn, was based) attached too little significance to the substantial benefits and powers possessed by the husband. Those cases involved the sections of the income tax laws which imposed a tax on "the net income of every individual." Those sections, unlike the sections of the estate tax law involved in the instant case, refer to the taxpayer's "ownership" (282 U. S. at p. 9) of the income. Even so, the mechanical approach utilized in these community property cases seems inconsistent with both the previous and subsequent decisions of the Supreme Court. See the second ground of decision in United States v. Robbins, 269 U. S. at pp. 327-328, and Helvering v. Clifford, 309 U. S. 331. Randolph Paul would seem to be guilty of no overstatement when he observes that "only a bold person" would assert that Poe v. Seaborn would be decided the same way, as a matter of first impression, by the present Supreme Court. See I Paul, Federal Estate and Gift Taxation (1942) 62.

¹⁰The citations which hereafter appear are, of course, in no sense exhaustive. We might have contented ourselves with citation of the recent case of Grolemund v. Cafferata, 17 Cal. (2d) 679, certiorari denied, 314 U. S. 612, for most of the propositions stated.

1. In the words of the statute, the respective interests of the husband and wife in community property during the marriage relation are “present, existing and equal interests.” Civil Code, Section 161a, enacted in 1927. [Appendix, infra.] But this language is followed immediately by the proviso—under the management and control of the husband as is provided in section 172 and 172a of the Civil Code.

These later sections, together with Sections 167 and 171a [Appendix, infra], relating to the wife’s contracts and torts, all of which are of long standing, establish the framework of the benefits and powers reserved to the husband during the marriage.

2. The control and management of community property, both real and personal, is vested exclusively in the husband and is exercisable by him in his sole discretion, subject only to certain specific statutory safeguards designed to protect the wife. Civil Code, Sections 172 and 172a [Appendix, infra]; Grolemund v. Cafferata, 17 Cal. (2d) 679, certiorari denied, 314 U. S. 612; Stewart v. Stewart, 199 Cal. 318, 204 Cal. 546; Spreckels v. Spreckels, 116 Cal. 339. Thus, the husband may at his election divest the wife of her interest in any specific item or in all of the community personal property (excepting home furnishings and the wife’s and minor children’s wearing apparel) simply by disposing of it for a valuable (although not necessarily adequate) consideration. Civil Code, Section 172. He may not sell or mortgage the community real property unless his wife joins¹¹ with him, but he is free at his own election and without her consent to lease such real property for successive periods not exceeding one year. Civil Code, Section 172a. Moreover, a purchaser or mortgagee taking in good faith without knowledge of the marriage relationship from a husband who holds a record title to community real property is presumed to acquire a valid title; and if the wife is to protect her interests following such a transaction she is charged with prompt action. Civil Code, Section 172a. If his wife consents, a husband may make a gift of any community property. Civil Code, Sections 172 and 172a. The wife, on her part, is powerless to convey, encumber or lease the property, real or personal. Civil Code, Section 167; Smedberg v. Bevilockway, 7 Cal. App. (2d) 578.

3. As a corollary of these powers of management and control, the husband is not liable to his wife for mismanagement, negligence, or extravagance. It is true that he may not dissipate the assets by making gifts (Johnson v. United States, 135 F. (2d) 125 (C. C. A. 9th)), but community assets may be dissipated in other ways and the wife has no redress. Whether he congenitally buys the wrong stock, bets on the wrong horse, or nourishes a taste for high living far exceeding his wife's wishes, no remedy is conferred upon her either by statute or court decision. If the husband accumulates any property he does so voluntarily. See Spreckels v. Spreckels, 116 Cal. 339, 345; Garrosi v. Dastas, 204 U. S. 64; United States v. Robbins, supra.

¹¹Strictly speaking, the wife probably does not join with the husband in conveying real property but merely gives "an expression of her assent" to the conveyance. See Riley v. Gordon, 137 Cal. App. 311, 315-316, which dealt with pre-1927 community property. The husband and wife do not hold community property as tenants by the entirety. See Civil Code, Section 161, Appendix, infra.

4. The husband's debts and other liabilities, whether or not they arise out of any activity of benefit, or intended to be of benefit, to the community, may be discharged from community property, both real and personal. The husband's duty to support his wife and minor children does not rest on the community property statutes, but he may discharge this obligation either from his separately-owned property or from the community property. At his sole election, a husband may dispose of community personal property in order to satisfy contractual, tort or statutory liability incurred by him alone, and it seems to follow that he has the same right with respect to real property. At any rate, it is settled that on judgment and execution a victim of the husband's negligence^e can reach community property, both real and personal, in order to satisfy the liability incurred, and that the wife is powerless to protect her "present, existing and equal" interest in it. Grolemund v. Cafferata, supra; Brunvold v. Victor Johnson & Co., 138 P. (2d) 32 (Cal.), See Altramano v. Swan, 20 Cal. (2d) 622. 629. The liabilities of the wife, on the other hand, even though arising from tort or statute, may not be satisfied from community property, except to the extent that such property is traceable to her own earnings. Grolemund v. Cafferata, 17 Cal. (2d) at pp. 684-685; Grace v. Carpenter, 42 Cal. App. (2d) 301. In cases of transfers from the husband of separately-owned and old-type community property purchased with funds earned by him, such as here, this last provision is obviously of no consequence.

Conversely, the liability of the husband, when acting for the benefit of the community, is not limited to that of a common law agent or trustee when dealing with third persons.¹² The husband's separately-owned property, as well as the community property, may be reached in satisfaction of such obligations. See Spreckels v. Spreckels, supra; Hulsman v. Ireland, 205 Cal. 345. But the separate earnings of the wife, though community property, may not be applied in satisfaction of debts contracted by the husband even though for the benefit of the community. Street v. Bertolone, 193 Cal. 751.

5. Against this background, it would be indeed remarkable if it could properly be said that the wife is entitled equally with her husband to the possession of community property. To the contrary, it seems well settled that, as a concomitant of his powers of management and control, the husband is entitled to the exclusive possession of the community property. People v. Swalm, 80 Cal. 46; Fennell v. Drinkhouse, 131 Cal. 447; Estate of Dargie, 179 Cal. 418; McMullin v. Lyon Fireproof Storage Co., 74 Cal. App. 87, 92-93; Salveter v. Salveter, 135 Cal. App. 238; Beemer v. Roher, 137 Cal. App. 293. See Civil Code, Section 1402 [Appendix, infra], referring to the husband's right of possession as against the deceased wife's personal representative. If theory be resorted to, it appears that a wife's physical possession, when she has it, is the husband's legal possession. People v. Swalm, 80 Cal. at pp. 49, 50. As a general rule, it is the husband alone who may sue to recover the possession of community property, and assert rights respecting it. Chance v. Kobsted, 66 Cal.

¹²California does not recognize any legal entity separate and distinct from the parties comprising the community. Jones v. Weaver, 123 F. (2d) 403 (C. C. A. 9th); Grolemund v. Cafferata, supra.

App. 434. During her husband's lifetime, a married woman is neither a necessary nor a proper party to such an action. See Spreckels v. Spreckels, 116 Cal. at p. 349; Caputo v. Fusco, 54 Cal. App. 191; La Rosa v. Glaze, 18 Cal. App. (2d) 354.

6. The respective rights of the husband and wife upon the death of one of them are governed by Sections 1401 and 1402 of the Civil Code (now Sections 201, 202 and 203 of the Probate Code). In general, one-half of the community property belongs to the surviving spouse; the other half is subject to the testamentary disposition of the decedent and, absent such disposition, goes to the surviving spouse. But there is an important qualification in the case of community property passing from the control of the husband, whether by reason of his death or the testamentary disposition of the wife as to her share. Such property, while not liable for the wife's debts (Estate of Klumpke, 167 Cal. 415), remains subject to the husband's debts, the family allowance and the charges and expenses of administration. Thus, upon the husband's death, the wife takes as her share of the community property only the residue remaining after such charges have been satisfied. And, even though the separate property of the husband or his share of the community property is sufficient to satisfy these charges, they are nevertheless apportioned pro rata between his property and the wife's share of the community property. Estate of Coffee, 19 Cal. (2d) 248.

Grolemund v. Cafferata, supra, and Estate of Coffee, supra, are of unusual significance because they were decided as late as 1941, subsequent to the decision of this Court in United States v. Goodyear, supra, and because they are the first pronouncements of the Supreme Court of California as to the effect of the 1927 amendment. As indicated above, Grolemund v. Cafferata, supra, held that community property, both real and personal, can be sold on execution to satisfy a judgment secured against a husband alone in consequence of his tort (negligent operation of an automobile), and Estate of Coffee, supra, held that the share of the community property passing to the surviving wife upon the death of the husband is the net property remaining after the husband's debts, the family allowance and the expenses of administration have been satisfied.

The Grolemund opinion stated that fundamental to the determination of the case was the question of the changes wrought in the community property system by the enactment of Section 161a of the Civil Code in 1927. 17 Cal. (2d) at p. 682. The opinion considered the community property system at many points and concluded in each instance that the 1927 amendment had made no change. The "present, existing and equal" interest conferred upon the wife by the 1927 amendment was brushed aside as of little significance since, as the court pointed out, the community property still remained subject to the "management and control" of the husband as provided by Sections 172 and 172a. The court concluded (p. 689) that Section 161a had "not altered the situation with respect to the wife's interest remaining subject to the husband's power of management and control * * *." It recognized that the husband thereby retained the power to divest the wife of her interest in community property. In the course of its discussion, the court cited with approval (p. 687) the original "decision" of the court below in the instant case and twice referred to the court's opinion, quoting a passage from it (pp. 687 and 698). It emphasized (p. 687) that the provision making the entire community property subject to the husband's debts when it passed from his control by reason of his death or by virtue of testamentary disposition by the wife, was "antagonistic" to the theory that Section 161 (a) gave the wife a vested interest, which no act of the husband could affect. The court also cited with approval Smedberg v. Bevilockway, supra, for its implicit holding that the effect of Section 161a was not to change the nature of the wife's interest in community property into a vested interest (pp. 685-686).¹³ Finally, referring to United States v. Malcolm, 282 U. S. 792, the court stated (p. 689) that this decision expressed the prevailing view of the federal courts to the effect that a California wife has such a present and vested interest in the community property that she may file a separate income tax return; the court added, however, that this could have no bearing on the question at issue.

The opinion in Estate of Coffee, supra, likewise failed to point to any change made in the community property system by the 1927 amendment and, in fact, did not even mention Section 161a. This opinion also quoted with approval (19 Cal. (2d) at p. 252) from the opinion of the court below in the instant case (although that opinion had then been withdrawn for a period of some eleven months).

It will be recalled that the decision of the Supreme Court in United States v. Malcolm, supra, holding that a California wife has such an interest in the community property income that she might separately report and pay a tax on one-half of it, issued on the Government's concession that the amendments to the California community property law not involved in United States v. Robbins, 269 U. S. 315 (which was concerned with community property acquired prior to 1917), justified this result. This concession was thought to be required by the subsequent amendments to the California law and the decision in Poe v. Seaborn, 282 U. S. 101, which held that the wife's interest in community property in the State of Washington was a vested interest, and the other cases decided at the same time as the Seaborn case. In the light of the two recent decisions of the Supreme Court of California, it may be questioned whether the Government's concession in the Malcolm case was providently made and whether the decision of the Court has continuing vitality.¹⁴ In this connection, it must be borne in mind that the amendments to the community property law of 1917 and 1923 did not convert the interest of the wife into something more than an expectancy. This Court recognized that that was so in the Goodyear decision. As to the 1917 amendments (requiring the wife to join in conveyances of real estate, etc.), see Stewart v. Stewart, supra. As to the 1923 amendment (giving the wife the right of testamentary disposition over her share of the community property, etc.), see Trimble v. Trimble, 219 Cal. 340; Spreckels v. Spreckels, supra, p. 344; and Gillis v. Welch, 80 F. (2d) 165 (C. C. A. 9th), certiorari denied, 297 U. S. 722. In the last-cited case it was held that upon a gift by a husband to his wife of community property acquired in 1924 a federal gift tax was payable on the full value of the property.¹⁵ Thus it will be seen that both the Malcolm and Goodyear decisions apparently rest on nothing more substantial than the 1927 amendment to the community property law.

¹⁴But see Commissioner v. Cavanagh, 125 F. (2d) 366, 368, in which this Court stated that "The Grolemund case in no manner touches the principles leading to the Malcolm decision."

As we have pointed out, however, we do not challenge the Malcolm decision, which did not involve estate taxes and was not concerned with transfers. It suffices to say that the two recent decisions of the California Supreme Court do warrant a re-examination of the references to the community property law set out in the Goodyear opinion.

The Goodyear opinion placed emphasis on the circumstance that under Section 161 (a) the transfer was effective to confer upon the wife a "present, existing and equal interest" in the community property (99 F. (2d) at pp. 526-527), but this statutory phrase must be construed in conjunction with other provisions of the community property law. When those are given effect, it ¹⁵This case involved a gift of 1923-1927 community property to the wife, who thereafter held the subject of the gift "as a part of her separate estate" (80 F. (2d) at p. 167). The nature of the gift is thus to be carefully distinguished from the instant gift, which served to convert the husband's separately-owned property and pre-1927 community property into post-1927 community property. In our view, the subject property of the instant gift remained liable for the estate tax on decedent's death, and, by the same token, would not have been liable for a gift tax. See Estate of Sanford v. Commissioner, 308 U. S. 39. Cf. Smith v. Shaughnessy, 318 U. S. 176.

is clear that her interest is not a present and existing interest in the same sense that the husband's interest is a present and existing interest. That their interests are not equal in all respects, is also clear. This Court recognized in the Goodyear case that the community property remains subject to the management and control of the husband after Section 161 (a) was enacted (p. 527). The interest given to the wife under Section 161(a) is circumscribed by this fact. As we have seen, the recent California decisions strongly imply that the sections merely attached a label to the wife's interest without significance, at least as far as the husband's management and control are concerned. The equality of ownership between them, therefore, can only extend to some kind of a technical ownership. The Goodyear opinion further stated (p. 527) that by force of the transfer, both "spouses had possession and enjoyment of the property and owned the income therefrom." No California cases were cited for the proposition that the wife, equally with the husband, had possession or enjoyment of the community property. The provisions giving the husband management and control negate any such theory and the situations which appear in Paragraph 5, supra, indicate that in making this statement also the Court was using the terms "possession" and "enjoyment" in a technical sense and not in the sense of actual possession and enjoyment. This conclusion is strengthened by the fact that later in the opinion, the Court asserted only (p. 527) that—

We think that theoretically each spouse had possession and enjoyment of his particular interest.
[Italics supplied.]

Whatever "ownership" interest may be said to have been conferred upon the wife by Section 161 (a) and whatever possession and enjoyment may be said to have been given her, she may be deprived of that interest and ousted from that possession and enjoyment without her consent and against her wishes in consequence of her husband's actions. Grolemund v. Cafferata, supra; Estate of Coffee, supra. See Hannah v. Swift, 61 F. (2d) 307 (C. C. A. 9th).

Both Judge Stephens, dissenting in the Goodyear case (99 F. (2d) at p. 532), and Judge Jenney in his original opinion in the present case (23 F. Supp. at p. 280) expressed the view that the effect of the 1927 amendment was to give the wife an "ownership interest" or the "enjoyment of ownership" in one-half of the community property. We may assume that this was the result of that amendment, giving these words the significance attributed to them by their authors. But this change is wholly immaterial for present purposes. Judge Stephens, probably, and Judge Jenney, expressly, took the view that this did not give the wife a greater possessory interest than she had before 1927. In the words of Judge Jenney, referring to the situation after the 1927 amendment (23 F. Supp. at p. 280):

The Legislature must have wanted to endow the wife in the present with rights of ownership which would be more than merely expectant but would be existent—such that they would not be subordinate but would be equal to the husband's. The possession, management, and control, and the right to alienate or hypothecate, remained solely in the husband; the bare legal title, the right of ownership as now defined, was divided equally between the spouses. [Italics supplied.]

Upon this examination of the benefits and powers reserved to the husband under the transfer, we turn to the application of the federal estate tax.

C. THE APPLICATION OF SECTION 302 (c) AND (d).

Prior to the 1927 amendment, the husband retained such an aggregate of advantages with respect to California community property as to require the inclusion of its full value in his gross estate. See Gillis v. Welch, supra, and other cases cited above. Although the Supreme Court of California has not said so, we may assume that the effect of the 1927 amendment was to vest in the wife an "ownership" interest equal to that of the husband in the community property thereafter acquired. At the same time, the 1927 amendment did not affect the husband's management or control of the community property or the other substantial rights of the parties in regard to it. Assuming, upon the husband's death, that the 1927 amendment was effective to withdraw the wife's share of the community property from the scope of Section 302 (a), it is still necessary to deal with Section 302 (c) and (d) in transfer cases, such as the present. The application of the latter subsections is not frustrated by the fact that a legal interest has been vested in a grantee prior to the decedent's death; they are not concerned with the refinements of legal title, but with the substance of possession, control and enjoyment. The inquiry under these subsections is directed to the question whether the disposition of the substantial incidents of ownership has been held in suspense until the decedent's death. Helvering v. Hallock, supra. Even other sections of the revenue laws, which do not in express terms deal with transfers, are concerned less with the technicalities of legal title than with the substantial control, advantages and satisfactions which go with the concept of ownership. Harrison v. Schaffner, 312 U. S. 579; Helvering v. Eubank, 311 U. S. 122; Helvering v. Horst, 311 U. S. 112; Helvering v. Clifford, 309 U. S. 331. But the 1927 amendment leaves these vital considerations untouched. Consequently, it seems almost capable of mathematical demonstration that a transfer such as that involved in the instant case is insufficient to exclude the full value of the transferred property from the decedent's gross estate.

Apart from the foregoing sequence of cases and amendment, it seems clear that the instant case falls within Section 302 (c) and (d). Under Section 302 (c) the full value of the property is taxable where "possession" is retained by the transferor. As we have seen, the decedent's reservation of his powers of management and control over the transferred property carried with it the exclusive right to possession.¹⁶ We do not think that the wife even "theoretically" had a right to possession. But if she did, under some concept foreign to the common law meaning of possession,¹⁷ it was the kind of technical interest irrelevant to the application of Section 302 (c) and (d). McCaughn v. Girard Trust Co., 11 F. (2d) 520 (C. C. A. 3d); Holland v. Commissioner, 47 B. T. A. 807 (Supplemental opinion), 1 T. C. 564. See Common- wealth Trust Co. v. Driscoll (W. D. Pa.), decided January 28, 1943 (1943 Prentice Hall, Par. 62,452), affirmed per curiam by the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit July 9, 1943 (1943 Prentice Hall, Par. 62,749), taxpayer's petition for rehearing now pending.

¹⁶On the facts of the present case there can be no doubt that decedent in fact retained possession, as well as the right to possession. [R. 207-208.]

It is perhaps even clearer that the wife's "enjoyment" of the transferred property was held in suspense during decedent's lifetime, and did not become fixed until his death. As we have seen, decedent during his lifetime could divest the wife completely of her "ownership" interest in any part or all of the community property, which could be applied in satisfaction of his own personal obligations. Even after his death, the community property remained liable for his debts and the residue finally placed at the full disposal of the wife could be determined only after all such obligations were satisfied.

In the Hallock case the decedent had created a trust under a separation agreement, giving the income to his wife for life and providing that upon her death the trust should terminate and the corpus should be paid to him if he survived and if not, should be paid to others. When the settlor died in 1932 his divorced wife, the life beneficiary, survived him. The Circuit Court of Appeals had held that the trust instrument had conveyed the whole interest of the decedent subject only to a condition subsequent, which left him nothing except a mere possibility of reverter and hence, that the value of the remainder could not be included in the gross estate, as a transfer intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after death, within the meaning of Section 302 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1926.

The Supreme Court rejected the argument that the decision should turn on the nature of the remainder interest, and instead approved the principle established in Klein v. United States, 283 U. S. 231, where the court had said (at p. 234) that the test was whether or not "the death of the grantor was the indispensable and intended event which brought the larger estate into being for the grantee and effected its transmission from the dead to the living." The court added that the rationale of the Klein decision was that the statute taxes not merely those interests which are deemed to pass at death according to the refined technicalities of the law of property, but also taxes inter vivos transfers that are too much akin to testamentary dispositions not to be subjected to the same excise. Section 302 (c) applied, since the grantor retained in himself the possibility of regaining the transferred property.

The case is squarely within the Hallock case, since the decedent's death was the indispensable condition which assured the wife's possession and enjoyment of any part of the property included in the transfer. If there is a distinction, on the facts, the instant case is a stronger case than the Hallock case, where the decedent's death could not affect the life estate previously transferred, and the husband reserved none of the rights of management and control which were vested in the decedent here.

Applying the Hallock rule, many cases have held Section 302 (c) applicable where the power of the decedent to invade the corpus of the transferred property or to divert it to others was far more rigidly limited than in the present case. Blunt v. Kelly, 131 F. (2d) 632 (C. C. A. 3d); Bankers Trust Co. v. Higgins (C. C. A. 2d), decided June 18, 1943 (1943 Prentice Hall, Par. 62,707);¹⁸ ¹⁸This case also involved a complicated problem of valuation not presented in the instant case.

Lehman v. Commissioner, 109 F. (2d) 99 (C. C. A. 2d), certiorari denied, 310 U. S. 637; Brewer v. Hassett (Mass.), decided February 24, 1943 (1943 Prentice Hall, Par. 62,520). See Durant v. Commissioner, 41 B. T. A. 462. Also see, as to the application of Section 302 (c), Commissioner v. Clise, 122 F. (2d) 998 (C. C. A. 9th), certiorari denied, 315 U. S. 821; Mearkle's Estate v. Commissioner, 129 F. (2d) 386 (C. C. A. 3d).

Decedent was under a duty to support his wife and any minor children. This obligation did not arise by virtue of the community property system, but could have been satisfied either out of his own property or community property. Even assuming, although there is no basis for the assumption, that some identifiable portion of the community property was earmarked for the support of the wife, this would not alter the result. To the extent that the corpus of the community property transferred was dedicated to the wife's support, it was used to satisfy a legal obligation of the decedent, and was thus includible in his gross estate under the analogy of Douglas v. Willcuts, 296 U. S. 1. See Helvering v. Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., 111 F. (2d) 224 (C. C. A. 8th), certiorari denied, 310 U. S. 654. Cf. Helvering v. Stuart, 317 U. S. 154, 169-171, rehearing denied, 317 U. S. 711.

Indeed, it is reasonable to argue that even apart from the elements of management and control, possession and enjoyment, the transferred property falls under Section 302 (c). For the transfer was subject to the contingency that the wife's share of the community property should revert to the decedent if she predeceased him intestate. It seems correct, in principle, that the degree of remoteness of the reversion to the decedent does not frustrate the application of the Hallock principle. In an analogous situation, where the reversion was dependent upon death intestate, the Board of Tax Appeals has held Section 302 (c) applicable. Lloyd v. Commissioner, 47 B. T. A. 349, now pending decision before the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. We mention this as a valid ground of decision without placing primary reliance upon it in the instant case.

Similarly, the instant case falls well within the scope of Section 302 (d). The decedent here retained a right to alter, amend and revoke the disposition of the property included within the transfer. Section 302 (d), however, is still broader and encompasses the situation where the right to alter, amend or revoke is reserved "by the decedent alone or in conjunction with any person." The term "any person" includes a beneficiary of the transfer. Helvering v. City Bank Co., 296 U. S. 85. We have seen that the decedent could even make gifts of the community property, real and personal, with the consent of his wife and without her consent, he may by other means than making gifts divest her of her interest in community property. The following cases require the inclusion of the full value of the transferred community property within the decedent's gross estate: Helvering v. City Bank Co., 296 U. S. 85; Porter v. Commissioner, 288 U. S. 436; Welch v. Terhune, 126 F. (2d) 695 (C. C. A. 1st), certiorari denied, 317 U. S. 644; Howard v. United States, 125 F. (2d) 986 (C. C. A. 5th); Mellon v. Driscoll, 117 F. (2d) 477 (C. C. A. 3d), certiorari denied, 313 U. S. 579; In re Tyler's Estate, 109 F. (2d) 421 (C. C. A. 3d); Adriance v. Higgins, 113 F. (2d) 1013, 1015 (C. C. A. 2d); Dort v. Helvering, 69 F. (2d) 836, 841 (App. D. C.); Commonwealth Trust Co. v. Driscoll, supra. Also see Chase Nat. Bank v. United States, 278 U. S. 327, 335; Reinecke v. Northern Trust Co., 278 U. S. 339, 345; Saltonstall v. Saltonstall, 276 U. S. 260, 271; Tyler v. United States, 281 U. S. 497.

In summary, under the provisions of the transfer now before the Court, it was the decedent's death which "brought into being or ripened for the survivor" (Tyler v. United States, 281 U. S. at p. 503) "property rights * * * which before could not be exercised" (Title Insurance & Trust Co. v. Goodcell, 60 F. (2d) at p. 804). It was decedent's death which passed to the wife the "valuable assurance" (Porter v. Commissioner, 288 U. S. at p. 444) that she would not be divested of the interest transferred to her inter vivos. Decedent's death was the "indispensable and intended event" (Klein v. United States, 283 U. S. 231, 234) which "freed" the wife's interest from the "contingency" (Helvering v. Hallock, 309 U. S. at p. 113) that she might never reduce it to possession and enjoyment. The full value of the property should therefore be included in decedent's gross estate under Section 302 (c) and (d).

Conclusion.

For these reasons the judgment of the District Court should be reversed.

Civil Code of California (1929):

Sec. 161. [Joint tenants.] A husband and wife may hold property as joint tenants, tenants in common, or as community property. [Enacted 1872.]

Sec. 161a. [Respective interests; community property.] The respective interests of the husband and wife in community property during continuance of the marriage relation are present. existing and equal interests under the management and control of the husband as is provided in sections 172 and 172a of the Civil Code. This section shall be construed as defining the respective interests and rights of husband and wife in community property. [Enacted 1927.]

Sec. 167. [Wife's contract, community property.] The property of the community is not liable for the contracts of the wife, made after marriage, unless secured by a pledge or mortgage thereof executed by the husband. [As amended in 1874.]

Sec. 171a. [Torts.] For civil injuries committed by a married woman, damages may be recovered from her alone, and her husband shall not be liable therefor, except in cases where he would be jointly liable with her if the marriage did not exist. [Enacted 1913.]

Sec. 172. [Community personal property.] The husband has the management and control of the community personal property, with like absolute power of disposition, other than testamentary, as he has of his separate estate; provided, however, that he can not make a gift of such community personal property, or dispose of the same without a valuable consideration, or sell, convey, or encumber the furniture, furnishings, or fittings of the home, or the clothing or wearing apparel of the wife or minor children that is community, without the written consent of the wife. [As amended in 1917.]

Sec. 172a. [Community real property.] The husband has the management and control of the community real property, but the wife, either personally or by duly authorized agent, must join with him in executing any instrument by which such community real property or any interest therein is leased for a longer period than one year, or is sold, conveyed, or encumbered; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to apply to a lease, mortgage, conveyance, or transfer of real property or of any interest in real property between husband and wife; provided, also, however, that the sole lease, contract, mortgage or deed of the husband, holding the record title to community real property, to a lessee, purchaser or encumbrancer, in good faith without knowledge of the marriage relation shall be presumed to be valid. No action to avoid any instrument mentioned in this section, affecting any property standing of record in the name of the husband alone, executed by the husband alone, shall be commenced after the expiration of one year from the filing for record of such instrument in the recorder's office in the county in which the land is situate, and no action to avoid any instrument mentioned in this section, affecting any property standing of record in the name of the husband alone, which was executed by the husband alone and filed for record prior to the time this act takes effect, in the recorder's office in the county in which the land is situate, shall be commenced after the expiration of one year from the date on which this act takes effect. [As amended in 1927.]

Sec. 1401. [Distribution of common property, death of wife.] Upon the death of either husband or wife, one-half of the community property belongs to the surviving spouse; the other half is subject to the testamentary disposition of the decedent, and in the absence thereof goes to the surviving spouse, subject to the provisions of section one thousand four hundred two of this Code. [As amended in 1923; now Section 201, Probate Code of California.]

Sec. 1402. [Same. Death of husband.] Community property passing from the control of the husband, either by reason of his death or by virtue of testamentary disposition by the wife, is subject to administration, his debts, family allowance and the charges and expenses of administration; but in the event of such testamentary disposition by the wife, the husband, pending administration, shall retain the same power to sell, manage and deal with the community personal property as he had in her lifetime; and his possession and control of the community property shall not be transferred to the personal representative of the wife except to the extent necessary to carry her will into effect. After forty days from the death of the wife, the surviving husband shall have full power to sell, lease, mortgage or otherwise deal with and dispose of the community real property, unless a notice is recorded in the county in which the property is situated to the effect that an interest in the property, specifying it, is claimed by another under the wife's will. [As amended in 1923; now Sections 202 and 203, Probate Code of California.]

Treasury Regulations 70 (1929 Ed.):

Art. 15. Transfers during life.—Except bona fide sales for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, all transfers made by the decedent subsequent to September 8, 1916, are taxable if made in contemplation of or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death. If the enjoyment of the property or the interest transferred (whether the property or the interest was transferred by the decedent before or after passage of the Revenue Act of 1916) was subject at the date of the decedent's death to change by the exercise of any power to alter, amend, or revoke,

* * * the entire value of the property, or the interest transferred, as of the date of decedent's death must be included in the gross estate unless the transfer constituted a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth. * * *

Art. 17. General.—All transfers made by the decedent subsequent to September 8, 1916, other than bona fide sales for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, which were intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death, are taxable, and the value, as of the date of the decedent's death, of property or interest so transferred must be returned as a part of the gross estate.

Art. 19. Power to change enjoyment.—The value of property transferred, other than by a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, constitutes a part of the gross estate if at the time of the decedent's death the enjoyment thereof was subject to any change through a power, exercisable either by the decedent alone or in conjunction with any person, to alter, amend, or revoke.

Treasury Regulations 105, promulgated under the Internal Revenue Code:

SEC. 81.17. Transfers conditioned upon survivorship.—The statutory phrase, "a transfer * * * intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death," includes a transfer by the decedent prior to his death (other than a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth) whereby and to the extent that the beneficial title to the property transferred (if the transfer was in trust), or the legal title thereto (if the transfer was otherwise than in trust), is not to pass from the decedent to the donee unless the decedent dies before the donee or another person, or its passing is otherwise conditioned upon decedent's death; or, if title passed to the donee, it is to be defeated and the property is to revert to the decedent as his own should he survive the donee or another person, or the reverting of the property to the decedent is conditioned upon some other contingency terminable by his death. In such instances, it is immaterial whether the decedent's interest arose by implication of law or by the express terms of the instrument of transfer. Since in such transfers the decedent's death is requisite to a termination of his interest in the property, it is unimportant whether his interest be denominated a reversion or a possibility of reverter, and whether the interest of the donee be contingent or vested subject to be divested, and the tax will apply, unless otherwise provided in the next succeeding paragraph, without regard to the time when the transfer was made, whether before or after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1916. Thus, upon a transfer by a decedent of property in which an estate for life is given to one and an estate in remainder to another, but with a provision added that the estate in remainder shall revert in the decedent should he survive the owner of the life estate, there is to be included, in determining the value of the decedent's gross estate following his death, the value as of the date of his death of the estate in remainder, if the life estate is then outstanding. The value of the outstanding life estate is not to be included in determining the value of the gross estate, unless that estate had been transferred in contemplation of the decedent's death, or otherwise as to render it a part of the gross estate. If by reason of an election by the executor the valuation of the gross estate is governed by the provisions of section 81.11, adjustments in the values of such transferred estates may be required. (See section 81.15.)

Where the transfer was made during the period between November 11, 1935 (that being the date upon which the Supreme Court of the United States rendered its decisions in the cases of Helvering v. St. Louis Union Trust Co. (296 U. S., 39) and Becker v. St. Louis Union Trust Co. (296 U. S., 48)), and January 29, 1940 (that being the date upon which such Court rendered its decisions in Helvering v. Hallock and companion cases (309 U. S., 106)), and the Commissioner, whose determination therein shall be conclusive, determines that such transfer is classifiable with the transfers involved in such two cases decided on November 11, 1935, rather than with the transfer involved in the case of Klein v. United States (283 U. S., 231), previously decided by such Court, then the property so transferred shall not be included in the decedent's gross estate under the provisions of this section, if the following condition is also met: Such transfer shall have been finally treated for all gift tax purposes, both as to the calendar year of such transfer and subsequent calendar years, as a gift in an amount measured by the value of the property undiminished by reason of a provision in the instrument of transfer by which the property, in whole or in part, is to revert to the decedent should he survive the donee or another person, or the reverting thereof is conditioned upon some other contingency terminable by decedent's death.

BRIEF FOR THE APPELLEE.

Questions Involved.

1. DID THE AMENDMENT IN 1927 TO THE CALIFORNIA CIVIL CODE, §161 (a) CONFER UPON THE WIFE, DOMICILED IN CALIFORNIA, SUCH AN INTEREST IN CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY PROPERTY AS WARRANTED THE EXCLUSION OF HER INTEREST IN THE COMMUNITY PROPERTY FROM THE ESTATE OF THE HUSBAND FOR FEDERAL ESTATE TAX PURPOSES?

2. UNDER THE LAW OF CALIFORNIA MAY A HUSBAND DOMICILED IN CALIFORNIA, BY AGREEMENT TRANSMUTE PROPERTY FROM ONE TYPE INTO ANOTHER TYPE?

3. DID THE APPELLEE ACQUIRE UNDER THE TERMS OF THE AGREEMENT DATED MAY 23, 1929, BETWEEN HERSELF AND HER HUSBAND SUCH AN INTEREST IN THEIR PROPERTY AS TO ENTITLE HER TO HAVE HER ONE-HALF OF THE COMMUNITY PROPERTY EXCLUDED IN COMPUTING THE FEDERAL ESTATE TAX ON HER DECEASED SPOUSE'S ESTATE?

Statutes and Regulations Involved.

In addition to the statutes set forth in the Appellant's Brief there is included in the Appendix annexed hereto a copy of Sections 401 and 402 of the Revenue Act of 1942, and §158 of the California Civil Code.

Statement.

The appellee would like to supplement the statement set out in the Appellant's Brief as follows:

The decedent was Secretary and Treasurer of Bullock's [R. 197]. He attended business every day and worked long hours. He was taken ill about the 15th or 16th of November, 1930 [R. 198]. He was in good health at the time the agreement of May 23, 1929, was made [R. 197]. The decedent died of Lobar pneumonia [R. 199] on the 28th day of December, 1930 [R. 193]. In the early part of November, 1930, the decedent took out $30,000 of life insurance in the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company [R. 203].

The case was tried before Hon. Albert Lee Stephens on December 14, 1936, without a jury [R. 119]. It was then transferred to the Hon. Ralph E. Jenney, who, on the 30th day of April, 1938, handed down an extensive opinion, which was vacated by Judge Jenney of his own motion under date of January 9, 1941 [R. 49].

ARGUMENT.

I.

Section 161 (a) of the Civil Code of California Gives the Wife a Vested Interest in Community Property Acquired After the Effective Date of Its Adoption.

The Appellant's Brief devotes a great deal of space to reviewing authorities which treat of the nature of community property owned by spouses domiciled in California before July 29, 1927.

In 1926 the Supreme Court of California, in the case of Stewart v. Stewart, 199 Cal. p. 318, held in effect that the wife's interest in community property was not vested.

The nature of a wife's interest in California community property had been the subject of considerable litigation and the decisions and rulings of the Treasury Department were far from consistent. Thus in the case of Wardell v. Blum (C. C. A. 9), 276 Fed. 226, certiorari denied, 258 U. S. 617, it was held that a wife took a one-half interest in her own right in community property under the 1917 amendment to the California Inheritance Tax Act. This case was decided in 1921. In 1924 the United States Attorney General issued two decisions, one T. D. 3569 III-1 C. B. 91 and the other T. D. 3670 IV-1 C. B. 19, in which it was held that only one-half of the community property was taxable upon the death of the husband. In 1926 the tide flowed in the opposite direction and by T. D. 3891 V-2 C. B. 232 the Treasury Department ruled that the community property was taxable in full to the estate of the husband and it was so held by the Ninth Circuit in Talcott v. United States, 23 F. (2d) 897 (1928), certiorari denied 277 U. S. 604.

Then came Section 161 (a) of the California Civil Code, which provides that during the continuance of the marriage relation the wife's interest in the community property was a "present, existing and equal interest." See page 1 of Appendix of Appellant's Brief. There had been a good deal of controversy about the wife's right to report one-half of the community income for income tax purposes as well as having one-half of the community property excluded from the husband's estate for Federal estate tax purposes. That the amendment was designed to accomplish this purpose is clearly disclosed by the case of United States v. Malcolm, 282 U. S. 792 (1931). This case involved the question of the right of a wife to report one-half of the community income on her separate return. The case went up to the Supreme Court on a certificate from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and concerned a husband and wife who were domiciled in California. The Supreme Court answered in the affirmative the following question:

"Has the wife, under Section 161 (a) of the Civil Code of California, such an interest in the community income that she should separately report and pay tax on one-half of such income?"

In support of its answer the Court cited Poe v. Seaborn, 282 U. S. 101; Goodell v. Koch, 282 U. S. 118; and

Hopkins v. Bacon, 282 U. S. 122. In the case of Poe v. Seaborn the Court arrived at its conclusion upon the ground that a wife had a vested property right in the community property equal with that of her husband. Speaking of the power of the husband over the community property the Court said:

“The law’s investiture of the husband with broad powers by no means negatives a wife’s present interest as a co-owner.”

The rule in the Malcolm case has remained undistributed for a period of twelve years and it has been the practice of the Treasury Department since that decision to accept without question separate returns of husbands and wives domiciled in California, each reporting one-half of the new type community income upon separate returns. The theory of the Malcolm case, of course, is that California wives have a vested interest in one-half of the earnings of husbands after July 29, 1927. This also applies to income derived from community property acquired with such earnings. In the present instance the parties entered into an agreement under date of May 23, 1929, by which they converted all of their property under the new type community property.

II.

It Is Immaterial Whether the Property Was Community Property Earned After July 29, 1927, or Was Converted to That Type of Property by the Agreement.

The appellant has attempted to establish some nebulous distinction between the "pre-1927" type of community property and the separate property of the decedent on the one hand, and the new type of community property acquired after July 29, 1927, with earnings made after that date. She admits that one-half of the community property acquired from earnings of the decedent after July 29, 1927, should not be included whereas she earnestly contends that all other property acquired by the decedent should be included in the decedent's estate. There seems to be no question of the right of spouses domiciled in California to convert one type of property into another by agreement. See §158 of the California Civil Code [see Appendix]; Schuler v. Savings Fund & Loan Society, 64 Cal. 397 (1883); Title Insurance and Trust Company v. Ingersoll, 153 Cal. 1 (1908); Estate of Sill, 121 Cal. App. 202 (1932) and GCM 669 V-2 C. B. 111.

There seems to be no doubt that the Sampson agreement was effective to convert all property owned by Mr. Sampson into the new type of community property. To hold otherwise would necessitate the overruling of a long line of California cases.

The appellant attempts to differentiate between (a) community property acquired prior to 1927 and separate property, and (b) community property acquired out of post-1927 earnings. After a metaphysical disquisition upon the subject of control and management of pre-1927 community property, the appellant comes to the conclusion that this control and management requires the inclusion of all of the old type community property in a husband's estate. See pages 17 to 27 Appellant's Brief. This conclusion, of course, is arrived at after the appellant admits that one-half of the post-1927 community property should not be included in the husband's estate, and yet the decedent's right of control and management over both the old and new type of community property was identical not only under the terms of the agreement but by virtue of Section 161 (a) of the Civil Code. See Bank of America National Trust & Savings Association v. Rogan, 33 Fed. Supp. 183 (1940). Incidentally, the agreement affected not only property owned on May 23, 1929, but all property whether theretofore acquired or thereafter to be acquired.

In discussing the degree of control or management exercised by a husband over community property in California, the appellant overlooked the practical aspect of the relationship of spouses and their property. Ordinarily spouses do not deal with each other with respect to their property at arms length. The terms "mine" and "yours" disappear and they become "ours." It is not an uncommon thing for a husband to exercise the same control and management of his wife's separate property as he does with respect to the community property. Certainly this would not be a reason for including the wife's separate property or any part of it in the husband's estate. It is submitted that tenuous speculations should not be permitted to destroy the right of a wife under the California law in community property. As was said by the District Court in the case of Bank of America etc. v. Rogan, supra:

“This makes it unnecessary to deal with some of the other theoretical and abstract considerations and arguments as to the nature of community property ownership to be found in the writings of taxation experts and some court decisions. By dissecting our community property law and subjecting it to various categorical tests, one could easily pulverize and reduce to naught the interest of the wife, so as to deprive California wives, for taxation purposes, of the benefits which communal ownership confers upon them. We prefer to deal with realities.”

III.

The Agreement of May 23, 1929, Was Not Made in Contemplation of Death.

The lower Court found that the agreement of May 23, 1929, was not made in contemplation of death [R. 96, 101]. This finding is amply supported by the evidence which showed that Mr. Sampson was actively engaged in business up to within six weeks of his death, and less than two months before his death he effected life insurance in the sum of $30,000 upon his life and that the cause of his death was Lobar pneumonia. There was no conflict in the evidence upon the point and it would seem clear that the finding was well founded.

IV.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue Has Acquiesced in the Case of Bigelow v. Commissioner Following the Goodyear Case.

The judgment in the Goodyear case was entered in 1937 by the District Court. This judgment was affirmed on October 18, 1938, by the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. No application for certiorari was made. Thereafter the United States Board of Tax Appeals in the case of Bigelow v. Commissioner, 39 B. T. A. 635 (1939) followed the Goodyear case (99 Fed. (2d) 523), and in the latter part of 1939 the Commissioner of Internal Revenue acquiesced in the decision of the Board in the Bigelow case (1942-2 C. B. 2). The significance of this acquiescence will be found in 1941-2 C. B. p. IV as follows:

“Decisions so acquiesced in should be relied upon by officers and employees of the Bureau of Internal Revenue as precedents in the disposition of other cases before the Bureau.”

The Commissioner's acquiescence in the Bigelow case apparently has never been withdrawn and it still serves as a precedent in settling estate tax cases involving the same issues now before this Court. As a matter of fact a number of cases involving the identical issue have been settled by the Department in favor of taxpayers.

It might be well at this point to direct the Court's attention to the fact that the agreement in the Bigelow case is practically identical with the Sampson agreement except for a change of names and dates. The Bigelow agreement will be found in 38 B. T. A. 378.

It would not seem unreasonable on the part of the taxpayer to expect the Treasury Department to adopt some consistent position with respect to the question here involved and it is certainly not consistent for the Department to pursue this case with the vigor it has in the face of the acquiescence in the Bigelow case.

V.

The Law of the State of the Domicile of the Taxpayer Is Controlling in Determining the Nature of Property Interests for Taxation.

The appellant advances the view that the residents of community property states enjoy tax advantages that "should be restricted in so far as they may be consistent with well settled judicial principles." It is submitted that this can only be interpreted as an invitation to this Court to indulge in judicial legislation. Counsel for the appellant cannot be unaware of the fact that this question as to the so-called advantages of the community property states has been the subject of extensive discussion in Congress for a number of years. The acquiescence of Congress in the Goodyear case has not merely been passive. It has repeatedly declined to amend the Revenue Law so as to deprive spouses in community property estates of the right to report community income on separate returns and to have the wife's share of any community property excluded from the husband's estate for Federal estate tax purposes. It was not until the Revenue Act of 1942 was adopted that Congress took any action to include the wife's share for estate tax purposes. The Act made no change as to income tax on community income. In passing it may be noted that the effectiveness of §401 and §402 of the Revenue Act of 1942 relating to the matter have already been questioned by the Supreme Court of Louisiana June 21, 1943, in the Matter of Succession of Sam Wiener, Jr. reported in Prentice-Hall Inheritance and Transfer Tax Service, 11th Edition, par. 1103.

Having failed after years of effort to induce Congress to take some action in the premises, the representatives of the taxing authorities in this case are now seeking to induce this Court to do what Congress has refused to do. If the Court should adopt the contention of the appellant it will necessitate the overruling of the Good-year case, the Lang case, the Bigelow case, Poe v. Seaborn, Malcolm case, Bank of America v. Rogan and a number of other cases involving this same point. It would also be necessary to overturn the Treasury Department's own policy of following the Bigelow case.

VI.

Congress Has Indicated by the Revenue Act of 1942
That It Has Approved the Exclusion of One-half of the Community Property From the Estate of Husbands Dying Prior to the Effective Date of the 1942 Act.

As hereinbefore pointed out the Goodyear case was affirmed in October, 1938. Since then Congress has enacted at least six Internal Revenue laws without changing the rule of the Goodyear case in so far as decedents dying before the effective date of the Revenue Act of 1942. Reference to §401 and §402 of the Revenue Act of 1942 seems clearly to indicate that Congress had no intention of abrogating the Goodyear rule retroactively because §402 of the Revenue Act of 1942 is made applicable only to estates of decedents dying after October 21, 1942. This was no mere oversight on the part of Congress. It is a matter of common knowledge that for a number of years the various aspects of community property systems and their relationship to the revenue laws have been the subject of a great deal of discussion in Congress. Even to this day Congress has refused to interfere with the rule as established by the Malcolm case of community income for income tax purposes.

VII.

The Case of Helvering v. Hallock Is Not in Point.

The appellant discusses the case of Helvering v. Hallock, 309 U. S. 106 and relies heavily on it in support of her contentions. In that case the decedent created a trust under which his wife was a life tenant. The trust provided that if the wife predeceased the husband, the corpus was to go to him, if surviving, if not then to third persons. It is submitted that this state of facts is in no wise comparable to those present in the case at Bar. The Hallock case was a five to four decision which overruled two previous five to four decisions which ruled in favor of taxpayers. It will be noted that whatever rights Hallock had in the nature of a reversionary interest in the trust property were created by Hallock himself by the trust indenture. In the present case, Mr. Sampson's interest in the community property, in the event Mrs. Sampson predeceased him, did not flow from the agreement of May 23, 1929, but from §1401 of the Civil Code (now §201 of Probate Code), which is a succession statute. Had Mrs. Sampson died testate before Mr. Sampson, there was nothing to prevent her from making a testamentary disposition of all of the property affected by the agreement. See §201 of the Probate Code. Nor could Mr. Sampson bequeath or devise Mrs. Sampson's share of the community property without her acquiescence. In other words Mr. Sampson's rights were derived from the Probate Code and not from the agreement. Mrs. Sampson alone had power to determine whether Mr. Sampson should receive the property at her death, whereas, in the Hallock case the wife had no say as to this.

If the Hallock case bears the interpretation urged by the appellant, there never could be an outright gift between closely related persons. Take for example the case of an outright gift by a parent to a child without issue. The child might die intestate and the parent would inherit by reason of the succession laws. This is particularly true if the child happens to be a minor legally incapable of making a will. Does the possibility that a donor may inherit donated property from the donee justify the inclusion of such property in the donor's estate? Yet this is what would happen if the appellant's theory of the Hallock case is adopted.

VIII.

The Appellant's Theory of the Case on Appeal Differs From That Upon Which the Case Was Tried.

The Appellant's Brief clearly exemplifies the inconsistent position which the Treasury Department has taken with respect to the question here involved. On page 8 of the brief the appellant makes it clear that the appeal involves only the decedent's separately owned property and "pre-1927" community property. On page 12 of the Appellant's Brief appears the statement:

"Nor do we contend that the full value of community property acquired with the husband's earnings after July 29, 1927, is includible in his gross estate."

It is believed that this is the first time the appellant has conceded this point in this case. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue rejected the appellee's claim for refund in toto and now after more than six years of litigation in which the enormous resources of the United States of America were opposed to the appellee and after the dollar has shrunk appreciably in value, the appellant now admits that even if she is successful on this appeal, a judgment of $680.00 would be proper. See page 2 of Appellant's Brief.

Conclusion.

For the reasons stated above it is respectfully submitted that the judgment of the Court below should be affirmed.

FRANK MERGENTHALER,
Attorney for Appellee.

Said board shall elect from its number a president, vice president, second vice president, secretary and treasurer, who shall hold their respective positions during the pleasure of said board. Regular meetings shall be held at its office at the state capitol on the first Tuesday of January, April, July and October of each year. Said board may adopt rules and any member may administer oaths and take evidence in any matter cognizable by the board. The board shall fix the salary of the secretary not to exceed twelve hundred dollars per year and the compensation of the other members, not to exceed ten dollars for each day of actual service, and the members of the board shall receive their actual expenses when on the business of the board. A person shall be regarded as practicing medicine who shall, by any indication, or [6] statement, claim his ability or willingness to, or does diagnose, or prognosticate, any human ills, or claims his ability or willingness to, or does prescribe or administer any medicine, treatment or practice; or performs any operation, or manipulation, or application for compensation therefor, except it be in usual practice of dentistry, midwifery, or pharmacy, or in the usual business of opticians, or of vendors of dental or surgical instrument, apparatus or appliances. Practicing medicine shall include this practice of osteopathy. (S. 6, id. :4738, R.S. '13 rev.) S. 2566. Certificates to practice; requirements of applicants; examination; reciprocity certificates; fees. Three forms of certificates shall be issued by said board, under the seal thereof and signed by the president and secretary; first a certificate authorizing the holder thereof to practice medicine and surgery; second, authorizing the practice of osteopathy; third, a reciprocity certificate. Any of these certificates on being recorded in the office of the county recorder, shall constitute the holder thereof a duly licensed practitioner in accordance with the provisions of his certificate. To procure a certificate to practice medicine and surgery, the applicant shall file with said board, at least two weeks prior to a regular meeting thereof, satisfactory testimonials of good moral character, and a diploma issued by some legally chartered school of medicine, the requirements of which shall have been, at the time of granting such diploma, not less than those prescribed by the Association of American Medical Colleges for that year, or satisfactory evidence of having possessed such diploma; and he must also file a verified application, upon blanks furnished by the board, stating [7] that he is the lawful holder thereof and that the same was procured without fraud or misrepresentation.

Applicants for a certificate to practice osteopathy shall be subject to the same regulations, except that instead of the diploma from a school of medicine, they shall file a diploma, from a legally chartered college of osteopathy, having a course of instruction of at least twenty months, requiring actual attendance of three years of nine months each, including the studies examined upon for his license. Applicants for a certificate to practice any other system or mode of treatment shall be subject to the above regulations, except that instead of the diploma referred to, they shall file a diploma from a legally chartered college of the system or mode of treatment which the applicant claims or intends to follow.

An applicant must obtain not less than a general average of seventy-five per cent, and not less than sixty per cent in any one subject; provided, that applicant who can show five years of reputable practice shall be granted a credit of five percent upon the general average, and five percent additional for each subsequent ten years of such practice, but must receive not less than fifty percent upon any one subject. The examination papers shall form part of the records of the [8] board and shall be kept on file by the secretary for one year after such examination. In the examinations the applicants shall be known and designated by numbers only, and the names attached to the numbers shall be kept secret until after the board has finally passed upon the applications. The Secretary of the board shall not participate as an examiner in the examination.

Any applicant for a certificate to practice medicine and surgery shall be granted a reciprocity certificate without such examination, if he shall file with said board the testimonials, diploma, and application, and shall file a certificate or license to practice medicine or surgery issued upon and after examination to said applicant by any state or for-foreign country where the requirements are at least equal to those in force in Arizona at that time, or by the national board of medical examiners, and which certificate shall be accompanied by a further certificate, issued by the medical officer or board issuing the certificate or license first named, or by a certificate issued by the medical officer or board of the jurisdiction wherein the applicant last practiced, that the applicant at the time of the issuance of said last named certificate was an ethical practitioner and has practiced medicine and surgery for at least three years immediately prior to the issuance of said certificate; an applicant for a reciprocity certificate or license, who shall otherwise comply with the provision hereof, and who shall file with said board evidence of an honorable discharge from the medical corps of the army or navy of the United States, shall not be required to furnish character testimonials or file the certificate of ethical practice for said three years. The fee [9] for reciprocity certificates shall be one hundred dollars, if the credentials are held insufficient, seventy-five dollars shall be returned.

The board may, whenever the services of an applicant are needed as an emergency in any community, grant to a graduate of any recognized medical college, a temporary permit to practice medicine and surgery in said community, such temporary permit to be valid only until the next regular meeting of the board. The fee for such temporary permit shall be twenty-five dollars. (S. 7, id.; 4739, R.S. '13 am., Ch. 66 L'17, Ch. 119, L '21 rev.)

See 20 Cal. Jur. 1056; 21 R.C.L. 352.

The examination papers shall form a part of the records of the board and shall be kept on file by the secretary for one (1) year after such examination. In the examinations the applicants shall be known and designated by numbers only, and the names attached to the numbers shall be kept secret until after the board has finally passed upon the applications. The secretary of the board shall not participate as an examiner in the examination.

67-11-4. Fee—Records. Each applicant, on making application [14] shall pay a fee of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars, fifteen ($15.00) dollars of which shall be returned if the applicant's credentials are insufficient, or he does not desire to take the examination. The board shall keep a record of all of its proceedings, a register of all applicants and the result of each examination. (R. S. 1913, ss 4740, 4741; Cons. & Rev. R. C. 1928 ss 2557.)

IV.

That the defendants, E. J. Cotthelf, Charles C. Bradbury, Charles S. Smith and William G. Schultz, are the members of the Board of Medical Examiners, operating under the Basic Science Laws of 1935.

That J. H. Patterson has, at all times, been the acting Secretary of the said Board of Medical Examiners.

V.

That the defendants and each of them have, for a long period of time, since 1933, repeatedly refused to give the plaintiff an examination for a license to practice medicine, though often requested.

VI.

Plaintiff alleges that said acts of the Legislature provide that any one, to qualify to take the examination to practice medicine and surgery which reads as follows:

“To procure a certificate to practice medicine and surgery, the applicant shall file with the board, at least two (2) weeks prior to a regular meeting thereof, satisfactory testimonials of good moral character, and a diploma issued by some legally chartered school of medicine, the requirements of which shall have been, at the time of granting of such diploma, not less than those prescribed by the Association of American Medical Colleges for that year.” [15]

Plaintiff alleges that the Association of American Medical Colleges is fostered by the American Medical Association, which associations, the Association of American Medical Colleges, and the American Medical Association, is a monopoly, in violation of Section 2, Title 15, of the United States Code, and is in violation of Section 74-101 of the Laws of the State of Arizona. That both Section 2, Title 15 of the United States Code, and Section 74-101 of the Laws of the State of Arizona, prohibit monopolies.

VII.

Plaintiff alleges that, in addition to denying this plaintiff the right to take the examination as a doctor of medicine, defendants and each of them have caused the plaintiff to be arrested and tried in the courts of Maricopa County, Arizona, on a felony charge of practicing medicine without a license, although plaintiff was only treating patients as a naturopathic physician and has a license to practice the art of healing as a Naturopath under the laws of the state of Arizona.

Plaintiff alleges that he was acquitted of said charge of practicing medicine without a license, in the courts of Maricopa County, Arizona; that the defendants, and each of them, have caused numerous damage suits to be filed in the courts of Maricopa County, for malpractice, which suits have been decided in favor of the plaintiff.

VIII.

Plaintiff alleges that the acts complained of against the defendants and each of them, are acts denying this plaintiff the rights guaranteed to him under the 14th Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, which read as follows: [16]

“Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.”

IX.

Plaintiff alleges that the acts complained of against the defendants and each of them, are acts constituting compulsory denial to plaintiff of the rights guaranteed to him under the 14th Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America, and constituting a violation of Section 51, Title 18 of the United States Code, which reads as follows:

“Section 51. (Criminal Code, Section 19), Conspiracy to injure persons in exercise of civil rights. If two or more persons conspire to injure, oppress, threaten, or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment or any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States, or because of his having so exercised the same, or if two or more persons go in disguise on the highway or on the premises of another, with intent to prevent or hinder his free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege so secured, they shall be fined not more than $5,000.00 and imprisoned not more than ten years, and shall, moreover, be thereafter ineligible to any office, or place of honor, profit or trust created by the Constitution or laws of the United States. (R.S. ss 5508; Mar. 4, 1909, C. 321; ss 19, 35 Stat. 1092.)”[17]

X.

Plaintiff alleges that he has been damaged by the acts of the defendants and each of them in the amount of Fifty Thousand ($50,000.00) Dollars.

Wherefore, Plaintiff prays judgment against the defendants and each of them in the amount of Fifty Thousand ($50,000.00) Dollars, and for such other relief as the Court may deem just and proper.

ORDER EXTENDING TIME TO ANSWER

On motion of Cecil A. Edwards, Esquire,

It Is Ordered that the time of all the defendants herein within which to answer be and it is extended until twenty days from this date. [21]

[Title of District Court and Cause.]

APPLICATION TO SET ORDER ASIDE EX-TENDING TIME TO ANSWER, AND MO-TION FOR DEFAULT

State of Arizona

County of Maricopa—ss.

Comes now, W. S. Swank, the plaintiff in the above entitled cause, and, first being duly sworn, deposes and says:

1. That a complaint and summons was filed in the above-entitled cause in this court on December 26, 1942; that a copy of the complaint herein, together with a copy of the summons issued thereon, was served in Phoenix, Arizona, on the defendants J. H. Patterson, Charles C. Bradbury on January 4, 1943; that said copies of complaint and summons were served on defendant Charles S. Smith on January 7, 1943 and that copies thereof were served on defendant E. J. Gotthelf on January 8, 1943, all in Maricopa County, Arizona.

2. That said cause of action is one for damages against the defendants in their individual capacities and not as State officials, and to that effect against each and all of them. [22]

3. That on January 25, 1943, Cecil A. Edwards, acting as a Deputy Attorney General of the State of Arizona, appeared before this Honorable Court and obtained therefrom a purported order extending the time for said defendants to answer, and that this Court, pursuant thereto, did enter an order extending the defendants' time for answer to twenty days from January 25, 1943.

4. That said Cecil A. Edwards, so acting as aforesaid, as Deputy Attorney General, did appear in this cause as above stated, in violation of Sec. 4-503 of the Arizona Code Annotated, 1939, which provides as follows:

“The Attorney General shall be the legal adviser of all departments of the state and shall give such legal service as such departments may require. . . The Attorney General may, when the business of the state requires, employ assistants.”

That because of said circumstances, the said Attorney General, acting through his deputy, Cecil A. Edwards, had no right as such official to act in behalf of private individuals in a case brought by an individual; consequently, the purported appearance was unlawful and therefore null and void, which is further evident from the fact that subsequent to said purported appearance, the Hon. Walter J. Thalheimer, a member of the State Senate, has introduced therein a bill known as Senate Bill 61, for the manifest purpose of legalizing such acts as were performed herein by the said Cecil A. Edwards. That said bill provides, in addition to the present statute, that "whenever a state officer or any member of any board or commission of the State, has sued for damages for an act done by such officer or member in connection with the performance of the duties of his office, the Attorney General may represent such officer or member in any such action." [23]

That said bill has not become a law, consequently these provisions do not extend to the circumstances of this case.

My commission expires April 10, 1944.

APPLICATION FOR ORDER REMOVING
CECIL A. EDWARDS, ASSISTANT ATTOR-NEY GENERAL, AS COUNSEL FOR DE-FENDANTS

Comes now, W. S. Swank, plaintiff in the above entitled cause and moves the Court to strike the name of Cecil A. Edwards, Assistant Attorney General, as counsel for the defendants herein, because this is an action for damages against the defendants, and each of them, privately; because the State Law prohibits the Attorney General's office from practicing law privately; that this case is for damages as a result of the defendants denying plaintiff his constitutional rights, in which the defendants are alleged to have violated Section 2, Article 15, of the United States Code, and Section 74-101 of the Code of the State of Arizona; that the defendants have violated Section 51, Criminal Code, Section 19, of the United States Statutes, in denying the plaintiff his rights guaranteed under the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States;

That the Attorney General is not only prohibited from practicing law privately, and in appearing herein is appearing for the defendants accused of violating the law, therefore the State has no interest in the case and the Attorney General has no right to appear on behalf of these defendants amicus curiae.

Wherefore, Plaintiff moves that the name of Cecil A. Edwards, Assistant Attorney General, be stricken in this case.

Respectfully submitted,

ORDER GRANTING PLAINTIFF LEAVE TO FILE SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT

On motion of C. H. Richeson, Esquire, counsel for the plaintiff,

It Is Ordered that the plaintiff be granted leave to file Second Amended Complaint herein. [32]

[Title of District Court and Cause.]

SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT

Comes now the plaintiff and by his second amended complaint against the above defendants, alleges:

That this is an action of a civil nature in law for damages over which the District Courts of the United States are given original jurisdiction.

The controversy; violation by the defendants of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution; violation of Section 2, Article 15 of the Laws of the United States, known as the anti-trust law; all in violation of plaintiff's rights and benefits, and to his damages in excess of Three Thousand Dollars ($3,000.00).

I.

That the plaintiff is now, and for many years last past has been a citizen of the United States and a bona fide resident of Maricopa County, State of Arizona, within the district of Arizona; that during all of said years he has been engaged as a practitioner of the healing arts, and is the lawful holder of a diploma issued to him by The American Academy of Medicine and Surgery on June First, 1927, a true copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "A" and by reference made a part hereof.

That the said The American Academy of Medicine and Surgery was then located at the City of Washington, D. C., was a [33] legally chartered school and college of medicine, and was incorporated by an Act of the Congress of the United States.

II.

That the Legislature of the State of Arizona, in 1917, enacted Article 9, Sections 2554, 2555, 2556 entitled "Medicine and Surgery", namely:

"Sec. 2554. Board of medical examiners; appointment; terms; meetings; salary. The governor shall appoint a board of medical examiners consisting of five members, each of whom shall have resided in Arizona for a period of three years next before his appointment, and be a licensed graduate practitioner. Two members shall be from the allopathic, one from the homeopathic, one from the eclectic and one from the osteopathic schools of medicine. Vacancies occurring in the representation of said professions respectively, shall be filled from said profession. The appointment of each member shall be for a term of two years. No professor, instructor, or other person in any manner connected with, or financially interested in, any college or school of medicine, surgery or osteopathy shall be appointed. Said board shall elect from its number a president, vice-president, second vice-president, secretary and treasurer, who shall hold their respective positions during the pleasure of said board. Regular meetings shall be held at its office at the State Capitol on the first Tuesday of January, April, July and October of each year. Said board may adopt rules and any member may administer oaths and take evidence in any matter cognizable by the board. The board shall fix the salary of the secretary not to exceed twelve hundred dollars per year and the compensation of the other members, not to exceed ten dollars for each day of actual service, and the members of the board shall receive their actual expenses when on the business of the board”.

“Sec. 2555. Practice of medicine defined. A person shall be regarded as practicing medicine who shall, by any indication or statement, claim his ability or willingness to, or does diagnose, or prognosticate, any human ills; or claims his ability or willingness to, or does prescribe or administer any medicine, treatment or practice; or perform any operation, or manipulation, or application for compensation therefor, except it be in usual practice of dentistry, midwifery, or pharmacy, or in the usual business of opticians, or of vendors of dental or surgical instruments, apparatus and appliances. Practicing medicine shall include the practice of osteopathy.”

sions of his certificate. To procure a certificate to practice medicine and surgery, the applicant shall file with said board, at least two weeks prior to a [34] regular meeting thereof, satisfactory testimonials of good moral character, and a diploma issued by some legally chartered school of medicine, the requirements of which shall have been, at the time of granting such diploma, not less than those prescribed by the Association of American Medical colleges for that year, or satisfactory evidence of having possessed such diploma; and he must also file a verified application, upon blanks furnished by the board, stating that he is the person named in such diploma, that he is the lawful holder thereof, and that the same was procured in the regular course of instruction and examination without fraud or misrepresentation.

Applicants for a certificate to practice osteopathy shall be subject to the same regulation, except that instead of the diploma from a school of medicine, they shall file a diploma from a legally chartered college of osteopathy, having a course of instruction of at least twenty months, requiring actual attendance of three years of nine months each, and including the studies examined upon for his license. Applicants for a certificate to practice any other system or mode of treatment shall be subject to the above regulations, except that instead of the diploma referred to, they shall file a diploma from a legally chartered college of the system or mode of treatment which the applicant claims or intends to follow.

The examination shall be conducted in the English language, shall be practical in character and in whole or in part, in writing, on the following subjects: Anatomy, histology, gynecology, pathology, bacteriology, chemistry and toxicology, physiology, obstetrics, general diagnosis, hygiene. Examination in each subject shall consist of not less than ten questions, answers to which shall be marked upon a scale of zero to ten. An applicant must obtain not less than a general average of seventy-five per cent, and not less than sixty per cent in any one subject; provided, that applicant who can show five years of reputable practice shall be granted a credit of five per cent additional for each subsequent ten years of such practice, but must receive not less than fifty per cent upon any one subject. The examination papers shall form a part of the records of the board and shall be kept on file by the secretary for one year after such examination. In the examination, the applicants shall be known and designated by numbers only, and the names attached to the numbers shall be kept secret until after the board has finally passed upon the applications. The secretary of the board shall not participate as an examiner in the examination.

Any applicant for a certificate to practice medicine and surgery shall be granted a reciprocity certificate without such examination, if he shall file with said board the testimonials, diploma, and application; and shall file a certificate or license to practice medicine or surgery issued upon and after examination to said applicant by any state or for-foreign country where the requirements are at least equal to those in force in Arizona at that time, or by the national board of medical examiners, and which certificate shall be accompanied by a further certificate, issued by the medical officer or board issuing the certificate or license first named, or by a certificate issued by the medical officer or board of the jurisdiction wherein the applicant last practiced, that the applicant at the time of [35] the issuance of said last named certificate was an ethical practitioner and has practiced medicine and surgery for at least three years immediately prior to the issuance of said certificate; an applicant for a reciprocity certificate or license, who shall otherwise comply with the provisions hereof, and who shall file with said board evidence of an honorable discharge from the medical corps of the army or navy of the United States, shall not be required to furnish character testimonials or file the certificate of ethical practice for said three years. The fee for reciprocity certificate shall be one hundred dollars, if the credentials are held insufficient, seventy-five dollars shall be returned.

The board may, whenever the services of an applicant are needed as an emergency in any community, grant to a graduate of any recognized medical college, a temporary permit to practice medicine and surgery in said community, such temporary permit to be valid only until the next regular meeting of the board. The fee for such temporary permit shall be twenty-five dollars”.

III.

That, thereafter, the legislature of the state of Arizona, in 1936, enacted what is commonly called and known as the "Basic Science Law", supplanting the aforesaid laws of 1917, and being Sections 67-1101, 67-1102, 67-1103 and 67-1104, namely:

"67-1101. Board of Medical Examiners - Appointment - Term - Meetings - Salary. The governor shall appoint a board of medical examiners consisting of five (5) members, each of whom shall have resided in Arizona for a period of three (3) years next before his appointment, and be a licensed graduate practitioner. Four (4) members shall be graduates of medical schools recognized by the American Association of Medical Colleges, and one (1) shall be a graduate of a recognized school of osteopathy. Vacancies occurring in the representation of said professions respectively, shall be filled from said profession. The first appointee shall serve for two (2) years, the second for three (3) years and the third for four (4) years, the fourth (4) for five (5) years and the fifth for six (6) years. Thereafter each member appointed shall be for a term of six (6) years. No professor, instructor or other person in any manner connected with, or financially interested in, any college or school of medicine, surgery or osteopathy shall be appointed. The board shall elect from among its members a president, vice-president, second vice-president, secretary and treasurer, who shall hold their respective positions during the pleasure of the board. Regular meetings shall be held at the office of the board at the state capitol on the first Tuesday of January, April, July and October of each year. The board may adopt rules and any member may administer oaths and take evidence in any matter cognizable by the board. The board shall fix the salary of the secretary, not to exceed twelve hundred ($1200.00) dollars per year, and the compensation of the other members not to exceed Ten ($10.00) dollars for each day of actual service, not exceeding fifty days in any one year, and the members of the board shall receive their actual expenses when on business of the board, not exceeding fifty ($50.00) dollars in any one year. [36]

“Sec. 67-1102. Practice of medicine defined. A person shall be regarded as practicing medicine who shall, by any indication, or statement, claim his ability or willingness to, or does for hire diagnose, or prognosticate, any human ills, or claims his ability or willingness to, or does prescribe or administer any medicine, treatment or practice, or perform any operations, or manipulation, or application, for compensation therefor, except it be in usual business of opticians, or of vendors of dental or surgical instruments, apparatus and appliances. Practicing medicine shall include the practice of osteopathy.

“Sec. 67-1103. Certificates to practice - Requirements of applicants - Examination - Reciprocity certificates - fees. Three (3) forms of certificates shall be issued by said board, under the seal thereof and signed by the president and secretary; first, a certificate authorizing the holder thereof to practice medicine and surgery; second, authorizing the practice of osteopathy; third, a reciprocity certificate. Any of these certificates, on being recorded in the office of the County Recorder, shall constitute the holder thereof a duly licensed practitioner in accordance with the provisions of his certificate. To procure a certificate to practice medicine and surgery, the applicant shall file with said board, at least two (2) weeks prior to a regular meeting thereof, satisfactory testimonials of good moral character, and a diploma issued by some legally chartered school of medicine, the requirements of which shall have been, at the time of granting such diploma, not less than those prescribed by the association of American Medical Colleges for that year, or satisfactory evidence of having possessed such diploma, and he must also file a verified application, upon blanks furnished by the board, stating that he is the person named in such diploma, that he is the lawful holder thereof, and that the same was procured in the regular course of instruction and examination, without fraud or misrepresentation.

Applicants for a certificate to practice osteopathy shall be subject to the same regulations, except that instead of the diploma from a school of medicine, they shall file a diploma from a legally chartered college of osteopathy, having a course of instruction of at least twenty (20) months, requiring actual attendance of three (3) years of nine (9) months each, and including the studies examined upon for his license. Applicants for a certificate to practice any other system or mode of treatment shall be subject to the above regulations, except that instead of the diplomas referred to, they shall file a diploma from a legally chartered college of the system or mode of treatment which the applicant claims or intends to follow.

The examination shall be conducted in the English language, shall be practical in character and in whole or in part, in writing, on the following subjects: Anatomy, histology, gynecology, pathology, bacteriology, chemistry and toxicology, physiology, obstetrics, general diagnosis, hygiene. Examination in each subject shall consist of not less than ten (10) questions, answers to which shall be marked upon a scale of zero to ten. [37] An applicant must obtain not less than a general average of seventy-five (75) percent, and not less than sixty (60) percent in any one (1) subject; provided that applicants who can show five (5) years of reputable practice shall be granted full credit, — (5) percent upon the general average, and five (5) percent additional for each subsequent ten (10) years of such practice, but must receive not less than fifty (50) percent upon any one (1) subject. The examination papers shall form a part of the records of the board and shall be kept on file by the secretary for one (1) year after such examination. In the examinations the applicants shall be known by numbers only, and the name attached to the numbers shall be kept secret until after the board has finally passed upon the application. The secretary of the board shall not participate as an examiner in the examination.

Any applicant for a certificate to practice medicine and surgery shall be granted a reciprocity certificate without such examination if he shall file with said board the testimonials, diploma, and application; and shall file a certificate or license to practice medicine or surgery issued upon and after examination to said applicant by any other state or foreign country where the requirements are at least equal to those in force in Arizona at that time, or by the national board of medical examiners, and which certificates shall be accompanied by a further certificate, issued by the medical officer or board issuing the certificates or license first named, or by a certificate issued by the medical officer or board of the jurisdiction wherein the applicant last practiced, that the applicant at the time of issuance of said last named certificates, was an ethical practitioner and has practiced medicine and surgery for at least three (3) years immediately prior to the issuance of said certificate; an applicant for a reciprocity certificate or license who shall otherwise comply with the provisions hereof, and who shall file with said board evidence of an honorable discharge from the medical corps of the army or navy of the United States, shall not be required to furnish character testimonials or file the certificate of ethical practice for said three (3) years. The fee for reciprocity certificates shall be one hundred dollars ($100.00); if the credentials are held insufficient, seventy-five dollars ($75.00) thereof shall be returned.

The board may, whenever the services of an applicant are needed as an emergency in any community, grant to a graduate of any recognized medical college, a temporary permit to be valid only until the next regular meeting of the board. The fee for such temporary permit shall be twenty-five dollars ($25.00).

Sec. 67-1104. Fee - Records. Each applicant, on making application, shall pay a fee of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars, fifteen dollars ($15.00) of which shall be returned if the applicant's credentials are insufficient, or he does not desire to take the examination. The board shall keep a record of all of its proceedings, a register of all applicants and the result of each examination". [38]

IV.

That said laws of 1936, in substance, provide that anyone, to qualify for examination to practice medicine and surgery, "shall file with the board, at least two weeks prior to a regular meeting thereof, satisfactory testimonials of good moral character and a diploma issued by some legally chartered school of medicine, the requirements of which shall have been, at the time of granting such diploma, not less than those prescribed by the Association of American Medical Colleges for that year." In this regard, plaintiff avers that the Association of American Medical Colleges is not a legal or proper authority to prescribe the qualifications for the medical professor or for the practioners of medicine and surgery, and, therefore, such requirements and prescibed qualifications ae unconstitutional and void as a delagation of legislative power; that the law-makers of Arizona alone may prescribe the qualifications for the practice of medicine and surgery within the State of Arizona.

That the requirements for and during the year 1927, by the afore-mentioned American Academy of Medicine and Surgery, were equal to or not less than those of the association of American Medical Colleges for and during that year, to the actual knowledge of the defendants and each of them individually.

V.

That the Association of American Medical Colleges is sponsored by the American Medical Association, of which the defendants are members, except the defendant, Charles C. Bradbury; that the defendants by reason of their said membership and its rules and prescriptions by its legislative committee did, and do, in fact prescribe the qualifications for applicants for license to practice medicine and surgery in the state of Arizona, contrary [39] to law, arbitrarily, unlawfully and discriminatory to qualified applicants, including the plaintiff.

That both the American Medical Association and the Association of American Medical Colleges are monopolistic and act in violation of Section 2, Title 15 of the Laws of the United States, and in violation of Section 74-101 of the laws of the State of Arizona; both of which said provisions of law prohibit trusts and monopolies.

VI.

That the plaintiff has heretofore offered and tendered for filing, satisfactory testimonials as to his good moral character and has tendered his diploma aforementioned, and the required fee provided by law, and has, in fact, complied with all legal requirements prescribed by the laws of Arizona; that the defendants and each of them individually, all of whom are licensed physicians and surgeons except the defendant Charles C. Bradbury, who is a licensed osteopathic physician, did, wilfully and maliciously, and well knowing that plaintiff was and is in every respect qualified to have issued to him a license to practice medicine and surgery in Arizona, and for other personal reasons best known to each of them, and because of envy, bias and prejudice toward him, and in fear of his competition and qualifications in the methods and practice of the healing arts, have refused to accept his credentials and to issue him a license to practice medicine and surgery in Arizona, and have also refused to give him an examination; all with knowledge that their acts and conduct herein complained of are wrongful, unlawful and unconstitutional.

VII.

That by the acts of each of the defendants, as herein charged, the plaintiff has been denied the benefits and rights granted him under and by the provision of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, namely: [40]

“Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws”.

VIII.

That all the defendants, except Charles C. Bradbury, are members of the Maricopa County Medical Association, and of the Medical Association of the State of Arizona, and of the American Medical Association, all of whom work in close cooperation and maintain the same standards, rules and requirements, through their legislative committees, in regard to the examining and licensing of applicants for the practice of medicine and surgery in Arizona; and that the Association of American Medical Colleges is sponsored and supported by the aforesaid American Medical Association, but that both the American Medical Association and the association of American Medical Colleges are monopolistic and in fact a trust and are engaged in interstate traffic and monopoly in violation of Section 2, Title 15 of the United States Laws, and in violation of Section 74-101 of the laws of Arizona, in force and effect; all contrary to and in violation of this plaintiff's rights and benefits concerning which the defendants, personally and individually, have conspired with the officers of the American Medical Association, the Medical Association of Arizona and the Maricopa County Medical Association, in denying this plaintiff a license and his rights to practice medicine and surgery in Arizona, notwithstanding the fact that he has been, and is qualified and entitled thereto, to their knowledge.

IX.

That by the wilful, unlawful, and malicious acts and conduct of the defendants, personally and individually, as herein charged, the plaintiff has been deprived of his license to practice medicine [41] and surgery in Arizona continuously since 1933, and of his right to practice the healing arts incident thereto, resulting in great pecuniary losses to him and causing him to suffer humiliation and discredit as a physician and surgeon, all to his actual damages in the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.) and exemplary damages in the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00).

The Plaintiff Demands judgment against the defendants and against each of them in the sum of $100,000.00, and for costs of suit.

OPINION BELOW

The memorandum of order denying appellant's corrected application to set order aside extending time to answer and motion for default page 26 of the Record, and the order dismissing case for the reason that the complaint does not state a cause of action is on page 48 of the Record. Also, order denying application to remove Cecil A. Edwards as counsel for appellees page 28 of the Record.

JURISDICTION

The amended complaint filed March 20, 1943, as well as the original complaint filed December 26, 1942, is for the recovery of damages to appellant because appellees conspired to perfect and put in operation a monopoly in violation of Section 2, Title 15, of the Laws of the United States, to deny appellant his constitutional rights under Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

QUESTION PRESENTED

Whether the default should be had on appellant's corrected application to set order aside extending time to answer and motion for default.

Whether the American Medical Association and its subsidiaries can set the standard of qualifications for the practice of medicine.

Whether Cecil A. Edwards, as Assistant Attorney General of the State of Arizona, can represent appellees in this action.

STATUTES AND REGULATIONS INVOLVED

All of Article 9, Laws of Arizona, 1928:

Article 9. Medicine and Surgery.

S. 2554. Board of Medical Examiners; appointment; terms; meetings; salary. The governor shall appoint a Board of Medical Examiners consisting of five members, each of whom shall have resided in Arizona for a period of three years next before his appointment, and be a licensed graduate practitioner. Two members shall be from the allopathic, one from the homeopathic, one from the eclectic and one from the osteopathic schools of medicine. Vacancies occurring in the representation of said professions respectively, shall be filled from said profession. The appointment of each member shall be for a term of two years. No professor, instructor, or other person in any manner connected with, or financially interested in, any college or school of medicine, surgery or osteopathy shall be appointed. Said board shall elect from its number a president, vice president, second vice president, secretary and treasurer, who shall hold their respective positions during the pleasure of said board. Regular meetings shall be held at its office at the state capitol on the first Tuesday of January, April, July and October of each year. Said board may adopt rules and any member may administer oaths and take evidence in any matter cognizable by the board. The board shall fix the salary of the secretary not to exceed twelve hundred dollars per year and the compensation of the other members, not to exceed ten dollars for each day of actual service, and the members of the board shall receive their actual expenses when on the business of the board. (S S 1-2-3-4-5. 13 Ch. 17, L'13 and S.S.; 4733- 4-5-6-7, 4745, R.S. '13; 4734, Am. 73, Ch. 35, L. '22 cons. & rev.) S. 2555. Practice of medicine defined. A person shall be regarded as practicing medicine who shall, by any indication, or statement, claim his ability or willingness, to or does diagnosticate, or prognosticate, any human ills, or claims his ability or willingness to, or does prescribe or administer any medicine, treatment or practice; or performs any operation, or manipulation, or application for compensation therefor, except it be in usual practice of dentistry, midwifery, or pharmacy, or in the usual business of opticians, or of vendors of dental or surgical instrument, apparatus or appliances. Practicing medicine shall include this practice of osteopathy. (S. 6, id.: 4738, R.S. '13 rev.) S. 2566. Certificates to practice; requirements of applicants; examination; reciprocity certificates; fees. Three forms of certificates shall be issued by said board, under the seal thereof and signed by the president and secretary; first a certificate authorizing the holder thereof to practice medicine and surgery; second, authorizing the practice of osteopathy; third, a reciprocity certificate. Any of these certificates on being recorded in the office of the county recorder, shall constitute the holder thereof a duly licensed practitioner in accordance with the provisions of his certificate. To procure a certificate to practice medicine and surgery, the applicant shall file with said board, at least two weeks prior to a regular meeting thereof, satisfactory testimonials of good moral character, and a diploma issued by some legally chartered school of medicine, the requirements of which shall have been, at the time of granting such diploma, not less than those prescribed by the Association of American Medical Colleges for that year, or satisfactory evidence of having possessed such diploma; and he must also file a verified application, upon blanks furnished by the board, stating that he is the lawful holder thereof and that the same was procured without fraud or misrepresentation.

Applicants for a certificate to practice osteopathy shall be subject to the same regulations, except that instead of the diploma from a school of medicine, they shall file a diploma, from a legally chartered college of osteopathy, having a course of instruction of at least twenty months, requiring actual attendance of three years of nine months each, including the studies examined upon for his license. Applicants for a certificate to practice any other system or mode of treatment shall be subject to the above regulations, except that instead of the diploma referred to, they shall file a diploma from a legally chartered college of the system or mode of treatment which the applicant claims or intends to follow.

The examination shall be conducted in the English language, shall be practical in character and in whole or in part, in writing, on the following subjects: Anatomy, histology, gynecology, pathology, bacteriology, chemistry and toxicology, physiology, obstetrics, general diagnosis, hygiene. Examination in each subject shall consist of not less than ten questions, answers to which shall be marked upon a scale of zero to ten. An applicant must obtain not less than a general average of seventy-five per cent, and not less than sixty per cent in any one subject; provided, that applicant who can show five years of reputable practice shall be granted a credit of five per cent upon the general average, and five per cent additional for each subsequent ten years of such practice, but must receive not less than fifty per cent upon any one subject. The examination papers shall form part of the records of the board and shall be kept on file by the secretary for one year after such examination. In the examinations the applicants shall be known and designated by numbers only, and the names attached to the numbers shall be kept secret until after the board has finally passed upon the applications. The Secretary of the board shall not participate as an examiner in the examination.

Any applicant for a certificate to practice medicine and surgery shall be granted a reciprocity certificate without such examination, if he shall file with said board the testimonials, diploma, and application, and shall file a certificate or license to practice medicine or surgery issued upon and after examination to said applicant by any state or foreign country where the requirements are at least equal to those in force in Arizona at that time, or by the national board of medical examiners, and which certificate shall be accompanied by a further certificate, issued by the medical officer or board issuing the certificate or license first named, or by a certificate issued by the medical officer or board of the jurisdiction wherein the applicant last practiced, that the applicant at the time of the issuance of said last named certificate was an ethical practitioner and has practiced medicine and surgery for at least three years immediately prior to the issuance of said certificate; an applicant for a reciprocity certificate or license, who shall otherwise comply with the provision hereof, and who shall file with said board evidence of an honorable discharge from the medical corps of the army or navy of the United States, shall not be required to furnish character testimonials or file the certificate of ethical practice for said three years. The fee for reciprocity certificates shall be one hundred dollars, if the credentials are held insufficient, seventy-five dollars shall be returned.

The board may, whenever the services of an applicant are needed as an emergency in any community, grant to a graduate of any recognized medical college, a temporary permit to practice medicine and surgery in said community, such temporary permit to be valid only until the next regular meeting of the board. The fee for such temporary permit shall betwenty-five dollars. (S. 7, id.; 4739, R.S. '13 am., Ch. 66 L '17, Ch. 119, L' '21 rev.)

RULE 9—LAW AND MOTION CALENDAR;
STATEMENT OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES.

With every pleading or motion raising questions of law to be determined by the court, there shall be served and filed by the party urging the same, a brief or memorandum of the points and authorities in support of the issues raised in such pleading or motion, and failure to file such memorandum shall be deemed a waiver of such pleading or motion. The opposing party or parties shall have 5 days after such service within which to serve and file a vrief or memorandum of points and authorities in opposition to such pleading or motion. Pleadings and motions raising questions of law to be determined by the court, other than at the traial, will be submitted without oral argument on the memoranda of points and authorities required to be filed by this rule, provided, however, any party desiring to be heard on any such pleading or motion may serve and file with his pleading or motion or with his memorandum of points and authorities, a notice of hearing, and the pleading or motion shall thereupon be placed on the law and motion calendar for hearing on the first law and motion day occurring after the expiration of 5 days after the time to file briefs or memorandum of points and authorities with respect to said pleading or motion has expired. A failure to file a brief or memorandum of points and authorities in oppostion to any pleading or motion raising questions of law shall constitute a consent of the party failing to file such brief or memorandum to the sustaining of said pleading or granting of said motion. Should the court desire oral argument on any pleading or motion submitted, the clerk will place the same on the law and motion calendar and notify respective parties or counsel accordingly.

Unless otherwise ordered by the court, or provided in these rules, every Monday shall be law and motion day, on which will be heard ex parte motions and all pleadings or motions raising questions of law or fact to be determined by the court before trial or after verdict. Parties filing motions on which hearings are to be had shall notice the same for hearing on a law and motion day and all motions noticed for hearing on any other day are hereby continued to the first law and motion day following the day fixed in the notice of hearing unless otherwise ordered by the court. Such motions or pleadings in cases filed in the Tucson or Globe Divisions of the court will be heard at Tucson; such motions or pleadings in cases filed in the Phoenix or Prescott Division of the court will be heard at Phoenix, provided, when court is in session at Globe or Prescott on law and motion day, such motions or pleadings in cases filed in the Globe or Prescott Divisions will be heard at Globe in cases filed in the Globe Division and will be heard at Prescott in cases filed in the Prescott Division; and provided further, when the convenience of the court or counsel may require, the Court may hear and determine any such motion or pleading at any of the four places designated for holding the terms of this court.

Rule 6 of the Rules of United States District Courts:

Rule 6. Time.

(a) Computation. In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by these rules, by order of court, or by any applicable statute, the day of the act, event, or default after which the designated period of time begins to run is not to be included. The last day of the period so computed is to be included, unless it is a Sunday or a legal holiday, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day which is neither a Sunday nor a holiday. When the period of time prescribed or allowed is less than 7 days, intermediate Sundays and holidays shall be excluded in the computation. A half holiday shall be considered as other days and not as a holiday.

(b) Enlargement. When by these rules or by a notice given thereunder or by order of court an act is required or allowed to be done at or within a specified time, the court for cause shown may, at any time in its discretion (1) with or without motion or notice, order the period enlarged if application therefor is made before the expiration of the period originally prescribed or as extended by a previous order or (2) upon motion permit the act to be done after the expiration of the specified period where the failure to act was the result of excusable neglect; but it may not enlarge the period for taking any action under Rule 59, except as stated in subdivision (c) thereof, or the period for taking an appeal as provided by law.

(c) Unaffected by Expiration of Term. The period of time provided for the doing of any act or the taking of any proceeding is not affected or limited by the expiration of a term of court. The expiration of a term of court in no way affects the power of a court to do any act or take any proceeding in any civil action which has been pending before it.

(d) For Motions—Affidavits. A written motion, other than one which may be heard ex parte, and notice of the hearing thereof shall be served not later than 5 days before the time specified for the hearing, unless a different period is fixed by these rules or by order of the court. Such an order may for cause shown be made on ex parte application. When a motion is supported by affidavit, the affidavit shall be served with the motion; and, except as otherwise provided in Rule 59 (c), opposing affidavits may be served not later than 1 day before the hearing, unless the court permits them to be served at some other time.

(e) Additional Time After Service by Mail. Whenever a party has the right or is required to do some act or take some proceedings within a prescribed period after the service of a notice or other paper upon him and the notice or paper is served upon him by mail, 3 days shall be added to the prescribed period.

STATEMENT

The court below made only the following findings:

That the motion for default should not be granted, and denied the application to remove Cecil A. Edwards, Assistant Attorney General, representing the appellees, and dismissed the action for the reason that the second amended complaint did not state a cause of action (R. 23 and 48).

This is an action by appellant for damages against appellees for denying him the right to be examined for a license to practice medicine and in so doing conspiring to violate Section 2, Title 15, of the Laws of the United States, thereby denying the rights guaranteed to appellant under Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Appellees are members of the American Medical Association. Morris Fishbein, the Secretary of the American Medical Association, before a subcommittee of the Committee on Education and Labor of the United States Senate, Seventy-seventh Congress, on Senate Resolution 291, testified as follows:

Senator PEPPER. Where do you live, Doctor?
Dr. FISHBEIN. Chicago.

Senator PEPPER. Where did you receive your medical education?

Dr. FISHBEIN. The University of Chicago and the Rush Medical Clolege, Chicago.

Senator PEPPER. How long have you been engaged in the practice of medicine?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Following my graduation I was about a year and a half in practice and in pathologic research.

Senator PEPPER. And where was that carried on, largely?

Dr. FISHBEIN. In Chicago.

Senator PEPPER. You have been in active practice only about 1½ years since your graduation?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Yes, sir.

Senator PEPPER. That covers what period, Doctor?

Dr. FISHBEIN. From 1912 to toward the end of 1913.

Senator PEPPER. You are not now engaged in the practice of medicine?

Dr. FISHBEIN. No, sir.

Senator PEPPER. What is your employment at the present time?

Dr. FISHBEIN. I am editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, a health magazine. I also am professorial lecturer of medicine at the University of Chicago School of Medicine, and the University of Illinois.

Senator PEPPER. What are the subjects of your lectures?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Medical economics and history of medicine.

Senator PEPPER. They are not technical subjects?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Not practical medicine.

Senator PEPPER. How long have you held your present position?

Dr. FISHBEIN. I have been editor since 1924, and assistant editor from the end of 1913 up to 1924.

Senator PEPPER. In what manner were you chosen for your present position?

Dr. FISHBEIN. I was chosen by the board of trustees of the American Medical Association, which is the body elected by the house of delegates to administer its affairs.

Senator PEPPER. Will you give us a brief summary as to the nature of the organization known as the American Medical Association, the number who are in it, and what its organizational setup is, Doctor?

Dr. FISHBEIN. The American Medical Association is a voluntary organization, voluntary membership organization. There are in the United States about 176,000 doctors licensed to practiced. There are 123,000, approximately, who are members of the American Medical Association.

These members are organized into county medical societies, which in turn are organized into State medical societies. The county medical societies elect delegates to the State medical associations and the house of delegates of each of the State associations elects delegates to the house of delegates of the American Medical Association. The house of delegates of the American Medical Association is the body charged with establishing all policies of the American Medical Association.

Senator PEPPER. Do you have annual conventions?

Dr. FISHBEIN. There is an annual convention of the house of delegates and of the organization, and in addition to that, special meetings when called for.

Senator PEPPER. That annual convention embraces which house of delegates, the national house?

Dr. FISHBEIN. The national house of delegates.

Senator PEPPER. The one that is elected by the States?

Dr. FISHBEIN. By the State house of delegates.

Senator PEPPER. And the national house of delegates selects a board of trustees?

Dr. FISHBEIN. The national house of delegates selects a board of trustees.

Senator PEPPER. How many are there on that board?

Dr. FISHBEIN. There are nine members of the board of trustees. Two are elected each year to serve a term of 5 years, and the maximum term is 10 years for any trustee.

Senator PEPPER. You are employed, then, by the board of trustees?

Dr. FISHBEIN. I am employed by the board of trustees.

Senator PEPPER. Do you have a national headquarters of the association?

Dr. FISHBEIN. The national headquarters is in Chicago.

Senator PEPPER. How much of a clerical and managerial staff is employed?

Dr. FISHBEIN. We employ from 630 to 640 people.

Senator PEPPER. Are you considered the executive director of the organizational set-up of the association?

Dr. FISHBEIN. No, sir; the association is organized with a secretary and general manager, who is the executive director. That is Dr. West. I am the editor in charge of publications.

Senator PEPPER. Who determines the public policy for the association?

Dr. FISHBEIN. The house of delegates determines all policies, and the officials of the association are charged with maintaining and extending to the professional the policies of the association.

Senator PEPPER. Do you sit in with the group which determines the policies of the association?

Dr. FISHBEIN. I have no voice in the house of delegates except when called to give information.

Senator PEPPER. As a practical matter, do you consult with the members of this body in the formation of policies?

Dr. FISHBEIN. I may appear before any committee. All actions of the house of delegates are taken by setting up a reference committee which hears the proposed action, and any member of the association may appear before any reference committee. The reference committee brings back its report to the house and then the house acts on the report of the reference committee, after debate.

Senator PEPPER. As a practical day-by-day matter, the articulation of the policy occurs primarily in the publication known as the Journal of the American Medical Association?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Yes.

Senator PEPPER. Of which you are editor?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Yes, sir.

Senator PEPPER. So that you are the one who articulates these policies that are formed, you say, by these authorities?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Of course, the proceedings of the House of Delegates are published, broadcast, to the medical profession and the Nation as soon as an action is taken; the articulation of the policy is in the proceedings of the house of delegates which are published as a routine matter without modification.

Senator PEPPER. How many times are those publications issued; how many times is the action of the house of delegates published?

Dr. FISHBEIN. It is published at once when the action is taken, and then maybe it is published repeatedly if discussion is needed.

Senator PEPPER. How many times per year is the Journal of the American Medical Association published?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Every week.

Senator PEPPER. So the public gets a chance to see and hear the articulation of the Journal of the American Medical Association a great deal than they hear what is uttered by the body which you refer to, does it not?

Dr. FISHBEIN. That depends, of course, on the importance of the policy in relationship to the public situation.

At the last annual convention of the association in Atlantic City there were in attendance representatives of every press association and important newspaper in the country, so that the actions were widespread through the Nation.

Senator PEPPER. But the only weekly publication, the only regular periodical of the American Medical Association, is the Journal of which you are the editor?

Dr. FISHBEIN. No; there is also another publication which is sent to all newspapers and press agencies throughout the country each week.

Senator PEPPER. What is that?

Dr. FISHBEIN. That is known as the American Medical Association News. So that all matters having to do with activities are sent out each week.

Senator PEPPER. Who is the editor of that?

Dr. FISHBEIN. A layman named Lawrence Salter.

Senator PEPPER. Is his office in the headquarters of the association in Chicago?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Yes.

Senator PEPPER. Is there any practical cooperation between you and him?

Dr. FISHBEIN. He prepares the publication, and naturally it is O. K.'d by the editor and the general manager.

Senator PEPPER. Which means you?

Dr. FISHBEIN. And Dr. West.

Senator PEPPER. So, as a matter of fact you are considered are you not, Doctor, the able and eloquent voice of the American Medical Association?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Well, that is not my term.

Senator PEPPER. Maybe I should have said the pen instead of the voice?

Dr. FISHBEIN. I prefer to be known as the editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Senator PEPPER. Ofttimes we cannot limit ourselves below the reputation that we have gained, Doctor. As a matter of fact, do you make any public addresses?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Many.

Senator PEPPER. Roughly, how many speeches do you make in the course of a year, would you say?

Dr. FISHBEIN. About 100.

Senator PEPPER. Does any other official of the American Medical Association make as many addresses?

Dr. FISHBEIN. I would say that many of them make addresses. Dr. Boyer, who is head of our bureau of health education, makes perhaps 60 addresses a year.

Senator PEPPER. He speaks primarily about public health matters, more or less on technical subjects I would assume?

Dr. FISHBEIN. He speaks on public health. Now each of our trustees makes addresses. I would say that on an average each trustee may speak from 10 to 12 times a year.

Senator PEPPER. On matters of American Medical Association policy?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Almost wholly on policy.

Senator PEPPER. But it would not do any disservice to the great contribution that you have made to the medical association would it, Doctor, to say that so far as the American public is concerned, and generally so far as the American Medical Association members are concerned, you are the man, the official, the agency, through which the policies of the American Medical Association are regularly expressed in writing and in speech?

Dr. FISHBEIN. That is correct; yes, sir.

Senator PEPPER: Now, Doctor, would you be good enough to tell us whether you are acquainted with the Assignment and Procurement Service, or rather the Procurement and Assignment Service which is set up under the War Manpower Commission?

Dr. FISHBEIN. I am acquainted with that service.

Senator PEPPER. Who is the head of that?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Dr. Frank Lahey.

Senator PEPPER. He was at one time president of the American Medical Association, was he not?

Dr. FISHBEIN. Yes, at the time he was appointed head of the Procurement and Assignment Board.

Senator Pepper. He has some assistants?

Dr. FISHBEIN. He has a board, including four other men.

Senator PEPPER. Are they members of the American Medical Association?

Dr. FISHBEIN. There are 123,000 members of the American Medical Association and it may almost be taken for granted that any physician of any repute at all is a member, so that these men are all members except Dr. Camalier who is on that board and is a member of the American Dental Association—C. Willard Camalier.

The American Medical Association Journal in every issue has a report on medical legislation, showing the activities in legislation for their group. In the early history of medicine in the United States there were three schools: the Allopathic, Homeopathic, and Eclectic. The American Medical Association, controlled by the allopathic school of medicine, has been able to do away with the homeopathic schools, and there are few eclectic schools left. The American Medical Association have fostered legislation whereby they have been able to successfully legislate for the qualifications to such an extent that for one to be entitled to take an examination he should be a graduate of a school of medicine equal to the standards of the American Association of Medical Colleges, which is fostered by the American Medical Association. Because the American Academy of Medicine and Surgery, of which Dr. Swank, the appellee, is a graduate, is not recognized by the American Association of Medical Colleges, the appellees refused to give him an examination. The American Academy of Medicine and Surgery teaches the destruction certain drugs, such as narcotics.

The appellant, who has been practicing the healing arts as a naturopathic physician, has been able to cure dementia praecox, high blood pressure, and other diseases that he has made a special study of; and these diseases the American Medical Association admit they have no cure for, but because the cure does not come from their school they would rather the public suffer, and refuse to give him an examination as to his knowledge. This in spite of the fact that appellant has offered to give to the medical world the remedy of the diseases mentioned if they would even give him an examination and a license. But because his school does not belong to the trust that the appellees belong to, they have even refused to give him an examination, and it is this violation of the anti-trust laws that appellant claims has caused his damages.

ARGUMENT

The corrected application to set aside order extending the time to answer, and motion for default, was filed February 2nd, 1943, supported by a brief of authorities as follows:

The order extending the time to answer is unlawful because, in addition to the facts and law stated in the motion filed herein, Section 4-502 of the Code of Arizona provides as follows:

The duties of the Attorney General shall be to devote his entire time to the discharge of the duties of his office and not directly or indirectly engage in the private practice of law.

The appellees made no legal appearance in this case, which was evidenced by their introduction in the Sixteenth Legislature of the State of Arizona of Senate Bill 61, which would have authorized the Attorney General to appear for the appellees in this case. Senate Bill 61 as introduced was as follows:

State of Arizona
Senate
Sixteenth Legislature
Regular Session

S. B. 61

Introduced by Mr. Walter J. Thalheimer

AN ACT

RELATING TO THE DUTIES OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL AND AMENDING SECTION 4-503, ARIZONA CODE OF 1939.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Arizona:

1 Section 1. Section 4-503 of the Arizona Code
2 of 1939 is amended to read:
3 "4-503. LEGAL ADVISSOR OF DEPART-
4 MENTS. The attorney-general shall be the 5 legal advisor of all department of the state, and 6 shall give such legal service as such departments
7 may require. With the exception of the indus-
8 trial commission, THE UNEMPLOYMENT
9 COMPENSATION COMMISSION OF ARI-
10 ZONA AND THE COLORADO COMMISSION
11 OF ARIZONA no official, board, commission, or 12 other agency of the state, other than the attor-
13 ney-general, shall employ any attorney or make

1 any expenditure or insure any indebtedness for 2 legal services. The attorney-general may, when 3 the business of the state requires, employ assist-
4 ants. PROVIDED THAT WHENEVER A
5 STATE OFFICER OR ANY MEMBER OF
6 ANY BOARD OR COMMISSION OF THE 7 STATE IS SUED FOR DAMAGES FOR AN 8 ACT DONE BY SUCH OFFICER OR MEMBER
9 IN CONNECTION WITH THE PERFORM-
10 ANCE OF THE DUTIES OF HIS OFFICE,

12 SUCH OFFICER OR MEMBER IN ANY 13 SUCH ACTION.”

14 Sec. 2. EMERGENCY. To preserve the pub-15 lic peace, health and safety it is necessary that 16 this act shall become immediately operative. It
17 is therefore declared to be an emergency measure
18 and shall take effect upon its passage in the man-19 ner provided by law.

The bill did not pass the Arizona Senate.

Appellant had a right to have the case tried without any unlawful delay and to have speedy relief as prayed for.

As there had been no legal appearance by the appellees, the application to extend the time for answering was unlawful. The right of the Attorney General or his deputies to practice law privately was decided by the State Supreme Court of Arizona definitely in the case of Conway v. State Consolidated Publishing Company, 112 P. 2d 218. The following additional authorities were cited in the brief furnished the court below in support of this application and motion for default:

Rule 6 of this Court, Section B, provides as follows:

“When by these rules or by a notice given thereunder or by order of court an act is required or allowed to be done at or within a specified time, the court for cause shown may, at any time in its discretion (1) with or without motion or notice, order the period enlarged if application therefor is made before the expiration of the period originally prescribed or as extended by a previous order or (2) upon motion permit the act to be done after the expiration of the specified period where the failure to act was the result of excusable neglect; but it may not enlarge the period for taking any action under Rule 59, except as stated in subdivision (c) thereof, or the period for taking an appeal as provided by law.”

The Department of Justice Bulletin on Federal Rules Decision in Blackmer v. Sun Oil Co., U. S. District Court in New Jersey, December 22, 1939, states:

“The time to file answer may be enlarged after expiration of the period originally prescribed only on motion and notice and not by an ex parte order. An order allowing defendant until a specified date to ‘respond’ to the complaint does not authorize filing of motions directed to the pleadings.—”

Department of Justice Headnote.

Federal Rules Service, edited by Pike and Fischer, Vol. II, P. 29.

In the case of Kingsbury v. Brown et al., 92 P. 2d 1053, the Court said:

“To vacate a default, it is incumbent on defendant to show that his mistake was one of fact and not of law, and the neglect of a lawyer to familiarize himself with the law governing the practice of the forum within which his case is pending is not excusable.”

In this case it is not a mistake on the part of these defendants, but a wilful violation of law. Therefore, the case of Weinberger v. Manning, 123 P. 2d 531 is applicable in this case wherein the court said:

“Courts are generous in relieving litigants of their defaults resulting from inadvertence or excusable neglect, but are not required to act as guardians for persons who are grossly careless as to their own affairs.”

In appellant's second amended original complaint, Paragraph VIII thereof, it is alleged as follows:

“Plaintiff further alleges that the Association of American Medical Colleges is fostered by the American Medical Association; that both the American Medical Association and the American Association of Medical Colleges are monopolistic and act accordingly, in violation of Sec. 2, Title 15 of the United States Code Annotated and in violation of Sec. 74-101 of the Laws of the State of Arizona; that both of said sections prohibit monopolies and said provisions providing that the Association of American Medical College shall make and require such qualifications for the practice of medicine are contrary to the Constitution and Laws of the United States and the Constitution and Laws of the State of Arizona.”

While the Supreme Court of the State of Arizona has not passed on the constitutionality of the present Basic Science Law, in Buehman et al. v. Bechtel, 114 Pac. 2d 227, they have stated as follows:

“(1) Only the legislature can create the standard and provide the reasonable limits of the power of admitting and excluding persons from a business, trade or profession. State v. Harris, supra. It may be granted that the legislature has fixed the standard as competency, ability and integrity and that such standard is a sufficient and a proper one for a person desiring to practice photography, yet it is apparent the legislature used language the board might construe as giving it the right to disregard such standard and set up an arbitrary standard of its own. The board might regard too much or too strong competition as 'sufficient reason' for not licensing a person, or the applicant's age, sex, color or religion might disqualify him. We cannot say the standard fixed by the legislature is not a sufficient guide to the board of examiners, or that the board would arbitrarily disregard such standard and refuse a license to one who qualified under the act, but we do call attention to the fact that the board may use its powers to make it very difficult for worthy persons to secure a license to practice photography.

"In connection with the free use of the police power over certain trades and occupations, for the purpose of securing to those engaged therein rights and powers of an exclusive and monopolistic character, we again quote from Harris v. State:

" 'Statutes regulating trades and occupations by the delegation of governmental power to boards and commissions formed largely of the groups affected, intended primarily to control the personnel of the business, have become so common as to affect progressively and importantly the social and economic life of the State. A large number of laws of that character may be listed which not only regulate but organize into autonomous corporations occupations ranging from the learned professions to the ordinary trades. U. N. C. Law Review, Vol. 17, p. 1.

“No independent administrative supervision is provided over these organizations. No report of their activities is made to any responsible branch of the government. No audit is made by the State, except where items may incidentally affect the State Treasury. These matters are left to internal control. The organizations are, so to speak, legislatively launched and put on their own.

“The stage of internal protest has been reached. In marginal cases controversies in the courts have arisen as to whether the organization has captured a sufficient quantum of public purpose to operate as an agency of the government, or whether the police power of the State, ostensibly exercised for a public purpose, is not really farmed out to a private group to be used in narrowing the field of competition, or in aid of exploitation by creating remunerative positions in administration. Roach v. Durham, 204 N. C. 587, 169 S. E. 149; State v. Lawrence, 213 N. C. 674, 197 S. E. 586, 116 A.L.R. 1366. Without the aid of the statute these groups would be mere trade guilds, or voluntary business association; with it they become State agencies, retaining, however, as far as possible, distinctive guild features. An exclusive self-governing status is achieved by the device of securing a majority membership on the administrative boards or commissions, and in aid of this the power of the State is heavily invoked by way of prosecution in the criminal courts of those who are unable to secure the approval of the Board and obtain license to engage in the occupation.

“‘It is this power of exclusion of fellow workers in the same field that gives to the subject its social significance, and invites our most serious consideration of the constitutional guaranties of personal liberty and individual right called to our attention’.”

Therefore, the appellees in committing the acts complained of were not acting as constituted officials of the State, which appellant contends prohibits the Attorney General from representing the appellees in this action.

The appellees' attorney, Cecil A. Edwards, as Assistant Attorney General, did not file any authorities opposing the application and motion for default, but the date same came on to be heard and argued before the trial court, February 8, 1943, Cecil A. Edwards, as Assistant Attorney General, just before argument, in the courtroom handed counsel for appellant the motion to dismiss filed heretin (R. 27), and added thereto the name of T. E. Scarborough as counsel for appellees.

Appellant respectfully submits that in view of Rule 9 of the Rules of Practice of the United States District Court of Arizona, which reads as follows:

RULE 9—LAW AND MOTION CALENDAR;
STATEMENT OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES.

With every pleading or motion raising questions of law to be determined by the court, there shall be served and filed by the party urging the same, a brief or memorandum of the points and authorities in support of the issues raised in such pleading or motion, and failure to file such memorandum shall be deemed a waiver of such pleading or motion. The opposing party or parties shall have 5 days after such service within which to serve and file a brief or memorandum of points and authorities in opposition to such pleading or motion. Pleadings and motions raising questions of law to be determined by the court, other than at the trail, will be submitted without oral argument on the memoranda of points and authorities required to be filed by this rule, provided, however, any party desiring to be heard on any such pleading or motion may serve and file with his pleading or motion or with his memorandum of points and authorities, a notice of hearing, and the pleading or motion shall thereupon be placed on the law and motion calendar for hearing on the first law and motion day occurring after the expiration of 5 days after the time to file briefs or memorandum of points and authorities with respect to said pleading or motion has expired. A failure to file a brief or memorandum of points and authorities in opposition to any pleading or motion raising questions of law shall constitute a consent of the party failing to file such brief or memorandum to the sustaining of said pleading or granting of said motion. Should the court desire oral argument on any pleading or motion submitted, the clerk will place the same on the law and motion calendar and notify respective parties or counsel accordingly.

Unless otherwise ordered by the court, or provided in these rules, every Monday shall be law and motion day, on which will be heard ex parte motions and all pleadings or motions raising questions of law or fact to be determined by the court before trial or after verdict. Parties filing motions on which hearings are to be had shall notice the same for hearing on a law and motion day and all motions noticed for hearing on any other day are hereby continued to the first law and motion day following the day fixed in the notice of hearing unless otherwise ordered by the court. Such motions or pleadings in cases filed in the Tucson or Globe Divisions of the court will be heard at Tucson; such motions or pleadings in cases filed in the Phoenix or Prescott Divisions of the court will be heard at Phoenix, provided, when court is in session at Globe or Prescott on law and motion day, such motions or pleadings in cases filed in the Globe or Prescott Divisions will be heard at Globe in cases filed in the Globe Division and will be heard at Prescott in cases filed in the Prescott Division; and provided further, when the convenience of the court or counsel may require, the Court may hear and determine any such motion or pleading at any of the four places designated for holding the terms of this court, with the above authorities cited, the court below erred in denying the application to set aside order extending time to answer, and motion for default.

This same line of authorities was filed in a brief supporting the application for an order removing Cecil A. Edwards, Assistant Attorney General of the State of Arizona, as counsel for appellees, and the same facts apply that no brief was filed opposing same. And again we respectfully submit in view of the authorities cited and Rule 9 of the Rules of Practice of the United States District Court for the District of Arizona, supra, the court below erred in denying said application, and appellant respectfully submits that this Court should give appellant a judgment as prayed for in the original complaint, on the pleadings.

II

The second amended complaint was dismissed on the motion to dismiss by appellees, which was supported by only the following points and authorities (R. 27):

POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT OF FOREGOING MOTION.

There is no allegation of facts which will show or tend to show a conspiracy within the purview of Title 18, Section 51, United States Code.

There is not sufficient allegation to show or tend to show that plaintiff was entitled to be given an examination for a license to practice medicine. Rule 12 (b).

Yet appellant filed the following authorities in opposition to appellees' motion to dismiss::

Constitution of the United States of America, Revised and Annotated, 1938, published by the United States Government Printing Office, states at Page 767:

“The amendment does not define the specific privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States; and ‘no attempt has been made by the courts comprehensively to define or enumerate the privileges and immunities which the Fourteenth Amendment thus protects.’ However, in the Slaughter House Cases the Court suggested ‘some which owe their existence to the Federal Government, its National character, its Constitution or its laws,’ as follows: Right of access to the seat of Government, and to the seaports, subtreasuries, land offices, and courts of justice in the several States; right to demand protection of the Federal Government on the high seas or abroad; right of assembly and privilege of writ of habeas corpus (specifically guaranteed by the Constitution); right to use the navigable waters of the United States; rights secured by treaty.

“In 1823 Justice Washington in Corfield v. Coryell gave a partial enumeration of the fundamental privileges and immunities of the citizens of all free governments, and hence of the several State of the Union. He listed: ‘Protection by the Government—The enjoyment of life and liberty with the right to acquire and possess property of every kind, and to pursue and obtain happiness and safety, subject, nevertheless, to such restraints as the Government may prescribe for the good of the whole.’ This definition was adapted in substance in Paul v. Virginia, and Ward v. Maryland, and 'the argument is not labored which gives the same meaning to it (the expression "privileges and immunities") when used in the Fourteenth Amendment'."

Maxwell v. Dow, 176 U. S. 581, 591, 592 (1900).

In Colgate v. Harvey, 296 U. S. 430, the United States Supreme Court said:

"The right of a citizen of the United States to engage in business, to transact any lawful business, or to make a lawful loan of money in any State other than that in which the citizen resides is a privilege equally attributable to his National citizenship. A State law prohibiting the exercise of any of these rights in another State would, therefore, be invalid under the Fourteenth Amendment."

Story on the Constitution, Fifth Edition, Volume 2, Page 697, says as follows:

“Par. 1950. It should be observed of the terms ‘life,’ ‘liberty,’ and ‘property,’ that they are representative terms, and are intended and must be understood to cover every right to which a member of the body politic is entitled under the law. The limbs are equally protected with the life; the right to the pursuit of happiness in any legitimate calling or occupation is as much guaranteed as the right to go at large and move about from place to place. The word ‘liberty’ here employed implies the opposite of all those things which, beside the deprivation of life and property, were forbidden by the Great Charter. In the charter as confirmed by Henry III., no freeman was to be seized, or imprisoned, or deprived of his liberties or free customs, or outlawed or banished, or any ways destroyed, except by the law of the land. The rights thus guaranteed are something more than the mere privileges of locomotion; the guarantee is the negation of arbitrary power in every form which results in a deprivation of right. The word we employ to comprehend the whole is not, therefore, a mere shield to personal liberty, but to civil liberty, and to political liberty also so far as it has been conferred and is possessed. It would be absurd, for instance, to say that arbitrary arrests were forbidden, but that the freedom of speech, the freedom or religious worship, the right of self-defense against unlawful violence, the right freely to buy and sell as others may, or the right in the public schools, found no protection here; or that individuals might be selected out and by legislative act arbitrarily deprived of the benefit of exemption laws, pre-emption laws, or even of the elective franchise. The word, on the other hand, embraces all our liberties—personal, civil, and political. None of them are to be taken away, except in accordance with established principles; none can be forfeited, except upon the finding of legal cause, after due inquiry.”

In a footnote Justice Story quotes Dr. Lieber as saying:

“We should no more think of defining liberty in our constitutions than people going to be married would stop to agree upon a definition of love.” Civ. Lib. and Selt-Govt. It may not be inappropriate here to introduce a definition from Mr. Mill: ‘This, then, is the appropriate region of human liberty. It comprises, first, the inward domain of consciousness; demanding liberty of conscience in the most comprehensive sense; liberty of thought and feeling; absolute freedom of opinion and sentiment on all subjects, practical or speculative, scientific, moral, or theological. The liberty of expressing and publishing opinions may seem to fall under a different principle, since it belongs to that part of the conduct of an individual which concerns other people; but, being almost of as much importance as the liberty of thought itself, and resting in great part on the same reasons, is practically inseparable from it. Secondly, the principle requires liberty of tastes and pursuits; of framing the plan of our life to suit our character; of doing as we like, subject to such consequences as may follow, without impediment from our fellow-creatures, so long as what we do does not harm them, even though they should think our conduct foolish, perverse, or wrong. Thirdly, from this liberty of each individual follows the liberty, within the same limits, of combination among individuals; freedom to unite for any purpose not involving harm to others; the persons combining being supposed to be of full age, and not forced or deceived. No society in which these liberties are not, on the whole, respected, is free, whatever may be its form of government; and none is completely free in which they do not exist absolute and unqualified. The only freedom which deserves the name is that of pursuing our own good in our own way, so long as we do not attempt to deprive others of theirs, or impede their efforts to obtain it. Each is the proper guardian of his own health, whether bodily, or mental and spiritual. Mankind are greater gainers by suffering each other to live as seems good to themselves than by compelling each to live as seems good to the rest." Mill on Liberty, Introd.

In addition, we cite Bromley v. State, 2 S. E. 2d 641, 651, wherein the court said:

"The right to make a living is among the greatest of human rights, and when lawfully pursued cannot be denied."

III

The defendants have claimed that this complaint does not state a cause of action, and we submit the following authorities in opposition to such contention:

Simkins Federal Practice, Rules of Civil Procedure 1938, Third Edition, Page 32, Paragraph 21, states: :

“Jurisdiction of the District Court. The jurisdiction of the district court is outlined in Par. 24 of the Judicial Code was amended. This section contains twenty-eight subsections, and includes jurisdiction of suits under many special federal laws. These subsections may be briefly summarized as follows:

“ x x x

“23. Suits against trusts, monopolies, and unlawful combinations;”

And Paragraph 22, on Page 35, states:

“Requisites of Jurisdiction as a Federal Court. Thus the original jurisdiction of the District Courts in suits of a civil nature at common law or in equity may be stated as follows:

“First: When the suit arises under the Constitution and laws of the United States, or treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority, and the matter in controversy, exclusive of interest and costs, exceeds the sum or value of $3,000.00.

“ x x x ”

* * *

“Par. 113. What Is a Federal Question. The rule is that when it appears from the complaint, unaided by any anticipation or avoidance of defenses, that the right of relief depends upon the construction or application of the Constitution or laws of the United States, and that such Federal claim is not merely colorable and is substantial, the court has jurisdiction.

“The Federal Question must be substantial in order to confer jurisdiction.”

IV

The Act of the Legislature in giving absolute power to examining boards to pass upon the qualifications, as enacted in the legislation referred to, is in violation of that part of Section 1 of Article III of the Constitution of the United States reading as follows:

“The judicial power of the United States, shall be vested in one supreme Court, and such inferior Courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish.”

In Marbury v. Madison, 1 Cr. 137, 170, (1803), it is held that where a specific duty is assigned by law, and individual rights depend upon the performance of that duty, the individual has a right to resort to the laws of his Country for a remedy.

V

Paragraph VIII of the second amended complaint alleges as follows:

“That all the defendants, except Charles C. Bradbury, are members of the Maricopa County Medical Association, and of the Medical Association of the State of Arizona, and of the American Medical Association, all of whom work in close cooperation and maintain the same standards, rules and requirements, through their legislative committees, in regard to the examining and licensing of applicants for the practice of medicine and surgery in Arizona; and that the Association of American Medical Colleges is sponsored and supported by the aforesaid American Medical Association, but that both the American Medical Association and the Association of American Medical Colleges are monopolistic and in fact a trust and are engaged in interstate traffic and monopoly in violation of Section 2, Title 15 of the United States Laws, and in violation of Section 74-101 of the laws of Arizona, in force and effect; all contrary to and in violation of this plaintiff's rights and benefits concerning which the defendants, personally and individually, have conspired with the officers of the American Medical Association, the Medical Association of Arizona and the Maricopa County Medical Association, in denying this plaintiff a license and his rights to practice medicine and surgery in Arizona, notwithstanding the fact that he has been, and is qualified and entitled thereto, to their knowledge."

This cause alone is a sufficient cause of action.

The American Medical Association, of which the appellees, with the exception of Charles C. Bradbury, are members, was convicted for violation of the anti-trust laws in the District Court of the United States in and for the District of Columbia, which conviction was upheld by the United States Supreme Court, Advance Sheet No. 7, Vol. 87, U. S. L. Ed. 348.

The right to sue for damages for violation of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts is fully discussed in Columbia Law Review, Volume 39, Pages 524 to 528. Among the cases cited therein upholding this right is Majestic Theater Company, Inc. v. United Artists Corporation, 43 F. 2d 991; Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation v. United States, 34 F. 2d 984, Affirmed 282 U. S. 30.

Again, in Columbia Law Review, Volume 40, Page 1100, in discussing these cases it states:

“If such an agreement is approved, the courts, mindful of the public interests in this industry, have repeatedly held it to be unreasonable and thus within the stricture of the anti-trust laws.”

If the courts are mindful of the public interests in the moving picture industry, they should be more so in the American Medical Association and its members. And most assuredly when the American Medical Association, with its 123,000 members, who pay $30 each per year dues, maintain a legislative lobby to enact legislation providing that only graduates of the schools approved by their organization can qualify to take the examination and to be licensed to practice medicine and surgery, it must come within the stricture of the anti-trust laws.

VI

Counsel for appellees will contend that the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution does not apply, that this is a prohibition against the State; and that if it does, Cecil A. Edwards, as Assistant Attorney General of the State of Arizona, has the right to appear as counsel for appellees.

This the appellant denies, because the law which the appellees, through the American Medical Association, have obtained, providing that only graduates of the legally chartered schools of medicine, the requirements of which shall have been at the time of granting the diploma not less than those prescribed by the Association of American Medical Colleges, is unconstitutional.

What rights have the Association of American Medical Colleges to say that their method of treating the human ills is the only way? It is a well recognized fact that medicine is not an exact science. In a recent brief before the New Jersey Legislature opposing a similar law it was stated that in Johns-Hopkins Hospital their diagnoses were fifty per cent wrong, that in Bellview Hospital in New York their diagnoses were sixty per cent wrong, and similar facts regarding the greatest hospital institutions of the Country.

We for the last decade in our government have been drifting toward the crisis which we face today, of whether we shall have government by constituted authority or government by organization. The medical and legal professions have in the past been looked up to for guidance through any crisis. For us to seek special legislation in any way providing for governing our professions I fear has been a guide for some of the problems we face of organizations letting our Armed Forces down. Unless stopped by the courts by decreeing that the legislature only can set the standards of the professions, we face disaster. Justice Ross of the Arizona Supreme Court, in Buehman et al. v. Bechtel et al., supra, has pointed out to the courts the law that can save our Constitution in this issue, as follows:

“Only the Legislature can creat the standard and provide reasonable limits of the power admitting and excluding persons from a business, trade or profession.’

The Court further said in that case that “Legislation tending to promote monopolies in private business is to be condemned.”

At the time this decision was rendered, the North Carolina Supreme Court, in the case of State v. Lawrence, 213 N. C. 674, 197 S. E. 586, 116 A. L. R. 1366, had upheld a statute licensing photographers, which caused Frank Hanft, Professor of Law, and Gay Nathaniel Hamrick, student, of the University of North Carolina, to write a thesis and brief on licensing of the professions, and Chief Justice Ross of the Supreme Court of Arizona in writing the decision in Buehman et al. v. Bechtel et al., supra, made the following comments in regard to the delegation of power to set the standards of practice to other than the Legislature:

“ ‘Statutes regulating trades and occupations by the delegation of governmental power to boards and commissions formed largely of the groups affected, intended primarily to control the personnel of the business, have become so common as to affect progressively and importantly the social and economic life of the State. A large number of laws of that character may be listed which not only regulate but organize into autonomous corporations occupations ranging from the learned professions to the ordinary trades. U. N. C. Law Review, Vol. 17, p. 1.

“No independent administrative supervision is provided over these organizations. No report of their activities is made to any responsible branch of the government. No audit is made by the State, except where items may incidentally affect the State Treasury. These matters are left to internal control. The organizations are, so to speak, legislatively launched and put on their own.

“The stage of internal protest has been reached. In marginal cases controversies in the courts have arisen as to whether the organization has captured a sufficient quantum of public purpose to operate as an agency of the government, or whether the police power of the State, ostensibly exercised for a public purpose, is not really farmed out to a private group to be used in narrowing the field of competition, or in aid of exploitation by creating remunerative positions in administration. Roach v. Durham, 204 N. C. 587, 169 S. E. 149; State v. Lawrence, 213 N. C. 674, 197 S. E. 586, 116 A. L. R. 1366.

Without the aid of the statute these groups would be mere trade guilds, or voluntary business associations; with it they become State agencies, retaining, however, as far as possible, distinctive guild features. An exclusive self-governing status is achieved by the device of securing a majority membership on the administrative boards or commissions, and in aid of this the power of the State is heavily invoked by way of prosecution in the criminal courts of those who are unable to secure the approval of the Board and obtain license to engage in the occupation.

“ ‘It is this power of exclusion of fellow workers in the same field that gives to the subject its social significance, and invites our most serious consideration of the constitutional guaranties of personal liberty and individual right called to our attention’ .”

The North Carolina Law Review in commenting on the Lawrence case, cited above, further states:

“Many of these laws it is suspected are procured by men already in the field, in order to keep others out. We are moving rapidly in the direction of regimenting even the most ordinary callings under official control, when it is doubtful whether the legislators or the public desire such state of affairs. It is doubtful whether even the responsible pressure groups are in favor of a controlled economy, they merely want certain advantages to be gained for themselves by one particular control statute, but statutes added together make a large-scale trend. There is a lack of uniformity among these miscellaneous control statutes, all of which have the same objective. Licensing legislation has had its trial period; it has demonstrated its value in those professions where special competence is essential to such vital public interests as health; it is time either to accept it as good policy for ordinary occupations, also, or to reject it as such policy. If accepted, it is time to frame a standard licensing law, to be deviated from in the case of any particular occupation only when there is reason for the deviation.”

CONCLUSION

Appellant respectfully submits that he is entitled to have an examination for a license to practice medicine; that the appellees have denied him his right and have conspired in violation of Section 2, Title 15, of the Laws of the United States and Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States in denying him his rights and causing him damages; that appellant is entitled to judgment on the original complaint filed herein and the motion for default against appellees (R. (19)).

If not entitled to judgment, appellant has certainly stated a cause of action in the second amended complaint alleging damages for violation of the anti-trust laws, and is entitled to have the right to prove the facts set up in the second amended complaint filed herein.

Respectfully submitted,

C. H. RICHESON,
Attorney for Appellant.

APPELLEES' BRIEF

PREAMBLE

While it is the opinion of the appellees in this case that the appellant has not complied with Sections 2 and 3 of Rule 20 of the Rules of Practice of this Court in the preparation and filing of his brief, the appellees will not make an issue of that fact, since we are aware that the Court is far more familiar with its own rules of practice than counsel, who have only a limited knowledge of those rules.

It will be noted that Mr. C. A. Edwards, who was formerly connected with this case, comes in for a great deal of comment in appellant's brief, and in tribute to Mr. Edwards the appellees desire to make it known to the Court that Mr. Edwards is now a member of the armed forces of the United States Government and is no longer longer an attorney in this case.

APPELLEES' STATEMENT

Appellees feel that the appellant has not given a clear statement of the subject matter in his brief, and we are therefore making the following brief statement or outline of what has transpired.

Appellant, plaintiff below, filed his original complaint in the District Court of the United States, for the District of Arizona, against the appellees, asking for damage and other relief, alleging, among other things:

IV.

"That the defendants, E. J. Gotthelf, Charles C. Bradbury, Charles S. Smith and William G. Schultz, are the members of the Board of Medical Examiners, operating under the Basic Science Laws of 1935.

"That J. H. Patterson has, at all times, been the acting Secretary of the said Board of Medical Examiners."

V.

“That the defendants and each of them have, for a long period of time, since 1933, repeatedly refused to give the plaintiff an examination for a license to practice medicine, though often requested.” (Transcript of Record, p. 13-14).

The prayer of appellant’s original complaint was:

“Wherefore, plaintiff prays judgment against the defendants and each of them in the amount of Fifty Thousand ($50,000.00) Dollars, and for such other relief as the Court may deem just and proper.” (Transcript of Record, p. 17).

On March 20, 1943, this original complaint was abandoned by the plaintiff in favor of his second amended complaint. (Transcript of Record, p. 30).

Before all of the defendants, appellees herein, were served with summons and before any amendments were filed, Mr. C. A. Edwards appeared before the Court on January 25, 1943, and obtained an order of the Court extending for twenty days from that date the time of all of the defendants to answer. (Transcript of Record, p. 17) Thereafter, and on February 2, 1943, the appellant filed what he termed “corrected application to set order aside, extending time to answer, and motion for default”. (Transcript of Record, p. 22) On February 8, 1943, the Honorable Dave W. Ling, the United States District Judge, entered an order denying plaintiff’s corrected application to set aside order extending time to answer. (Transcript of Record, p. 26) On the same day, the appellees, defendants below, filed their motion to dismiss plaintiff's complaint, the grounds for the motion being that the Court had no jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action, and that the complaint does not state a claim upon which relief can be granted. This motion was signed by T. E. Scarborough and C. A. Edwards for all of the defendants other than William G. Schultz. (Transcript of Record, p. 26) On February 10th, the appellant filed an application for an order removing C. A. Edwards, Assistant Attorney General, as counsel for the defendants. (Transcript of Record, p. 28)

Appellees find no record of any action having been taken by the Court on such application. The motion to dismiss plaintiff's complaint was granted, and the Court entered an order dismissing the case, for the reason that the (second amended) complaint did not state a cause of action, (Transcript of Record, p. 28) from which order the appellant filed notice of appeal on the 30th day of April, 1943. (Transcript of Record, p. 49).

ARGUMENT

The questions for the determination of this Court, as the appellees view them, are:

FIRST: Is this appeal premature?

SECOND: Was the appellant ever entitled to default?

THIRD: Does the second amended complaint present any question upon which the Federal Court has jurisdiction?

FOURTH: Does the second amended complaint set forth any grounds upon which relief could be granted?

We will take up the above questions in their order.

I.

THE APPEAL IS PREMATURE.

The plaintiff did not await a final judgment, nor did he make known that he did not seek to file other amendments before he gave notice of appeal. Defendants had no opportunity to have final judgment entered for their costs.

For the above reasons, none of the orders entered were final judgments from which an appeal may be taken.

II.

PLAINTIFF'S NOT ENTITLED TO DEFAULT

(a) Plaintiff's Original Action Was Against State Board.

Before all of the defendants were served with summons in this action, Mr. Edwards, as Assistant Attorney General, appeared before the Court and obtained additional time within which to answer. This was done in his capacity as Assistant Attorney General. Since it is the duty of the Attorney General of the State of Arizona to defend all official boards and agencies of the State, there is no doubt but that the Attorney General had authority to appear and defend against the original complaint. The Arizona Code provides:

“4-503. Legal advisor of departments. The attorney-general shall be the legal advisor of all departments of the state, and shall give such legal service as such departments may require. With the exception of the industrial commission, no official, board, commission, or other agency of the state, other than the attorney-general, shall employ any attorney or make any expenditure or incur any indebtedness for legal services. The attorney-general may, when the business of the state requires, employ assistants. (R. C. 1928, PP 52a as added by Laws 1931, ch. 30, PP 1, p. 52)”. (4-503, Arizona Code Anno. 1939).

It cannot be determined from the original complaint filed herein whether the defendants were being sued as individuals or as a State board. Certainly, from paragraphs IV and V of the original complaint alleging the defendants to be members of the Board of Medical Examiners and operating under the Basic Science Laws of 1935 and that the defendant, J. H. Patterson, was the acting Secretary of said Board of Examiners, and that the defendants had repeatedly refused to give the plaintiff an examination for a license to practice medicine, followed with a prayer for $50,000 damage and for such other relief as the Court may deem just and proper, it would certainly seem that the plaintiff was seeking to have some judgment of the Court rendered against the defendants in their official capacity as a board, or agency of the state. It was not until the second amended complaint was filed that the plaintiff, appellant herein, made it definitely clear that he was suing defendants individually and not as members of the Board of Medical Examiners.

Since the second amended complaint was filed, neither Mr. Edwards nor any member of the Attorney General's Office has taken any active part in the defense of this action.

(b) Plaintiff's Abandonment of Original Complaint Precludes Any Objection Being Raised to Rulings Affecting It.

The second amended complaint supersedes all previous complaints, and the filing of the same was an abandonment of plaintiff's original pleadings, and the original pleadings filed herein are no longer part of the record. By the filing of the second amended complaint, the plaintiff thereby elected to stand or fall on the allegations of the second amended complaint, and all subsequent proceedings in this case must relate to the second amended complaint. The appellant now cannot be heard to complain of any action of the Court affecting the original complaint.

III.

THE COURT HAS NO JURISDICTION OVER THE SUBJECT MATTER OF THIS ACTION(a) The 14th Amendment Does Not Give the Federal Courts Jurisdiction of This Action.

The appellant says that his rights have been violated and relies on the Fourteenth Amendment of the Federal Constitution to give the Court jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action. This case appears to be one of those cases often referred to as "those last resorts of desperate cases."

Plaintiff complains that he "has been denied the benefits and rights granted him under and by the provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States", (Par. VII, Second Amended Complaint, p. 43, Transcript of Record) and then proceeds to quote the Fourteenth Amendment:

"Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws".

It has been universally held that the Fourteenth Amendment adds nothing to the rights of one citizen as against another. It simply furnishes a guarantee against any encroachment by the State upon the fundamental rights which belong to every citizen.

Louisville v. Cumberland Tel. etc. Co.

U. S. v. Powell
151 Fed. 648 (affirmed 212 U. S. 564).

U. S. v Moore.
129 Fed. 630.

To quote from United States v. Cruikshank, supra: "The Fourteenth Amendment prohibits a state from depriving any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, but adds nothing to the rights of one citizen against another". It is apparent from the foregoing authorities that if the appellant has been damaged, his action should be against the State of Arizona or some duly constituted board or commission of the State. He is seeking here in a backhanded way to attack the constitutionality of a law passed by the Legislature of the State of Arizona without any allegation or other showing that the defendants, or any of them, have any interest in the enforcement of the law or that they are in any way charged with the duty of enforcing it. The method adopted by the appellant amounts to a collateral attack on the constitutionality of a statute. It is well settled that the constitutionality of a statute will not be determined on the question being raised in a collateral proceeding.

U. S. v. Delaware etc. Co.,
213 U. S. 366
53 L. Ed. 836 (reversing 164 Fed. 215).

Wright v. Kelly
4 Idaho 624, 43 Pac. 565.

Wadhams v. San Francisco Co., 80 Ore. 64, 156 Pac. 425.

The plaintiff is apparently attempting to ride two horses at one time. In one breath he says that the defendants "because of envy, bias and prejudice toward him and in fear of his competition and qualifications in the method and practice of the healing arts, . . . have refused to issue him a license to practice medicine and surgery in the State of Arizona". (Second Amended Complaint, Par. VI, p. 43, Transcript of Record) Next, he says the Basic Science Law of Arizona, which prescribes the qualifications of one seeking to have a license to practice medicine issued him is unconstitutional.

If the Basic Science Law of Arizona is what is preventing the plaintiff from practicing medicine, then his action, if any he has, should be against the State of Arizona, or any board charged with the duty of enforcing the law.

The gist of plaintiff's action is set forth in Paragraph VI, second amended complaint:

VI.

“That the plaintiff has heretofore offered and tendered for filing, satisfactory testimonials as to his good moral character and has tendered his diploma aforementioned, and the required fee provided by law, and has, in fact, complied with all legal requirements prescribed by the laws of Arizona; that the defendants and each of them individually, all of whom are licensed physicians and surgeons except the defendant Charles C. Bradbury, who is a licensed osteopathic physician, did, wilfully and maliciously, and well knowing that plaintiff was and is in every respect qualified to have issued to him a license to practice medicine and surgery in Arizona, and for other personal reasons best known to each of them, and because of envy, bias and prejudice toward him, and in fear of his competition and qualifications in the methods and practice of the healing arts, have refused to accept his credentials and to issue him a license to practice medicine and surgery in Arizona, and have also refused to give him an examination; all with knowledge that their acts and conduct herein complained of are wrongful, unlawful and unconstitutional.” (Transcript of Record, p. 43).

It is one of the inherent rights of the plaintiff and every other person to go upon the streets of a certain village or city in the peaceful pursuit of his daily routine of life, but if one or all of the defendants, or any other individual, should prevent him from so doing, even if actual force is used, the Fourteenth Amendment would afford him no relief, and he would have to look elsewhere than the Federal courts for redress.

(b) The Federal Courts Do Not Acquire Jurisdiction of This Case Under the Anti-trust Act.

There is no allegation in the second amended complaint that the plaintiff is now, or intends to be engaged in interstate commerce.

Title 15, Laws of the United States, is what is commonly known as the Sherman Anti-Trust Act:

“1. Every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraint of trade or commerce among the several States, or with foreign nations, is hereby declared to be illegal. Every person who shall make any such combination or conspiracy, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished by fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by punishment by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both said punishments, in the discretion of the court.

“2. Every person who shall monopolize, or attempt to monopolize, or combine or conspire with any other person or persons, to monopolize any part of the trade or commerce among the several States, or with foreign nations, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished by fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both said punishments, in the discretion of the court.

“3. Every contract, combination in form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraint of trade or commerce in any Territory of the United States or of the District of Columbia, or in restraint of trade or commerce between any such Territory and another, or between any such Territory or Territories and any State or States or the District of Columbia, or with foreign nations, or between the District of Columbia and any States or State or foreign nations, is hereby declared illegal. Every person who shall make any such contract or engage in any such combination or conspiracy, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished by fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both said punishments, in the discretion of the court.

“7. Any person who shall be injured in his business or property by any other person or corporation by reason of anything forbidden or declared to be unlawful by this act, may sue therefor in any circuit court of the United States in the district in which the defendant resides or is found, without respect to the amount in controversy, and shall recover three fold the damages by him sustained, and the costs of suit, including a reasonable attorney's fee. Act of Congress, July 2, 1890 (26 U. S. St. at L. 209 c 647) Comp. St. 8820 et. seq."

No where in the 2nd Amended Complaint does it appear that the acts complained of are in restraint of trade in interstate commerce. Without such an allegation the plaintiff has no action.

Majestic Theatres Co. v. United Artists Corp. 43 Fed. (2) 991. (Cited in App. Brief).

In order to constitute a violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, the acts complained of must affect and operate directly upon commerce among the states of the United States or with foreign nations.

U. S. v. Trans-Missouri Freight Ass'n.
166 U. S. 290, 41 L. Ed. 1007.

In order to bring a case within the Anti-Trust Act, it must appear that the combination or conspiracy complained of interferes with and restrains the free and natural flow of trade in interstate commerce.

228 Mass. 95; 130 N. E. 217.

IV.

THE COMPLAINT DOES NOT SET FORTH ANY GROUND UPON WHICH RELIEF CAN BE GRANTED

(a) No Duty Alleged On Part of Defendants.

The plaintiff seeks to recover damages from the defendants because of their refusal to issue him a license to practice medicine and surgery in the State of Arizona.

Nowhere in the second amended complaint is there an allegation that the defendants, nor any or either of them, have any right, duty, power or authority to issue to the plaintiff or any other person a license to practice medicine or surgery.

A failure to make such an allegation is fatal.

54 Pac. 37.

Hollenbeck v. Winnebago County, 95 Ill.
148; 35 AmR151.

(b) Practice of Medicine Regulated by Statute.

The second amended complaint shows on its face that the practice of medicine and surgery in Arizona is fully regulated by law, setting up a Board of Medical Examiners (Paragraphs II and III, Second Amended Complaint, Transcript of Record, p. 31 to 41) clothed with all the powers and duties existing and necessary to pass upon plaintiff's application for license to practice medicine and surgery in Arizona.

We submit that the action of the District Court in ordering the case dismissed should be affirmed, and such penalty assessed for frivolous appeal as the facts and law may warrant.

Appellees.

APPELLANT'S REPLY TO APPELLEES' BRIEF

BRIEF OF ARGUMENT

Appellees' four arguments, namely,

FIRST: Is this appeal premature?

SECOND: Was the appellant ever entitled to default?

THIRD: Does the second amended complaint present any question upon which the Federal Court has jurisdiction?

FOURTH: Does the second amended complaint set forth any grounds upon which relief could be granted? will be discussed in this reply in the sequence mentioned.

Appellant is convinced that the position taken by the appellees in their brief is erroneous and is not an answer to the charges made in appellant's Record and Brief made in the court below.

ARGUMENT

I

The appellees further state that the Federal Courts follows the practice prevailing in the State courts, and object that they had no chance to file a bill for costs.

Beginning with the last argument, that appellees had no chance to file a cost bill, there is nothing in the record to show, and in fact there was no attempt on the part of appellees to file a cost bill, and certainly appellees cannot charge appellant with the duty to protect appellees' interest in any way in this litigation.

As to not filing a final judgment in this case, the question of what is a final judgment or decree depends on its essence and not its form or what it is called, and the Supreme Court has been liberal and not technical in construing the words "final judgment" or "decree." To be final the controversy must be settled and the case must be left in such a condition that if there be an affirmative by the appellate court, the court below will have nothing to do but execute the judgment. The question must be determined by Federal and not State law. It is also settled that the face of the judgment or decree is the test of its finality.

Simkins Federal Practice, Third Edition, PP. 608-609, Par. 847.

It is certain that the order dismissing this cause because the complaint does not state a cause of action is final, as there is nothing left, if affirmed by the court of appeals, to do but to execute the order of the court below.

Hoharst v. Hamburg-American Packet Co.,
148 U. S. 265;

French v. Shoemaker, 12 Wall 98,
20 L. Ed. 271;

West v. East Coast Cedar Co., 113 F. 743;

National Bank v. Smith,
156 U. S. 333;

Megher v. Minnesota Thresher Mfg. Co.,
145 U. S. 611.

A judgment is a sentence of the law pronounced by the court upon the matter contained in the record. 3 Blackstone Commentaries 395.

As to the Federal courts being bound to follow the practice prevailing in the State courts, the Federal courts are no longer governed by the State practice in the matters of pleadings, but by the Federal Rules of Procedure in the District courts.

Schenley Distillers Corporation v.
Renkin, 34 F. Supp. 687.

It was held that an order dismissing for want of jurisdiction was an order from which an appeal could be taken in Mosher v. City of Phoenix, 287 U. S. 67.

II

Appellees contend appellant is not entitled to default, for the following reason: First, that appellant's original complaint was against the State Board, and quote Section 4-503 of the 1939 Laws of Arizona as authority for Cecil A. Edwards, an Assistant Attorney General, to appear and obtain a continuance from the United States District Court for time to answer. Yet after quoting this statute appellees state: "It cannot be determined from the original complaint filed herein whether the defendants were being sued as individuals or as a State board." It is clear from the relief asked for the appellant was asking for damages caused by appellees individually, and each of them, and not as a board. Paragraph VII of the original complaint settles the question as to whether the appellant was suing appellees as a board or as individuals. Paragraph VII read as follows:

“Plaintiff alleges that, in addition to denying this plaintiff the right to take the examination as a doctor of medicine, defendants and each of them have caused the plaintiff to be arrested and tried in the courts of Maricopa County, Arizona, on a felony charge of practicing medicine without a license, although plaintiff was only treating patients as a naturopathic physician and has a license to practice the art of healing as a Naturopath under the laws of the state of Arizona.

“Plaintiff alleges that he was acquitted of said charge of practicing medicine without a license, in the courts of Maricopa County, Arizona; that the defendants, and each of them, have caused numerous damage suits to be filed in the courts of Maricopa County, for malpractice, which suits have been decided in favor of the plaintiff.” R. 14-15.

Further, this claim by appellees is refuted by the fact that Senate Bill 61 was introduced in the Sixteenth Legislature of the State of Arizona, which would permit the Attorney General and his assistants to appear for appellees when sued for damages. See Page 38 Appellant’s Brief; after this suit was filed.

Section 4-502 of the Laws of Arizona 1939 provides as follows:

“Duties.—The attorney-general shall:

“1. Devote his entire time to the discharge of the duties of his office and not engaged directly or indirectly in the private practice of law;”

This question was definitely decided by the Supreme Court of the State of Arizona in Conway v. State Consolidated Publishing Co., 112 P. 2d 218. This case definitely decided that the Attorney General nor his deputies had not the right to engage in the private practice of law. The United States courts follow the construction of State laws by the Supreme Court of that State.

Shaver v. Nash, 29 S. W. 2d 298,
73 A. L. R. 961;

Erie R. R. Co. v. J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner of the State of New Jersey, et al, 61 U. S. 945; 313 U. S. 569, 115 F. 2d 968, 30 F. Supp. 41.

It will be noted that appellees in the preamble to their brief state: "It will be noted that Mr. C. A. Edwards, who was formerly connected with this case, comes in for a great deal of comment in appellant's brief, and in tribute to Mr. Edwards the appellees desire to make it known to the Court that Mr. Edwards is now a member of the armed forces of the United States Government and is no longer an attorney in this case."

Appellant wishes to call to the attention of the Court the fact that a copy of appellant's brief was served on the Attorney General of the State of Arizona, the Hon. Thomas J. Croaff, who succeeded Cecil A. Edwards, receipting for same; that neither Mr. Croaff nor the Attorney General, Mr. Joe Conway, is entered here as joining in paying tribute to Mr. Edwards. In fact appellant is well informed that after receiving appellant's brief, the Attorney General notified the appellees that he was of the opinion that they never belonged in this case as counsel for appellees, which is supported by the fact of his absence. Therefore the fact that Mr. Edwards was drafted into the armed forces of the United States does not in any way mitigate the unlawful and wrongful appearance by him, at State expense, for appellees in the court below to obtain a continuance of time in which to answer.

Appellees further contend that appellant has no right to default because by filing the second amended complaint the right under the original complaint was abandoned. This doctrine applies only to an amended complaint which creates a new cause of action.

Union Pacific R. R. Co. v. Otto Wyler,
158 U. S. 285.

It is fiction of law to claim abandonment of a cause of action when it will operate to cut off a substantial right when amended pleading does not allege a new cause of action.

Black Mountain Corporation v. Webb,
14 S. W. 2d 1063.

This doctrine of law is supported by the cases cited by appellees. In the case of United States v. Gentry, 119 F. 70, the court said: "An amended complaint which is complete in itself and which does not refer to or adopt the original complaint as a part of its entirely supersedes its predecessor and becomes the plaintiff's sole cause of action." In Shafer v. Ackling, 218 N. W. 286, again, the court said: "The defendant abandoned lack of consideration for guarantee agreement on note and absence of guarantee agreement by amending answer and interposing plea of release." In Jennings v. Fayne, 10 S. W. 2d 1101, the court said: "Plaintiff abandoned cause of action for breach of warranty as to acreage conveyed by filing amended petition alleging fraud and deceit." The same condition exists in McLain Bank v. Pascagoula National Bank, 117 So. 124. It is a fiction of law to assume that where the amended complaint does not forsake the action in the original complaint, that the amended complaint abandons any right under the original complaint. However, the fact that Cecil A. Edwards unlawfully and wrongfully appeared as counsel for appellees and obtained an extension of time to answer gives appellees no right to the claim of abandonment to protect themselves against this unlawful and wrongful act in relying upon a public servant who might by any method be persuaded at public expense to defend them against their alleged wrongful acts which were complained of in the original and the second amended complaint. In both complaints, the original and second amended, the appellees are charged with violation of the anti-trust laws of the United States, causing appellant great injury, and appellant submits that Cecil A. Edwards before appearing and asking for a continuance of time to answer for appellees was advised by counsel for appellant that the Attorney General nor his deputies had no lawful right at public expense to defend appellees and in fact expressed the opinion that if he as Assistant Attorney General belonged in the case, it was to help prosecute appellees for violation of the anti-trust laws, which had caused appellant's damage.

Wherefore, appellant insists that we are entitled to judgment on the pleadings by default because of the wrongful and unlawful appearance of Cecil A. Edwards, Assistant Attorney General of the State of Arizona.

III

Appellees claim that the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution does not give the Federal courts jurisdiction of this action. Appellees state, Page 11 of their Brief: "It has been universally held that the Fourteenth Amendment adds nothing to the rights of one citizen as against another. It simply furnishes a guarantee against any encroachment by the State upon the fundamental rights which belong to every citizen." Appellees easily forget that in appellant's second amended complaint, Paragraph VIII, we alleged as follows:

"That all the defendants, except Charles C. Bradbury, are members of the Maricopa County Medical Association, and of the Medical Association of the State of Arizona, and of the American Medical Association, all of whom work in close cooperation and maintain the same standards, rules and requirements through their legislative committees, in regard to the examining and licensing of applicants for the practice of medicine and surgery in Arizona; and that the Association of American Medical Colleges is sponsored and supported by the aforesaid American Medical Association, but that both the American Medical Association and the association of American Medical Colleges are monopolistic and in fact a trust and are engaged in interstate traffic and monopoly in violation of Section 2, Title 15 of the United States Laws, and in violation of Section 74-101 of the laws of Arizona, in force and effect; all contrary to and in violation of this plaintiff's rights and benefits concerning which the defendants, personally and individually, have conspired with the officers of the American Medical Association, the Medical Association of Arizona and the Maricopa County Medical Association, in denying this plaintiff a license and his rights to practice medicine and surgery in Arizona, notwithstanding the fact that he has been, and is qualified and entitled thereto, to their knowledge." R. 44-45.

The appellees are charged with obtaining the legislation under which they attempt to act in depriving appellant of his rights, which brings them within the purview of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution. In addition they are charged with violating the anti-trust laws of the United States.

The third and fourth questions raised by appellees, asking whether the second amended complaint presents any question upon which the Federal Court has jurisdiction, as does the second amended complaint set forth any grounds upon which relief could be granted can be answered together. Even if the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution had not been set up in the original and second amended complaints, it is clear that in both complaints there is an allegation of violation of the anti-trust laws, by which appellant's rights have been denied and which has caused appellant great injury.

Simkins Federal Practice, 1939, Third Edition, Page 32, Paragraph 21, states:

“Jurisdiction of the District Court. The jurisdiction of the district court is outlined in Par. 24 of the Judicial Code as amended. This section contains twenty-eight subsections, and includes jurisdiction of suits under many special federal laws. These subsections may be briefly summarized as follows:

“ x x x

“23. Suits against trusts, monopolies, and unlawful combinations;”

And Paragraph 22, Page 35:

“Requisites of Jurisdiction as a Federal Court. Thus the original jurisdiction of the District Courts in suits of a civil nature at common law or in equity may be stated as follows:

“First. When the suit arises under the Constitution and laws of the United States, x x x ”

See Brief for the Appellant, 51-53.

In the case of Mosher v. City of Phoenix, 287 U. S. 67, Chief Justice Hughes said: “There is no diversity of citizenship and jurisdiction depends upon the presentation by the bill of complaint of a substantial Federal question. Jurisdiction is to be determined by the allegations of the bill and not by the way the facts turn out or by a decision of the merits.” This is supported in Pacific Electric Railway Company v. Los Angeles, 194 U. S. 112; Columbus R. R. Power & Light Co. v. Columbus, Ohio, 249 U. S. 39, 6 A. L. R. 1648.

When appellees in their argument, Page 11, state, “He is seeking here in a backhanded way to attack the constitutionality of a law passed by the Legislature of the State of Arizona without any allegation or other showing that the defendants, or any of them, have any interest in the enforcement of the law or that they are in any way charged with the duty of enforcing it,” again we cite the Court to Paragraph VIII of the second amended complaint, wherein we charge the appellees, through their legislative committees, with being sponsors of the law, in violation of the Anti-trust Act, and in the brief openly contend these laws are unconstitutional. Appellant’s original brief, 52-55.

Appellees state, Page 16 of their brief: “No where in the 2nd Amended Complaint does it appear that the acts complained of are in restraint of trade in interstate commerce. Without such an allegation the plaintiff has no action." The eight paragraph of the second amended complaint states in part as follows:

" x x x that both the American Medical Association and the association of American Medical Colleges are monopolistic and in fact a trust and are engaged in interstate traffic and monopoly in violation of Section 2, Title 15 of the United States Laws, and in violation of Section 74-101 of the laws of Arizona, in force and effect; all contrary to and in violation of this plaintiff's rights and benefits concerning which the defendants, personally and indidually, have conspired with the officers of the American Medical Association, the Medical Association of Arizona and the Maricopa County Medical Association, in denying this plaintiff a license and his rights to practice medicine and surgery in Arizona, notwithstanding the fact that he has been, and is qualified and entitled thereto, to heir knowledge." R. 44-45.

Therefore we respectfully submitted to the Court that the second amended complaint charges the appellees with engaging in interstate commerce in violating the anti-trust laws of the United States.

Respectfully submitted,

For the Ninth Circuit

W. S. SWANK,

Appellant,

vs.

J. H. PATTERSON, E. J. GOTTHELF, CHARLES
S. SMITH, CHARLES C. BRADBURY, WIL-LIAM G. SCHULTZ,

Appellees.

APPELLANT'S PETITION FOR A REHEARING.

To the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals and to the Honorable Curtis D. Wilbur, Clifton Mathews, and Albert Lee Stephens, Judges thereof:

Comes now W. S. Swank, the Appellant in the above entitled cause, and presents this his petition for a rehearing of the above entitled cause, and, in support thereof, respectfully shows:

I.

That this court has jurisdiction of this case because in the Opening Brief, the second question was:

“Whether the American Medical Association and its subsidiaries can set the standard of qualifications for the practice of medicine”, which involved the Constitutionality of the Laws of the State of Arizona regarding the Practice of Medicine, Arizona Code Annotated 67-1101 to 67-1109.

II.

That Appellant in the second amended complaint filed herein alleged as follows:

“IV.

That said laws of 1936, in substance, provide that anyone, to qualify for examination to practice medicine and surgery, ‘shall file with the board, at least two weeks prior to a regular meeting thereof, satisfactory testimonials of good moral character and a diploma issued by some legally chartered school of medicine, the requirements of which shall have been, at the time of granting such diploma not less than those prescribed by the Association of American Medical Colleges for the year.’ In this regard, plaintiff avers that the Association of American Medical Colleges is not a legal or proper authority to prescribe the qualifications for the medical profession or for the practitioners of medicine and surgery, and, therefore, such requirements and prescribed qualifications are unconstitutional and void as a delegation of legislative power; that the law makers of Arizona alone may prescribe the qualifications for the practice of medicine and surgery within the State of Arizona.

That the requirements for and during the year 1927, by the aforementioned American Academy of Medicine and Surgery, were equal to or not less than those of the Association of American Medical Colleges for and during that year, to the actual knowledge of the defendants and each of them individually.

V.

That the Association of American Medical Colleges is sponsored by the American Medical Association, of which the defendants are members, except the defendant, Charles C. Bradbury; that the defendnats by reason of their said membership and its rules and prescriptions by its legislative committee did, and do, in fact prescribe the qualifications for applicants for license to practice medicine and surgery in the State of Arizona, contrary (39) to law, arbitrarily, unlawfully and discriminatory to qualified applicants, including the plaintiff.

That both the American Medical Association and the Association of American Medical Colleges are monopolistic and act in violation of Section 2, Title 15 of the Laws of the United States, and in violation of Section 74-101 of the laws of the State of Arizona; both of which said provisions of law prohibit trusts and monopolies.

VI.

That the plaintiff has heretofore offered and tendered for filing, satisfactory testimonials as to his good moral character and has tendered his diploma aforementioned, and the required fee provided by law, and has, in fact, complied with all legal requirements prescribed by the laws of Arizona; that the defendants and each of them individually, all of whom are licensed physicians and surgeons except the defendant Charles C. Bradbury, who is a licensed osteopathic physician, did, wilfully and maliciously, and well know-sand Dollars ($50,000.00) and exemplary damages in the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00).”

III.

That appellant in the Opening Brief, pages 37 to 40 states as follows:

“Plaintiff further alleges that the Association of American Medical Colleges is fostered by the American Medical Association; that both the American Medical Association and the American Association of Medical Colleges are monopolistic and act according, in violation of Sec. 2. Title 15 of the United States Code Annotated and in violation of Sec. 74-101 of the Laws of the State of Arizona; that both of said sections prohibit monopolies and said provisions providing that the Association of American Medical Colleges shall make and require such qualifications for the practice of Medicine are contrary to the Constitution and laws of the United States and the Constitution and laws of the State of Arizona.

While the Supreme Court of the State of Arizona has not passed on the constitutionality of the present Basic Science Law, in Bueham et al. v. Bechtel, 114 Pac. 2d 227, they have stated as follows:

(1) Only the legislature can create the standard and provide the reasonable limits of the poser of admitting and excluding persons from a business, trade or profession, State v. Harris, supra. It may be granted that the legislature has fixed the standard as competency, ability and integrity and that such standard is a sufficient and a proper one for a person desiring to practice photography, yet it is apparent the legislature used language the board might construe as giving it the right to disregard such standard and set up an arbitrary standard of its own. The board might regard too much or too strong competition as "sufficient reason" for not licensing a person, or the applicant's age, sex, color or religion might disqualify him. We cannot say the standard fixed by the legislature is not a sufficient guide to the Board of Examiners, or that the Board would arbitrarily disregard such standard and refuse a license to one who qualified under the act, but we do call attention to the fact that the Board may use its power to make it very difficult for worthy persons to secure a license to practice photography.

In connection with the free use of the police power over certain trades and occupations, for the purpose of securing to those engaged therein rights and powers of an exclusive and monopolistic character.

Statutes regulating trades and occupations by the delegation of governmental power to boards and commissions formed largely of the groups affected, intended primarily to control the personnel of the business, have become so common as to affect progressively and importantly the social and economic life of the State. A large number of laws of that character may be listed which not only regulate but organize into autonomous corporations, occupations ranging from the learned professions to the ordinary trades, U. N. C. Law Review, Vol. p. 1.

'No independent administration supervision is provided over these organizations. No report of their activities is made to any responsible branch of government. No audit is made by the State, except where items may incidentally affect the State Treasury. These matters are left to internal control. The organizations are, so to speak, legislatively launched and put on their own.

The Stage of internal protest has been reached. In marginal cases controversies in the courts have arisen as to whether the organization has captured a sufficient quantum of public purpose to operate as an agency of the government, or whether the police power of the State, ostensibly exercised for a public purpose, is not really farmed out to a private group to be used in narrowing the field of competition, or in aid of exploitation by creating remunerative positions in administration. Roach v. Durham, 204 N. C. 587, 169 S. E. 149; State v. Lawrence, 213 N. C. 674, 197 S. E. 586, 116 A. L. R. 1366. Without the aid of the statute these groups would be mere trade guilds, or voluntary business associations; with it they become State agencies, retaining, however, as far as possible, distinctive guild features. An exclusive self-governing status is achieved by the device of securing a majority membership on the administrative boards or commissions, and in aid of this the power of the State is heavily invoked by way of prosecution in the criminal courts of those who are unable to secure the approval of the Board and obtain license to engage in the occupation.

It is this power of exclusion of fellow workers in the same field that gives to the subject its social significance and invites our most serious consideration of the constitutional guarantees of personal liberty and individual right called to our attention.'

Therefore, the appellees in committing the acts complained of were not acting as constituted officials of the State, which appellant contends, prohibits the Attorney General from representing the appellees in this action."

Again beginning on page 55 to 60 in the Opening Brief we state as follows:

"Council for appellees will contend that the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution does not apply, that this is a prohibition against the State; and that if it does, Cecil A. Edwards, as Assistant Attorney General of the State of Arizona, has the right to appear as counsel for appellees.

This the appellant denies, because the law which the appellees, through the American Medical Association, have obtained, providing that only graduates of the legally chartered schools of medicine, the requirements of which shall have been at the time of granting the diploma not less than those prescribed by the Association of American Medical Colleges, is unconstitutional.

What rights have the Association of American Medical Colleges to say that their method of treating the human ills is the only way? It is a well recognized fact that medicine is not an exact science. In a recent Brief before the New Jersey Legislature opposing a similar law it was stated that in Johns-Hopkins Hospital their diagnoses were fifty per cent wrong, that in Bellview Hospital in New York their diagnoses were sixty per cent wrong, and similar facts regarding the greatest hospital institutions of the country.

We for the last decade in our government have been drifting toward the crisis which we face today, of whether we shall have government by constituted authority or government by organization. The medical and legal professions have in the past been looked up to for guidance through any crisis. For us to seek special legislation in any way providing for governing problems we face of organizations letting our Armed Forces down. Unless stopped by the courts by decreeing that the legislature only can set the standards of the professions, we face disaster. Justice Ross of the Arizona Supreme Court, in Bueham et al. v. Bechtel et al, supra, has painted out to the courts the law that can save our constitution in this issue as follows:

‘Only the legislature can create the standard and provide reasonable limits of the power admitting and excluding persons from a business, trade or profession.’

The Court further said in that ‘Legislature tending to promote monopolies in private business is to be condemned.’

At the time this decision was rendered, the North Carolina Supreme Court, in the case of State v. Lawrence, 213 N. C. 674, 197 S. E. 586, 116 A. L. R. 1366, had upheld a statute licensing photographers, which caused Frank Hanfit, Professor of Law, and Gay Nathaniel Hamrick, student, of the University of North Carolina, to write a thesis and brief on licensing of the professions, and Chief Justice Ross, of the Supreme Court of Arizona in writing the decision in Buehman et al, v. Bechtel et al, supra, made the following comments in regard to the delegation of power to set the standards of practice to other than the legislature;

‘Statutes regulating trades and occupations by the delegation of governmental power to boards and commissions formed largely of the groups affected, intended primarily to control the personnel of the business, have become so common as to affect progressively and importantly the social and economic life of the State. A large number of laws of that Charter may be listed which not only regulate but organize into autonomous corporations, occupations ranging from the learned professions to the ordinary trades. U.N.C. Law Review, Vol. 17, p. 1.

No independent administrative is provided over these organizations. No report of their activities is made to any responsible branch of government. No audit is made by the State, except where items may incidentally affect the State Treasury. These matters are left to internal control. The organizations are, so to speak, legislatively launched and put on their own.

The stage of internal protest has been reached, in marginal cases controversies in the courts have arisen as to whether the organization has captured a sufficient quantum of public purpose, to operate as an agency of the government, or whether the police power of the State, ostensibly exercised for a public purpose, is not really farmed out to private groups to be used in narrowing the field of competition, or in aid of exploitation by creating remunerative positions in
